"I have seen Owen Sound under indiscriminate license, under restricted license, under the Duncan Act, and under the Ontario Liquor License Act, and finally under Local Option: and I have no hesitation in saying that Local Option has NOT lessened drunkenness, has not improved business nor the financial position of the people generally. Neither has it improved the moral tone of the citizens as a whole, but, on the contrary, Local Option HAS INJURED LOCAL TRADE, and lowered the moral well-being of very many."

Local Option substitutes the "blind pig" for the decent bar.

MERRY CHRISTMAS

To-morrow will mark the celebration of the greatest event in the history of the civilized world.

Nearly 2,000 years ago, there was born in a stable in an eastern country the child Christ. His grand message was love and good will, and, since the Christian era, men have, by the help of Power from on High, been seeking to learn this great lesson. But, alas! how far off we are from it as yet!

As time advances we are making progress, but the millenium is by no means at hand. It is only on the anniversary of the birthday of Christ that we approach our fellowmen in anything like the true spirit, and evince those feelings of charity, tenderness, pity and generosity which brighten sad natures and illuminate the pathway of those groping for light.

At the glad Yuletide season we seem to make an earnest attempt to realize the ideal, but once the holiday is past, how inclined we are to forget all our vows and pledges, our good intentions.

Oh, that we had more of the true spirit and fellowship of Christmas throughout the whole year, month in and month out. How the poor would be looked after, the sick comforted, and the distress relieved. After all, the highest joy in life is living for others, in effacing self and finding infinite pleasure in acts of self abnegation, devotion and affection. Let more of the Christmas spirit prevail, more of the "loosening up," as the world colloquially calls it, be in evidence, then not only will each Christmas be more joyous and happy, but all the other months of the year will be bright and radiant with the principle of true Christianity.

Christmas! What memories it arouses, what hopes it stirs, what delightful associations it brings, and what ideals it inspires.

May the family reunions and the gatherings around the fireside be typical of that great company above, where all who are faithful to duty, and live lives that reflect the honor, glory, tenderness and compassion of Christ, will some day meet. But in this world, with all its shortcomings, dissensions, strife and disappointments, there is more sunshine than shadow, more joy than sorrow, more comfort than desolation, more hope than despair.

Therefore, let joy bells ring, let "peace on earth, good will to men" be proclaimed, and strive to make the world better, brighter and more attractive.

The Review wishes its many readers and friends very many returns of the jubilant Yuletide season. May tomorrow be a merry, merry Christmas for each and all.

WHERE WILL IT END?

The main estimates for the first full financial year under the new system, were laid before Parliament a few days ago. These call for an expenditure, in round figures, of $120,000,000. The supplementary estimates yet to be brought down will probably increase this total by at least ten million dollars.

One hundred and thirty millions is, for a population of 6,000,000, a little over $21.50 per head. In defence of this enormous expenditure, it is pointed out that $30,000,000 is for construction work on the Grand Trunk Pacific, that $9,000,000 will be handed back to the Provinces in the form of subsidies, and that part of the outlay will be met by the $8,000,000 which the publicly owned Intercolonial is expected to earn, that even with these items cut out, the total will still be $83,000,000, or equal to nearly $14 per capita, as compared with $7 in the United States. It is true all even of the $83,000,000 does not go for mere cost of government. Part of the expenditure is for the postal service, which is more than self-sustaining; part of it, also, is for minor public works, useful and otherwise. But in the United States the $7 per capita covers services of a precisely similar kind. In the United States, too, over $4 per head is spent on army, navy and pensions, as against a little over $1 per head devoted to like purposes here.

Looked at from any standpoint, and in the face of any possible comparison, a budget of $130,000,000 for a population of 6,000,000 people in a time of profound peace, and in the absence of any great national crisis, is appalling and wholly unjustifiable.

PEN POINTS

Christmas eve.

Santa Claus is on the move.

Merry Christmas.

How do you like the looks of the Mayor-elect's nose?

Don't forget the letter carrier and the news boy in your Christmas gifts.

The Review wishes its many readers, patrons and friends a very merry Christmas.

Now, Dave Hartley defeated Reynolds by a walk, but Mayor McWilliams is going to be beaten by a Rush.

Cheer up! Be glad! Put aside aside your cares. To-morrow will be Christmas, and try to be happy once in the year at any rate.

Owing to-morrow being Christmas day—the gladdest, merriest, joyful day of all the year—the Review will not be published.

Saturday was the shortest day in the year. Yes, many people found it so before finishing their Christmas shopping. They were "short" enough.

Now, if every merchant could do a trade every day such as he did on Saturday, he would soon be able to close shop and retire.

The Review has received a copy of the "Blotter Diary," issued by Messrs. Andrew Usher & Co., of Montreal. It is a very interesting, timely and useful publication, is neatly printed and nicely illustrated. As a work of reference it is also very convenient and is an attractive holiday souvenir.

The members of the Salvation Army band will begin serenading the citizens this evening and will continue for some days. Tomorrow the musicians will be out all day. They expect to meet with a generous response. The band has kindly consented to give up one evening this week—Friday night—when the members will take part in the Christmas entertainment to be held in the market hall, under the auspices of the Children's Aid Society. The action of the band is greatly appreciated.

WAITING FOR POST OFFICE

People of Trent Bridge Anxiously Await Government's Action

Havelock, Dec. 23. — A considerable time ago the Post Office at Trent Bridge was closed, as the postmaster, Mr. McFadden, resigned to go to the Northwest. The citizens of Trent Bridge were at once up in arms, as was perfectly right for them to do, as they had to come to Havelock for their mail, and the Dominion Government were petitioned, but still nothing was done, and the people of Trent Bridge have had to go without a post office, which caused considerable trouble and annoyance to those situated there.

Nothing was done at all in the matter until last week Mr. C. L. Owen, M.P., of Campbellford, urged upon the Government the necessity of having a post office at Trent Bridge opened as early as possible. It was indicated that the matter would receive attention at once, and the large number settled around Trent Bridge are anxiously waiting for the Government to do something in the matter, as it should have been dealt with long ago.

Laid to Rest With Military Honors

Funeral of Late Chas. Edmondson Largely Attended

The remains of the late Charles Edmonson, who passed away on Saturday, were borne to their last resting place in Little Lake Cemetery yesterday afternoon. The funeral was a military one and attended by a large number of the deceased's comrades in the 57th Regiment. Sergt.-Major Brittain and Color-Sergts. Waterman and Staunton were in command. The 57th Band was also in attendance and played the Dead March as the cortege which was an exceedingly long one, proceeded to the grave. The casket was wrapped in the Union Jack, and the pall-bearers were Messrs. Wm. Bourne, Harry and Fred Myles, H. Mallory, John Minicolo and R. Picard. Rev. E. A. Pearson conducted the services, and at the grave the usual manoeuvres incidental to a military funeral were carried out.

The floral tributes were beautiful and numerous, including wreaths from the George Street Methodist Orchestra, the George street choir, the C. G. E. Works, the Salvation Army, J. Minicolo and many others.

Great sympathy is felt for the relatives and friends in their sad bereavement.

Separate School Trustee Elections

Nominations Will Take Place at St. Peter's School on Thursday Next

The nominations for Separate School trustees will be held at St. Peter's School on Thursday, December 26th, from the hour of twelve to one o'clock.

The terms of five trustees have expired, and it is expected that they will be re-elected.

Should a ballot be demanded the election will take place on January 2nd, and Mr. John Corkery, secretary of the Separate School Board, is returning officer.

ICE TRACK FOR RUNNERS

They evidently mean business in Hiawatha. Mr. Dick Baker, Fred. Simpson's trainer, says that in order to keep in shape the runners down there have built a quarter of a mile track on Rice Lake and are working out there to keep in good condition. The track is made right on the ice with a comfortable covering of snow, and the athletes cover the distance in spike shoes. Fred. Simpson, Ben Howard and others are among those who are limbering up on the course, and the former is endeavoring to round into shape for the Martin Electric 10 mile road race at St. Catharines on New Year's Day. On account of the injury to his knee that he sustained with his race with Haddleton at the Harriers' athletic meet, he may not be able to start, but is in hopes that his knee will be better by the time of the race.

AMUSEMENTS

"NO MOTHER TO GUIDE HER."

In order to perfectly familiarize herself with the actual scenes in a gypsy camp, Miss Alma Hearn, spent two weeks with a gang of Romanys in Northern New York last summer. After explaining her mission it was only after considerable pleading and the proffer of a considerable sum of money, that they allowed her to visit their camp daily. Her time was spent in talking with them and sketching scenes of gypsy life which are of great value to her, as the second act of "No Mother to Guide Her" is laid in a camp of these people. It is in this play that she will be seen at the Grand opera house on Saturday, Dec. 28th, matinee and night, when she will appear in a character comedy part that bids fair to become as popular as "Sis Hopkins," so original and novel does it appear among the many stage creations of the past ten years.

News Boys' Supper New Year's Day

Letter Carriers are Very Busy

The Amount of Mail Matter Breaks all Records

The local express companies and the post office authorities report that the number of parcels to be delivered this year breaks all previous records.

The express drivers and the letter carriers are on the jump and are scarcely able to keep up with the immense volume of business. Parcels boxes and packages of all kinds are being sent here and there to make glad the heart of the recipients and to brighten many homes. As late as eleven o'clock last night the letter carriers were on their rounds endeavoring to get rid of their great load of Christmas souvenirs and today the burden will be even greater.

The Children Presented Gifts

Unique Entertainment Held by St. Paul's Church Sunday School

The annual entertainment of St. Paul's Church Sunday School was held last evening. It was a joyous event for the children and adults, too.

From 5.30 to 7 o'clock a tea was served in the Sunday School room to the members of the kindergarten department, under the direction of Miss Nan Hall, Miss Ethel Best and Miss Florence Cameron. The teachers of the primary class are Misses Effie Munro, Bessie Connal and Mollie Meldrum.

Afterwards the entertainment was held in the auditorium of the church, the members of the kindergarten and primary classes occupying seats on the platform. A fine programme was rendered, the little tots singing several songs in attractive style. Mr. Wm. Madill, the energetic superintendent, presided, and the Sunday School orchestra, under the leadership of Mr. W. F. Nelson, contributed several enjoyable selections. A bright address was given by Rev. Robert Pogue, on the significance of Christmas Day, and after the singing of some hymns, the different classes filed out to the Sunday School room, and returned, depositing their gifts of apples, potatoes, oranges, bread and other good things to eat on the platform. When the task was completed, the collection resembled the stock of a large grocery store. The gifts were later in the evening left at the doors of several poor families, the boys of the Sunday School carrying around the baskets laden with Christmas cheer.

The entertainment was a most successful and enjoyable one, besides being unique in character and teaching the children that the true Christ-like spirit of the festive holiday season is "to give and not to receive."

THE SENDING OF GIFTS

Little Touches That Will Add to the Pleasure of Recipient.

A good deal of the pleasures of Christmas lies in the opening of the mysterious packages that find their way to your door. If these are daintily wrapped up, the present is perhaps the more acceptable. The proper way to send a pretty gift is to secure some white wrapping paper, enclose your card, one of those Christmas greetings and a spray of holly embossed on it; seal the first wrapper with one of the holly seals — there are four patterns — and then wrap in a stronger paper. On this use one of the gummed Christmas labels or a shipping tag with an embossed holly design on it. If one is sending a number of parcels to one address for different members of a family, there are miniature shipping tags, prettily decorated with holly, only costing five cents a dozen, which will be nice to use. There are more elaborate tags, ground in shape with a wreath of holly, and enough bright red ribbon attached to tie a bow on the parcel.

The use of all these gives a distinctive touch to the gift, and will be sure to repay the extra trouble taken. The holly seals, labels, cards, and tags are all on sale at the Review office. Call and get a variety of them before you send out your parcels.

WOMAN RESCUED.

Ottawa, Ont.—Slavery is not dead. Daily, the traffic in human souls goes on. Only a short time ago, a number of Chinese were arrested as they attempted to smuggle young girls from Canada into the United States. In Eastern countries the slave trader plies his vocation in the market place. Some go into another kind of slavery —unknowingly—yet make a valiant effort to escape. Ottawa is all agog over the wonderful escape of one of her charming matrons from that physical slavery, Rheumatism. Mrs. R. C. Small says, "I was a constant sufferer from rheumatism for over seven years. I used many treatments—consulted doctors—tried hot baths—used almost every known mineral water—but nothing did me any real good. The pains were in my joints and back, and I had frequent headaches and bad indigestion. About a year ago, I saw 'Fruit-a-tives' advertised and decided to try them. After I had taken two boxes, I was much better. Altogether I took seven boxes. I have had no rheumatism for over six months now and feel that I am quite cured. I have gained over ten pounds in weight."

"Fruit-a-tives" cure because the intensified fruit juices and tonics strengthen the kidneys—regulate the bowels—and invigorate the skin. This means pure blood, free of uric acid.

Cure yourself. Take "Fruit-a-tives" now and be free of Rheumatism all winter. 50c a box; 6 for $2.50. At druggists, or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa, Ont.

LOVE OF HOME

Among the brightest and sweetest contributions from the pen of Mr. S. McCamus, of Sherock, County Cavan, Ireland, is the following which was sent to Mr. Robert Fair this week. Mr. McCamus has a number of relatives in Peterborough and during the past summer entertained Mr. Fair and Mr. J. C. Kells, of Millbrook, when they were sojourning in the Emerald Isle:

Where blooms the primrose first in spring,
 And nature charms the eye,
Where birds in concert join to sing
 Their melodies of joy;
There stands the little ivied cot,
 From which I had to roam,
To me on earth the dearest spot
 I love to call it home.

Though foreign lands are bright and fair,
 Their charms soon fade away;
No kindly voice to greet you there,
 Or cheer you on life's way.
But whether on the desert sand
 Or mid the ocean's foam,
I never yet forgot the land
 That gave me birth and home.

And here on Africa's arid plain,
 Beneath the burning sun,
In search of fortune—not of fame—
 A stranger I have come,
And weary oft when toil is o'er,
 My resting place a stone,
In dreams I then am back once more
 Beside my cottage home.

And there I see the old folk kneel,
 Beside the vacant chair,
And hear them pour their warm appeal
 To heaven in earnest prayer,
For God to guard their wandering boy
 From every danger known,
And guide him in those paths of joy,
 That lead to heaven and home.

I too, can see the little lawn
 In childhood where I played,
The woods and glens in boyhood's dawn,
 Where my young footsteps strayed,
The hedgerows too, I see in dreams
 With harebells fully blown,
And cowslips opening out at noon,
 Smile all round my home.

'Twas but a dream alas! a dream,
 I wake to find it so,
But oh! enchanting was the scene,
 'Twas Paradise below.
Yes, happiness complete to me,
 Bliss, I have seldom known,
The old familiar place to see,
 And all the charms of home.

One ray of hope, my guiding star,
 Should fortune on me smile,
That I'll return from lands afar
 And see my own green Isle.
There spend my few remaining years
 Amongst my very own.
The loved ones that I left in tears
 In my sweet cottage home.

This is the hope that cheers me on,
 And nerves me for the fight,
Which must be nobly faced and won
 With courage, strength and might.
The struggle hard I will maintain,
 Not for myself alone,
But for the dear ones that remain
 In my old cottage home.

The flowers may bloom, the birds may sing,
 And nature charm the eye,
The opening buds may hail the spring
 Expanding to the sky.
These but remind me of that spot,
 From which I grieved to roam,
And of the little ivied cot
 My childhood's happy home.

City League Schedule Was Drawn up Last Night

A meeting of the City League was held in the Examiner office last night when all the teams in the league except Bridgenorth were represented. President Chas. G. Graham was in the chair, and Mr. B. T. Huston, secretary of the league, acted in his official capacity. Much interest was displayed in the proceedings, and a schedule satisfactory to all the representatives in attendance was drawn up. The bye on January 9th was drawn for and went to Norwood. The schedule is as follows:

Jan. 8.—High Lifes vs. Strathconas; Lakefield vs. Bridgenorth.

Jan. 15.—Norwood vs. Strathconas; Bridgenorth vs. High Lifes.

Jan. 22—Norwood vs. Bridgenorth; Lakefield vs. High Lifes.

Jan. 29—Strathconas vs. Bridgenorth; Lakefield vs. Norwood.

Feb. 5—Norwood vs. High Lifes; Strathconas vs. Lakefield.

RUGBY

Peterborough, Hamilton, and London Y.M.C.A.'s and West End Y.M.C.A. of Toronto, have all written Edward Pyke, who proposes a Y.M.C.A. Rugby League, endorsing the proposal, and promising teams. Hamilton and Peterborough suggest Y.M.C.A. jurisdiction, and frown down upon the proposal to make it a branch of the Ontario Rugby Football Union. The Central Y.M.C.A. of Toronto has not been heard from yet.

ATHLETICS

A. C. Martin, who finished second in the Indian race at the Irish-Canadian games at Hamilton last summer, is among the runners entered for the Hamilton Christmas Day 10-mile race, and others are Fred. Simpson, of Peterborough, Ernest Woods, of Toronto, and a couple of St. Catharines runners.

The go-as-you please contest between M. J. Barrie and W. McGee has been indefinitely declared off on account of the bad condition of the roads.

The Gun Beat Out the Fox

Was Finally Brought Down After a Long Pursuit

Mr. Perry Alexander has returned to the city, after a short hunting expedition at Sandy Lake, in which he was accompanied by Messrs. J. Irwin and J. Nicholls, of this city. Mr. Alexander tells of the peculiar manner in which he bagged a big fox and in spite of his almost piscatorial coloring the story is absolutely true. With the above two gentlemen he followed a fox trail around Sandy Lake for a long distance, and after they had come to the conclusion that Reynard had put to good advantage his proverbial powers of slyness and given them the slip, they retired to their lodge for the night. About 2.30 in the morning Mr. Alexander heard something prowling around, and getting suspicious, slipped out with his deadly 303 Savage. What did he see in the pale light of the moon but Mr. Fox. He banged a ball into this chicken eater's head, and the fox keeled over, and just kicked once. The other members of the party were naturally somewhat surprised when Mr. Alexander triumphantly dragged in the fox.

The Bye-election in Centre York

Latest Returns Indicate Dr. McLean is Leading

Special to the Review.

Markham, Dec. 24.—Revised returns in Centre York received this morning, show that the majority of Dr. McLean (Liberal) is 26, and not 19, as reported last night.

In sub-division No. 7, Markham, township, the figures remain as at first reported, showing a majority there for McLean of 25, but in subdivision No. 9 Mr. Majority's majority is increased by 7, the figures now being reported as McLean 79, Wal-

Capt. Tom Wallace, son of the late Hon. N. Clarke Wallace, was the Conservative candidate, and put up a splendid fight.

The bye-election was caused by the elevation of the late Liberal member, Archie Campbell, to the Senate.

Mr. Campbell's majority at the last election was 76.

In Ottawa J. B. T. Caron, Liberal, defeated W. D. Morris, Independent, by about 1,200 majority. The election was rendered necessary by Hon. N. A. Belcourt being made a Senator.

RUNAWAY ON HUNTER ST. AT NOON TO-DAY

A lively runaway on Hunter street today at noon caused considerable excitement, but fortunately no serious damage was done. A team attached to a large sleigh belonging to a man by the name of Mansfield, started to run from the Munro House and tore over the Hunter street bridge to East City, at an awful gallop. The animals evidently became tired at the top of the mill hill, and a gentleman ran out and very easily stopped them in front of the Albion Hotel.

It is reported that both the council and school trustees are already chosen for the coming year, if some meddler does not crop up on nomination night, and put some nice little plans on the bias.

On Friday evening last a very enjoyable time was spent at the town hall, when the people of Norwood and vicinity turned out in numbers to almost fill the hall, to pay a tribute of respect and esteem to Mr. John Davidson, retiring principal of the Norwood High School. The proceedings throughout were marked by the utmost good fellowship, and many spoke in glowing terms of Mr. Davidson as a teacher. A short programme was rendered, and speeches given, and during the evening Mr. Davidson was presented with a bound volume containing several hundred personal letters of esteem from pupils and ex-pupils of the school.

Mr. and Mrs. Davidson were also the recipients of an elaborate cabinet of silver.

They leave for their new home in Sudbury on Thursday, where they will be followed by the best wishes of a large circle of friends.

OBITUARY

MRS. C. RORABECK.

Mrs. Cornelia Rorabeck, wife of the late Thomas Rorabeck, of the Township of Dummer, passed away to her heavenly home on Friday morning last aged 89 years.

Mrs. Rorabeck came to Dummer thirty-six years ago with her husband, three sons and two daughters, removing from Prince Edward County.

In early days she was converted among the Methodist people, afterwards being baptised on confession of her faith and united with the Baptists, of which church she remained a consistent member until the end of her life.

The funeral took place on Sunday afternoon, Dec. 15th, from the home of her daughter, Mrs. Henry Murphy, Queen street, to the Baptist Church, where a large company of people met to pay their last respects to the deceased.

She has left to mourn her loss Silvanus of Asphodel, Benjamin of Prince Edward County, Mrs. Chas. Rusaw, Sr., of Dummer, Thomas and Mrs. Henry Murphy of this village.

Her husband predeceased her ten years ago.

TRENT LEAGUE REVISED.

Havelock, Dec. 21.—A very enthusiastic meeting was held here, for the purpose of organizing a hockey league for this district. Delegates from Keene, Warkworth, Hastings, Havelock, Norwood and Marmora were present. The following officers were elected; Dr. Holcroft, Havelock, hon. president; hon. first vice-president, J. W. Pearce, M.P.P., Marmora; hon. second vice-president, Chas. Pearce, Norwood; president, Dr. Wade, of Hastings; vice-president, Ralph Fulcher, Marmora; secretary treasurer, Tim Dinneen, Havelock; executive committee, Mr. Dean, of Keene, Mr. Wiggins, of Warkworth, Mr. Cochrane, of Hastings, Mr. Brown, of Havelock, Mr. Russell Pearce, of Norwood, and Mr. H. R. Pearce, of Marmora. The secretary was instructed to write to Tweed and Madoc, asking them to join the league.

Should Tweed and Madoc decide to enter, two districts will be formed, comprising Marmora, Tweed, Madoc, Havelock, in district No. 1, and Keene Warkworth, Hastings and Norwood in district No. 2. Home and home games will be played, and the finals it is proposed to play in Peterborough. It is expected that Dr. Holcroft will donate a cup for competition.

The O.H.A. rules were adopted for playing rules, and a very strong residence rule was decided upon. Every person eligible to play in the league has to be a continuous resident of the town he plays with from Dec. 15, and every club is to send a complete list of its players to the secretary on or before January 1, 1908, and each club will be furnished with a list of these players.

JOHNSTON COONEY.

The death occurred in Otonabee this morning of an old and highly respected resident of the county in the person of Mr. Johnston Cooney, after a lengthy illness. The deceased was 89 years of age.

The funeral will take place on Thursday at 2 o'clock from the residence of his son-in-law, Mr. John S. Deyell, in Otonabee to the Little Lake Cemetery for interment.

THE ELECTIONS IN HAVELOCK

The Havelock Standard says:

Reeve Thompson has announced himself in the field for the Reeveship for 1908.

Councillors Joseph Knox and George Young will also be in the field for re-election, but Councillor Campney has decided to drop from municipal life.

PROMINENT PHYSICIAN PASSES AWAY

Dr. F. J. Bradd Died at Nicholls Hospital Last Night—Funeral on Thursday

The news of the death of the late Dr. Frederick John Bradd, which occurred last night at 10.45 o'clock, at Nicholls Hospital, was received throughout the city with the profoundest regret. Although the Doctor's death was not unexpected, his friends were hoping against hope that he would rally out of his serious illness and recover. About two weeks ago Dr. Bradd was boarding a street car, when he missed his footing, and fell, striking the side of his head on the car. A few days later a breaking in the right ear developed and it was found necessary to have an operation. A week ago yesterday, Dr. McDonough, specialist, of Toronto, was called, and the operation performed. Everything that medical skill could do was done, but it was of no avail, and the doctor passed peacefully away last night.

The late Dr. Bradd was 48 years of age and was born in Northumberland county. He received his early education at the old Cobourg University and later took a course in medicine at Toronto University, graduating from there in 1888. He first practiced in Campbellford, afterwards moving to Omemee, where he remained a few years before coming to Peterborough. He had resided in this city for the past ten years, and during that time enjoyed a large practice. In his chosen profession he was considered one of the most clever and successful physicians. He was of a kindly and loving disposition, always ready to assist in all charitable purposes. He loved to do good, and often relieved suffering without any recompense.

The deceased was identified with several fraternal societies. He was also a member of Peterborough Court, Canadian Order of Foresters, the Independent Order of Foresters, the Woodmen of the World, and the Ancient Order of United Workmen.

The late Dr. Bradd was married 27 years ago to Miss Margaret McCormack, of Campbellford, who still survives him.

Besides his sorrowing wife, two daughters are left to mourn his loss. They are Mrs. Leslie Kennedy, of Chicago, Ill., and Miss Alta, at home. One brother, Mr. D. Bradd, and one sister, Mrs. W. H. Cochrane, both of Colborne, also survive him.

The funeral will take place on Thursday at 2 o'clock from the family residence, Stewart street, to the Little Lake cemetery. It is most likely that Rev. D. O. Crossley, of Bowmanville, will conduct the services. The family request that no flowers be sent.

Big Business for Chemong Bus

Mr. Dan Whetung, jr., driver of the Chemong bus, says that this year has seen the heaviest traffic in the history of the Chemong bus. For some time past the stage has been laden with parcels and bundles being sent from and received for Chemong. The members of the Chemong reserve are enjoying good health and are making preparations for a merry Christmas.

Former Residents Home From West

Old Friends and Acquaintances Holidaying in Mount Pleasant

Special to The Review.

Mount Pleasant, Dec. 26.—Mr. Frank Elliott, of North Dakota, an old Mount Pleasant boy, is visiting his many friends and relatives hereabouts. Some 25 or 30 years of residence in the United States has made very little perceptible change in Mr. Elliott, whom all are glad to see and welcome back.

Miss Fanny and Mr. Maurice Rosenberg, of Peterborough, are spending the Christmas holidays at their home.

Municipal matters form a topic of discussion. A great many favor the retention for next year of our present Council, that they may complete the work begun of draining the Long Swamp.

Mr. James Fee is home from the Omemee High School.

Mr. Wm. McAdoo, of Oshawa, is visiting friends in the village.

Mr. Percy Brown, student, of the Peterborough Business College, has returned for the holiday season.

The Canadian Order of Foresters have added largely to their membership through the efficient work of Organizer Barr.

Mr. Cunningham, of Markham, who has charge of the blacksmithing department of our foundry, has moved into the residence lately occupied by Dr. Dean.

Mr. Herb Parker is home from the west. From his appearance one would conclude that the Occident was congenial.

Hymen will celebrate on the 25th inst. Our village will lose one of its fair maidens. Particulars in a later edition.

Mrs. J. F. Gill, of Pembina, N.D., is the guest of her father, Mr. Jas. McLean.

Rev. H. Peckover occupied the pulpit of the Presbyterian Church last Sabbath evening, and delivered a very appropriate and instructive sermon from the birth of Christ, as contained in Luke's Gospel. The choir rendered a very pleasing and suitable Christmas anthem.

Mr. James Smith is home from Peterborough, where he visited friends.

Mr. Cecil Best is again under the parental roof, having returned from Knox College.

A green Christmas has been dispelled for this year. On Monday the snow fell fast and sticky. Some of the largest flakes ever seen arrived; the average description of them seems to be about the size of a soda biscuit.

Mr. Charlie Lough, who went out to Bathgate, North Dakota, on a business errand, is again in the place of supreme control on his farm.

Miss Florence Brown, of Toronto, is with her parents during the Christmas season.

THE IDEAL WIFE

Shapes the Destiny of Men—The Influence of a Healthy Woman Cannot Be Over-estimated.

Seven-eighths of the men in this world marry a woman because she is beautiful in their eyes—because she has the qualities which inspire admiration, respect and love.

There is a beauty in health which is more attractive to men than mere regularity of feature. The influence of women glorious in the possession of perfect physical health upon men and upon the civilization of the world could never be measured. Because of them men have attained the very heights of ambition; because of them even thrones have been established and destroyed.

What a disappointment then, to see the fair young wife's beauty fading away before a year passes over her head! A sickly, half-dead-and-alive woman, especially when she is the mother of a family, is a damper to all joyousness in the home, and a drag upon her husband.

The cost of a wife's constant illness is a serious drain upon the funds of a household, and too often all the doctoring does no good.

If a woman finds her energies are flagging, and that everything tires her, dark shadows appear under her eyes, her sleep is disturbed by horrible dreams; if she has backache, headaches, bearing-down pains, nervousness, or despondency, she should take means to build her system up at once by a tonic with specific powers, such as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

This great remedy for women has done more in the way of restoring health to the women of America than all other medicines put together. It is the safeguard of woman's health.

Following we publish, by request, a letter from a young wife.

Mrs. Bessie Ainsley, of 611 South 10th Street, Tacoma, Wash., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"Ever since my child was born I have suffered, as I hope few women ever have, with inflammation, female weakness, bearing-down pains, backache and wretched headaches. It affected my stomach so that I could not enjoy my meals, and half my time was spent in bed.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made me a well woman, and I feel so grateful that I am glad to write and tell you of my marvelous recovery. It brought me health, new life and vitality."

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for Mrs. Ainsley it will do for other women who are in poor health and ailing.

Its benefits begin when its use begins. It gives strength and vigor from the start, and surely makes sick women well and robust.

Remember Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound holds the record for the greatest number of actual cures of woman's ills. This fact is attested to by the thousands of letters from grateful women which are on file in the Pinkham laboratory.

Women should remember that a cure for all female diseases actually exists, and that cure is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you have symptoms you don't understand write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for special advice. The present Mrs. Pinkham is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, her assistant before her decease, and for twenty-five years since her advice has been freely given to sick women.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Succeeds Where Others Fail.

OLD MAN'S JEALOUSY

Joseph Ashworth, Aged Sixty, Tries to Murder His Wife.

English Immigrant's Terrible Deed—Brave Little Boy and Girl Fought Fiendish Father—Both Were Slashed With Knife During the Struggle—Children Save Their Mother's Life.

Cornwall, Dec. 24.—Joseph Ashworth, aged 60 years, made a vicious attempt on the life of his wife, aged 52 years, here yesterday morning.

The Ashworths and their family of eight children came to Cornwall from Lancashire, Eng., four months ago. The eldest sons, two fine young men, say that their father has been causelessly jealous for many years and often threatened to kill his wife.

Yesterday morning when attacked, Mrs. Ashworth ran out and into a neighbor's yard, pursued by her husband with a stoveshaker. He knocked her down and pounded her head with this weapon, but she apparently wrenched it away and struck him in the face. He then, kneeling on her, pulled out his pocket-knife and slashed her face.

At this moment the 12-year-old son Jack was attracted by his mother's screams and attempted to pull his father off. The little girl, who was helping, said that the father threw the pocket-knife in her face, which is cut in three places.

Ashworth endeavored to take a butcher-knife from the boy, who hung on desperately, having his hand badly cut in the struggle. Neighbors and passers-by disarmed Ashworth.

VETERANS ARE REVIEWED.

Lord Roberts Inspects Survivors of Indian Mutiny at Albert Hall.

London, Dec. 24.—The remnant of that "desperate host," as Kipling described the veterans of the Indian mutiny, gathered yesterday in Albert Hall to the number of more than 700 to commemorate the golden jubilee of the struggle which ended in the Indian empire being saved to Great Britain.

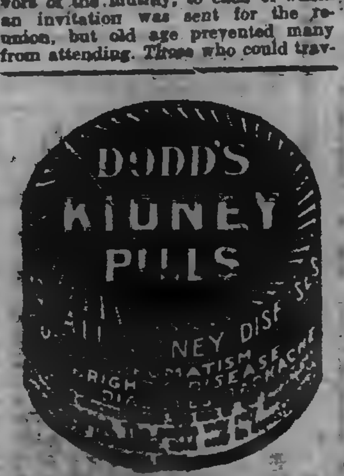
On the pension roll in the War Office are the names of 1,200 survivors of the mutiny, to each of whom an invitation was sent for the reunion, but old age prevented many from attending. Those who could travel, including officers and men, came from every corner of the United Kingdom, and with breasts covered with medals made a brave showing as they drew up outside the hall to be reviewed by Lord Roberts.

The youngest among the veterans was 65 years of age, he having been a drummer during the fighting, and even to-day looked no younger as compared with his companions, bowed with the weight of years.

The review was brief, as the infirmities of the veterans prevented them from standing long in line, so behind the field marshal they marched to Albert Hall, the galleries of which were filled with cheering crowds, and sat down to a banquet.

Lord Roberts, who presided, read a telegram from the King, who expressed the appreciation of the whole Empire of the services rendered by the army of which the veterans were members.

Lord Curzon, chancellor of Oxford University, gave the toast, "The Survivors of the Indian Mutiny," and Lewis Waller, the actor, recited verses especially written by Rudyard Kipling.



Funeral of Lord Kelvin.

London, Dec. 24.—Under the shadow of the monument of Sir Isaac Newton and close to the choir in Westminster Abbey, the body of Lord Kelvin, the noted British scientist, was buried yesterday in the presence of a great gathering of scientists. Among the twelve pall-bearers were John Morley, Lord Rayleigh, Admiral Sir Edward Hobart Seymour, Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal and others. A dozen clergymen were associated in reading the service.

Champlain Memorial.

London, Dec. 24.—(C. A. P.)—Lord Strathcona asked the French ambassador to receive contributions to the Champlain memorial. The ambassador, wiring from Paris, said he was pleased to inform Lord Strathcona immediately that he should be happy to accede to his request in connection with the Champlain memorial.

Switch Tampered With.

Tallapoo, Ga., Dec. 24.—A train on the Southern Railroad, bound from Atlanta to Birmingham, ran into an open switch at this point last night, killing Engineer Downey of Atlanta and injuring two firemen.

The switch had been tampered with and detectives are at work in an effort to run down the miscreants.

Dispense With Costly Ceremonies.

Copenhagen, Dec. 24.—A telegram received here from Stockholm says that Gustave, who became King of Sweden on the death of his father, King Oscar, Dec. 8, has decided to dispense with the customary costly coronation ceremonies. This decision will be extremely popular in Sweden.

7,000 Cars of Coal Sidetracked.

Reading, Pa., Dec. 24.—The Reading Co. has about 7,000 cars of bituminous and anthracite coal sidetracked along the Reading division and at Port Richmond, Philadelphia, due to a lack of vessels in which to load the fuel which is destined to eastern points.

Plans of Saskatchewan's new legislative buildings, which will cost over a million, are being prepared by Messrs. E. and W. S. Maxwell, of Montreal.

BIG BLAZE IN CHATHAM

Fire Chief Pritchard Receives Terrible Injuries.

Fell From Top of Building—Is In Serious Condition—Alexandria Block Completely Gutted—Tenants Obliged to Flee In Night Clothes—Three Other Firemen Badly Hurt — Loss Over $7,000.

Chatham, Dec. 24.—The Alexandria block, situated in the main business section of the city, was completely gutted by fire at an early hour yesterday morning. The building is owned by J. B. Stringer & Co., grain merchants, and the loss in the building will amount up to about $7,000, and the total loss will run well up into the thousands.

The fire started at 4 o'clock in a cafe on the ground floor. The lower floor was occupied by business houses and the two storeys above were fitted up for tenants. There were six families in the apartments above and many of them had difficulty in getting out of the building. Several were nearly suffocated by the smoke, which was very dense. Nothing was saved from the building. All of the tenants were forced to make their escape in their sleeping apparel. Those who suffered loss were: Ross Hicken, Dr. D. E. Russell, T. Wanganheim, O. S. Sheldon, Mrs. Dobson and J. M. Stover, all tenants, and J. B. Stringer & Co.; McLeod, gents' furnishings, and restauranter and a barber.

Several of the firemen were injured, and a few of them are now in a very serious condition. Chief Pritchard, in trying to find a fire escape, fell from the top of the building. Both of his wrists were fractured, a nail ran through his hand, both knees were bruised and cut, the toes of his right foot broken and his left ankle badly sprained. He is at present in the hospital in a precarious condition.

Firemen George Pritchard, George Forsyth and Keeley were also badly injured and are laid up as a result of their night's work. The building was a metal one, and on this account the work of fighting the flames was very difficult. Messrs. Stringer & Co. will rebuild at once.

Nine Firemen Injured.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Dec. 24.—Nine fireman were injured and damage to the extent of $250,000 was done by a fire which originated in the Globe drygoods store of Langfeld yesterday.

Fatal New York Fire.

New York, Dec. 24.—Frederick Koenig, aged 24, was killed while trying to save his sister and several other persons seriously burned in a fire in a five-storey tenement house at 221 East 110th street yesterday. Acting Battalion Chief Poling fell three stories and his recovery is said to be doubtful.

WHY TARTE RESIGNED.

Preferred Freedom of Speech on the Revision of Tariff.

Ottawa, Dec. 24.—The correspondence which passed between the late J. I. Tarte and Sir Wilfrid Laurier prior to the latter's retirement from the Cabinet, showing that a disagreement over the tariff caused it.

In his letter of resignation, Oct. 20, 1902, Mr. Tarte said:

"Entertaining the opinion that the interests of the Canadian people make it our duty to revise without delay the tariff of 1897, with the view of giving a more adequate protection to our industries, to our farming community, to commerce, and to our working people, I cannot possible remain silent. I prefer my freedom of attire and of speech under the circumstances, even to the great honor of being your colleague."

Priests and Nuns In Fight.

Mexico City, Mex., Dec. 24.—Riots at Sihuatlan, a village near Guadalajara, have resulted from the arrest of a priest on a charge of fighting with a townsman. The priests and nuns called upon the townspeople to avenge this insult to the priest. Several hundred women and boys armed with clubs and a few revolvers attacked the town lockup and released the padre.

The priests have fled to the country, fearing that they will be punished.

The nuns, known as Sisters of Mercy, took a prominent part in the disorders. The disturbance was finally quelled.

Listless Election at Ottawa.

Ottawa, Dec. 24.—Little interest was manifested in the bye-election here yesterday, owing to the fact that there was no Conservative in the field.

J. B. T. Caron, Liberal, was elected by 3,319 majority over his opponent, W. D. Morris, Independent.

Mauretania Adrift.

New York, Dec. 24.—The turbiner Mauretania broke loose from her moorings during a light gale yesterday and crashed into a small fleet of barges, scows and canal boats, one of which she sunk.

Praying as Death Came.

Jacob's Creek, Pa., Dec. 24.—Rescuers state that a number of victims in the Darr mine were found on their knees, showing that they were praying when the black damp caused death.

Janssen, Scientist, Dead.

Paris, Dec. 24.—Pierre Jules Caesar Janssen, the celebrated French scientist and director of the Meubon Observatory, is dead. He was born in 1824.

By Acclamation.

Ottawa, Dec. 24.—G. B. Major was elected by acclamation for Labelle County, Que., at Papineauville, Que., yesterday.

A former non-commissioned officer, dressed as a lieutenant, stole over 30,000 kronen from the Vienna bank.

CENTRE YORK ELECTION.

McLean Gets In By Narrow Majority of Nineteen.

Woodbridge, Dec. 24.—This peaceful village went to bed last night in the firm belief that its family physician had been elected member of the House of Commons for Centre York. A few anxious ones sat up long enough in Capt. Tom Wallace's store to hear the welcome news that Capt. Tom had pulled out with a majority of one. The doubt about the result arose from belated returns from two divisions of Markham Township. In No. 9 the early figures gave McLean 51, whereas it is now stated that he had but 32, while in No. 5 Wallace is said to have 28, not 25.

Capt. Wallace made substantial gains all along the line, except in Richmond Hill, which converted a Conservative majority of 36 into a Liberal majority of 16, and in Woodbridge the turnover in Richmond Hill is accounted for by the fact that Pugsley, who was the Conservative candidate in 1904, lives there. In Woodbridge, where both the candidates of yesterday reside, Wallace had 29 majority, a loss of two from the figures of three years ago.

Both candidates received the returns here, the Liberals gathering in Temperance Hall, whither Dr. McLean went when the figures indicated his victory; but he had no idea the run was so close. The Purpleville majority of 18 for Wallace was put in the Liberal column, and Chairman D. Norton announced the triumph of the doctor by a margin of 57. The cheering when the news was announced was vigorous, and McLean wedged his way to the platform. Mr. Norton said he would have been pleased if the majority had been greater, but notwithstanding the efforts of three leaders of the Conservative party—Borden, Foster and Sproule—they had won anyway, and Centre York had not given Sir Wilfrid Laurier the slap in the face that was promised.

Dr. McLean modestly acknowledged the homage of his supporters. They had a short, sharp and decisive campaign, and he thanked them from the bottom of his heart. "You did not do it for me alone," said the doctor, "but because you were satisfied we have a good Government." He had been only three weeks in the field and did not do any mud-slinging or indulge in any personalities. He promised to ascertain the needs of Centre York and to support legislation in the interests of the electors.

Capt. Wallace was disappointed, but not discouraged. His supporters, he said, had made a splendid fight against great odds, and they had done remarkably well in reducing the majority to 19.

NATIONALISTS GET TOGETHER.

Redmond and O'Brien Agree on Principles for Pledge-Bound Party.

Dublin, Dec. 24.—The series of conferences which have been held with a view to bringing about the reconciliation of William O'Brien, Nationalist member of Parliament for Cork, and the Parliamentary party, of which John E. Redmond is chairman, resulted yesterday in an agreement on certain propositions. In an official report of the meeting, which was given out, both Mr. Redmond and Mr. O'Brien say they see no reason why the Nationalists should not unite in a pledge-bound party on the following principles:

(1) No man or party has authority to circumscribe the inalienable right of Ireland to the largest measure of national self-government it may be in her power to attain.

(2) Pending the attainment of an Irish Parliament and a responsible Irish Minister, with full control of all purely Irish affairs, which, in our belief, can alone be accepted in full satisfaction of the national demands, it is the duty of the Nationalists, while striving incessantly for home rule, to devote themselves earnestly to working for every measure of amelioration which it may be possible to obtain for her people from either of the English parties, and, as especially urgent matters, for a university settlement acceptable to the Catholics of Ireland, for the complete abolition of landlordism and for financial redress.

Mr. Redmond would not agree to the immediate calling of a national convention, saying that a convention would be held after the Government bills had been introduced, probably about Easter.

Voecks Pleaded Guilty.

New York, Dec. 24.—Hume C. Voecks, brother of Elsie Voecks, in whose behalf charges were brought against Raymond Hitchcock, the comedian, pleaded guilty to an indictment alleging extortion before Judge Rosalsky yesterday, and was remanded for sentence. Voecks is accused of obtaining $1,000 from Hitchcock for keeping quiet concerning the charges brought against the actor.

Ex-Governor Sentenced.

Berlin, Dec. 24.—Ex-Governor Horn of Togoland was yesterday sentenced to a fine of $75 and costs and to be transferred to another post for the ill-treatment of a native of Togoland in 1903.

The charge against Horn was that he caused the death of a native named Zeue by having been bound to a flagstaff and leaving him there without food or drink for 24 hours.

Deported a Hundred.

Montreal, Dec. 24.—H. & A. Allan state that over a hundred able-bodied men have been deported from the port of Halifax arrived by the steamers of that line, because they had not the requisite sum of $50 in their pockets, or because they had not secured situations before leaving Europe.

Reorganize House of Peers.

Lisbon, Dec. 24.—Premier Franco purposes, before Jan. 1, to issue a decree, reorganizing the Portuguese House of Peers. The Premier believes that as the House is at present constituted it is a stumbling block to the political regeneration of the country.

Roy Peers, of Rosthern, Sask., received an injection of anti-toxine and expired instantly.

CHILDREN GO HUNGRY

Thousands of Starving Little Ones Sent to School.

Terrible State of Affairs In Berlin, Germany — Youngsters Get No Breakfasts—Receive But One Meal a Day—Municipal Council to Be Asked For $30,000 to Supplement Private Charity.

Berlin, Dec. 24.—The municipality is face to face with a very serious problem in connection with the supply of food to thousands of virtually starving children attending the primary schools in Berlin, whose numbers have been greatly augmented this year in consequence of the industrial inactivity.

Hitherto the Children's Canteen Society has been able to cope with the task in a fairly satisfactory way by means of subscriptions from private sources, but the call on its funds are this year so great that it will be unable to supply many of the children. In the first week of December, according to official statistics, from 245 out of the 285 primary schools, no fewer than 11,947 children attended school in most cases without breakfast, and in all cases without the prospect of obtaining a midday meal at home. Of those 4,498 receive a simple daily meal from the 14 canteens belonging to the above-mentioned society, the other 7,449 are totally unprovided for.

The question of the city's responsibility for the children has now been raised by the Socialists in the municipal council, who propose that the council should in future undertake the task.

VINDICATING VON MOLTKE.

Divorced Wife Has Greatly Modified Her Former Statements.

Berlin, Dec. 24.—The hearing of the Harden-Von Moltke case was resumed here yesterday, the morning session being behind closed doors, but in the afternoon the court was reopened to the public after the examination of Frau Von Elbe, the divorced wife of Count Von Moltke, during the course of which she modified her former testimony to such a surprising degree as to influence the position of the defence to a considerable extent, many of Herr Harden's assertions against Von Moltke being based on her previous declarations.

Frau Von Elbe withdrew some of her statements derogatory to Count Von Moltke's character and gave to other statements she had made an entirely different meaning than previously implied.

Detectives who also were put on the witness stand gave evidence to the effect that nothing definite was known against Count Von Moltke relative to any abnormality.

The case was adjourned until Friday.

Irish Member Arrested.

Dublin, Dec. 24.—The police yesterday afternoon arrested Laurence Ginnell, Nationalist member of Parliament for the north division of Westmeath, at Kilbridge. He was brought here and placed in jail at Kilmainham last night. Ginnell was sentenced to six months imprisonment last Friday for contempt of court in urging cattle raids.

Since his conviction he has repeatedly appeared at meetings and addressed the people, but always he was surrounded by his supporters, and the police were unable to reach him. Whenever an effort at arrest appeared about to succeed Ginnell, protected by his followers, slipped away and disguised himself, later reappearing within a few hours in some other section and urging the people to persist in the cattle-driving.

J. Israel Tarte's Will.

Montreal, Dec. 24.—La Patrie of last evening publishes a copy of the will made by the late Hon. J. Israel Tarte at Neuilly, near Paris, the 23rd of July, 1899, a few hours before undergoing a very grave operation.

"My sons," he said, "you have a newspaper. See therefore that it wounds no one's feelings and blackens no one's reputation. Do not quarrel with the clergy. Remain French and Catholic and loyal subjects of the Queen and the Empire. Fulfill your religious duties as well as those of good citizens."

Captain Suspended.

Toronto, Dec. 24.—Suspension for six months for Capt. J. B. Forest is the penalty awarded by the wreck commission for the loss of the Government fisheries patrol yacht Lurline in Goderich harbor on Sept. 26.

Capt. Forest had not acquainted himself with changed conditions in Goderich harbor, which he had not entered in 20 years.

Lemieux Coming Home.

Ottawa, Dec. 24.—In response to an urgent cable from the Premier requesting his return to Canada immediately, a reply was received from Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux yesterday, stating that he would sail from Yokohama on Jan. 3, and travel via San Francisco. Mr. Lemieux had intended to visit India and travel home by the Mediterranean.

Sent Down For Three Years.

Woodstock, Dec. 24.—Philip Manahan, alias Tom Reid, a deserter from the Wolseley Barracks at London, was sentenced yesterday morning to three years in Kingston Penitentiary. He pleaded guilty to having attempted a criminal assault upon Mrs. Clyde Smith, a resident of this city, a few days ago.

Nitrate Strike Breaking.

Santiago, Chile, Dec. 24.—The strike in the nitrate fields, which for some time tied up the business of the country, is breaking. Several thousand men returned to work yesterday.

CHAPTER XXXV.

THE Sydney papers of the year 1838 contain no reference to the extraordinary scenes enacted at the Pulteney hotel on the first Saturday of the month of October. They do not report the removal of a magistrate of the colony to its best and most private madhouse, some from a sense of journalistic charity, others for reasons which the late Nicholas Harding's bankers might even now disclose. The curious, however, may still look up the advertisement which Lady Starkie read aloud from the Herald within an hour of the events described. It blew a trumpet for "the fine fast sailing ship Florentia, for London direct," and the call found a grateful echo in two young hearts, now so light and now so heavy that it was an act of mercy to stir them in this way. The Florentia was described as even then loading at the quay. It seemed as though they might all sail from that beautiful and accursed land within a week. As a matter of history, however, the Florentia did not complete her cargo until the new year. No other homeward bound ship was ready before her, and much happened on shore meanwhile.

Tom Erichsen, having voluntarily confessed the part he had borne in the Castle Sullivan outrage, fell ill as a man can be just as the road to joy and freedom lay smooth and clear before him. He was in a raging delirium when the free pardon arrived from Governor Gipps, together with an order for the convict's absolute release. It seemed he was about to be released indeed. Long weeks he lingered, battling indomitably, and what hand coaxed him back to light and life and whose prayers availed but the loving hand and the passionate prayers of the girl who only lived now to make him forget the past? Meanwhile her father was not idle. Nicholas Harding was useless in a sickroom, and his money could not save Tom's life. But there were other things that it could do, combined with the natural energy and the practical ability which were also his. Turn again to those old Sydney papers. They will not tell you who instigated the inquiry, found the witnesses, paid their expenses and indeed threw his money right and left in the good cause. But they do recount the ruin of the most glaring and atrocious slave drivers the colony contained. They do report the several litigations by which that most desirable end was achieved, nor to their eternal credit does a single sheet take the side of the Sullivans of Castle Sullivan. The name still lingers in colonial annals. It is still strong in all humane and honest nostrils, but of Dr. Sullivan and his ruffianly son all traces have been lost.

Not the least telling witness against them was one who certainly could not be accused of extravagant sympathy with the felonry. Major Honeybone enjoyed himself enormously in Sydney, both at the courthouse and elsewhere. He and Nicholas Harding became perfect cronies during the weary days of Tom's convalescence.

"Gadsooks, sir, he gave me more trouble than any three men in the gang," the major would say, "but I knew him for a gentleman at bottom. I'd like to shake his hand and tell him I'm sorry for this and that."

But Major Honeybone was not permitted to see the invalid, and indeed he quitted Sydney rather precipitately in the end. The plucky veteran had asked a question of Lady Starkie, as her ladyship long afterward confided to Claire, with an obviously pleasurable indignation, on the Florentia's poop.

Nor was it until the long and soothing homeward voyage was half over that the convalescent was vouchsafed an answer to certain questions which he had tired of asking in his illness. What had brought Nicholas Harding to New South Wales? He must have sailed but a few days after Claire. What had he found out in those few days, since the discovery of Daintree's crime still came as a surprise to him?

"You never saw the woman who took Claire's jewelry?" said Nicholas Harding. "It is to her we owe it that my girl is not a madman's wife. The woman was naturally a spy. She had spied upon her mistress, but on Daintree also, and to Claire she had cause to be grateful, as Claire will tell you if you ask her. The very night after she sailed in the Rosamund this woman came to my house. She had fallen very low. Death seemed to me to have set its seal upon her, but she had information which she would only sell, until I told her where Claire had gone and whom she was to marry. Then and there it all came out. I must say there was no huckstering then. The wretched woman seemed genuinely distressed. She told me"—Harding wiped his mouth, and his voice trembled—"she told me my daughter was gone to be a murderer's wife."

"Yet you did not know of it?"

"I did not know about Blaydes. That made the second."

"His second murder?" gasped Tom.

"Or manslaughter—call it what you will. The first was the worst. It was fratricide. There were two brothers. James was the younger. Out shooting one day when they were both mere lads, he shot a dog dead in his passion. The brother abused him. In an instant he also was shot through the heart. It was brought in an accident, but the family knew what it was. They drummed him out. They refused to see his face again. He was as much transported as any felon in New South Wales, with as good a cause. We never knew why his family would have nothing to do with him. Why, for instance, the very flowers he laid upon his mother's grave were summarily returned to him. It seemed inhuman, but I think it was very human now. God help me, I thought it was only the ordinary wild oats made too much of. But I was at fault, grievously at fault. Bitterly I regret it. Bitterly I shall rue it till my dying day."

Nicholas Harding was deeply moved. He was indeed a different man. In a hoarse voice he described the horrors of the interminable outward voyage, the perpetual dread of being too late, the nightly nightmare of Claire married to a criminal lunatic if not dead already by his hand.

"Crime and madness," said he, "are in their blood. I found that out too. The mother was a saint, but I discovered she had died in an asylum. The father is sane, but you know his reputation. He had denied me an interview before. I forced myself upon him now. And he admitted the perfect truth of the story I had heard. You ask how that woman came to know of it. Well, so did I. As I told you, she had sunk as low as possible. It seems she made a practice of asking her companions whether they knew aught of the Daintrees, because she suspected our guest of some shameful secret, but never of killing Blaydes, and she had always the thought of repaying Claire the good turn of which Claire must tell you. Well, at last—call it chance or fate or what you will—but at last she hit upon a trail that led to the truth. She discovered an old gamekeeper who had actually seen the deed and been pensioned to keep it secret, but blabbed it in his dotage. And then she came to Avenue Lodge."

Once his tongue was loosed and it was seen that the subject excited the convalescent much less than had been feared, Mr. Harding would speak of it with apparent freedom. Yet the case had aspects which he sedulously shunned. And toward the end of the voyage he became visibly troubled and depressed, but at last one chilly northern night, when the western islands had been left astern, he took Tom by the arm, and his hand trembled.

"Erichsen," said he, "I was once your enemy. I am now your friend. In the near future I am to be something more, and I cannot face it a humbug and a hypocrite. You remember those letters you gave me back without a question? I have waited for that question all these months. That you have never asked it that alone shows what you are. It makes it the harder to have to tell you the kind of man I was. But I have made up my mind that you shall know."

And he confessed that he had been guilty enough of the bribery all but brought home to him and yet not more guilty than a hundred others, many of them in higher places, as he said with perfect truth, but little bitterness. The voyage out had purged him of self esteem and arrogance; the homeward voyage was rearing better qualities in their place.

"Yes, it was a true bill!" he sighed. "True also that my money had silenced the witness who refused to speak—true that I have made it worth his while to go to prison. But letters had passed between us. Blaydes got hold of them. He was on his way to me with those letters in his pocket—to sell them to me for a fancy price—when he met his death. Do you recollect the first lawyer who came to see you about the defense?"

Tom started, but said he did remember.

"He came from me. And he not only assumed your guilt—as I fear we had all assumed it—but he wanted to know where you had put what you had taken out of the dead man's pockets. You were only to tell him that to secure the best defense money could obtain. Instead of telling him you threw him out of your cell. You were quite right. I was well served. After two years, Erichsen, I tell you that I am sorry—sorry!"

Tom implored him to say no more. There was more, however, that must be said.

"Before your trial," continued Harding, "I was almost mad with anxiety. Every hour I expected those letters to be found. Daintree knew well enough what was the matter. The letters were in his own possession, but he obtained my confidence, wormed it out of me one night, and from that hour my soul was not my own. He began by dragging me to your trial"—

"He told me you dragged him there!"

"It was the other way about. I am ashamed to say it, but it was the other way about. I want to hang myself when I think of that time. I remember him taunting me by saying I ought to sympathize with you because I deserved to stand in the dock myself. He who had done the murder for which he saw you condemned! I feel sure he only kept the receipt in order, if necessary, to use the letter that was written on the other side."

"No, no," said Tom. "I prefer to believe he was always thinking of some way of proving my innocence by means of the receipt without incriminating himself. It would have been in keeping with his character. He had a kind heart in many things, and I wish we were leaving him in his quiet grave instead of in an asylum. I cannot help feeling grateful to him even now. He gave me back my manhood and my liberty, even if it was he who first took them away. Above all, he gave me back Claire!"

* * * * * *

There was one addition to the homeward bound party who must not be forgotten. This was a manservant, with a withered arm, who grew gray and ultimately died in Thomas Erichsen's service. His was the second death among those passengers of the Florentia whose fate concerns this chronicle. Lady Starkie was the first to go. Nicholas Harding followed in the same year as his namesake of all the Russias. The next and last—it seems but the other day—was Claire, his daughter, a loving and beloved wife and a mother whose children miss and mourn her daily, though most of them have children of their own.

But a little while ago this story might have left them still together—the bent old man with the thoughtful eye and many wrinkles—the white haired, sweet faced motherly woman. Yet then their story had not been told, for there is that in it which Thomas Erichsen never would tell his wife. He never told how they tried to cut his heart out with the lash. He never told her how nearly they succeeded. And still, when he thinks of that, is he grateful to the long dead maniac to whom he owed so various a debt.

It is the old man's pleasure to hear and read of the noble colony sprung miraculously from the cruel dust and ashes of sixty years ago. He has never revisited it. In the old country he has lived and he will die. Less fortunate than Claire, his lot is that harder one of the last to go, but his life has been always brave, and he neither fears nor courts his death.

THE END.

WILL HEAR PATTI IN 2007.

Her Voice With Those of Other Famous Singers Is Preserved.

Paris, Dec. 26.—There was a unique ceremony yesterday afternoon in the subterranean passages of the opera house. It consisted of depositing in a specially prepared vault a talking machine and a number of discs bearing records of the voices of the greatest singers of the twentieth century:

Tamagno, Caruso, Scotti, Plancon, Patti, Melba, Calve and others are represented in the selection. The discs are in double boxes, each separate from the other. Neither light nor air can penetrate the coverings, and it is believed that they can be thus preserved for a century.

At the end of a hundred years they will be opened and the people of that age will have the opportunity of hearing voices of this era as well as seeing the talking machine as now manufactured.

Clergyman In Trouble.

Boston, Dec. 26.—A. Leonard Parker, who is said to have been an influential clergyman in Canada, where he preached the gospel for years, was arraigned in the Boston Police Court, on the charge of larceny of $250 from Henry L. Houghton. The case was continued until to-day.

Mr. Parker is connected now with a local brokerage firm and sold 50 shares of stock in the Universal Shoe Co. to Houghton for $5 a share, the latter claiming misrepresentation, and that the shares are worth only $2 and do not pay 12 per cent. dividends, as alleged by Parker.

The minister asserts that the stock transaction was bona fide, that his arrest was a mistake and that he will have no trouble in proving his innocence.

EVIDENCE OF SMALL VALUE.

Orchard's Testimony Not Likely to Secure Pettibone's Conviction.

Boise, Ida., Dec. 26.—The state rested its case in the trial of Geo. A. Pettibone for complicity in the murder of Governor Steuenberg.

W. H. Gabbert, justice of the Supreme Court of Colorado, testified that on going from his residence to the capital at Denver he originally crossed a vacant lot, but that on the morning that Walley was killed he took a different route. He said that he heard the explosion an hour after he reached his office, that at noon on that day he examined the place where Walley met his death.

Judge Gabbert also testified that he participated in rendering the Moyer decision and the decision holding that the eight-hour law was unconstitutional. The latter decision was introduced in evidence.

Senator Borah announced that the state rested, and John F. Neugent, for the defence, filed a motion asking that the jury be advised to acquit the defendant. The jury was excused and Judge Wood announced that he was ready to announce his conclusions on the question of corroborative evidence on which authorities were submitted early in the trial. The conclusions were as follows:

"Evidence of corroboration as to the killing of Steuenberg as a separate transaction is not sufficient to warrant a conviction. Conspiracy to commit a number of crimes, which includes as an incident or otherwise, the killing involved cannot be established by uncorroborated evidence of an accomplice. Is there in this case any evidence of a conspiracy to commit crime, as a result of which conspiracy the crime charge was committed, and if so, is there corroborative evidence enough to convict the defendant thereof?"

Attorney Neugent argued the motion to advise a verdict of acquittal only briefly, and then took up the Idaho statutes providing for the prosecution of non-residents charged with crime, under which Pettibone is being tried, arguing that it is unconstitutional.

DUTCH CABINET RESIGNS.

Defeat of Army Estimates Leads to a Crisis.

The Hague, Dec. 26.—The Dutch Cabinet, the Council of Ministers comprising nine members, by whom the executive authority of the Government is administered, yesterday presented its resignation. It is thought that the dissolution of Parliament is likely to follow.

The resignation of the Cabinet is due to the defeat of the army estimates in the Second Chamber of Parliament. The opposition in the discussion of these estimates contended that the efficiency of the Dutch army was not proportionate to the cost.

The clerics, who are opposed to the Government's plans for universal suffrage, are pleased over the situation created by the Cabinet's resignation, as they prefer that the expected general election which is to follow should be fought out on the military issue rather than on universal suffrage.

Important Libel Judgment.

Montreal, Dec. 26.—The Court of Appeal rendered judgment Tuesday in the very important case of F. D. Shallow and The Gazette Printing Co.

This was an action by which Shallow claimed $10,000 damages on account of the publication in The Montreal Gazette of the plea in a previous action taken by Shallow, proprietor of The Moniteur du Commerce, against The Nationaliste.

The main question at issue was whether the privilege for newspaper reports of judicial proceedings only applied to such reports when they refer to cases "publicly heard in open court." The Superior Court judgment dismissed the action, but that judgment was reversed by the Court of Appeal Tuesday morning.

Mr. Justice Taschereau held that the written documents of a court house record are not public property, that the privilege of reporting cases extends only to what takes place in open court, and even then any libellous statements made by counsel cannot be printed in the papers with impunity.

The plaintiff was allowed $250 damages. Mr. Justice Bosse dissented.

Town In Danger From Fire.

Boulder, Colo., Dec. 26.—For 24 hours the wind has been blowing from 30 to 60 miles per hour here. At times disaster was threatened to the whole town. No less than six fire alarms were turned in, while a forest fire was raging last night two miles up Boulder Canon.

One of the local fires caught from the dry prairie grass and several farmers lost large hay stacks and barns. The fire burned itself out late in the afternoon without damage to the town itself.

A number of buildings in town were more or less damaged by the wind and telegraph and telephone service was demoralized for hours.

Whole Family In Jail.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Dec. 26.—With the arrest of Harry Lamphere, aged 21, and his conviction on the charge of being a highway robber, the last member of his immediate family was sent to jail. Monday, Grace Lamphere, his sister-in-law, was sent to jail for 60 days for shoplifting. Later, Garfield Lamphere, a brother, was also convicted and sentenced for stealing a chicken and some meat. Florence Hall, a sister of the men, is now serving a sentence on the charge of shoplifting.

Skin Grafting on Engineer.

Ottawa, Dec. 26.—Engineer Herbert Reynolds, badly injured in the C.P.R. wreck at Plantagenet, Sept. 11 last, was up yesterday at the hospital for the first time since that date. The operation of skin-grafting, when ten of his fellow-employes gave up portions of their skin for him, was eminently successful.

Reynolds, when fully recovered, will testify for himself at the inquest on the fireman killed in the Plantagenet wreck. Until then the enquiry stands adjourned.

James A. Moore, the St. Thomas fur and hide dealer, arrested for forgery, has been released on $15,000 bail.

Why Peterborough Citizens Now Come to Dr. Browett for Glasses

ONE REASON: Most city people are now too intelligent and well informed to permanently injure their eyes and wreck their nerves for want of suitable glasses, especially when Dr. Browett's prices are so reasonable consistent with quality. Eye Glasses and Spectacles from $1.00 up; Colored Glasses 25 to 40c; Railroad and Mechanic's Glasses 25c to $1.00; Thermometers 25c to $5.00; Artificial Eyes $3.50 to $7.00; Non-Steam Lens Polish (keeps steam and frost from glasses) 25c.

ANOTHER REASON: Winter brings long nights with more use of artificial light. Ladies are now taxing their eyes doing fancy work for Xmas. Gentlemen are doing more reading and writing in the office and home. Scholars are doing long hours of home work. Thus all eyes work harder during the winter season, and if glasses are ever needed they are needed now. Some thoughtful sons and daughters are giving glasses to their parents for Xmas.

NUN SHOT AND KILLED.

Assassinated at Milwaukee Hospital By Insane Man.

Milwaukee, Dec. 26.—Sister Theresa, a nurse at St. Mary's Hospital in this city, was yesterday shot and killed by Gustav Wirth, aged 32, who is supposed to be insane. The assassin fled after firing four shots into the nurse's body, but was captured after being chased several blocks, and lodged in the police station. Wirth was operated on at the hospital about a year ago and it is said showed signs of insanity at that time.

When Wirth called at the hospital he was admitted by the Sister Superior. He informed her that he wished to see some one else. Shortly afterwards Sister Theresa, who assists in receiving patients, put in an appearance and upon seeing her the assassin began a fusilade. Sister Theresa died in a few minutes.

The prisoner when seen at the police station made a statement in which he said he fired the shots because the hospital officials tried to poison him.

DARING ROBBERY.

$50,000 Stolen by Two Men From Jeweler's Window.

Chicago, Dec. 26.—While the jewelry store of David Holtze was crowded with customers Tuesday night, two robbers smashed a show window and escaped with two trays of diamonds and jewelry valued at $50,000.

The thieves escaped.

Keewatin at Owen Sound.

Owen Sound, Dec. 26.—Navigation for the season closed yesterday with the arrival of the Keewatin, the second of the big new passenger steamers for the Canadian Pacific Railway. The steamship made the run from Buffalo on Monday morning through heavy weather and without the usual aids to navigation. Capt. E. B. Anderson, commodore of the lake fleet, was in command.

The arrival of the Keewatin brings the value of the steel tonnage in Owen Sound harbor to over $3,500,000, as beside the five fine passenger steamships of the Canadian Pacific Railway there are eight big steel freighters and other craft which will bring the monetary value over the amount named.

Revolution In Ecuador.

Quayaquil, Ecuador, Dec. 26.—A new conspiracy to overthrow the Ecuadoran Government has been discovered at Quito, and Gen. Emilio Maria Teran, the leader in the conspiracy, and several others have been arrested. The Government captured a quantity of arms in the houses of the conspirators.

The officials here state that the conspirators planned to assassinate President Alfaro. Gen. Emilio Teran was the leader of the revolution which overthrew President Garcia early in 1906 in favor of Gen. Alfaro, a former President of the republic.

Why Did Admiral Resign?

Washington, Dec. 26.—Rear-Admiral William Bronson, whose resignation as chief of the bureau of navigation of the Navy Department was announced at the White House on Tuesday, turned over the affairs of his office to Cap. Cameron McR. Winslow, who has been designated to take charge of its work. Admiral Bronson declined again yesterday to discuss the reasons for the resignation. Nothing could be obtained at the White House as to the admiral's resignation.

Out For Dollar Gas.

Windsor, Dec. 26.—McNee, one of Windsor's mayoralty candidates, has come out definitely for dollar gas, and says if elected he will take steps to invalidate the gas bylaw recently passed by the City Council. If the Windsor Gas Co. refuses to give dollar gas at once he will institute expropriation proceedings and try to have gas supplied under municipal operation at $1 a thousand or less.

Fire at Chicago.

Chicago, Dec. 26.—The Burton building, 71-81 Van Buren street, was damaged by fire yesterday. The structure was occupied by a number of small manufacturing plants. The total loss is estimated at $75,000.

Died Suddenly In Roseneath

Mr. Robert Brown, Father of Dr. Brown, Passed Away

Mr. Robert Brown an old and highly respected resident of Alnwick township, died suddenly on Saturday afternoon last in the 81st year of his age. He passed away at his home in Roseneath. The deceased had always enjoyed good health. On Saturday he went to a farm of his about three miles away to give some instructions as to the cutting of wood. In tramping about in the deep snow he evidently over exerted himself and, after partaking of a cup of tea on his return home, he went to bed and expired within a few minutes.

The late Mr. Brown was born in Elgin, on the Moray Firth, Scotland, in 1827 and in 1832 came to Canada with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Brown. They located at Cobourg, where, after a few years' residence, they removed to Alnwick township.

The deceased followed farming for many years, but during the past quarter of a century, has lived a retired life in Roseneath village. The late Mr. Brown was a Methodist in religion and in politics a Liberal. His wife predeceased him by 13 years. A family of five sons and two daughters survive. The sons are George, photographer, of Orillia, Dr. W. E., of this city, Albert John, mining engineer, of Duluth, Minn., Charles, merchant of Roseneath, and Walter, dentist of Toronto.

The daughters are Misses Eliza and Annie, living at home. Besides the members of the family, four brothers and one sister living in Roseneath and vicinity are left. The late Mr. Brown was a gentleman held in high esteem for his many good qualities.

The funeral which took place on Monday, was largely attended. The services were conducted by Rev. S. A. Duprau.

Nomination Day on Monday Next

The Date and Place Where They Will be Received

The nominations for Mayor, Water Commissioner, School Trustees and Aldermen will be held in the City Council chamber on Monday next, December 30th.

Proposals for mayor, water commissioner and members of the Board of Education, will be received in the city hall from ten to eleven o'clock in the forenoon.

The aldermanic nominations will be received at the same place from 12 to 1 o'clock. City Clerk Armstrong is the returning officer.

So far there are only two candidates definitely in the field for the civic chair—Mayor McWilliams and ex-Ald. H. Rush.

The name of ex-Mayor Wm. Yelland is mentioned as a likely aspirant for the chief Magistracy, but he has not yet made any specific statement as to his intentions.

Turned Gun on Old Man Killing Him Instantly

Brutal Act of Farm Hand—Victim of Shooting Went to Interfere in Altercation—The Murderer Overpowered and Neighbors Called in.

Special to The Review.

Brampton, Dec. 26.—James Curry, an old farmer, 80 years of age, was shot and instantly killed by his hired man, who was known as "Jack," about ten o'clock last night. Mr. Curry's son was alone with the hired man when he was threatened by the latter. The old man, hearing the sounds, came into the room in his night gown, when the hired man turned the gun on to him and shot and killed him. He then threatened the son, who grappled with him when the second barrel was discharged into the ceiling. The murderer was finally overpowered and the neighbors were notified. He is an Englishman about 27 years old, and has been at the Curry's a month. His name is unknown.

How Christmas Day Was Spent in Peterborough

The Holiday Was Quietly Observed—The Rink, Theatre and Toboggan Slide Were Well Patronized—Many Home Comers.

Christmas day quietly observed in Peterborough, and was characterized by many pleasant reunions and family parties. The number of home comers was very large, and the day was given over to enjoyable pastimes and social intercourse around the fireside. A great number spent the day out of the city. All the people behaved themselves admirably, as there was only one offender in the police court today—a common ordinary drunk. The weather was somewhat disagreeable, snow falling in the morning, and sleet in the afternoon, but this did not deter many from taking a drive. The Brock street skating rink was the mecca for many holiday makers, both in the afternoon and evening. The Grand Opera House was also crowded, the production being "Dora Thorne." A big crowd was present at the Jackson Park toboggan slide, which, considering the dampness of the snow, was in good condition. Others took a walk around the city. The day, on the whole, was pleasantly spent, and no untoward incident occurred to mar its delightful associations or pleasant memories. Business was entirely suspended.

The attendance at St. Peter's Cathedral and at the various services in the Anglican churches was very gratifying.

Ran to Her Neighbors With The Cry of Murder! Murder!

Terror Reigned in Gypsy Settlement on Stewart Street Last Evening—Wm. Williamson Threatened to Kill His Wife—Appeared in Court But Was Discharged.

With the cry that her husband was going to murder her, Mrs. Wm. Williamson, who belongs to the gypsy settlement at the corner of Smith and Stewart streets, ran into a neighbor's house last evening with three small children seeking shelter for the night.

The gypsy encampment celebrated Christmas in a lively manner last night, and for a while terrorized the neighborhood. Too much whiskey consumed by the whiskey men was accountable for all the trouble, and they went home with murder in their eyes and evidently with the intention to smash everything they came in contact with. Household articles were flying in all directions and general disorder prevailed until the police arrived, having been 'phoned for by some of the neighbors. P. C. Meharry and Adams were soon on the scene, and Williamson and his wife and three children were conveyed to the police station. At the station the children were crying with hunger, having had nothing to eat for some time. A good supper was ordered and all were given plenty to eat.

"I was going away to Buffalo Your Honor," said Williamson to the Magistrate this morning in police court, but I got drunk and didn't get away. I am ashamed of my conduct, but if you let me go, we will go at once to Buffalo," he added.

His Worship discharged him, and after paying $1.75 for cab hire and three meals, Williamson departed.

Heavy Purchases Were Made; Christmas Trade Was Good

The Volume of Business Was on the Whole Ahead of Last Year—What Peterborough Merchants Have to Say.

"How did you find the Christmas trade, and did it compare favorably with last year?" was the question asked by the Review of several leading business men today.

On the whole the merchants are well satisfied, and few, if any, complaints were heard.

One dry goods man remarked that the business done by him was fully one-third ahead of that of last year.

Another said: "Yes, our sales for December increased. We beat out last year. We have no complaint to make. We heard very little about the so-called money stringency."

Another dry goods business man observed; "We have no kick coming. Our store was crowded and we never sold as many goods before."

Another man—a jeweller—said: "We have done fully as much as in other years. The great majority of the people paid cash and bought good articles.

A druggist, when spoken to, replied: "We are pleased to report an advance over last year."

Half a dozen other storekeepers, when interviewed were pleased, and said they could find no grievance with the weather or with the purchasing public. It would seem that the consensus of opinion is on the whole favorable, and that in the great majority of cases the bulk of business done was ahead of last year. In some instances there was a slight falling off, but it was scarcely noticeable.

The glad holiday season has come and gone, and pleasant memories of it still linger. The business men did all that they reasonably could expect, and have nothing but encouraging things to say of the results and experiences of the Christmas trade.

Friends Honor Mr. A. E. Kennedy

On His Removal From North Smith to Lakefield—Given Mantle Clock

A very pleasant time was spent on Friday evening last, Dec. 20, at the home of Mr. A. E. Kennedy of North Smith, when about fifty of his friends gathered to bid farewell to the family prior to their removal to Lakefield. The evening was spent in conversation, games and music, and when all things were made ready, Mr. Kennedy and the family were called to take their places at the head of the spacious sitting room, and were presented with a beautiful mantle clock with cathedral gong, accompanied by the following address:

Mr. Kennedy, dear friend, — There are ties and bonds in life which it is hard to break; when hearts are wrenched and the deeper chords of being are touched with sorrow and regrets which find a fitting expression in sighs and tears. Such it is when lives which have long been linked together in the spirit of brotherhood and helpfulness, which have been ruled by common interests, aims and hopes, are drawn apart.

As the hour of your departure from our midst draws nearer, it is impressed upon us more and more clearly what a distinct loss is ours, and that there will be a vacant place amongst us which it will be most difficult to fill.

You have ever been an active force in Wesley Church, one whose counsel was always prized, characterized as it was by shrewd foresight and sound judgment. Your motives were felt to have sprung from a pure disregard for selfish gain, and a strict and staunch adherence to the path of honor and truth. Such sterling qualities of character could not but prove a wholesome and sustaining influence in the church and in the community.

No less esteemed is the modest and unassuming disposition of your wife and daughter, with their readiness to promote the interests of all our undertakings.

As a small token of remembrance and esteem and of our gratitude for your valued services, we beg of you to accept this clock, with the hearty wish that it may chime off many happy hours for you all, and that God's richest blessings may rest upon you in your new home.

Signed in behalf of the congregation of Wesley Church, Stephen Harrison, William J. Pearson, Acton Davis, Absalom Northey, stewards.

After all had partaken of refreshments, this pleasant occasion was brought to a close by singing, hand in hand, that good old friendship song of Auld Lang Syne.

JAPAN REMAINS FIRM

Insists on Full Treaty Rights in Regard to Immigration.

Government Refuses to Set Any Limit—Will Not Make Good Consul-General Nosse's Promises—Won't Be Convinced That Any Moral Pledge Was Given—Mr. Lemieux Leaving For Home.

London, Dec. 26—A Tokio cable says Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux is leaving Yokohama to-day and expects to return to Ottawa about Jan. 12, traveling via San Francisco. At the last meeting between Mr. Lemieux and Viscount Hayashi on Wednesday morning memoranda were exchanged. It is understood that the Canadian envoy is insisting on Consul-General Nosse's assurance, repeatedly given from the time before Canada's participation in the Anglo-Japanese commercial treaty, that Japanese immigrants to Canada shall be restricted to about six hundred per annum, and that this shall be regarded as a moral pledge given the Dominion Government. The Japanese Government, however, is unable to ascertain that such assurances were ever given, and it holds that if this is really the case a distinct line should be drawn between the pledges given before and after Canada's participation in the commercial treaty.

Early Solution of Difficulty.

Tokio, Dec. 26.—Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, the Canadian Minister of Labor, who has concluded his negotiations with the Japanese Government regarding the regulation of immigration to Canada, said to the Associated Press yesterday: "My lips are sealed on the subject. Any statement I have to make belongs first to the Dominion Government. My mission will be completed only after my return to Ottawa. My colleagues there will be in a position to fully discuss and consider the whole question in its various phases. I have every reason to believe that a solution of the difficulties will soon be reached, and am pleased to say that my negotiations with the Japanese Foreign Office were conducted in the friendliest spirit. I return with nothing but the most pleasant recollections."

Terms Not Announced.

The Associated Press is in a position to state that the situation is identical with its previous forecast. Mr. Lemieux and Sir Claude Macdonald, the British ambassador, fully agreed with the terms of the memorandum whereunder the Japanese Government outlines its plans for the future control of immigration, the announcement of which will probably be made when a similar arrangement is outlined to Mr. Thomas J. O'Brien, the American ambassador, who, it is understood, has submitted a number of suggestions from the American Government for the consideration of the Foreign Office. The suggestions, it is believed, largely served as a guide to the arrangement submitted to Canada through Mr. Lemieux, and there is reason to believe that the Japanese Government will soon submit to Ambassador O'Brien the details of this plan to control immigration to America, which practically amounts to the prevention of all labor immigration.

Mr. Lemieux and party will sail for home on the Empress of China to-day, the Canadian Government having instructed him to report at the earliest possible moment.

No Funds For Charity.

New York, Dec. 26.—The Federated Hebrew Charitable organization in the United States closed its doors yesterday for the first time in its history because of lack of funds.

January 1st the society again will start operations, and continue its aid until the sum allotted for the month by the directors has been paid out. Then the doors will be again closed until the 1st of February. The suspension is the direct result of the falling off of the support of the society by the Hebrews of the country.

Last year approximately $30,000 was paid out, in benefits and pensions by the society, but this year there is a deficit of nearly $75,000 with an increased number of applications for assistance.

Druce Grave Guarded.

London, Dec. 26.—Extraordinary precautions are being taken to prevent tampering with the grave of T. C. Druce, which will be opened in the course of the next few days to prove whether or not it contained the body of Druce or a roll of lead. A large force of police have been sent to Highgate cemetery, and have taken up positions on all the approaches to the grave. A special cordon is drawn up around the vault, which is being rapidly shut in with a high-board fence. The structure will be roofed over so that unauthorized persons will have no chance of witnessing the exhumation. Only officials and those directly concerned will be permitted to see the opening of the coffin.

Killed by a Trolley.

New York, Dec. 26.—While on his way to the home of his son with a Christmas present, with which he hoped to bridge over a quarrel of long standing between himself and the young man, James Rhind, an aged civil war veteran, was run over and killed by a Third avenue trolley car at Sixty-Fourth street yesterday.

Rhind was partially blind from an old bullet wound and did not see the car until too late.

Ambassador Called Home.

Washington, Dec. 26.—Viscount Aoki, the Japanese ambassador, will sail for home on the steamer Manchuria, leaving San Francisco on Jan. 7. The ambassador will leave Washington on the 30th inst. He goes home in response to a summons from his Government for a discussion of conditions in America affecting the interests of the Japanese.

Fred. Leclaire was murdered near Gretna with an axe, and a negro and a German are under arrest charged with the crime.

DEMANDS PUBLIC EXECUTION.

Mrs. Goold Wants to Die In Sight of Casino Gamblers.

Monte Carlo, Dec. 26.—Mme. Vere Goold has produced consternation in the principality of Monaco by exercising an ancient right of a condemned person by demanding that she be executed in the Plaza, which is the flower-and-tree-decorated space in front of the casino at Monte Carlo.

Ever since the trial of the Goods for the murder of Emma Levin, the Prince of Monaco has dreaded some such possibility as this. The persistent policy of the ruler has been to keep away, to cover up anything that might frighten the nervous sensibilities of the patrons of the gambling establishments. If it had been possible the trial would have been quashed and the prisoners secretly put away.

The idea of an execution in Monte Carlo was horrifying enough—even if it could be conducted in private—and now this terrible woman demands to be killed in public and that the guillotine be set up in front of the Palace of Chance.

Both she and her husband have appealed against their sentences—his that of hard labor for life, and hers execution, for the murder of Emma Levin.

The situation of the last convicted murderer of Monte Carlo, who was first sentenced to be beheaded, then to be hanged, then imprisonment for life under guard, then imprisonment for life and be his own guard, and finally paroled, is still fresh in the minds of visitors here. Will Mme. Goold finally escape as did this murderer, is a question that is much mooted at this time.

MURDER OVER DOGS.

Man Had Killed Two Canines and Then Shot Their Owner.

Little Rock, Ark., Dec. 26.—A special from Conway, Ork., says:

Mrs. Emma Hearness, a widow, was shot and killed Tuesday by James Hall after a quarrel over two dogs which Hall had killed. Mrs. Hearness' son was wounded by two shots from Hall's revolver. Hall had killed two dogs belonging to Mrs. Hearness and had refused to pay for them. She accompanied her son to Hall's home and he met her at the door with a revolver in his hand. He cursed her, it is alleged, and as she started to run he shot and killed her, and wounded her son, and it is thought that he will not recover. A posse is scouring the country for Hall, who is armed. A desperate fight is expected before he is captured.

RESCUE AT CHICAGO FIRE.

Blind Man Had Been Left Behind In Burning Building.

Chicago, Dec. 26.—The rescue of a blind man by Capt. Peter J. Vissar, formerly of the Boer army, and another thrilling rescue, that of a 70-year-old invalid by Policeman Michael McGrath, were witnessed Tuesday night during a fire in an apartment building at 3,607 Indiana avenue. The blind man is W. A. Weinstock, and the aged invalid is William Glaize. They had been left behind in the rush from the building when the fire was discovered. Visser and McGrath were both singed in making their way through the flames. The property loss is $20,000.

German Trade With Canada.

London, Dec. 26.—(C. A. P.)—Bersen Courier, Berlin, publishes a leading article on trade with Canada, urging a change of tactics on the part of the German Government. It regrets that not the slightest reference is made to Canada in the bill prolonging the provisional commercial arrangement with England until the end of 1909, which has just become law.

"If," it continues, "we continue our present policy in respect of our commercial relations with Canada we run the risk of being left very far behind in the race for trade with this thriving country, which contains almost inconceivable possibility developments.

"The interests of German trade and industry demand most urgently that the German Government shall now do something towards renewing German-Canadian commercial relations."

Two Killed In Fight.

Missoula, Mont., Dec. 26.—Two men were killed Tuesday night at a railway construction camp near Lothrop. George Morris, an Austrian, killed one of his countrymen in a knife duel, the cause of the trouble being unknown. Morris then started to Lothrop and met Contractor Walter A. Arnold on the bridge where he attacked Arnold with the knife and Arnold drew a revolver and shot him dead. Arnold gave himself up, claiming that he acted in self-defence.

Chinese Womans' Death.

Pittsburg, Dec. 26—Sang Foon Wah, the only Chinese woman in Pittsburg, dropped dead at the home of her cousin here last night. It is thought she had indulged excessively in opium, which affected her heart. Her sudden death was followed by a panic among several Chinamen, who were in the room and who were terrorized by what they considered a visitation from Joss, their god.

Urges British Emigration.

London, Dec. 26.—(C. A. P.)—The Secretary of the Empire Education League says there is no need of any man or woman, with a little patience, to be idle or unemployed in Canada, and that in view of the hundreds of starving men striving to sell penny toys in Holborn, it would be criminal to throw any damper on emigration.

An Impudent Absurdity.

London, Dec. 26.—(C. A. P.)—The Leader, commenting on Sir John Colomb's letter in The Times says it is impossible for anyone whose Imperialism is consistent with sanity even to profess to regard the Atlantic or Pacific as British possessions. The pretentious title of all-red route is, at best, an impudent absurdity.

D. J. Hamilton, a diver working on the G.T.R. bridge at West Fort William, was drowned by his diving suit bursting.

CANADIAN KIDNAPPED.

Charges Laid Against U. S. Officials at Winnipeg.

Winnipeg, Man., Dec. 24.—There was an information laid yesterday afternoon in the Attorney-General's Department against Geo. Foulke, an officer of the secret service department of kidnapping Isaac Casson and Albert Tolton, two citizens of Emerson. The alleged crime was committed on Dec. 3 at 9 p. m.

The two men were driving east along International avenue, Emerson, which is very close to the boundary line between the United States and Canada. Just across the railway track a stranger rushed out of the watch-house and seized their horse by the bridle. In reply to the stranger's question they told him their names. The stranger was Foulke, and he at once informed them that he was an officer of the secret service department at Washington and that he wanted them to get out of the rig and go with him across the line to Noyes.

Both refused to go, saying they were British subjects and refused to consider themselves under arrest. They wanted to drive their horse ahead, but Foulke threatened to shoot the animal if they did so. He then appointed Robert Rossal, signal man on the railway, special constable, and ordered him to assist in the arrest. In rather strong language Rossal refused on the ground that he was a British subject, and that the officer had no power on this side of the line. Foulke declared that he was on neutral ground, and a struggle occurred between the men, but neither of them could be induced to leave the rig.

The stranger then backed the horse and by a quick move secured the reins and whipping the horse a smart blow he had the rig across the international boundary in an instant. There the two men were placed under arrest and taken to Noyes station.

On arriving at the station Casson and Tolton were compelled to sign a paper in order to be released and allowed to return to Canada. The reason given for their arrest was that it was desired to implicate them with others in a charge of smuggling grain into the United States.

SHAH COMES TO TERMS.

Causes of Hostility Are However Deep-Rooted.

London, Dec. 24.—The latest official advices received at the Foreign Office from Teheran indicate that the Shah and the Persian Parliament have come to terms. On the other hand, a diplomat who has been intimately associated with affairs in Persia, and who recently returned from that country, said yesterday in an interview:—

"It would be too sanguine to hope for an immediate change in the situation, the causes for the hostility between the two parties being too deep-rooted. At the same time, we may expect, with the reorganization of the finances now being seriously undertaken under the advice of a competent French financier, that the Government will be in possession of the means necessary to secure the efficient operation of the civil and military forces."

Cheer Up, Wage Earners.

Chicago, Dec. 24.—"Now look here, the rich man is getting h—— these days. He's getting it coming and going. The poor man does not need to have any very keen jealousy of the rich man for this Christmas, at any rate," says Stuyvesant Fish.

"Yes, the so-called poor man is pretty well off, taking it altogether," he went on. "The wage-earner is getting good and steady pay, the commodities of life necessary to his existence are decreasing in price, and generally he should be pretty well satisfied with himself this Christmas.

"The amount of money some of the big fellows have lost might be called appalling—if one were easily appalled. They have been experiencing some nasty shrinkages of values in securities. This dwindling process has at least spared the wage-earner."

Italians Fight on Train.

Montreal, Dec. 24.—A party of Italians who got on the Brockville "Moccasin" train yesterday at The Cedars, for Montreal, had a lively trip. One man had a revolver, and all had knives. A row began on the train and two shots were fired, and knives flashed quite freely. The fight lasted till Montreal was reached. At St. Henri, however, the man with the gun jumped for it, and got away.

At Montreal police surrounded the car. One Italian was sent to the hospital, and on his complaint and that of the train hands three were placed under arrest.

Liquor Charges at Brampton.

Brampton, Dec. 24.—Two violations of the Liquor License Act were investigated here yesterday before Police Magistrate Crawford, when W. Hutchinson of Sandhill and Nathaniel Brown of Cheltenham were charged with selling liquor unlawfully. The cases lasted all day.

Hutchinson was found guilty and fined $50 and costs, while the charge against Brown was dismissed without costs. The information was laid by Provincial Inspector Ayerst. The evidence in the latter case was very contradictory.

"Little Pete" Confessed.

Wellsville, N. Y., Dec. 24.—"Little Pete," who shot and fatally wounded Excise Inspector Dardano of Albany and seriously wounded Inspector Matico, made a full confession to District Attorney Rice and Detective Neef of the excise department yesterday.

"I am glad I did it," said "Little Pete," whose real name is Guiseppi Sanduchi.

One Hundred Miners Escaped.

Pittsburg, Pa., Dec. 24.—It became known yesterday that about 100 men were in the Schoenberger Mine, near by Monongahalia Sunday, when fire broke out, and that all had narrow escapes from death.

Gained Both In Strength and Weight.

Another Case That Proves The Merit of

..FERROZONE..

"I was in poor health nearly last winter," writes Mrs. Cross, of Wakefield, Ont. "My appetite was variable. I was weak and unfit for work. I suffered a good deal from nervous prostration and palpitation of the heart. My digestion was generally out of order. By springtime I had lost flesh, color, and had a bad cough. The doctor didn't help me very much, so I decided to try Ferrozone. It did me ever so much good in one week. I gained strength, looked and felt a lot better. When I had used six boxes of Ferrozone I weighed myself and found a gain of fifteen pounds. Ferrozone rebuilt my constitution, and made me a new woman. I consider Ferrozone worth its weight in gold to every weak woman. It cures quickly and saves big doctors' bills. (MRS.) R. CROSS."

No tonic so certain, so helpful, so safe; try Ferrozone yourself, 50 cents per box at all dealers.

"What Christmas Means to Me"

Message Read From Mrs. Eddy in First Church of Christ Scientist

An interesting service was held at the First church of Christ Scientist last night. The regular form of service was dispensed with, and the time was well spent with singing and reading. The following was the order of service:—

Hymn—"Christ, My Refuge," sung by congregation.

Scripture Lesson—Matthew 2: 1-11 and correlative passages from Science and Health, with key to the Scriptures, by Mary B. G. Eddy.

Solo—"Blest Christmas Morn," by Miss Mabel Young.

Solo—"Feed My Sheep," by Mr. W. J. Todd.

Solo—"Joy to the World," by quartette of young ladies.

Solo—"The Birthday of a King," by Miss Grace Todd.

Closing Hymn—"Saw Ye My Saviour," by congregation.

During the service the following on "What Christmas Means to Me," was read from Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy, founder of Christian Science:—

To me Christmas involves an open secret—understood by few—or by none—and unutterable except in Christian Science. Christ was not born of the flesh. Christ is the Truth and Life born of God—born of Spirit and not of matter. Jesus, the Galilean prophet, was born of the Virgin Mary's spiritual thoughts of Life and its manifestation.

God creates man perfect and eternal in His own image. Hence man is the image, idea, or likeness of perfection—an ideal which cannot fall from its inherent unity with divine Love, from its spotless purity and original perfection.

Observed by material sense, Christmas commemorates the birth of a human, material, mortal babe—a babe born in a manger amidst the flocks and herds of a Jewish village.

This homely origin of the babe Jesus falls far short of my sense of the eternal Christ, Truth, never born and never dying. I celebrate Christmas with my soul, my spiritual sense, and so commemorate the entrance into human understanding of the Christ conceived of Spirit, of God and not of a woman—as the birth of Truth, the dawn of divine Love breaking upon the gloom of matter and evil with the glory of infinite being.

Human doctrines or hypotheses or vague human philosophy afford little divine effulgence, deific presence or power. Christmas to me is the reminder of God's great gift—His spiritual idea, man and the universe—a gift which so transcends mortal, material, sensual giving that the merriment, mad ambition, rivalry and ritual of our common Christmas seem a human mockery in mimicry of the real worship in commemoration of Christ's coming.

I love to observe Christmas in quietude, humility, benevolence, charity, letting good will toward man, eloquent silence, prayer and praise express my conception of Truth's appearing.

The splendor of this nativity of Christ reveals infinite meanings and gives manifold blessings. Material gifts and pastimes tend to obliterate the spiritual idea in consciousness, leaving one alone and without His glory.

BOY LOST IN THE SNOW

Started From Home to Find His Father in the Woods.

Two Little Sisters Went Part of the Way But Returned—Seventy Men Scour the Bush But Can Find No Trace—Little Levesque Child Now Given Up For Dead.

Quebec, Dec. 26.—News comes from St. Gabriel, County of Rimouski, of the disappearance of a six-year-old boy named Levesque. It appears that the little boy set out from his home with two of his little sisters to join their father, who was at work in a bush a considerable distance from the house.

The two girls, who were younger than the boy, became fatigued, however, and after vainly urging their brother to return home, parted from him and retraced their steps, reaching there safely. Since that time no trace or tidings has been found of the boy.

A general hunt for him was at once inaugurated, some 70 men of the place turning out, but, despite all their endeavors, the boy could not be found. The only thing discovered was the boy's pocket handkerchief, which was picked up in the bush.

The boy is supposed to have become buried in the snow or to have fallen into some crevice, and the parents have lost all hope of ever seeing him again.

SHOOTS GIRL AND SELF.

Love Tragedy Results From Mother's Refusal to Countenance Friendship.

Philadelphia, Dec. 26.—Leaving a letter that they had died for love, George A. Green, aged 35 years, early yesterday shot and probably fatally wounded Miss Edith Wonderly, aged 23 years, and then turned the revolver upon himself, inflicting probably fatal wounds.

Green is married, but is separated from his wife. In a letter which is addressed to the Philadelphia newspapers, Green attacks his wife, and, among other things, says:

"To-day I am going to kill myself and a true and loving friend, as my letter and hers will show.

"We died for love, which was denied from us by her dear mother.

"This is the only girl I ever loved. We have promised before God we could never live apart. This is our secret."

No letters were found in the clothing of the girl. The mother of Miss Wonderly had refused Green permission to visit her home, and the police believe that Green and the girl entered a pact to die together.

After shooting the girl twice, one bullet entering the mouth and the other taking effect in the cheek, Green walked some distance from her and shot himself in the head. No one witnessed the occurrence, but the shots attracted a policeman, who hurried the couple to a hospital. The police and physicians endeavored to secure a statement from the girl before she lapsed into unconsciousness, but she refused to talk.

The physicians say both are in a critical condition.

Deadly Christmas Box.

Erie, Pa., Dec. 26.—While distributing Christmas bundles in the South Erie sub-postoffice Tuesday night an employe became suspicious of a package, the end of which had broken open, and upon making an investigation the package was found to contain an infernal machine so constructed that the opening of the box would cause an explosion that would have undoubtedly killed all persons near it and set fire to everything in the vicinity.

The package was addressed to Archie Carr, 2,208 Cherry street, and had been mailed in this city. The box was turned over to Postmaster Sobel, who called in Chief of Police Wagner and Detective Pinney. The chief cut out the side of the box and exposed a bottle and contrivances so arranged that the opening of the lid would have pulled the cork and ignited several matches. The following inscription was on the side wrapper:

"You may perhaps find the cover will catch a little when you open the box, but pay no attention to it. Merry Christmas."

The bottle contained a high explosive.

Congress v. Conference.

London, Dec. 26.—(C. A. P.)—Sir Kinlock Cooke, in a letter to The Morning Post, says the object that the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada seem to have in view is to limit, if not stop altogether the flow of immigration from this country to Canada and thereby to nullify the resolution passed at the recent Imperial conference that it is desirable to encourage British emigrants to proceed to British colonies rather than to foreign countries.

$2,000,000 to Cambridge.

London, Dec. 26.—Trinity College, Cambridge, benefits to the extent of $2,000,000 by the death of Lady Pearce Tuesday.

Her husband, Sir William George Pearce, chairman of the Fairfield Shipbuilding & Engineering Co., died on Nov. 20 last. By his will his fortune was bequeathed to Trinity College on the death of Lady Pearce.

Huge Ruined Monastery.

Algiers, Dec. 26.—Albert Ballu, under whose supervision the historical researches at the ruined city of Timgad are being conducted, announces the discovery of a large monastery covering 11,000 square yards, surrounding a Christian basilica. The monastery encloses four chapels, a cloister with well-preserved cells, and a Christian burying-ground.

Dead Section Man Had $3,023.

Chicago, Dec. 26.—Killed with $3,023 sewed in the lining of his working coat. This was the fate of David Ehlert, 30 years old, who was employed as a section hand by the Chicago and Northwestern Railway.

An Explanation Made by Stevens Regarding Hartley

All the Facts Concerning the Latter's Great Walk and Expenses Connected There-with are Given--The Receipts From the Sale of Souveners.

Mr. George Stevens makes the following statement in connection with his transactions with Mr. David Hartley:

In connection with Hartley's trip from Peterborough to Toronto via Port Hope and Oshawa, the starting, I am informed, was by Mr. Munro, of the Munro House. He started a subscription with $5. This ran on until Saturday night, when it had grown to $10 and some cents. Now Hartley was all in. Had been to see me several times to get me to put him through. I might say here that Mr. George Cook was the man who informed Hartley that if he got me I would put him through. On Saturday I talked it over with Mr. J. Jayes, who was handling the matter. Mr. Munro and Mr. Jayes were going to send several with Hartley, but as there was no money, there was no one to go. I thought, as though it was going to fall through, and I told him I would put him through, and I did go into it on Monday. Mr. Jayes wanted to know how it could be done, and I offered to take my horse and rig. He then made a bargain with me for $15 to drive my horse and rig to Oshawa on Tuesday, leave on Wednesday morning for Toronto with another horse and back to Peterborough for $15 and expenses. I told Mr. Hartley that we would get through if I had to use the $15 (which I was to receive for my horse and rig for the three days and nights. On Monday I started at it, and had Mr. Hartley gather up the money. I told all concerned that he would go through, or be picked up on the road. When the money came in I went to Mr. Jayes and told him to give Mr. Hartley a couple of dollars to get some chickens to make broth with; Mr. Jayes informed me that he would not give Hartley any money until he saw him start and I could give him the money to feed him on chickens. Well, later in the day, Mr. Jayes gave Mr. Hartley $2 to buy a pair of shoes and a sweater, and Mr. Hartley bought some beef neck, and made a little broth. By night we had altogether collected $29, less the $2, which Hartley had spent. Mr. Jayes gave me $15 for expenses and he handed Mr. Hartley $5, thus leaving him $7 in stock. Mr. Hartley then ran round trying to get a certain man to rub him on the trip, but this man would not go, said he had not time and wanted a man hired in his place, and as I understood he also wanted $8 for his trip. He asked Mr. Hartley how much money he had, and he told him $27. This man would would not go. Mr. Hartley then went back, and reported to the Munro House. Another man was there, and wanted to go and rub Hartley but he thought he ought to be paid, and we had no money. I then told them that my son Charlie would go so as to get along as cheaply as possible. Charles was chosen, and if Mr. Hartley had fallen by the wayside there would have been no mile of humanity to walk through on coming home, and no band to play him into town. Also, the road would not have been full of good looking people to cheer him on for the last seven miles. We understood all this and were careful. Left Peterborough at 7.30 Tuesday morning, Charlie and myself; got to Port Hope at 11.15. We waited with our good friend, Louis Bennett, proprietor of the Queen's Hotel, until train time came. Mr. Hartley ate dinner and we left at two or a little later to see the road which we would have to travel on during the hours of the night. From Oshawa we went to Welcome, on to Newtonville, then Newcastle, then Bowmanville, and reached the starting point Oshawa a little after five o'clock. We drove directly to the Oshawa house, told them who we were, where from and the name we wished to reach and beat Jimmie Reynolds, which we would endeavor to perform in the morning. The Oshawa house filled up very fast after we arrived as everyone wanted to see the would-be champion. Supper was soon on and we had supper. I told Hartley that if he wanted a little walk to take it, then to give Hartley a bath and get to bed. He replied that it was early to go to bed and I told him that 26 hours was a long time to be on his feet, and for him to get all the rest he could to-night. He did just as he was told. He and Chas. went for a walk. They were back by 7.30 and Hartley drawn directly to his room. Five and six were the rooms which we occupied. He was stripped, bathed, rubbed down and put to bed by 8.30 o'clock. At 9 o'clock I wrote out a telegram for the Peterborough people, saying we had arrived, stating time and wound up by saying Hartley was now asleep. I went up to the head of the stairs to go to his room before I sent the message, to see if he was sleeping. I heard a noise in his room, rushed in and found Mr. Gray, brother of Harry Gray, and one of the people of the house who had shown Mr. Gray up. I put them right out. They said Hartley was sleeping when they entered, but they woke him, as Mr. Gray had not seen him for 30 years. I put Charlie on the watch at the head of the stairs and tore up the telegram for I told Mr. Gray that I would not sign my name to it and say that he was sleeping when he was not. He went to sleep in 30 minutes and Chas. went to bed. I turned in about 11.30 and both were happy. At 4 in the morning he halled, and I sprang out and told him the time and told him to lie still. We got right up and they say kicked up a lot of noise getting the bath and hot water ready. At 5 he was brought out, dipped and rubbed down, dressed and taken down stairs and while kept sitting was given his breakfast. The horses were ready at the door and we jumped in and went to the starting point where Mr. W. H. Stevens and others were. They said, "You are 3 minutes late" and I said, "Let him go," and we will fight the time out." They told him to go and he was off. I said "I'm on the 6 o'clock." They said I was four minutes late. Just then the bells of Oshawa rang and Stevenson turned to the other men and said "Stevens is right with Oshawa time." I said if I am slow so much the worse for my man. I followed on. Passed Mr. Hartley when there were 4 men on the road. Drove into Whitby, ahead 8 miles. He passed the telephone office in 37 minutes, 3 miles. Dunbarton, 3 miles more, in 36 minutes. Pickering to Whitby is said to be 6 miles. That took 1 hour and 14 minutes. 15 miles from King Edward hotel, Toronto, by 9.17, or 3 hours and 17 minutes, coming 18 miles. I told some people that we would be at the King Edward by 12.30, and they laughed at me. There was a Toronto man there. We went on and when by the Hunt Club grounds he caught up and I asked him if we would arrive on time. He said, "Yes," he had got converted. He believed we would do as we said. All his doubts were gone. He went along with us a piece, then drove on. At the city we arrived at the King Edward at 12.26 by my time and stopped until 1.20. Starting for home we arrived at Oshawa House at 9.07, that is 34 miles. Total miles covered 67. Left there at 10.07. He was bathed, rubbed down and fed in both these places. Arrived at Bowmanville 12.22, where the city seemed to be waiting. They met us 1 1-2 miles out, walked us into the city, and sent up some rousing cheers for Peterborough, whom they said would win sure. Some of the strong young men walked us out of the city a mile. Four came on to the next town, Newcastle, five miles, with us. There they left us to stagger on as best we could in dark and cold, but they sent up cheers for Peterborough to win. On to Newtonville, then into Welcome, where I left Charlie and Hartley, and went on to Port Hope, three miles. They came into Port Hope at six o'clock, left at 7, and were at head of Rice Lake at 9.57. Baillieboro 10.57, and on to Peterborough at 4.06. Mr. J. Jayes gave me my $15 for the trip. I wanted him to let me give him a statement, but he said if I took three men, a horse and rig and hired a horse in Oshawa, and drove it all on $15, he was satisfied. I told him that I was, and I thought the matter dropped, as I had done all I could. Now, Mr. D. Hartley never gave me one cent in his life. He gave Charles $1 for what he did for him on the Toronto trip. Now I do not wish to tire your readers with a lot. I just give you the statement below of the Toronto trip, and what I received from the pamphlets and what I spent and leave you to judge.

THOUSANDS OF WOMEN TORTURED

BY BLINDING HEADACHES.

Who Could Be Well, and Happy, and Free of Pain.

Headaches simply mean poisoned blood. The human body is constantly decaying and being renewed. Dead matter is absorbed by the blood, and should be taken from the blood by the kidneys, bowels and skin and passed out of the system. If one of these organs does not act properly, the blood becomes impure—if two fail, death is certain.

When there are constant headaches, it is always found that the bowels are irregular, the kidneys weak, or the skin sluggish, pale or sallow. The tissue waste is left in the blood—carried to the brain—and irritates the nerves. To treat headaches with cocaine, morphine, phenacitine and the host of "headache powders" is useless. They relieve for the moment, but they clog the system and do harm. They never reach the seat of the trouble, they cannot purify the blood.

"Fruit-a-tives" completely cure Headaches. They stimulate the liver and make the bowels move regularly. They regulate the kidneys. They induce healthy skin action. Thus, all the waste matter—body poisons—are taken out of the blood and there is nothing to cause headaches. "Fruit-a-tives" are the only remedy that really cure.

"Fruit-a-tives" are fresh fruit juices—in which the medicinal action is greatly increased by the special way in which they are combined. 50c a box; 6 for $2.50. At all druggists' or sent on receipt of price.

New Law Makes Christmas Giving More Difficult In England—Wine and Cigar Merchants Suffer Under "Prevention of Corruption" Act—Nearly a Million Persons Left London For Holiday.

London, Dec. 26.—A Christmas holiday lasting from Tuesday to Friday for everyone engaged in business and extending to the following Monday for many scores of thousands of workers has resulted in a record distribution of Londoners to all parts of the United Kingdom and left the streets of the city more deserted in appearance than ever on the average Sunday.

Nearly a million persons are computed to have taken trains at the various railway terminals in the city during the past 66 hours, bound to the provinces and elsewhere, on visits to relatives and friends. The weather Tuesday was so foggy and resulted in so many minor mishaps to traffic at sea and on land that there was apprehension that it might continue.

Yesterday morning, however, dawned bright, with a bracing atmosphere, thereby contributing toward the Christmas cheer. King Edward and the Queen, with the Prince and Princess of Wales and their children, are as usual spending the Christmas holiday as Sandringham Palace in Norfolk.

All the tenants at Sandringham have been remembered with presents of all kinds, including huge joints of beef, tons of coal and supplies of groceries. The old women of the estate were personally cared for by Queen Alexandra, who herself visited and distributed shawls and warm clothing to them.

The rumors of shortness of money are belied by the reports that there has been a brisk Christmas trade, the only complaints coming from wine and cigar merchants and dealers in turkeys who has been hit by the new "Prevention of Corruption" Act, which forbids gifts of any kind from an agent without the consent of the principal, with the object of influencing the same to do business with the giver.

Many large firms of economical mind, as well as private individuals, whose gifts are beyond suspicion of bribery, have taken advantage of the act to get rid of irksome annual taxation, on the plea that such presents possibly would subject them to penalties provided by the new law.

Blinded by Putty and Pin.

South Norwalk, Conn., Dec. 26.—A pellet of putty with a pin through it was blown into the eye of little Hanford Foote, two years ago by Harry Bradbury, a playmate. The lad pulled the pin from the centre of his eye and as the wound healed up but with little inconvenience, nothing more was thought of it.

This week, Mr. and Mrs. George F. Foote, the parents, discovered that the boy was totally blind in the eye the pin had entered. He was immediately taken to New York and placed in the hands of an eminent eye specialist that the sight of the other eye may be saved.

Fun to Kill a Family.

Oshkosh, Wis., Dec. 26.—Milton B. Owen, 19, is under arrest charged with attempting to kill the entire family of his employer, Richard Owens of Algoma, by putting poison in the teapot Sunday night. He said he thought it would be fun to kill the family.

Owen is insane. The poison he used was some liniment which Mrs. Owens had been using. The peculiar odor betrayed its presence, and when Owen was questioned he confessed.

A Clean Port.

St. Thomas, D. W. I., Dec. 26.—The health authorities at Bridgetown Barbadoes, where a number of deaths from yellow fever occurred in November, have resumed the issuance of clean bills of health to vessels departing from that port.

The two courts of Canadian Foresters in Chatham have amalgamated.

GIVES THE "ALL-RED" A RAP.

Sir John Colomb Declares the Scheme Is Mischievous.

London, Dec. 26.—Sir John Colomb in a lengthy letter to The Times on the All-Red route says the origin of the phase "all-red route" is simple, for on all British school maps British land is colored red, so that particular color has become the popular symbol of exclusive British ownership and absolute British control. In this particular case Sir John Colomb submits it is mischievous because a deliberate misnomer.

He urges that the colonies share in the responsibility and the cost of the maintenance of the navy and as long as they do not, the Mother Country should not listen to the colonies' appeals for "money to multiply their sea routes to facilitate operations of their commerce."

Another Knock For All-Red.

London, Dec. 26.—(C. A. P.)—A correspondent, writing to The Times, says: The "all-red" scheme is an attempt to divert Canadian traffic from its natural channel. It would involve enormous expenditures by the Governments concerned, as huge subsidies would be required to give the proposed service any chance of success in so far as the attempt succeeded it would injure the existing companies, which have invested large amounts of capital in their business, and even if completely successful, such diversion of traffic from the St. Lawrence to another route would confer no advantages on the people either of Canada or Great Britain, in compensation for the great expense involved and the injury to established lines.

As to the suggested west of Ireland port Blacksod Bay, it would be impossible as a terminus, for the simple reason that steamers could not get coal or stores without enormous difficulties, not to mention its want of facilities for overhauling of machinery.

Peterborough Strathconas Had Best Practice of Season

Large Number of Players do Great Work on Splendid Sheet of Ice—Team Getting Into Superb Condition—First Scheduled Game in Port Hope on New Year's Day.

On a splendid sheet of ice which was a decided credit to [illegible] Jack Thirdbeck, considering the mildness of the weather, the Peterborough Strathconas had the best workout of this season yesterday morning. The players are fast getting into shape and displayed remarkably good form at yesterday's practice. Those who turned out yesterday were Darocher, Wilson, McFadden, "Bill" Meagher, Dobson, Dusty, Rose, Weatherstone, Long, Hillier, McMillan, Hall, Gilman, Shaw and others. The workout lasted for an hour and a half and was witnessed by a large number of interested spectators. Rose, Dusty, Dobson and Weatherstone formed one forward line and worked well together. Meagher made his first appearance this season and showed up well. Parnell made a fine impression with the fans by his clear cut work at cover. McFadden, Doucher and Wilson did great work in goal and the management will have a difficult task in picking a net man for the team.

FIRST GAME ON NEW YEARS.

There will be only two more practices before the first game of the season, which takes place in Port Hope on January 1st. Every player is requested to be on hand for the practices which will be held on Friday and Monday. The Lake Ontario septette will put up a big fight to win on their own ice and it is necessary that the locals be in the gilt edged trim for contest.

Mr. A. Dowling of Brantford who is at present in the city, will turn out for Friday's practice.

Unique Entertainment Held At Salvation Army Baracks

The Ship "Good Will" Arrived Last Night With Santa Claus and a Big Cargo of Choice Things Aboard—How the Goods Were Unloaded.

The trim ship, "Goodwill," flying the colors of the Salvation Army, and with Captain Albert Blake at the helm, arrived safely at her moorings at the Salvation Army barracks last night, and was welcomed by a large crowd, who watched with interest the discharging of her big cargo. The "Goodwill" brought a distinguished visitor, no other than Santa Claus, who appeared to stand the hardships of the weather exceedingly well, and who was given a hearty welcome to Peterborough with which he appeared to be quite pleased.

The local Salvation Army corps decided to make an innovation in the manner of distributing presents to the children, and the plan carried out last night was a complete success in every way. The ship, which was designed and built by Mr. Albert Blake, who has been a sailor for over a score of years, was a complete model of a full rigged, perfectly working sailing craft, which presented a very handsome appearance when flying the national flags and the yellow, red and blue colors of the Salvation Army. When the curtains were drawn back, the "Goodwill" was revealed in all her glory, while a cleverly designed light house showed her the way into safe anchorage. Mr. Blake, in nautical rig, made a good captain, and the crew was composed of five girls, dressed as sailors. They were Miss Naish, the Misses Whippen, Miss Ethel Card and Miss Carter. Santa Claus, in the person of Mr. F. Gray, was introduced by Captain Blake, and the first presentation was made to Sergt. Major R. C. Braund, one of the most popular officers of the corps, who was presented with a handsome travelling case, while an address was read by Staff Captain Goodwin. Then followed presentations to the children.

PROGRAMME

Prior to the arrival of the ship, a splendid programme was rendered as follows;

Opening Song from War Cry—Staff-Capt. Goodwin.

Prayer—Ensign Webber.

Introduction of Chairman—Staff-Capt. Goodwin.

Song by school, "Welcome Christmas"

Recitation, "The Greater"—Victor Boorman.

Solo, "Robin Red Breast"—Willie Leighman.

Dialogue—"Six Old Maids" Six little girls.

Recitation—"The Goblins 'ill Get Ye"—Chrissie Montgomery.

Piano Duet—Miss Braund and Master Braund.

Vocal Duet—"Snow Flakes"—Dolly Gray and Elsie Northcote.

Dialogue—"The Tramp" — Misses Nash and Wiffin.

Drill—"Star Drill"—Six Girls.

Dialogue—"Two and Two are Four" Caroline and May Lang.

Drill—"Dumb Bells"—Six Girls.

Instrumental Duet—Brass — Masters Boorman and Richardson.

Recitation—My Curls" — Laura Hedge.

Great amusement was caused during the evening by the reading of a wireless telegram from Capt. Blake to the effect that the "Goodwill" had arrived safely at the lift lock, with captain, crew and passengers in good health.

The hall was adorned for the occasion with evergreens, Christmas trees and many colored flags. This work was done by the Peterborough Decorating Company, to whom the corps is very grateful for their kindness.

The affair was most successful, and the cruise of the gift-laden ship "Goodwill" and her genial captain and generous passengers will long be remembered by the large crowd in attendance.

Holiday Traffic Was Very Heavy

All the Trains Were Crowded—Were Not Very Late

The holiday traffic was on the whole satisfactory, and all the trains on Christmas day and on the day preceding were crowded.

True, the trains were late, but everything considered, the G.T.R. and C.P.R. handled the immense passenger business in admirable style. Delays could not be avoided, and the travellers did not complain. Fully as many people left the city to spend the holiday at outside points, as those who came to Peterborough to pass a few pleasant hours at home.

Mr. Wm. McIlroy, C.P.R. ticket agent stated to-day; "Yes I think the number travelling was fully equal to last year—in fact I believe our returns will be a little ahead. We are well satisfied."

Mr. W. Bunton, G.T.R. ticket agent, remarked: "Locally the traffic was fully as large as last year. There have, however, not been as many people come home from the west and from across the border to spend Christmas as last year. This is of course, due to the money stringency across the line and in the west, but no effects of it were noticed so far as the local end was concerned.

Lively Debate of Library Society

Held in the Havelock Town Hall—Some Excellent Addresses

Special to The Review.

Havelock, Dec. 24.—The Literary and Debating Society of Havelock gave a grand treat to the citizens in the town hall last Friday night, Dec. 20th. The important feature of the evening was a debate among the High School pupils, "Resolved that that the Resources of Canada are Greater than Those of the United States," was the line of contention. During the evening assistance was given by the pupils of the Public school and songs, choruses and recitations added to the enjoyment of the evening, and as a grand finale, several members of the School Board gave addresses, ex-Reeve S. S. Joyce being the chief speaker. Messrs. James Black and Herrington also gave short addresses.

The president, Master Harold Patterson, made a lively chairman. Principal P. Barnes can be proud of his pupils. Jas. Knox, Ray Williams and A. Armstrong argued the negative side of the debate, while Russell Joyce, Harold Patterson, and Clarence Holdcroft supported the affirmative, and, indeed, the lads of some fifteen years of age, excelled themselves as orators and essayists, and showed that the rising generation of Havelock is a credit to the province. It speaks well for the future of politics in East Peterborough, when the boys of Havelock will be old enough to take a hand in the ruling of the land. The speakers for Canada were well fortified with figures and general information, and surprised the audience with the abundance of the Dominion's resources in grain, minerals, water power, railways and finance, while those for the United States, (the negative) not being so well equipped with details, yet by their native wit and general argument helped much to undo the points for the affirmative. The judges of the debate were Rev. H. Caplan, Mr. T. Pace and Mr. J. A. Culverwell, of Port Hope, who, after consultations, gave judgment for the affirmative, adding a rider that that the palm for the native wit and argumentative combativeness be given those for the negative.

The decision was communicated by Rev. H. Caplan in a forceful and pleasing address.

Stole a Team From Yard of Munro House

Horses Were Afterwards Found in an Otonabee Field

Mr. H. T. Adamson called at the police station on Tuesday night and complained that some one had taken his team of horses and sleigh out of the Munro House yard. He didn't know whether they had been taken by mistake or stolen. The police were given a description, and through enquiry found that they had been stolen. Several hours after the animals were found tied to a fence in a field in Otonabee. The name of the man who drove them away is not known, but if he is found he will be punished severely.

RUNNING

COLEY WON.

Hamilton, Dec. 25. — Two representatives of the I.C.A.C., Toronto, started in the annual Christmas Day ten-mile road race to-day, and both finished inside of the money. Tom Coley winning the race, and Hilton Green, the Indian, getting third place. Sandwiched in between them in second position, was Thos. Ellis, a local Y.M.C.A. boy, who ran a particularly good race, considering that excepting for the last couple of miles of the race he was unattended, and that he has had very little experience at road racing.

To a Higher Table.

John Barrett, chief of the bureau of American republics, after various other experiments in diplomacy, came to Washington from Oregon during President Cleveland's second term to get anything he could. He brought a bunch of Oregon boomers with him, and for a time they stayed at the best hotels. The job was slow in coming, and they went from cheaper place to cheaper place, like Mark Twain's office seeker, until they were forced to eat at one of the lunch places on Pennsylvania avenue. One night while they were at dinner word came that President Cleveland had decided to appoint Barrett minister to Siam. Barrett rose from the table and put on his coat.

"Hold on, John!" cried one of his companions in misfortune. "Where are you going? Aren't you going to finish your dinner?"

"Gentlemen," said Barrett as he stalked out, "this is no place for the minister to Siam to dine."—Saturday Evening Post.

Not Certain About That.

Mrs. Verdigris was enumerating her various ailments. "I haven't kept track of all of 'em," she said, "but one of the first things I had was the lumbago in the small of my back. Then I had the influenzy awful bad. The next thing was the rheumatis. Since then I've had neuralgy, nervous headache, sore throat, indigestion, a breaking out on my skin and ever so many other pesky little troubles that I can't remember."

"It would be an interesting list," said her sympathizing neighbor. "Why didn't you take an inventory?"

"I'm not certain but what I did," answered Mrs. Verdigris. "I took ever so many things. I'll try it if you think it'd help me, but unless it's very mild I just know it won't stay on my stummick."—Youth's Companion.

Made a Record.

"Yo' said in yo' sermon, Brother Dickey, dat Jonah wuz eat up by de whale?"

"I sho' did."

"Well, den, how comes he live ter tell it?"

That seemed to stagger the old man, but he gathered himself together and replied:

"Dat's easy. You see, Jonah wuz de fust fisherman, an' he had ter make a record!"—Atlanta Constitution.

General Robert E. Lee was indeed fully Washington's equal as a hero and a gentleman and much his superior as a soldier. Splendid Concert in Stewart's Hall

Enjoyable Entertainment Under Auspices of the Union Choir

A most successful and enjoyable entertainment was held in Stewart's Hall, Otonabee, on Thursday evening. It was under the auspices of the union choir, and a fine programme was presented. Mr. Stewart, son of Mr. Alex. Stewart, occupied the chair in an able manner. The choir furnished several excellent selections and was warmly applauded. Miss Luella Deyell gave a number of readings in admirable form and was given a cordial reception.

Bright addresses were delivered by Rev. Mr. Mackenzie of Centreville, and Rev. C. H. Coon of Mark street church, Peterborough.

During the evening bags of candies were passed around.

The concert was splendidly managed and reflected great credit on the choir.

Fort William Y.M.C.A. Opened

Mr. Williamson Meeting With Success in His Work

The Fort William Times-Journal of December 17 contains a report of the opening of the new Y.M.C.A. rooms in that city. Mr. George H. Williamson, formerly of the Peterborough Y.M.C.A., is secretary of the Association in Fort William.

The Times-Journal says: The Y. M. C. A. rooms in the old Baptist church were formally thrown open to the public last night, and the number of visitors who attended the opening must have been very gratifying to the men who have the work in hand.

The wives of the directors were all on hand and assisted in the receiving, besides providing a very dainty lunch.

The building is certainly laid off to very great advantage, on the ground floor is the gymnasium, club room, and shower bath, and on the second floor is the social and the reading room. The secretary's office is in the old tower.

The reading room contains all the latest papers and periodicals and the social room is fitted up in a manner that should prove attractive to all young men in the city.

The gymnasium, while not as large as it might be, is well equipped and the classes should be all well attended.

Mr. Williamson, the secretary, had many applications last night for membership, and by the end of the week he expects to have a fine list of members.

More Details About the Brampton Murder Affair

Shot Down by Hired Man on Christmas Night.

James Curry of Burnhamthorpe the Victim — Killed While Going to Assistance of His Son—Slayer Had Threatened Him With Gun—Assassin Was Overpowered—Was English Immigrant.

Brampton, Dec. 27.—John Terrace, an English immigrant of 25 years, is in Brampton jail charged with one of the blackest murders in the annals of Peel County. His victim was William Curry, one of the most esteemed farmers of Toronto Township, while a son, County Councillor James Curry escaped death only after a desperate fight for his life.

A special despatch gives the following details of the murder:

Toronto Township, in which so many tragic deaths have taken place in the past few years, was the scene on Christmas day of a brutal and apparently premeditated murder. The victim was William Curry, an old and very well-known farmer living at lot 2 in the 6th concession. The murderer is John Terrace, a young Englishman of about 25 years of age, who was employed as a farm hand with Mr. Curry's son, James Curry.

The facts, so far as can be ascertained, are as follows: Mr. Curry and his son had been spending Christmas day with Mrs. Black, a daughter, who lived near by. They came home in the evening, and after doing the work at the barn sat about the table for a time reading. The old gentleman had gone to bed.

Terrace said to a boy, who was also employed on the farm, "We had better go to bed."

Instead of doing so, however, he secured a double-barrelled shotgun and turning to Mr. James Curry said to him, "You had the laugh on me yesterday, but I have it on you now."

It appears the day before a Brampton pump man had been doing some work on the farm and there was a general laugh about the awkwardness of the Englishman.

Curry said to him; "Your fooling me," to which Terrace replied "No, I'm going to shoot you."

Curry replied, "The gun is not loaded."

"Oh yes it is," answered Terrace, "I loaded it this afternoon."

Hearing the conversation Mr. Curry, Sr., who was in the adjoining room, came out to the door and enquired what was the matter.

Terrace said to him: "You take another step and I'll shoot you." Almost immediately he discharged one barrel, the shot entering the old gentleman's left breast above the heart. He staggered back and was able to get into bed.

James Curry at once seized Terrace, and in the scuffle the lamp was knocked from the table and went out. The gun was discharged a second time without effect. Terrace then took from his pocket a heavy iron crank belonging to a self-feeding stove and with this he struck James Curry on the head. Finally, however, he was overpowered, Curry securing the iron with which he struck the murderer a blow on the head, rendering him unconscious. Meanwhile the boy had gone for assistance.

Although in an apparently dying condition Terrace was securely tied and attention given to the wounded man. Dr. Aikens was soon in attendance, but the wound was of a character to make assistance impossible. After four hours suffering, death relieved his agony.

County Crown Attorney McFadden and County Constable George Broddy have arrived and taken charge of the case. At 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon the prisoner was brought to Brampton jail, where he is still in a semi-unconscious state, but will no doubt recover in a day or two. He is a young man between 25 and 30 years of age, about five feet eleven inches tall, and weighs about 175 pounds. He had only been in the employ of Mr. Curry for three weeks, being engaged in Toronto for one month only. He is an Englishman and came to Canada recently from Newcastle.

Coroner Heggie viewed the remains and arranged for an inquest to be held at Elmbank on Monday next.

Mr. Curry was 80 years of age, and was a well-known and highly respected farmer, and lived for many years in Brampton. He had been living with his son and daughter for the past three years. The funeral will take place on Saturday afternoon.

Among the articles found in Terrace's effects is a photo of himself, a woman and child. Presumably, therefore, he leaves a wife and child in England.

It will come out in the evidence that Terrace secured cartridges from James Curry's room, and that the day before the murder he had been out shooting. A neighbor named McKay heard the gun discharged that afternoon. Two cartridges which fit the gun were found on the prisoner's person.

The prisoner has told a somewhat remarkable story, which has little value, however, owing to his condition as a result of the blow from the iron crank.

Presentation to Police Chief.

Cobalt, Dec. 27.—A deputation of 25 leading citizens waited on Chief of Police George Caldbick at his home Christmas night and presented him with a silver service in recognition of his efforts to preserve the moral welfare of Cobalt. His assistants, McKay and Woods, received carving sets.

Nosse Returns to Japan.

Ottawa, Dec. 27.—Mr. Tatsugoro Nosse, the Japanese consul-general, who has held that post in Ottawa for the past six years, left Ottawa last night to return to Japan on six months' leave of absence. The impression prevails that his return is permanent.

Jumps In Front of Train.

New York, Dec. 27.—Ernest G. Stedman, vice-president and a director of the J. C. Lyons Building & Operating Co., against which a petition in bankruptcy was filed last Friday, committed suicide yesterday by jumping in front of a subway train at the Fourteenth street station.

The fatality occurred during the rush hours, precipitating a panic among the hundreds of waiting passengers. Women became hysterical and it was with difficulty that the crowd was controlled by the subway police.

Killed In Strike Riots.

Valparaiso, Dec. 27.—According to a statement issued officially the recent encounters at Iquique between nitrate strikers and the police resulted in the killing of 210 men and the wounding of about 50. During one of the engagements, the troops fired particularly at the leaders of the strikers, but their aim was poor and the men were not hurt. The president and the vice-president of the local strike organizations, who are Spanish anarchists, have disappeared.

'Frisco Block Burned.

San Francisco, Calif., Dec. 27.—Fire destroyed nearly the entire block bounded by Mission, Jessie, First and Second streets, early yesterday morning. Most of the buildings destroyed were only temporary affairs, so that the loss was principally in stocks.

The Revere Rubber Co., Mafum & Otter, Eccles, Smith Co., and Justian Caire & Co. are the chief sufferers.

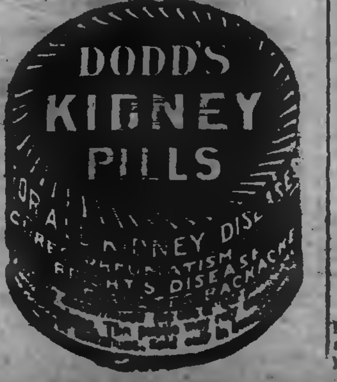
Killed by Mistake.

San Jose, Cal., Dec. 27.—Bertram Somers early yesterday shot and killed his 5-year-old boy, having mistaken him for a burglar. The child, it is believed, was walking in his sleep.

Death of a Millionaire.

Pittsburg, Pa., Dec. 27.—Leopold Vilsack, 68 years old, millionaire banker, brewer and property owner of this city, died of heart failure at his home yesterday.

Milk bottles or tumblers which have contained milk should always be rinsed in cold water before they are washed.



SCENE IN CATHEDRAL.

English Reformer Denounces Celebration of Christmas From Pulpit.

New York, Dec. 26.—A cable to The American from Manchester, England, says:

A great sensation was caused in Manchester Cathedral yesterday morning by the action of Stewart Gray, the famous advocate and land law reformer, who until recently was superintendent of the Manchester Poor Farm Colony. He entered the pulpit of the cathedral and protested against the birth of the Saviour being celebrated when there were so many poor and starvnig people in England whom society could not help.

"It is blasphemy!" Mr. Gray shouted, "and in the name of God I protest."

Mr. Gray's unexpected address against the prevailing social conditions, made to the fashionable and wealthy Manchester congregation, created a great stir. The service was stopped, ushers seized Gray in the pulpit, forcibly removed him and ejected him from the cathedral.

While the newspapers give columns to describing how lovely everything is throughout England, this occurrence sheds a bright sidelight upon the real conditions of the great cities in England, where the poverty of the people was never so great.

HIT HAND WITH HAMMER.

Blood Poisoning Set In and Death Followed.

Kingston, Dec. 27.—A very peculiar case which has just ended fatally was that of John O'Brien, a farmer of Wolfe Island, whose death occurred from the direct result of blood poisoning.

About nine days ago Mr. O'Brien, while working with a hammer, struck the back of his hand with considerable force. At the time the bruise occurred the skin was not broken, but was very painful. The next day it was apparently better.

During the week following Mr. O'Brien felt poorly when a consultation was called, but too late to save his life. Slowly the bruised part had become poisoned and it was all through his system before medical aid was summoned.

Mrs. Orford, an immigrant of several months standing here, took 12 capsuls of morphine yesterday in an effort to end her life. Medical aid was summoned quickly, and she may recover. She was deserted some time ago by her husband and five children, and was keeping house for a man on Victoria street.

Fighter's Namesake Murdered at Binghampton, N. Y.

Binghampton, N. Y., Dec. 27.—John L. Sullivan, a switchman employed on the Erie at Susquehanna, Penn., was murdered at noon yesterday by an unknown strike-breaker. Sullivan was shot in the ear. The ball passed completely through the skull and the injured man lived less than an hour. The man who did the shooting escaped.

Sunfield Awaits Execution.

Hamilton, Dec. 27.—The execution of Jake Sunfield will take place about 8 o'clock this morning. Hangman Radcliffe arrived yesterday afternoon and will officiate. Dean Mahony has been spending several hours each day with the condemned man, who seems to be losing his nerve. Mrs. Radzyk, the wife of the murdered man, when told that Sunfield would hang, said: "My heart is broken." Sheriff Middleton is too ill to be present, and his deputy, Major Zealand, will take his place.

Passing Confederate Bill.

Quebec, Dec. 27.—Detective Tom Walsh effected the arrest of three Swedes, who gave their names as Mat Hill, Hack Kullis and Ed. Hill, on the charge of passing confederate $10 bills.

The men were taken in charge in a house on St. Cecile street, which they had entered on Saturday night, and in payment for refreshments one of the trio tendered what was purported to be a $10 bill, but turned out to be confederate currency.

Raised Tug Escort.

Port Dalhousie, Dec. 27.—The wreckers were at work yesterday at the sunken tug Escort, and at 9 p.m. returned, having raised the tug and towed her about a quarter of a mile closer to port. They had to leave her on account of the heavy sea that was beginning to roll.

They will return again the next favorable day, and will probably land her in the harbor the next trip.

Budding Revolution Nipped.

Washington, Dec. 27.—A cablegram received at the State Department yesterday from its representative in Quito, the Ecuadorian capital, is to the effect that an attempt at revolution there was quelled by the arrest of General Toral, formerly Ecuadorian minister to Great Britain, and twenty of his adherents, who were charged with attempting to overthrow the Government.

HOLIDAY TRAGEDIES

Christmas Festivities Marred by Many Crimes in Tennessee.

Policeman Shoots Drunken Man—Fatal Duel With Pistols Between Brothers-in-Law — Man Calls His Wife Out of Church to Murder Her —Jealousy Was the Cause—Several Other Shooting Affrays.

Knoxville, Tenn., Dec. 27.—Christmas week in the eastern section of Tennessee has been an unusually bloody one. Tragedies reported thus far are:

At Newport, Tenn., Robert Knowles, a special policeman, tried to arrest William Allan for drunkenness. Knowles shot Allen through the body. Allen lived two hours.

Near Del Rio, Tenn., Ike Murray and Norton, brothers-in-law, shot each other to death, using pistols and shotguns. Norton, it is said, while drunk, went to Murray's house and created a disturbance.

Near Strahl, Tenn., Alexander Wright, who had returned from Missouri to visit his wife, who has been living with her parents near that place, called her from church and emptied his pistol in her body. She cannot live. Jealousy was the cause. Wright is still at large.

At Isabella, Polk County, John Hall, it is charged, shot and killed his brother-in-law, William Crowder. A woman is mixed up in the case.

Luther Wallace, aged 20, shot and killed Lee Eldridge a prominent man at Holstone Valley, using a shotgun. Wallace had broken into the post-office at Harris, Tenn., yesterday morning. A warrant was placed in the hands of Deputy Sheriff White, who deputized Eldridge to assist in making the arrest. Wallace surprised the two men, and after killing Eldridge, made his escape.

RENT WAR IN NEW YORK.

Socialist Party Lead Revolt Against High Rates In Gotham.

New York, Dec. 27.—As the result of a movement which has been under way for more than a month, thirty thousand families on the lower east side will refuse to-day to pay rent, and if their demands for a reduction are not met, wholesale evictions will follow. The Socialist party, with headquarters in the eighth, fourth and second assembly districts, is directing the revolt against the landlords, claiming the present industrial conditions do not warrant the same rentals that tenants were able to pay a year ago. Four hundred women, organized by Miss Pauline Newmann, have made a house-to-house canvass to obtain written pledges that a reduction of from 20 to 30 per cent. in rent would be demanded, and if this was refused, that no rent would be paid.

Sold Fraudulent Shares.

Denver, Col., Dec. 27.—Promoters, mining engineers and other persons convicted of using the mails with intent to defraud in connection with the sale of stock in the Lost Spanish Bullion Mines Co. were sentenced yesterday in the U. S. District Court here as follows:

George S. Dubers, Lee Dubers and C. L. Blackwell, 30 days in jail and $1,000 fine each; William H. Wilson, W. B. Cameron, A. E. Keabler and Arthur Lawrence, 15 days' imprisonment and $500 fine each; Arthur Levan and E. W. Sebben, $100 fine and costs amounting to $300; R. C. Hunt and Danton Pinkus, $50 fine and $150 costs.

"Father John" Very Ill.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 27.—Father John of Cronstadt is seriously ill with the recurrance of an old malady in an aggravated form. He is unable to eat and, on account of his great age and debility, his recovery is problematical.

He has thousands of followers in St. Petersburg and the provinces, but the sect of late years has attained an unenviable notoriety owing to the charges of immorality and drunkenness brought against the chief satellites, who exploited Father John's reputation for sanctity to great financial advantage.

Mine Fire Extinguished.

Pittsburg, Pa., Dec. 27.—The fire in the Schoenberger coal mine at Baird's Station, near here, which suddenly broke out last Sunday, endangering the lives of one hundred miners, was extinguished yesterday. VICTIM OF TETANUS.

Chicago Scientist Stricken Pleads That He Be Slain.

Chicago, Dec. 27.—Dr. Joseph Peasden, a scientist occupying one of the foremost positions with a large packing firm, Wednesday night indicated by signs to physicians at his side in the Chicago Baptist Hospital, that he realized that the attack of lockjaw from which he is suffering would prove fatal, and urged them to end his life with a drug. He is probably more skilled in the effects of the disease which had seized him than any other man in the county. He had fallen down a short flight of stairs and struck his nose on a board. The hurt caused an abrasion of the skin, and the germs of tetanus infected it.

Her Champion.

[Original.]

Miss Wedgewood, an American girl traveling abroad, found it necessary to journey from London to Paris attended only by her maid. On reaching Calais she was ushered into a compartment already occupied by two Englishmen who, from the dress and the airs they put on, might be London swells. Before the train started a third man entered, took a seat at the farther end of the compartment from Miss Wedgewood, opposite the swells, and, taking periodicals and newspapers from his pocket, began to read. He did not even glance at Miss Wedgewood, who appreciated his not doing so inasmuch as the swells stared at her continually. No sooner had the train started than they began to discuss her in indifferent Spanish. Miss Wedgewood spoke French, German, Spanish and Italian. This is what they said, translated into London English:

"She's vewy pwetty," said one.

"H'm—awdinawy—she's Amewican. I saw 'Cleveland' on her twunk. That's somewhere in Amewica, I believe. They haven't the generations of refinement over there to make beauty."

"Look at the way she does her hair."

"And the hat. It's last season's make. I fawncy she's rich, but new to fashion."

Miss Wedgewood noted a lowering on the brow of the gentleman sitting opposite her critics, indicating that he not only understood Spanish, but that their criticisms annoyed him. He held a newspaper before him so that the men opposite could not see his face, though it was visible to Miss Wedgewood, occupying a different position. He glanced aside as though desiring to satisfy himself of the justice of their strictures, but Miss Wedgewood, fortunately, she considered it, was at the time just turning her eyes from his side of the coach to her own, assuming an imperturbable countenance, apparently unconscious of what was going on.

Suddenly the gentleman who was reading lowered his paper and addressed the critics in Spanish.

"Gentlemen, I am surprised that Englishmen, whom I judge by appearances to belong to the upper classes, should criticise a lady."

One of the men addressed apologized, stating that they had supposed no one in the compartment understood them. The other seemed inclined to resent the stranger's interference.

"I wish you to understand, sir," he said, "that a bit of private conversation between two gentlemen is not a matter for remark by a third person. You are very impudent to object, I would have you know, sir."

"Very well, sir," said the other, "proceed to make a cad of yourself, only don't go so far as to force me to take the lady under my protection." And he resumed his reading.

The man who had last spoken resumed his remarks about Miss Wedgewood, making them far broader and bolder than before. Miss Wedgewood's champion again laid down his paper and said:

"The presence of the lady renders an insult impracticable. Will you kindly consider yourself insulted." And, first glancing at Miss Wedgewood to see that she was not observant, he tossed his glove at the man; then, drawing a card from his pocket, handed it to him. Before looking at it the man handed him one of his own cards.

"Count Lichtenstein!" exclaimed the Englishman.

"And you, I perceive, are Lord Batterton. I will be ready to receive any friend your lordship may send at the Grand hotel within two hours after our arrival in Paris."

"I know you by reputation—the reputation you made at your university with the small sword—but as the challenged party I prefer pistols. I will teach you Germans, whose counts are as plentiful as tram drivers in London, that you can't have your own way with a British nobleman."

"Any weapon you prefer, Lord Batterton." And the count resumed his reading as though nothing of consequence had happened. Batterton instructed his companion, Mr. Oldershaw, to act for him, and the count agreed to a meeting at a spot near Versailles at 6 o'clock on the morning after their arrival in Paris. Oldershaw was to visit the count's friend, Edward Wedgewood, an American, and with him arrange the minor details.

The most astonishing part of this singular affair, every word of which Miss Wedgewood understood, was that her defender's second was to be her own brother. When the preliminaries were all settled she turned to the parties in question.

"Gentlemen," she said in excellent Spanish, "there is no occasion for this quarrel. If I needed to be championed, my brother, Mr. Wedgewood, would be the person to see me righted. Count Lichtenstein, now I think of it, I have heard my brother speak of you as a fellow student at Gottingen and of your exploits in fencing and marksmanship. I cannot permit you to shoot at any one on my account. Gentlemen, please consider this affair settled on pain of being called to account by the Parisian authorities."

If a bomb had exploded in the carriage it could not have produced more surprise and consternation than this little speech. One of the Englishmen, abashed, leaned back in his corner. The other looked very red, withdrew his glass from before his eye, wiped it and took up a novel lying beside him. Count Lichtenstein took a seat beside his friend's sister, and they conversed gayly, ignoring the others till they reached the capital, when the two parties separated.

THE MINE PACK BURRO.

Information Gleaned by the Newcomer In Camp.

He was a newcomer in the mining camp, and as everything he saw appeared novel and interesting he kept up a rapid fire of questions that seemed mighty foolish to the boys.

The placid little pack burros, mostly ears and voice, pleased him immensely, and he supposed they were kept as pets or else as camp scavengers to nibble the labels from old cans and eat stray newspapers. He came across one packing a wheelbarrow secured on its back with wheel and handles in the air.

"My good man," he asked the owner, "can you tell me why the little donkey is tied to the wheelbarrow in that odd fashion?"

"I shore can, stranger," replied that accommodating individual. "This here jassax has been acquired by old Walapai Huggins for a house pet at the Bully Boy mine, an', bein' as the anaimule is too delicat' to walk all the way over them rough trails, the old man drives him uphill an' at the summit jes' naterally turns him down the other side. Yessir, it do come hard on old Walapai, but it's mighty restin' for the jassax."—Success Magazine.

Eating on the Train in Spain.

As even express trains seldom attain a higher rate of speed than twenty-five miles per hour travel is slow and tedious, though fairly comfortable, and to enjoy Spain one must assume the leisurely indifference of the Spaniard to whom manana is always the chosen time. He is wise who carries his own luncheon, and never are dainty tea baskets more indispensable than on these long journeys. Spanish etiquette demands that the traveler before partaking of his food must politely offer it to those who share the compartment with him. It may either be graciously accepted or declined. In no country is it so difficult to travel and to secure information, as but little English is spoken even by important officials.—Travel Magazine.

Not Business.

Two highland farmers met on their way to church.

"Man," said Donald, "I wass wonderin' what you will be askin' for you bit sheep over at your steadin'?"

"Man," replied Dougal, "I wass thinkin' I wad be wantin 50 shullin's for that sheep."

"I will tak' it at that," said Donald, "but, och, man, Dougal, I am awful surprised at you doing business on the Sawbath."

"Business!" exclaimed Dougal. "Man, sellin' a sheep like that for 50 shullin's is not business at all. It's just charity."—Dundee Advertiser.

He Had the Name.

She had gone up the scales once, and then she had gone down the scales. Then she had done the same thing over again, after which some one asked:

"In what school of music were you taught?"

Thereupon some one else interrupted in an undertone:

"Judging by the speed, I should say it was a riding school."

And there were many present who deemed the sentiment a good one.

Swift Vengeance.

[Original.]

Traveling in New Mexico, I stopped one evening in a hamlet. A number of desperadoes had ridden into the town and were in possession of the saloon, from which came a chorus of yells.

I was sitting on the veranda of the tavern when I saw a young Mexican man and woman go by. The man was good looking, and the girl was a beauty. Though I could not understand the Spanish lingo they talked, it was plain they were lovers. They separated almost in front of the tavern, not scrupling to embrace at parting nor caring that any one saw them in each other's arms, apparently oblivious to all except themselves.

Ten minutes later the young man was passing the saloon when several of the brawlers came out roaring drunk, brandishing revolvers.

"You say you can beat me shootin'?" yelled one to another. "I'll show you what I can do." And, aiming at the young Mexican, he fired. The boy sank down on the ground with a moan.

I heard a shriek and, looking toward a house the girl had entered, saw her staggering toward her lover. But she made only a few steps when she sank down in a swoon. Her mother came out and carried her back to the house. Several people put their heads out of their doors and windows and, seeing the young man lying on the ground, gathered round him and carried him into the nearest dwelling, where he died in a few minutes.

It was the shock of my life. I burned to see swift retribution meeted out to the murderer, but there were only a few peaceable Mexicans in the town, and I knew it was impossible. I would gladly have left the place at once, but there was no conveyance except my horse, and I did not care to risk a journey at night alone.

I sat during the evening on the tavern veranda, endeavoring to quiet my indignation with tobacco. There was a half moon in the sky. The air was balmy, and perfect quiet reigned. The people of the town were all indoors. The desperadoes had drunk so hard that they were all doubtless in a stupor. At any rate, they made no noise, and they were still in the saloon. I knew I would not sleep if I went to bed, so continued to sit where I was, lighting one cigar from another. At midnight I was still there. The moon was blood red, just above the horizon and gave no light. There was a flaring lamp on a post in front of the saloon, which partly illumined the street.

It was near morning when the men came out of the saloon, a few at a time, and staggered past the tavern to a stable below, where they had put their horses. Presently one went by alone, whom, though the light was dim, I recognized as the murderer. He had scarcely passed the tavern when I saw a figure—I could not tell if it was man or woman—emerge from behind a house opposite and scud along behind him, keeping so far as possible in shadow.

Curiosity got the better of me, and I followed the man and his shadower. The former—I did not see the latter—was drawing near the stable, when I heard a soft voice call:

"Signor!"

The man paused and turned. What light there was shone directly on his face. I can see that face now, brutal, bloated, with a background of long tousled hair and a beard falling below his broad brimmed felt hat. He wore a shabby coat over a dark blue woolen shirt. His trousers were tucked in his boots.

Then I caught a glimpse of another figure whom I deemed to be the shadower. The back was toward me, and by the silhouette I knew that it was a woman. I could hear her talking to the man, part in Spanish, part in English, but was not near enough to hear what she said.

Two more men came out of the saloon, and the man and the woman I watched moved into shadow. The men went on past the place where the couple had been standing and entered the stable. By this time the gang began to lead their horses out and were making preparations to mount, some tightening their saddle girths, some looking to articles strapped to their saddles, while others went back to the saloon for a last drink. Half an hour went by before they were all mounted and ready to depart. Then I heard one of them ask:

"All here?"

A few minutes later a voice said, "Sam is missing."

"Oh, I saw him go off with a gal," said a voice.

"Well, I reckon he'll come when he gits ready."

Then they all rode away.

I waited till the clatter of their horses' hoofs had died away in the distance, then strolled along, taking care to keep in shadow, toward the place where the murderer and the woman had disappeared. I listened, but could hear nothing. I waited, still listening and peering into the darkness. All was still. I entered a lane through which I thought the couple had probably gone. There was nothing but the stars to light the way, and, passing a dark point, I stumbled against something lying on the ground. I turned and, looking down at my stumbling block, saw that it was the shape of a human body. I put my hand down on a man's breast and against something wet. I started to get away, but a desire to fix my suspicion conquered my dread. I struck a match, and it flashed in the ashen face of the murderer.

An hour later I left the place without a word of my find.

TRAGEDY OF THE COALFIELD.

How Disaster Overtook Rescue Party In South Wales.

Another of those stories of "silent heroism" associated with the oft-recurring mining disasters in the South Wales coalfield has to be recorded. The scene of the latest accident was the Seven Sisters colliery, Neath, where, singularly enough, two explosions occurred within 24 hours of each other. It appears that as a party of four miners descended the pit for the purpose of carrying out repairs in readiness for work on the following day, they encountered a heavy fall of roof. Hardly had they noticed this when a great tongue of flame lit up the whole area, and met them full in the face. On the plight of the men becoming known assistance was soon forthcoming, and three of the men, who were badly burned were removed to a place of safety. The fourth man, Owen Gethin, could not be reached for some time. When his body was recovered it was found that he had been suffocated by after damp. The poor fellow had evidently made a great struggle for life, and had pressed his cravat, soaked with tea, over his mouth in his effort to save himself from being asphyxiated. Then followed a second explosion. While an exploration of the workings was being made by a party of five a second accumulation of gas exploded with great violence and enveloped the whole group. Being old and experienced colliers they fell prone and there lay until the full effect of the explosion had expended itself. But still there remained, in the heading, a quantity of foul gas, and it was with the greatest difficulty that they managed to reach the pit bottom. When there they found that two of their number, both overmen, were missing. These were Morgan Hugh Jones and Evan Harris. When news of the second explosion got to the pit-head a rescue party was promptly organized, and after overcoming great difficulties they brought out David Williams, under-manager Watkin Morgan, overman, and John Williams, seriously injured. But there was no trace of Jones and Harris. Yet another rescue party descended, but the work of exploration had now been rendered almost impossible by a fierce fire which was raging in the pit. Casks of water were lowered into the mine, and conveyed in trams to a spot as near as possible to the affected area. It was a fierce fight this fighting of the flames, for beyond undoubtedly lay the two entombed workmen. The work continued for hours, but still the flames would not be mastered, and on the following day hope was abandoned of reaching the poor men alive. It is a pathetic circumstance that both Jones and Harris had only a few hours before worked heroically to rescue their comrades in the first explosion, and it was Jones who recovered poor Gethin's body. After strenuous work the fire was overcome, and the bodies of Harris and Jones were found under a heavy fall of earth. Harris—a widower—leaves six children, and Jones leave a widow and four children. "Yes, Seven Sisters is a sad place," said a local colliery manager, "but what would have happened had the event occurred when all the men were at work? Yes, what would have happened? Probably, some hundreds of men would have been affected, and the whole valley plunged into mourning. As it is the results are most painful, but we all ought to be thankful that the explosion did not occur when hundreds of men would have been laboring in the pit."

Wrecked Crew Row 400 Miles In Open Boats In the Arctic.

A thrilling story of the privations of the crew of the wrecked Dundee whaler Windward was told by the crew of the Diana, which arrived in the Tay recently from the Arctic.

On or about June 15, in a dense fog, the Windward struck a reef at Carey Island, and became a total wreck. From the report sent home by the Canadian Government cruiser, it was surmised that the other vessels of the fleet had been close at hand, and had rendered assistance. That, it now appears, was not the case, and the story of how the hapless mariners reached Pond's Bay, a voyage of 400 miles, in open whaleboats, is a thrilling one.

When the Windward struck, and it became evident that her position was hopeless, the boats were launched and provisioned, and the men were apportioned among them. The situation was desperate. To recross Melville Bay was impossible, or at the best could only have been accomplished with great loss of life. Further, it was extremely improbable that any of the minor settlements that might be reached would have sufficient food to meet the wants of so many mouths.

In the circumstances it was decided to make for Pond's Bay, distant to a steamship some 300 miles, but for small craft, which require to follow closely the coast line, about 100 miles more. For twelve days and nights the men struggled at the oars for dear life. Food supplies were short, and only a few biscuits were served out per day. Ice was melted to provide drinking water. Sleep was next to impossible.

Fantastic Bodyguard.

Much amusement has been caused in Armagh, Ireland, by a unique wedding display there. A wedding carriage was driven along the principal street followed by young men on bicycles and attired in fantastic raiment. Each wore a loose-fitting overall displaying all the colors in the rainbow, and caught at the waist with a fancy-colored belt, and carrying horns. Their headgear was even more fantastic, some wearing long conical hats, whilst others were of the Dolly Varden type, and bedecked with gay-colored streamers. The garb worn by the cyclists reminded one forcibly of a cycle gymkhana or a fancy dress ball. The wedding party in the carriage, were, it appears, unaware that they had such an extraordinary bodyguard. The bridal party, were, nat-

Why Peterborough Citizens Now Come to Dr. Browett for Glasses

ONE REASON: Most city people are now too intelligent and well informed to permanently injure their eyes and wreck their nerves for want of suitable glasses, especially when Dr. Browett's prices are so reasonable consistent with quality. Eye Glasses and Spectacles from $1.00 up; Colored Glasses 25 to 40c; Railroad and Mechanic's Glasses 25c to $1.00; Thermometers 25c to $5.00; Artificial Eyes $2.50 to $7.00; Non-Steam Lens Polish (keeps steam and frost from glasses) 25c.

ANOTHER REASON: Winter brings long nights with more use of artificial light. Ladies are now taxing their eyes doing fancy work for Xmas. Gentlemen are doing more reading and writing in the office and house. Scholars are doing long hours of home work. Thus all eyes work harder during the winter season, and if glasses are ever needed they are needed now. Some thoughtful sons and daughters are giving glasses to their parents for Xmas.

THE DOLLAR.

a Evolution From the One Time Bleat or Bellow.

The dollar took some rounding. Nor did it formerly ring true, but, much alive, simply gave a bleat or bellow. Cattle, among country folk, at one time constituted the dollar, while primitive man generally made use of any article sufficiently abundant for the standard payment of all merchandise.

Thus, in ancient Greece, a large bronze tripod had the value of a dozen oxen. A good hardworking woman, on the other hand, was given in exchange for only four such beasts.

When metal took the place of money the dollar clung to its traditions, and coins were still called after live stock. Thus "pecunia," applied to metal money, derived its origin from "pecus" (cattle). From the custom of counting heads of cattle came the present designation of a sum in cash—capital or "capita" (heads). In Sanskrit roupa (herd flock) made roupya or the Indian rupee, while ingots of electrum or admixture of gold and silver when first in use as money bore the impress of an ox or cow.

Not clumsy, but too fragile, were the shells in use as money by the negroes of Africa and throughout ancient Asia, where the natives, taken by its beauty, gave the shell a money value.—R. Holt-Lomax in Harper's Weekly.

Fair Share.

It was at a theater in Manchester. The king, aged and infirm, was blessed with two sons. He was pacing up and down the stage, with a wearied, troubled look, exclaiming aloud, "On which of these my sons shall I bestow my crown?" Immediately came a voice from the gallery. "Why not 'arf a crown apiece, guv'nor?"—London Mail.

Professional Etiquette.

An eminent physician had a valuable cow, which became sick and seemed likely to die. He asked an Irish servant who lived with him if he knew anybody who followed cow doctoring. The doctor's groom said, "There's Jemmy Lafferty, who can cure any cow in the world." "Well, then," replied the doctor, "go for Lafferty." The cow doctor accordingly came and treated the brute for four or five days, and on the lapse of due time he waited on Dr. Lewis and pronounced her cured.

The doctor, greatly delighted, put his hand on his pocketbook. "Well, Lafferty, what do I owe you?" "Owe me!" replied Jemmy, drawing himself up with dignity. "Nothing, sir. We doctors niver take money of one another."

"My first impulse," said the doctor while telling the story, "was to throw his fee after him, but on second thought the whole affair seemed so ridiculous that I bowed him my acknowledgments with as much gravity as I could assume." — London Telegraph.

Loaded Ivory.

An ivory dealer uttered a cry of rage.

"Done again!" he said. "Done out of $50!"

And he laid aside one of the tusks from the great heap that he had been examining.

"It is ballasted with lead," he said. "That is a common Kongo trick. The native when he gets a good big tusk of eighty pounds or so melts up ten or fifteen pounds of lead and pours it down into the tusk's hollow. He fills it, so to speak, as a dentist fills a tooth.

"We dealers know the dodge, and every tusk is gone over carefully for a lead filling. My new trader, though, is rather careless, and this is the second filled tusk that has been worked off on him in the last quarter."

The dealer's frown vanished, and he smiled.

"Of course the trader and not I will have to stand the loss," he said.—Minneapolis Journal.

MANY ATTEND FUNERAL OF LATE DR. BRADD

Pay Last Respect to Prominent Citizen—Services Conducted by Rev. D. O. Crossley

The remains of the late Dr. F. J. Bradd, who passed away on Monday night, were borne to their last resting place in Little Lake cemetery yesterday afternoon, when a large number of Peterborough's most prominent citizens turned out to pay their last respect to the memory of the departed. Being of a loving and kind disposition, the late doctor won many friends, who deeply feel the great loss sustained by his death. He was always interested in all charitable works, and was even ready to lend a helping hand to those in trouble. Without ostentation or hope of reward, he performed that which he deemed his duty. He avoided publicity, and did not take any active part in public affairs. In his home he was a kind husband, and loving father, and the bereaved wife and family have the sympathy of a wide circle of friends in their sad affliction.

The funeral yesterday was not conducted by any particular fraternal society, as the late doctor was identified with so many orders that it was thought advisable not to have any of them take charge. Delegations from each one attended in cabs. The services at the house and at the grave were conducted by Rev. D. O. Crossley, of Whitby, an intimate friend of the deceased, and a former pastor of Charlotte Street Methodist church. He was assisted by Rev. H. M. Manning, present pastor of Charlotte St. church. At the house Rev. Mr. Crossley made a few brief remarks, speaking in eulogistic terms of the excellent qualities manifested in the deceased's life. He was a generous, broad minded and congenial man, and esteemed by all who knew him.

The funeral cortege was a long one, extending over many blocks. The gentlemen who officiated as pallbearers were all intimate friends of Dr. Bradd. They were Messrs. J. R. Stratton, W. H. Robertson, J. J. McBain, and the physicians who attended him in his last illness, namely, Drs. Young, Carmichael and King. There were no floral tributes, the family having desired that there be none.

The immediate relatives from out of town who attended the funeral were Mr. Devereaux Bradd, and Mrs. W. H. Cochrane, of Colborne, brother and sister of the deceased; Mrs. H. and Mrs. R. Hardinge, of Chicago, sisters of Mrs. Bradd; Mr. and Mrs. English, Oneonta, and Mr. Alexander Henderson, of Detroit.

Young Man Accidently Shot in the Left Eye, Yesterday

Mr. Francis Blackwell, of Newmarket Met With Serious Accident While Visiting His Father in Emily—Loses Sight of One Eye.

Francis Blackwell, son of Mr. James Blackwell, of Emily, met with a serious accident yesterday morning, by which he will lose the sight of his left eye. He is a young man of about twenty years of age, and with a number of other young men was practicing shooting on his father's farm. Mr. Blackwell had a 22-calibre revolver, and on drawing the trigger the shell flew back and lodged in his left eye, completely destroying the optic. It was owing to the faulty mechanism of the firearm that the accident occurred. The injured youth was at once brought to the city and taken to Nicholls hospital, where Dr. T. P. McCullough, specialist, removed the eye, and dressed the wound. No danger is felt of the right eye being affected.

Mr. Blackwell is on the staff of the Bank of Montreal, Newmarket, and was spending Christmas with his parents. He will be unable to return to Newmarket for some weeks. He is a nephew of Mr. Wm. Blackwell, of this city.

Two Year Old Child Scalded to Death by Upsetting Pail

A sad accident happened at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Hynes, at Rossmount on Saturday, when their two year old daughter was so badly scalded that she succumbed to her injuries on Sunday.

The child's parents were in Port Hope at the time of the accident. They had left their children the eldest of whom is 15 years old at home. The eldest girl had the house work to do and was making preparations to scrub the floor. She placed a pail on the floor which she filled with boiling water. She left the pail for a few moments and during her absence the baby upset the pail and was severely scalded on the left side of the body. The other children went for help and brought back Mrs. Whitehead, a neighbor. A farmer happened to be driving by the house at the time on his way to town. He brought the news to Mrs. Hynes, who returned with Dr. G. A. Dickinson shortly after twelve o'clock. Dr. Powers arrived later.

The child's injuries were dressed, but it was apparent that she could not live. Death came on Sunday afternoon.

Murderer Smoked Cigar While Walking to Gallows

Jake Sunfield Hanged in Hamilton To-day for Murder of Andrew Radsyk in July Last—Left Signed Statement Protesting His Innocence of the Crime.

Special to The Review.

Hamilton, Ont., Dec. 27.—Jake Sunfield, of Hamilton, was hanged this morning for the murder of Andrew Radsyk on July 12. Sunfield walked to the gallows with unfaltering step smoking a cigar. After climbing on to the platform of the gallows he turned to those present to witness the execution and coolly remarked: "Good-bye, gentlemen; I have been told not to say anything."

Without further ceremony hangman Radcliffe placed the black cap over the condemned man's head and adjusted the noose about his neck. As Rev. Dean Mahoney repeated the Lord's Prayer the trap was sprung.

Sunfield's neck was broken by the fall, and when the body was cut down 12 minutes later life was extinct.

Dean Mahoney handed out a statement signed by Sunfield in which the latter solemnly declared his innocence of the crime for which he has been called upon to suffer the death penalty.

Sprang Into Cage to Rescue Lady From Enraged Wolf

Oscar O'Shea's Exciting Adventure While Playing at Rome, Georgia—Wolf Attacked Girl When Thrown Into Cage—Mr. O'Shea Injured.

Special to the Review.

Rome, Georgia, Dec. 25.—During the performance of Daniel Boone, at the opera house, Miss Leona Leslie and Oscar O'Shea, who take the leading parts, were badly injured on the stage by a huge wolf. The actress and actor were in the scene where Daniel Boone rescues his sweetheart from the den of wolves, into which the Indian "Blackfish" had thrown her.

When Miss Leslie was thrown into the den, the great wolf attacked her and tore her arm and side. The girl screamed, and O'Shea leaped into the den and tore the girl from the wolf. The animal then turned on O'Shea, and tore his leg.

Bob Harris, a Catawba Indian, who was standing near, rushed to their assistance, and drove the animal back into his den. The audience witnessed the scene, and stampeded when it realized that the attack of the wolf was a real one.

Oscar O'Shea is a son of Mr. James O'Shea of this city, and is well known here. He is a prominent actor, and last year visited Peterborough as business manager of "The King of Tramps," in which he also took one of the leading roles.

Mr. O'Shea's parents here have not yet heard from their son, regarding the tragic affair reported in the above despatch. A telegram was sent him today, but at the time of going to press, no answer had been received.

Choir's Appreciation of Miss Doherty's Services

Miss Maggie Doherty, the popular and talented organist and choir leader, of St. Peter's Cathedral, was highly honored by the members of the choir on Christmas Day. They presented her with a beautiful gold ring, set with pearls, accompanied by the following appreciative address:

To Miss M. Doherty, organist of St. Peter's Cathedral:

Dear Miss Doherty:

The advent of Christmas once more, with its joyous notes of good will towards men, proclaims o'er all the world the universal brotherhood of man, and prompts to deeds of gift giving as an outward expression of the indwelling spirit.

We, the members of St. Peter's choir, think we would be very ungrateful if we did not acknowledge in some way our sincere thankfulness to you for your good teaching and kind words of encouragement.

As a slight token of our regard and esteem we ask you to accept this gift with our best wishes for "A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year."

Committed for Trial on Charge of Stealing Cash Box

Stanley Gorman Appeared in Police Court This Morning—Counsel for Defence Asked for Committal Rather Than Have Prisoner Remain in Gaol on Remand.

Stanley Gorman was committed for trial this morning at the police court, on a charge of stealing on the 21st of July 1906, from the steamer Monarch, a cash box containing forty-five dollars and mining certificates in the Big Dipper Mining Co. Crown Attorney R. E. Wood conducted the prosecution, and Mr. G. N. Gordon defended the prisoner.

While there was not sufficient evidence heard to make a committal, the counsel for the defence preferred having the prisoner sent up for trial before the Judge rather than have him confined to gaol, which would result if the case was enlarged.

Before the defence had decided to take this course, Mr. Wood had asked that the preliminary hearing be enlarged, for a week, in order that witnesses, who were not at present in the city, might be brought back, and that in the meantime Gorman be kept in gaol. He remarked that it was an extraordinary thing that shortly after the offence was committed, the defendant left the city and remained away for a year. Then as soon as he was arrested, two important witnesses, supposed to have been implicated in the affair also got out of town. They were evidently trying to evade the law and an enlargement was deemed advisable that they might be brought back. His Worship refused to give bail and enlarged the case for a week, as desired by the Crown.

Since this course was taken by the prosecution, Mr. Gordon asked for a committal, and, after some deliberation, it was granted. An application will be made to His Honor Judge Weller for bail.

Mr Daniel McAllister, the complainant in the case, was the only witness heard this morning. He is joint partner in the steamer "Monarch." He said that he was on the boat on July 21st, 1906. The cash box was in a locker. The steamer was tied up at the Wolfe street wharf between eleven and half-past one o'clock. The boat crew were away having dinner, and during that time the box was stolen. When witness returned he had occasion to use some money in the box and went to get it, but, to his surprise, found it gone. He thought probably that Mr. Harris, his partner, had removed it, but when Mr. Harris came down he found that he had not touched it. Witness then came up to the police station and swore out an information. There was only one key to the box and witness held it. The money was all there at 11 o'clock. It contained mining certificates in the Big Dipper Company, a twenty dollar Bank of Toronto bill and other change.

The Dance Was Most Enjoyable

The dance held in the Conservatory of Music hall last night, under the auspices of the Peterborough Club, was voted by all to have been the most enjoyable event of its kind held in Peterborough in several years. About one hundred were in attendance, the floor was in excellent condition, the music supplied by Glionna's orchestra of Toronto, was superb, and the appointments were perfect in every respect. The guests were received by Dr. Boucher, president of the club, and Mrs. Boucher and Mrs. John Crane, and made a brilliant assembly. The refreshments were served in buffet style, the catering being done by Hooper, and it could not have been improved upon.

The committee in charge, to whom great credit is due, consisted of Messrs John Crane, chairman; E. S. Clarry, honorary secretary; W. Harold Cluxton, W. S. Davidson, Dickson Davidson, G. M. Hamilton, W. H. Denham, and W. McIlroy.

The patronesses were Mesdames (Dr.) Boucher, Dean, W. H. Denham, (Dr.) Eastwood, L. M. Hayes, T. F. Matthews, T. D. Mulholland and E. G. Patterson.

An Interesting Railway Rumor

The Havelock Standard says: In addition to the question of double-tracking the C.P.R. all the way from Montreal to Toronto, the company is considering the feasibility of constructing a second line to tap the principal centres of traffic along the north shore of the St. Lawrence and Lake Ontario as far as Peterborough. Various proposals have been under consideration, and surveys have been made with a view to the system and to providing increased traffic facilities through the district between Smith's Falls and Havelock. This it is considered will be imperative when the new grain line from Georgian Bay to Havelock is built.

The Young Men's Bible class in Charlotte street church presented their teacher, Mr. H. P. Kennedy, with a handsome umbrella with pearl and gold handle suitably engraved. The gift was sent to Mrs. Kennedy's residence on Christmas. The recipient is deeply appreciative of the mark of esteem bestowed upon her by the young men of her Bible class, and this is but another evidence of the cordial relation which has always existed between the members and their teacher.

SOLD LIQUOR TO INDIAN OF CHEMONG

Walter Head Found Guilty of the Offence in Court To-day

Walter Head, employed in a local liquor store, was found guilty this morning at the police court of selling liquor to John George, an Indian, on Friday, Dec. 20th. His Worship deferred imposing a fine until to-morrow. Mr. W. H. Moore conducted the prosecution, and Mr. G. M. Gordon appeared for the defendant, and pleaded not guilty.

John George, the Indian, was the first witness. He said that he lived at Ramah in Simcoe county, but of late had been visiting his father-in-law at Chemong. Witness said that he was an Indian and received his allowance from the Government. With Dan Taylor witness came to the city last Friday. They had some whiskey which they bought at John Brennan's liquor store, Simcoe street. He identified Mr. Head as the one he bought the liquor from. George paid fifteen cents and Taylor paid ten cents. There was another man in the store. The contents of the flask were drank on their way home. Witness was arrested by the Indian constable for swearing, and afterwards fined for creating a disturbance. Witness was arrested some six or seven years ago at Ramah for being drunk.

Dan Taylor was the next witness. He said he was with George on Friday last. Witness gave George the ten cents to buy liquor. He identified the flask produced in court as the one they bought. His evidence was a corroboration of that of the previous witness.

Mr. Head and Mr. J. Brennan gave evidence for the defence of a contradictory nature. However, His Worship made a conviction, and will give judgment to-morrow.

HARD WORK TO GET MAIL DELIVERED

The Christmas mail at the local post office breaks all records. One of the officials stated today that the amount of mail matter delivered from and sent through the post office was greatly in excess of former years

"I never saw the beat of it," he said. "If the increase is proportionate next year to what it has been this Christmas, I don't know what we are going to do. A new post office will have to be built."

Although the post office clerks and the mail carriers are working their hands and feet off, they simply can't keep ahead of their work. There are scores of parcels still at the post office waiting to be delivered, and every effort is being made to get them out. Persons who have been expecting parcels, and have not received them, need not be anxious, as they are likely at the post office, and will be delivered just as soon as possible.

Christmas Music at the Cathedral

At the cathedral St. Louis' mass by Le Hache, was rendered in splendid style by the full choir, everyone being in excellent voice, the solos, duets and quartettes being sung with much sweetness and expression, by different members of the choir. As an opening number a quartette composed of Misses L. Hallihan, J. Delaire, Messrs. J. Wyer and E. Keon, sang with brilliant effect the Christmas hymn, Pastores, by Lambillotte. The solos were taken both morning and evening by sopranos, Misses L. Hallihan, A. Simons, E. Brimeau; altos, Misses J. Delaire, A. Brimeau, N. Simons, A. Milloy; tenor, Messrs E. Keon, J. Mohier; bass, J. Wyer, F. Pope, H. Names, H. Quinlan and J. Mercier.

Musical responses were sung in the evening.

O Salutaris, by Engand, with the solo by Miss L. Hallihan, who certainly excelled herself at both services, her sweet soprano voice being heard to great advantage. Tantum Ergo, Wiegand, duet by Miss A. Simons and Mr. E. Keon, whose splendid voices harmonized particularly well. Chorus by choir.

Miss Maggie Doherty acted as organist in her usual capable manner.

Well Looked After This Year

"The poor of Peterborough fared well this Christmas," said Mr. Finch Miller, city relief officer, to a Review reporter this morning. "They were well provided for from all quarters for which both the charity department and those who were assisted are deeply grateful.

While the reporter was present an old man came in for wood, being one of no less than six who called on this same mission this morning.

"The old woman is getting worse and worse to me all the time," he said, "and I'll not be sorry when God see's fit to call her."

Many peculiar expressions are used by those seeking charity and among the older persons there is a spirit of great deference and gratitude displayed towards the relief officer.

Miss Maude Hill, of London, took her life by drinking carbolic acid.

The play grounds of the St. Catharines Public schools are all too small.

At Kenora $5,772.80 has been paid this year in police court fines.

C. R. Henning, town clerk and treasurer of Preston, has resigned.

Was Canada Tricked in Connection With Jap Treaty?

Conservatives Hold That Dominion Signed Away Its Rights.

There Are Indications That Japanese Government Regards Pre-Treaty Undertakings as Null and Void—Terms of Article One—Control of Immigration Not Settled—As Viewed at Ottawa.

Ottawa, Dec. 27.—The point about which there is most interest and speculation in Ottawa, in connection with the Japanese treaty, is whether article one of the Japanese treaty, with its sweeping permission to Japanese to enter Canada on the same footings as Canadians, does not override the right of the Canadian Government to impose conditions as to immigration. This view is held by Conservatives, and was expressed by Mr. Monk on Dec. 12 last. According to it the Japanese have absolute control of immigration situation, we cannot pass an alien labor law directed against Japanese, we cannot keep out undesirable Japanese to the same extent as we can keep undesirable British immigrants out.

The reply made to that expressed by Duncan Ross on Dec. 16; it is that by international law every nation has an indefeasible right to control immigration into it. The Conservative rejoinder is that Canada, by the sweeping terms of article one, signed away this right. The rejoinder is strengthened by the fact that the United States Government thought it necessary, when negotiating a similar treaty, to include a clause containing an express reservation of its rights over immigration. Further, it is understood that Mr. Nosse, the Japanese consul-general, takes Mr. Monk's view.

The recent despatches from Tokio seem to indicate that the Japanese Government not only takes the view that it control the immigration situation, but also takes the view that its undertakings on the subject prior to the conclusion to the treaty are null and void. Should this latter prove to be the case, a serious blow will be dealt to the position assumed by the Liberal members from British Columbia, who assert that they were induced by these pre-treaty assurances to acquiesce in the ratification of the convention. They will be in the position of having been tricked, and so, if their account of the attitude of the Government is correct, will the Government of Canada.

Cantatta "Story of a Star" Given Delightful Interpretation

Seventy Children Took Part—Great Credit Due Mr. R. J. Devey, Their Instructor and His Assistants—Artistic Arrangement of Decorations.

A large audience assembled last night in St. John's school to hear the Sunday School children sing and recite in the Christmas cantata, "Story of a Star," telling how the nations acknowledged what the star of promise had done for them. Groups of prettily dressed children, many in costume, represented Europe, Asia, Africa, Isles of the Sea, and Canada. A special choir, formed of Isabel Morphet, Ada Graham, Grace Dobson, Francis Stone, Cyril Devey, Arthur Horfield, Trevor Cuffe and Allan Kingscote, were responsible for most of the solo singing, and did it exceedingly well. The full chorus parts were well sung by the 70 children, and Mr. R. J. Devey must have felt pleased with the results of careful training. Pretty singing numbers were "Beautiful Star," by Isabel Morphet; "Norway and Sweden," by Josie [illegible] and Hazel Peters, and "Brothers and Sisters in Brown Are We," sung in Eastern costume by Ada Graham (India), Grace Dobson (Japan), Arthur Horfield (China), Cyril Devey (Turkey).

A very effective chorus was sung in the guild room by Mrs. Devey, Mr. Baylis, Mr. Chandler and Mr. N. Greenhalgh.

The final number was given by the groups, tastefully arranged under the illuminated star, and at its conclusion, Rev. Canon Davidson, in a few kindly, well chosen words, voiced the pleasure of the audience at the fine performance by the children, and thanked all those who were responsible for the production, specially mentioning Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Devey, Miss Margaret English who skilfully played all the accompaniments, and Mr. A. E. Pim, the Sunday School superintendent, who arranged the illuminated star. The cantata will probably be repeated early in January.

Says That "Blind Pigs" Are Operating in the Village

Lakefield News Comes Out Strongly Against Local Option Act—Much Whisky and Beer are Being Sold—Grave Charges Made.

This week's issue of the Lakefield News has a long editorial on the working of the Local Option Act in that village. The News comes out pretty strongly against local option as the following excerpt from the editorial shows:

Now at the outset it may as well be frankly confessed that in one essential feature at least, the Local Option Act has been a success, and that is in the elimination of a certain amount of rowdyism by strangers passing through our village in the spring and summer. But, apart from that, the good which it was hoped has not been widespread by any means, and to-day more than one person who assisted in the passage of the Act has been heard to frankly own to the very serious results that are accruing to the village from its adoption. We are told that the merchants of Lakefield find no diminution in their business, that the Savings Bank and post office show largely increased deposits and that men who were formerly known as confirmed topers are now able to make both ends meet and render their families happy and comfortable. Granting all this, for the pure sake of comparison, how much better off is this village in material and moral prosperity? What are the assumed profits of our merchants, the paltry savings of a few men, when weighed in the balance with the [illegible] and deceit which are now so widely practised in Lakefield? What are they when placed against the value of the character of the uprising generation? It is a matter of common knowledge that more liquor is brought here every week by almost 50 per cent. than was the case eighteen months ago. It is also a matter of common knowledge that a large amount of it gets in an illicit manner into the hands of minors. Time and time again, young lads have been discovered lying drunk amongst the lumber piles or having a bacchanalian orgie at Hague's Plant. Only a few days ago the sickening spectacle of an intoxicated woman was to be seen on our main street.

It is a matter of common report that there are no less than six "blind pigs" operating at the present time in the village limits. If this is true, then this one fact alone should suffice to condemn the Act in the minds of all reasonable people, for it is evidence that in place of eradicating the evil, the Local Option Act has worked like a big toad jumping into a small puddle and scattered the mud all over the place. It is all very well for the supporters of the Act to [illegible] this drinking habit is just like all other waves of emotionalism and will soon pass away. It has shown a [illegible] long tenure of life so far, seeing that it started before the flood, and when that mighty cataclysm couldn't wipe out the evil, it is very certain that a sumptuary law such as the present will not do it. Two or three weeks ago we were almost inclined to think that, putting its demerits to one side, the Local Option Act had proved a benefit to the community. We were not then in possession of such facts as have since come to our knowledge. These facts are as follows: In anti-local option times Calcutt's brewery alone used to sell to the two hotels on an average of forty quarters of beer a week. To-day, the same brewery sells in Lakefield on the average no less than 75 quarters of ale weekly. Multiplied by six this gives a consumption of 450 gallons a week. In addition to this amount, other breweries are represented whose figures we do not know. In regard to bottled goods we are told that from 10 to 15 cases are brought into Lakefield every week. Passing from these facts to others regarding private drinking we are informed that only on Saturday last no less than forty bottles of sealed whiskey were brought into one boarding house for the consumption of its occupants.

Well, brother citizens, these are facts that stare us in the face. What are we going to do about it? It would be better to have high license and good inspection than an act which passed in the interests of law, order and morality fails so signally in all that is required of it. We know perfectly well that for what we have written we shall be assailed as agents of the Evil One and as enemies of the home. We are perfectly willing to stand all the abuse that is coming to us, because what we have written has been written with no thought of decrying the efforts of those who differ from us in opinion, but as a protest against a measure which in secret ways is working incalculable harm to this community.

Dyspepsia of Women

Caused by Female Disorders and Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

A great many women suffer with a form of indigestion or dyspepsia which does not seem to yield to ordinary treatment. While the symptoms seem to be similar to those of ordinary indigestion, yet the medicines universally prescribed do not seem to restore the patient's normal condition.

Mrs Henry Beaubien

Mrs. Pinkham claims that there is a kind of dyspepsia that is caused by a derangement of the female organism, and which, while it causes a disturbance similar to ordinary indigestion, cannot be relieved without a medicine which not only acts as a stomach tonic, but has a peculiar tonic effect on the female organism.

As proof of this theory we call attention to the case of Mrs. Henry Beaubien, 56 Sparks St., Ottawa, Ont., who was completely cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after everything else had failed. She writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:

"I had been troubled with indigestion and general stomach disorders for nearly a year. I had a soreness in my stomach and was unable to digest my food. I dieted and doctored without success; but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brought me permanent relief. I used three bottles and it cured me of my stomach trouble and built up my general health. I now enjoy a splendid appetite, can eat all kinds of food, have no trouble with indigestion, and know that I owe it all to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

No other medicine in the world has received such widespread and unqualified endorsement, or has such a record of cures of female troubles, as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Should Encourage Good Productions

If They Wish to Have Superior Attractions at Opera House

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—I think you ought to draw the attention of the Peterborough public to the small attendance at the opera house to see "King Richard III." Frequently statements have been made that the opera house management does not provide good plays. Here was a play that was given in a real, artistic style; the characters of the great tragedy were wonderfully interpreted, and yet only a handful of people were present. Plays of less reputation, or of no reputation at all, are met by "a full house." What a reflection upon the taste of Peterborough people. Business men are not in business for the fun of it. They want their business for profit. Therefore, if the ordinary and vulgar shows attract the people more, one cannot blame the management if they try to suit those people. But let people stop criticising the quality of plays and the efforts of the management, if they do not wish to support the best that can be given.

Faithfully yours,

THEATRE-GOER.

Dummer Satisfied With Local Option

The Results are Good—Some Facts Pointed Out

To the Editor of the Review:

Dear Sir,—With reference to the effect of local option in Dummer township, where formerly we had two licenses, I wish to say that I have communicated by letter with each of the seven members of the Council, the president of the Farmers' Institute, three of the ministers, the principal of the village school, and most of the business men and merchants of the village of Warsaw in Dummer.

Out of 19 replies to hand by letter, 14 reply that local option is a benefit, 3 not a benefit, and 2 but little difference.

With regard to drinking done, out of the 19 replies only 2 thought there was more, and 13 that there was less drinking done than before, especially of late; and one who lives near the hotel said there was 75 per cent. less drinking done.

With regard to business, 6 claimed that it was somewhat improved and 8 that there was but little difference.

Nearly all agreed that property was about the same in value.

With reference to accommodation, 12 claimed that it was satisfactory, or at least no serious complaints; and the others made no complaint except that the price was higher. The above applies more particularly to the village of Warsaw, but some of the replies were from the surrounding parts of the township.

In the rural section of the township where I live, on one of the main thoroughfares, I used to see the loads of liquor or beer in cases and kegs going by here quite often on their way to the summer hotel with a six months' license, at McCracken's Landing; but since the local option law came into force a year ago last May, I don't remember seeing one load go by here. Also I have not heard of any person getting intoxicated in the township since the law passed, although some beer is brought in in kegs, but I have not learned of any illicit liquor selling going on. The former hotelkeeper at Warsaw is now engaged in farming, at which he seems to be doing well, and his family are much benefited by the change. One business man in Warsaw told me that he believed that if local option was voted on again, that there would be more vote for it than before. The majority for local option ten years ago was only three, but two years ago it was 162.

I could give much more favorable testimony to the benefits of local option, but space forbids. Personally I think one of the chief advantages of local option is in creating a public sentiment favorable to temperance. In a contest of any kind the best thing to do is that which our opponents least desire; and in this case it is to vote for local option when we have the opportunity on polling day; for the brewers and liquor sellers and their followers consistently and strenuously oppose local option at all times, because it hurts their business.

Yours respectfully,

W. F. PAYNE,

Hall's Glen, Ont.

Formerly secretary of the township Temperance organization in the referendum campaign.

Market Gardener Had Exciting Experience Going Home From Belleville

Belleville, Dec. 26.—While Mr. Mummery, market gardener, was on his way home from the city on Tuesday afternoon the sleigh slewed to one side when near Jas. Boyd's on the front road and upset the stove in the rig, which set fire to it. So quickly did the flames spread that the horses were with difficulty unhitched and got clear of it. The vehicle and its contents, which included many Christmas presents and some delicacies for Christmas day, was entirely consumed. Mr. Mummery estimates his loss at $125.

ARSENIC KILLED WOMAN.

Coroner's Jury Holds Husband Criminally Responsible For Death.

Quebec, Dec. 27.—The coroner's inquest on the body of the deceased, Mrs. Omer Rochette, whose death and subsequent exhumation has caused so much comment and so many different stories took place yesterday. Dr. Marois and Dr. Vallee, who made the analysis of the stomach, stated that it was found deceased died by arsenic poisoning.

At 3.30 yesterday afternoon the jury rendered a verdict to the effect that deceased died of arsenical poisoning, criminally administered by her husband, Omer Rochette, who is held criminally responsible.

Ten days after his wife's death Rochette married a young girl named Marceau. The newly-married couple left immediately on a honeymoon trip to Montreal.

A nephew of the husband stated that he was present during the two last days preceding his aunt's death at Rochette's house, and that any medicine given to the deceased was almost always given to her by the husband.

When last heard of, Rochette and his second wife were in Montreal, but he is supposed to have left that city on the 9th instant. Chief McCaskill has the matter in hand, and it is expected that Omer Rochette will soon be captured. Rochette was formerly proprietor of the Merchants' Club here.

A MUTINY AT SEA.

Captain and Officers Used Revolvers to Quell Disturbance.

Mexico City, Dec. 27.—Details of a thrilling adventure in which a handful of determined officers and a well-known member of the British colony held in subjection and placed in chains a full complement of sailors of the steamship Lonsdale, who had mutinied on the high seas, just reached this capital. When the ship arrived at the port of Salina Cruz she was manned only by her officers, the crew being in irons.

According to the captain, quick action was taken upon the development of the first signs of mutiny, and assisted by his under officers and a passenger, A. W. Donnelly, all of whom were heavily armed, they mounted the bridge and covering the discontented crew, forced them into subjection. The officers then bound them hand and foot and kept them in captivity until they were delivered to the port authorities.

The Lonsdale is one of the Mexican Pacific liners and plies between Canada and West Coast points.

STEAMSHIP AGREEMENT.

Australia Has New Arrangement For British Service.

Ottawa, Dec. 27.—Australia has made a new steamship arrangement with the line now plying between that colony and Britain, according to a report received here yesterday from Mr. Ross, Canadian Trade Commissioner, at Sydney. The new arrangement is for a period of ten years from 1910. It is for a fortnightly service as at present, but the boats are to be larger and faster, 11,000 tons and 17 knots being required, with ample cold storage facilities. There is a special freight rate as a new feature. It is provided that on butter not more than a cent a pound may be charged and on fruit not more than $14.60 a ton. The new subsidy is for $850,000 a year, an increase of $250,000.

The sailing of the new steamer Den of Ruthven, from Sydney to Vancouver has been cancelled. The boat has to carry coal to Honolulu and bring a return cargo of lumber from British Columbia.

Entombed, But Had a Feast.

Ely, Nev., Dec. 27.—Three miners entombed in the Alpha shaft ate their Christmas dinner 1,000 feet below the surface of the earth. Through the six-inch water pipe were sent turkey, cranberry sauce, oysters and delicacies.

The entombed men asked that the rescue work be stopped long enough for the rescuers to go home and enjoy their Christmas dinner, but this the men refused to do. Conversation is carried on by a telephone wire that escaped destruction.

Banks May Unite.

Quebec, Dec. 27.—An official of the Union Bank in this city, when asked yesterday morning as regards the accuracy of the amalgamation deal between the Quebec and Union banks being declared off, said that the matter could not be so considered. Although there was cessation of the merging just at present, it did not mean that negotiations were definitely set aside.

Son Shoots His Father.

Buffalo, Dec. 27.—Charles Schroff, aged 44 years, proprietor of International Hall, a saloon and bowling alley, was shot and instantly killed yesterday afternoon by his son Charles, aged 20 years. Schroff, Sr., had been drinking heavily of late and quarrelled with his wife, and, it is said, struck her yesterday, when she called upon her son to protect her.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 27.—A despatch from Urumiah, in Persian Armenia, which was brought out by a detachment of Russian troops, states that for the last eight days that town has been entirely surrounded and isolated by bands of Kurdish raiders, who have attacked caravans and driven hundreds of loaded camels to the mountains.

Local Option Fosters Crime

To-day, with Local Option, Owen Sound has SIXTY places where liquor is sold. Under license, there were only ELEVEN places. Yet, despite the best efforts of a capable license inspector, no one has been sent to jail in Owen Sound for selling since Local Option came into force. Last year, with five months of license and seven months of Local Option, OWEN SOUND had 362 police court cases. This year, in eleven months of Local Option, there have been 510 police court cases there.

Do you want this state of things?

Mr. Matthew Kennedy, Mayor of Owen Sound, who has lived there fifty years, said, Nov. 27 last:

"I have seen Owen Sound under indiscriminate license, under restricted license, under the Duncan Act, and under the Ontario Liquor License Act, and finally under Local Option: and I have no hesitation in saying that Local Option has NOT lessened drunkenness, has not improved business nor the financial position of the people generally. Neither has it improved the moral tone of the citizens as a whole, but, on the contrary, Local Option HAS INJURED LOCAL TRADE, and lowered the moral well-being of very many."

Local Option substitutes the "blind pig" for the decent bar.

STRANDED IN SCOTLAND.

Girl From Canada Shamefully Hoaxed By Plausible Scoundrel.

A pathetic story of a girl from Canada who was shamefully imposed upon was related to Edinburgh, Scotland, City Police the other day. A prepossessing young lady arrived in the course of the afternoon and informed the police of her pitiful story. She had been left at Liverpool the previous morning by her intended husband, a young, well-dressed man, who had taken her from Montreal across to Liverpool, as he said, to marry her at his father's house in Edinburgh.

The lady went from Scotland to Canada last year to take up a prominent position in one of the hotels in Vancouver. There she met an attractive young man, who gave the name of John Mackie, and said he came from Edinburgh, and gave his father's address as one in Ashley Terrace. He was a civil engineer, he said, employed by a Glasgow company to look after emigrants to Canada. He professed love for the lady, taking her to the theatre occasionally.

It so happened that the lady intended returning home to the Old Country, and her lover stated his intention of going by the same liner. Then comes a pretty piece of romance. Crossing the Atlantic "Mackie" proposed marriage, and his proposal was accepted. The couple arrived at Liverpool on November 5, and stayed together in one of the hotels there for a few days.

The time, however, to part arrived, and when the lady intimated that her friends would be expecting her, her "lover" burst into tears. He, on the other hand discovered that he had some important business to transact in Glasgow, but he was to visit his intended wife at her parents' house immediately afterwards. He bade the lady a hurried and affectionate goodbye, but after her departure it was found that his flight had been so hurried that he had forgotten to pay his hotel bill, together with $30 he had borrowed from the lady.

The latter became suspicious, and, after communicating with the Edinburgh police, discovered that the address which her "lover" had given was false.

In the course of an interview the girl stated to a press representative that her acquaintance with young man began in a Vancouver hotel a little more than three weeks ago, she was at that time in one of the principal hotels in Vancouver, and one evening, while in the drawing-room, she was approached by the fair-haired young man.

An acquaintance of a warm nature soon sprang up between the two, and when the young man offered to play "Annie Laurie" on the 'cello the lady was delighted. She hailed from Scotland, and was glad to hear Scottish music.

Later in the evening she was asked by her new acquaintance to go to the theatre. She consented, and at the theatre they were joined by another young man. The party left for Montreal a day or two afterwards, arrangements being made on the way for the trip to Scotland. The young girl, attracted by the handsome appearance of her friend, was quite agreeable, and between themselves everything was arranged.

On arriving at Montreal, berths were booked for Liverpool, and when the party of three arrived at that port the couple put up at an hotel.

Everything seemed to be going quite smoothly, until one evening the girl found her intended crying. Next morning, when she awoke, he was gone, and her sorrow was increased when she could find no trace of his whereabouts.

Subsequently she learned he had left Liverpool for Glasgow, and she followed him up. Her inquiries at the police there having elicited no information, she went to Edinburgh, having been given an address in Ashley Terrace as that of the residence of the young man's father. She inquired in that district, and being unable to unearth any of his relatives she put the matter in the hands of the Edinburgh police.

The young man, after booking the berths, confessed that he was in need of money, and the young lady unsuspectingly handed over all her savings. She was somewhat astonished to find next day that her intended had left her to pay the bill at the Liverpool hotel.

At present the young lady is being cared for by the officials at Livingstone Hall House for Girls, who have communicated with her relatives in Scotland and Canada.

Wonderfully Good Sight.

The Duchess of X. once went to Greenwich to see the marvels of the observatory. It was a lovely night, and for the fair duchess' benefit the great telescope was duly leveled at the dazzling field of stars.

"What is that star?" she said, pointing to a very bright one.

"Oh, that's Aldebaran, a star of the first magnitude."

"Is it very far off?" asked her grace.

"About six or seven light years, your grace."

"What is a light year?"

"Merely an expression which one uses to convey an idea of the distance which light travels in a year. Roughly speaking, light travels at the rate of 190,000 miles in a second, and there are about 31,000,536 seconds in a year. In one year, therefore, light travels above 5,991,840,000,000 miles. The expression 'light year' includes these figures."

"And is that star all those millions of miles away?"

"Yes, your grace, as nearly as we can calculate."

"Then all I can say," remarked the duchess, "is that you must have wonderfully good eyes to make out that star's name at that distance, even with this big telescope. It's really most marvelous."—London Tit-Bits.

Slaughtered the Anthem.

"When I went west first," said a Unitarian minister, "I was in a small town called L., and in the choir of my church the village blacksmith did noble work as baritone. He had a voice that could shake mountains, and whatever it lacked in any other feature it made up in volume. He couldn't read music any more than he could English, but he learned a tune very readily.

"One Sunday we were to be favored with a new anthem because it was a special occasion, and the baritone had one portion all to himself. Unfortunately he had missed many of the practices.

"The anthem went along excellently until it came to a beautiful part which reads, 'And, dying, bids us all aspire.'

"Here the rest of the singers stopped short in that quick, sudden way that choirs have, and in the ensuing stillness sounded the ponderous tones of the blacksmith:

"'And dying brides are filled with fire.'"—Boston Herald.

Her Bribe.

Unattractive Maiden Aunt—Goodby, Jottie. Come soon again. I hope you'll forgive my not kissing you, but I have an awful cold. Jottie (aged six)—Never mind. Do kiss me, auntie. Mother said she'd give me 5 cents if I'd let you.—Exchange.

Resented.

The Scotchman (during an argument)—Hoot, man, hoot! The Irishman (hotly)—Shure an' O'ill not hoot. Do ye take me for a bloomin' owl?—London Scraps.

LEMIEUX'S RECALL

The recall of Mr. Lemieux is probably at the bidding of home politics rather than diplomatic developments. The Government want him back to talk to the British Columbians who are restively awaiting the results of his mission, and endeavoring to make party "hay" while they wait. The effect of this will probably be nothing more than to deprive Mr. Lemieux of a Taft-like journey around the globe in the other direction, with a talk in London. A talk in on London might be a good thing for the Canadian Commissioner just at this time, but then London has no vote in a Canadian elections and British Columbia has, says the Montreal Star.

Mr. Lemieux is plainly bringing home a statement of the Japanese policy toward immigration and nothing more. Until we see the official statement of that policy, it would be impossible to deliver final judgment on it and indiscreet to attempt to do so. It will be sincerely hoped in this country that it will adequately deal with a situation which is more delicate than difficult. If there were no question of national self-respect in the way, the two business governments, being perfectly agreed on the results to be obtained could settle the matter off-hand in a hour. It would only remain to work out the details of the machinery which was to enforce the mutual decision.

It is plain from what we already know about Mr. Mackenzie King's investigations that Canada has not entered the affair with entirely clean hands. Canadian institutions encouraged Japanese agents to bring out Japanese immigrants. Thus they were sinning against the understanding underlying the treaty, in our country as well as that of the Mikado; and it is only fair that we should remember this when some irresponsible politicians are hurling about their insinuations of "bad faith." If Mr. Lemieux brings home a statement of policy from the Japanese Government which, if honestly lived up to, will eradicate the evil, we ought to accept the assurances of our allied Government at a hundred per cent. and go forward as confidently as if we had a new clause in the treaty. It is only if and when such assurances are shown to be impotent that we will be released from the necessity of relying upon them.

PEN POINTS

Nomination day on Monday.

Do not forget to wish your friends the compliments of the season.

The aldermanic candidates are extending the glad hand.

The Mayoralty campaign is by no means a quiet one with so much talk of "Yelland Rush."

That peculiar condition after Christmas is now in evidence—"Yes, happy, but glad it's all over."

It is pleasing to record that the Christmas trade in Peterborough was satisfactory.

The Christmas trade proved a rich harvest for the merchants, but the majority of purchasers are certainly not rich in pocket—now that the buying is all over.

The British Columbia Government has wiped out all license boards in unorganized districts and will handle the liquor question with its own officers.

In the dispensing of Christmas cheer no poor families in Peterborough were overlooked, and the inmates in many a desolate home spent at least one happy day.

The time has arrived when the people are called on to give some attention to the formation of a council who shall take charge of municipal affairs for 1908. Select the best men available for the positions.

With the municipal elections only a few days away, the following verse from Tennyson is appropriate:—

Ring out false pride in place and blood,
The civic slander and the spite;
Ring in the love of truth and right,
Ring in the common love of good.

Beginning with the first issue of January, 1908, the Canadian Engineer B.A. Mr. James, is a graduate of B.A., Sc. Mr. James is a graduate of the School of Practical Science, Toronto, having taken the civil engineering course. Since graduation he has been engaged in survey work, irrigation work, and leaves the engineering staff of the Canadian Pacific Railway to take up his new duties. While at college Mr. James was president of the Engineering Society, and some time ago was appointed one of the representatives of the School of Practical Science on the Senate of the University of Toronto, and is an associate member of the Canadian Society of Civil Engineers.

The Ottawa Citizen thus neatly shows up a little bit of Yankee blow; The departure of the little bunch of American warships from Hampton Roads is described by the New York Herald as "the greatest naval spectacle the world has ever seen in peace times." There were sixteen battleships only. The British home fleet alone consists of twenty-four battleships and ten cruisers, and it may be seen cruising around any old time. During the coronation there were three parallel lines of British warships anchored off Portsmouth and it took excursion steamers over two hours to steam out to the end and back again. Admiral "Bob" Evans' sixteen battleships could have joined the aggregation without perceptibly increasing its numbers in the eyes of the average landsman."

An evidence of the extent of the wheat-growing area of Canada comes from the Winnipeg Free Press office, in the shape of a miniature barrel of flour, ground at Vermillion, in the Peace River country. Vermillion is described as being situated 700 miles due north of the United States border, 400 miles south of the Arctic Circle and 650 miles west from Hudson Bay. The mill in which the flour was made, which belongs to the Hudson's Bay Company, was built in 1902, has a capacity of 55 barrels a day, and is the source of supply for the company's posts in the region. It may be added that wheat from the Peace River country took first prize at the Chicago World's Fair in 1893, which was not its first trophy. Before it reached Winnipeg the flour was carried over 1,800 miles, by steamer, pack train, York boat and railway.

Hon. W. J. Hanna will have much sympathy throughout the Province in his prison reform policy. Of this the Toronto Telegram says:—

"Ontario needs a prison system that will be humane and useful in its opportunities to the weak and erring.

Suffering must and should follow serious crime, but trivial offenders ought to find something better than a hard road from bad to worse in Ontario's system of prison management.

Especially should Ontario realize that drunkenness is a disease, and adorn the harsh and forbidding face of her prison system with some smile of hope for unfortunates who are powerless to rescue themselves from the grip of the liquor habit.

Who can say that his experience is free from the presence of sundry weaker brethren, who "touch" friends for the few meals and many drinks that prolong their sodden, gin-soaked lives?"

There is a gratifying demand for Ontario wheat that is constantly increasing with every year. The millers of this province have been eminently successful in combining Ontario and Manitoba wheat. And the resulting flours—Blended flours, they are called—have given, and are giving, complete satisfaction whenever used.

Blended flours have largely taken the place of "western hard wheat flours" throughout the Maritime Provinces. In Toronto bakers are using blended flours in preference to any others. All this means a rising market for Ontario wheat, because blended flours are milled of Ontario wheat with a small quantity of Manitoba wheat to add the necessary "strength."

Blended flours make a bigger, whiter loaf of bread than either Manitoba or Ontario wheat flour alone. And blended flours make lighter, tastier pastry than even Ontario "pastry" flour.

With the millers using every effort to create a profitable market for Ontario wheat, it does seem as if the farmers themselves should help in this work to the extent of buying blended flours for their own use. If every farmer in Ontario would use only blended flour, it would not only drive Manitoba wheat out of the Province, but it would start up such a demand for Ontario wheat that it would pay every farmer well to raise it.

AMUSEMENTS

MARTIN'S MAMMOTH "UNCLE TOM'S CABIN."

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" is a wonder. For years it has been abused, jeered and jested at. It has become the standing joke of the theatrical profession and the public. But neither attack nor bad acting can kill it, and the people come to see the play in such numbers as to make it one of the most profitable attractions in popular priced theatricals.

Last night's audience at the Grand showed little inclination to subscribe to the diatribe of F. Hopkinson Smith, the counter-irritant of Thomas J. Dixon, Jr., or the calumny of the facetious. The audience was there to take kindly stock of Little Eva, the angel child; Uncle Tom the faithful slave; Marks and his donkey; Simon Legree, the "human blood hound"; the canine blood hounds; fugitive Eliza; the ice, et cetera. Yes; "Uncle Tom" will live, because it is written in the most indelible of ink—heart's blood. —Des Moines Iowa Capital, Oct. 9.

WEDDING BELLS

PURSER—NICHOLLS

Buckhorn, Dec. 26.—One of the prettiest weddings that has been witnessed in this neighborhood in some time was that celebrated at "Green Oak," Mr. Thos. Nichols' residence in Harvey township. The bride was his daughter, Miss Mary Ethel Nichols, and the groom was Mr. John Purser of Hall's Bridge. Rev. D. M. Farney, pastor of the Anglican church, performed the ceremony in the drawing room, in the presence of a large number of friends and relatives. Mr. J. P. Cookson was best man, and Misses Birdie and Ollie Nichols were very pretty bridesmaids. The wedding was performed at 4.30 o'clock, the bride being given away by her father. The wedding march was played by Mr. Dickson Nichols of Peterborough.

The bride's wedding dress was white d'esprit over white silk, with applique trimmings, and lovers' knots of duchess baby ribbon. She also wore a veil, and the conventional orange blossoms.

After a sumptuous wedding luncheon had been partaken of, the young couple left for Hamilton and Buffalo on their honeymoon.

They received many presents, and the well wishes of their friends in the neighboring townships. The groom's gift to the bride was a gold harp brooch set with pearls, and to the bridesmaids gold bracelets, and a fleur-de-lis pin to the groomsman. There were many people present from Peterborough, Hamilton and Buffalo.

Mr. and Mrs. Purser will reside at Buckhorn, where Mr. Purser is proprietor of a general store.

Baptist Pastor Leaves for West

Warsaw Honors Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Steadman—Appreciative Address

Rev. L. S. Steadman, pastor of the Warsaw Baptist Church for three years, who left this week for his new charge in Paisley, Ontario, was honored by the members of his congregation on Monday night, Dec. 23, when he was presented with an appreciative and appropriately worded address, accompanied by a liberal cheque. Mrs. Steadman was given a well filled purse. The address was signed by Messrs. Robert E. Kidd and W. J. Moore. Mr. Walter Kidd read the address and Mrs. Stephen Miller made the presentation.

Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Steadman will be much missed in Warsaw. They were earnest active workers and, under their direction, the church prospered spiritually and numerically.

Norwood Will Carry Local Option

Majority for the Measure is Foregone Conclusion

The following despatches regarding local option appear in the Toronto News:

Norwood, Dec. 26.—Local option in Norwood is a foregone conclusion. A year ago the friends of the measure purchased space for twelve months in the local paper. The Register, and this they have filled each week with arguments which were calculated to make and shape public opinion. Norwood, it is pointed out, has everything to gain and nothing to lose by local option. It is charged that the hotels have not been properly conducted. The friends of the measure are pointing out that under local option there will be law and order, and comfort, too, for the travelling public.

Hastings, Dec. 26.—The township of Asphodel won local option last year, but the liquor party quashed it on a technicality. The township is thoroughly organized for another attempt, and will probably win. No license was granted in the township last year, in accordance with the request of the Government touching municipalities where the by-law was quashed, and storekeepers living in the neighborhood of the former bar report an increase in their business.

Before sweeping sprinkle with pieces of newspapers wrung out of water. Sweep thoroughly, then wipe with a cloth wrung out of warm water in which is a small amount of ammonia.

SAID TO CLEAN IMPURE BLOOD

Valuable Prescription to Make Home Remedy, said to be Very Fine

A leading health journal, in answering the question, "What is the best prescription to clean and purify the blood," prints in a recent issue the following;—Fluid Extract of Dandelion one-half ounce, Compound Kargon one ounce, Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla three ounces. Shake well and use in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime.

A well known local druggist, who is familiar with this prescription, states that it is harmless, being composed of simple ingredients which can be obtained from any good prescription pharmacy.

It cleans the blood of all impurities and nourishes the blood. In just a few days the skin begins to clear of sores, boils and pimples. It puts vigor, and energy into run-down, debilitated men and women. For many years Sarsaparilla alone has been considered a good blood medicine. But while it built up and made new blood, the impurities remained within and the good accomplished was only temporary. Sarsaparilla, however, when used in combination with Compound Kargon and Extract Dandelion works wonders. This combination puts the kidneys to work to filter and sift out the waste matter, uric acid and other impurities that cause disease. It makes new blood and relieves rheumatism and lame back and bladder trouble.

This prescription is better than the usual patent medicines, which are in the most part alcoholic concoctions. The ingredients cost but little and are easily mixed at home. Every man and woman here should make some up and try it if they feel their system requires a good blood medicine and tonic.

The Kargon to clean the kidneys and vitalize them so they can clean the blood; Sarsaparilla to make new, rich blood, and Dandelion to tone the stomach, clean the liver and make it active and relieve constipation, is the way the prescription acts, and so mildly and gently that one does not consider they are taking a medicine.

Preston's revenue last year was $25,662.12, and expenditure $25,661.37.

Over $143,000 was spent in Waterloo this year on new buildings.

Richter's Conducting.

Countless are the stories told of the geniality of Dr. Hans Richter. Once while rehearsing a Mozart symphony in which the first violins had a number of delicate trills and turns to perform these were played too heavily for Richter, who said: "Please, gentlemen, pianissimo! Queen Mab, not suffragettes." Again when on one occasion Richter was not thoroughly satisfied with the orchestral rendering of a scene from "Tristan und Isolde" he stopped the rehearsal and asked for more dignity in the playing, adding that Isolde was the daughter of a king, not of a cook. On another occasion while rehearsing Tschaikowsky's "Romeo and Juliet" music the violoncellos have a very passionate melody to play. Richter was by no means satisfied that the needful warmth of expression had been obtained. "Gentlemen, gentlemen," said he, "you all play like married men, not like lovers."—London Tit-Bits.

SPORTING NEWS

IS NORWOOD TO DESERT CITY LEAGUE?

Despatch From Havelock Gives This Impression—The Trent Valley League

Havelock, Dec. 26.—It does, indeed, look like business with the Havelock Hockey Club. At the meeting here las week the league was formed, and divided into two parts. 1st part, Tweed, Madoc, Marmora and Havelock; 2nd part, Norwood, Keene, Hastings and Warkworth. Dr. Wade of Hastings, is convener for district two, and T. Dinsen, of Havelock, holds a similar position in district one.

The rules of the O.H.A. will apply to all games, but by the residence rule of the league, all players must have resided in their respective towns continually since Dec. 15th.

Each club must register their players before Jan. 1st, and send a list of them to the secretary, who, in turn will supply all clubs with names of all players.

Visiting teams will receive $10 expenses per game.

To meet general expenses, the league membership fee was set at $3.00 to be paid before Jan. 1st.

Havelock being the most central point, the meetings of the executive will be held at that place.

It looks very much as if the Norwood team is going to desert the Peterborough city league, as one league is about all that they will be able to be champions of in one season.

A meeting will soon be held, to arrange a schedule. The games of each district will be arranged separate, and the winners of each district will meet at Havelock for the final game, to decide who will be champions of the Trent Valley Hockey League.

Visiting clubs will bring their own referee, and in case the two concerned cannot agree on one, the president will appoint one, each club paying half the expenses.

FULL PRACTICE THIS EVENING

At 7 O'clock — Two Teams to be Picked for Practice Game

The following players are requested to be on hand at the rink to 7 o'clock sharp: [illegible], Wilson, Barber, Meagher, Parnell, Weatherstone, Rose, Dobson, McMillan, Dusty, Ray, Lundy, McFadden, Quinlan, Staunton, Lang, Hillier, Gilman, Donegan, Clarke and Moore.

Everyone of the above players is is asked to be present on time. Two teams will be picked from the above list.

How About Port Hope's Septette?

Report That Outlook in Lake Ontario Burg is Not Encouraging

According to a well founded statement, the prospects for a hockey team in Port Hope are not particularly bright. There is no ice there, it is said, and the old timers refuse to turn out. This rumor seems strange, especially when it concerns a town that has been so enthusiastic in the first class hockey teams.

Brantford in Love With "Jiddy"

Mr. A. Dowling, of That City Says Miller Looks Good to Enthusiasts

Mr. A. Dowling, of Brantford, who is at present in the city, says that the Brantford hockey fans are delighted with the work of "Jiddy" Miller, who is playing with the pro. team of that place this winter. They admire very much his fast and aggressive style of playing, and he is regarded as one of the most brilliant puck chasers of the professional septette.

Shoot of Stony Lake Hunt Club

Will be Held at Jackson Park on New Year's Morning—Canvas Protection

The Stony Lake Hunt Club will hold a turkey and geese shoot at Jackson Park on New Year's day at 9 o'clock in the morning. The shooting will be off-hand at a single target and at a range of 100 yards. The contest will be open to all competitors and a canvas will be erected for the benefit of the shooters. Several splendid turkeys and geese will be offered as prizes.

THE TURF

Pat McCarthy recently bought of William Simpson, Lindsay, the pacing gelding of Joe Allen, 2.21 1-2, by Melvelia, 2.17 1-4, and will have him to the races. For the benefit of several anxious enquirers, I will state authoritatively that Pat does not intend to do the teaming personally. Joe Allen is not new to the game of ice racing, and it is more than likely that he will perform creditably, in hands less skilful than those of his new owner.

Mr. Gerald Dunsford has gone to Port Hope, where he will be employed by Dr. Johnson, formerly of Lakefield. Mr. Dunsford will be in charge of Brown Gyp.

Ownership of Tim Alert is Discussed

"Canadian Sportsman" Has Some Sarcastic Comment on Matter of Local Interest

The following from the current number of the "Canadian Sportsman" will be of interest to local horsemen:

At the late meeting of the Board of the American Trotting Association, held in Chicago, the following appears in the official report of their doings:

Thorough investigation of the ownership of the chestnut horse "Tim Alert," with affidavits from all parties concerned who could be reached, apparently shows that the horse was in August, 1906, and for some time previously and afterwards, the sole property of Charles Martin, of Peterborough, Ontario, and he purchased said horse direct from Abraham Davidson, of Mitchell, Ont., for $600, who gave a bill of sale to said Martin direct, and does not believe that anyone else has any right or title in the horse."

Commenting on the above the Sportsman says:

"We can imagine we see the broad grin on the face of Cook when he reads the above. He may feel inclined to think notwithstanding his repeated declaration to friends that Martin did not ever own a hair on the horse's hide or tail, that it is quite possible somebody else knew better than he did and he may feel inclined to ship Tim Alert from Trenton to Peterborough, and restore him to the young fellow who works on the canal dredge and who is officially pronounced the owner. So Chas. Martin dredged up $600 for the pacer! Really the young fellow's friends will be delighted to hear that he was able to discover such a good paying ledge in the Trent Canal. It apparently panned out to the lad employed at the hoisting apparatus ever richer than to the contractor who had the job. Patience yet a little while and we shall hear what we shall hear."

Cressman's Play the Winter Game

Third Floor Puts it all Over the Main Department

Last night between 10 and 11 o'clock two departments of Cressman's store made merry with the chop sticks at Brock street rink. The quality of hockey displayed was a revelation to the railbirds and every man on the ice showed Stanley cup form. From a standpoint of individual and combination play the match was one of unparalleled brilliancy and on account of the dazzling exhibition the arc lights at the rink were not called into use. When the match was over the score board read third floor—8; main floor—2. The winners lead at half time by 4—1. Special mention should be made of Titterson's miraculous work in goal where he made innumerable sensational [illegible] stopping shot after shot. Mr. Harvey Staunton refereed and escaped without injury. The lightening bugs faced each other as follows:

CURLING

THE FIRST MATCH.

There are two rinks going at the Charlotte street [illegible] arena, and Angus McIntosh hopes to have fully five going this evening. It is expected that the annual match between the president and vice-president will take place on New Year's Day.

Havelock Expects That C.P.R. Will Make Great Improvements

New Station for the Railroad Town is Among the Expectations—Coal Chutes to be Improved.

Havelock, Dec. 26.—There has been great improvements on the division of the C.P.R., of which Havelock is the centre, during the past few years, but things point to even greater improvements in the next year or so. The great secret of success on the C.P.R. is symmetrical development for when it makes an advancement in one particular line, it does not shut down operations in other lines.

On account of the increased amount of traffic on the C.P.R. the company have decided to double track their line from Toronto to Montreal. When the grain route from Victoria Harbor is built, there will be so much freight traffic that it will be necessary to either have two lines or the present line double tracked.

In the spring of next year work will be begun on the improvement of the present coal chutes, which are much too small for the amount of work done. The coal chutes will be built larger, so as to hold five cars, while at present they hold only four cars. The sheds will also be constructed so that engines may be coaled on both sides. At present there are only chutes on one side and the C.P.R. find that enough coal cannot be stored in chutes at once to supply all the engines.

Great improvements will be made on the round house, which now is a semi-circular building. Next year the whole will be made into a circular building with places for the engines on all sides of the turn-table, which will be placed in the centre. This is being done to have a place for the engines that will be used on the new grain route. The new addition to the building will be built of brick, with a strong cement foundation, and will be the same height as the other part. There will be two openings, one will be at the east end to allow the engines to run down to the coal chutes to be coaled, and the other opening on the west to allow the engines to go out to be filled with water. The turn-table will be covered over so that the snow cannot cover it up in the winter. Several devices will also be installed to carry off the steam and smoke given off by the engines. When the new parts are constructed to the round house and coal chutes, the number of men employed in these buildings will be doubled.

It is rumored among the C.P.R. men that a new station will be shortly constructed in Havelock. If a new station is built, and it is badly needed, the present will likely be used for freight and express offices.

Another needed improvement is a large freight shed as the present one is much too small for the amount of freight received at Havelock.

It is quite likely that a large number of tracks will be built next year to the south of the present yards as the C.P.R. have bought land there and large amounts of supplies are being stored in Havelock for their construction.

Operations are in full swing on the construction of the new water tank to replace the old one that collapsed sometime ago. The new water tank tank will be a very large round one, a little larger than the old one, and holding more water. It is being built on a foundation of cement and hooped with heavy strong iron hoops.

If the C.P.R. live up to expectations there will be a considerable change in a couple of years.

Most Scholarly Interpretation of Richard III by Henry Ludlowe And Cast of Distinguished Players

The manner in which the great Shakespearian tragedy, Richard III, was given at the Grand Opera House last night by Henry Ludlowe and his supporting cast of brilliant artists, fully justified all the most optimistic advance notices which heralded this exceptionally well interpreted and beautifully staged production.

The attendance was not nearly so large as it should have been, but the greatest appreciation was shown by the audience. It was probably the richest dramatic treat ever given in Peterborough, and worthy of the unqualified approval of the most exacting metropolitan audiences.

While Mr. Ludlowe's supporting artists were all excellent, some of them exceptionally so, "Richard was himself" all the way. No one can want or expect a more graphic, more repulsively attractive picture of the villainously great and sanguinary prince of the House of York. Ludlowe seems to have steeped himself in the spirit and character of the man and the play. He was superb on all occasions, and overdid nothing. His "make up" and character were all that the lover of Shakespeare would expect to see, and his action and declamation such as one would expect a man in Richard's position, and of his character, to employ. His reading of the lines "Now is the winter," was an artistic treat, though it is hardly fair to specify any particular feature of his great work, which was a metaphysical, as well as personal, portrayal of Richard III, not only in the "multiplying villainies" of his career, but in the superb subtlety of his ambitious hypocrisy, as painted magnificently in his wooing of the royal widow on the Chertsey road. Mr. Ludlowe is a consistent, and, perhaps, unsurpassable, interpreter—if not counterpart of the cruel Duke of Gloucester, and the crueller King Richard. His support was good, too. No one would ask a more faithful assumption of Gloucester's mother, in figure, manner and action, than that taken by Miss Eva Benton. The parting scene with the princes in the tower was one of the most effective of the scores of effective scenes of the play. The mounting of the play was superb—Irvingesque in the sumptuous perfection of detail, historical fidelity and splendid effectiveness. The costuming was an exact replica of that of the age, and in every possible way Ludlowe's presentation of Richard III was not only artistically, emotionally and critically satisfying, but a baring of the heart and mind of Shakespeare which but few great tragedians have achieved. If tonight he plays the Merchant of Venice as well—he certainly cannot do it better—the Grand Opera House should be crowded with lovers of Shakespeare who wish to witness an unsurpassable production.

WINNERS OF CHRISTMAS TURKEYS

Messrs. Clare Gutterson and Geo. Cairns were the winners of the Christmas turkeys given by Proprietor Smyth, of the Majestic bowling alleys, for the winners of the highest single game score and the best score in three straight games. There is considerable interest being taken in bowling in Peterborough this season, and the prizes hung monthly up by Mr. Smith are an incentive to a keen but friendly spirit of rivalry.

Remembered by Her Pupils

Departing Teacher Honored by the School and Young People of North Monaghan

Miss Ellen Switzer, of St. Mary's, who has been the teacher in the North Monaghan school for the past three years, was remembered by her pupils and the young people of the section, prior to her leaving to spend the Christmas vacation. Miss Switzer will not return to the school after the holidays, but will take a course in the Normal School. Her resignation is keenly felt by the people, as she was highly esteemed both in and out of school.

On the last day of school the scholars, in appreciation of their teacher's services and her many kindnesses to them, presented her with a gold bracelet. Miss Switzer thanked her pupils, referring to the many pleasant associations with them.

On the same evening about sixty-five young people gathered at the residence of Mr. Jas. Brillie, and presented Miss Switzer with several beautiful presents. A pleasant time was spent in music and games, and the large party remained until the time arrived for Miss Switzer to leave to meet the 5.10 early morning C.P.R. train for St. Mary's. Several young people accompanied her to the station and saw her away.

Miss Switzer was very popular and she will be greatly missed.

Instrumental duet—Misses Ruby Carr and Geraldine Montgomery.

The dialogue and the drills were exceptionally well put on and reflect great credit on those who trained the children who took part.

Mrs. McCannan, Mrs. Patton and Mrs. Mowry acted as accompanists.

The most interesting feature of the evening was the appearance of Santa Claus, who distributed presents to the children. Mr. Herb McCannan made an excellent Santa Claus.

Sheriff Hall received a beautiful volume of Bronte's poems from the teachers and officers of the Sunday school. Mr. Campbell Stewart, who is retiring after serving four years as Secretary, was presented with a Bible.

A very pleasant time was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem.

D. J. Hamilton, a diver working on the G.T.R. bridge at West Fort William, was drowned by his diving suit bursting.

BE BRIGHT—WELL—STRONG

BUILD UP WITH FERROZONE

Ferrozone Adds Vigor and Strength to the System, Purifies and Enriches the Blood, Vitalizes the Nerves and Assures Permanent Good Health.

Let your fight for health begin now, before you feel any warning of physical collapse.

Your whole system needs a thorough cleansing. Likewise, the blood should be purified, made rich and nutritious.

The one cure for that tired, drooping feeling is Ferrozone, the acknowledged king of all tonic medicines.

To restore your appetite you need Ferrozone, certainly you do.

You need it to restore your nerves and to enrich your depleted blood.

The strongest reason why you need Ferrozone is because it will build up your run-down system and make you well.

It's because we know Ferrozone is absolutely certain to cure that we urge everyone in poor health to use it. If depressed, tired, nervous, sleepless, Ferrozone will make you cheery, bright and happy, because it will make you well.

FERROZONE
A Good Appetizer.

MR. AUBREY E. TEMPLEMAN, of Mechias, writes: "I have found the greatest satisfaction in using Ferrozone, and consider it is the best tonic made. I was all run down a few months ago, and in a very miserable state of health. I took a few boxes of Ferrozone, and was surprised at the result. Ferrozone drove away that dull, heavy feeling, and put my system in splendid order. I am never nervous or sleepless, and have a hearty appetite. This is all due to Ferrozone, which I recommend in the strongest way possible."

FERROZONE
Gives Real Vigor.

MRS. NORMAN MACADAM, of Bridgeport, writes: "I am in good health to-day as the result of Ferrozone. Before using Ferrozone I was tired and miserable, lacked energy and ambition. But Ferrozone altered all that. It has built up my system, and given me more real vigor than I ever had before. Ferrozone is a good tonic."

Ferrozone Makes the Weak Strong—the Sick Well

Ferrozone is sold only in 50c boxes, containing 50 Ferrozone Tablets. Six boxes for $2.50. At all dealers or by mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U.S.A., and Kingston, Ont.

Five Killed in Wreck; Open Switch the Cause

G. T. R. Express Runs Into Coal Train at Lenox, Mich.

No Passengers Injured—Dead Were All Trainmen — Open Switch the Cause—Baggage Car Demolished—Thick Fog Prevailed and Engineer Could Not See Signals — Coaches Remained on Rails.

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 28.—In a dense fog a collision took place at Lenox, Mich., 35 miles north of here, at 7.30 o'clock last night, between Grand Trunk through train No. 5, southbound, from Port Huron to Detroit, and a northbound coal train half a mile long, which had taken the switch, which, however, had been left open, and the passenger train at 40 miles an hour left the main line and plunged headlong into the first of the two engines of the coal train, plowing underneath the leader and bending the second.

Three of the dead are still in the wreckage. Tyler's body was recovered, and McCall died two hours after being extricated. He had lost one leg and received other severe injuries.

Engineer Fred Hang and Fireman Washburn was in the second engine of the doubleheader. The former was caught in the wreckage, but escaped uninjured, while Washburn, who jumped, was only slightly hurt.

Four years ago at the same place there was a collision from a similar cause, two engineers being killed.

The passenger coaches remained on the rails, and no one was hurt, though the first end of the baggage car was demolished.

It is said that the engineer was unable to see any signal owing to the heavy fog.

The dead are: James Bennett, engineer, Detroit; Andrew Bohnski, engineer, Detroit; Willard Tyler, switchman, Detroit; George Boughner, fireman, Detroit; Albert McCall, fireman, Port Huron.

The injured are: Edward Duval, baggageman, Lenox, Mich., and J. Washburn, fireman, Lenox, Mich.

TRAINS CRASH IN FOG.

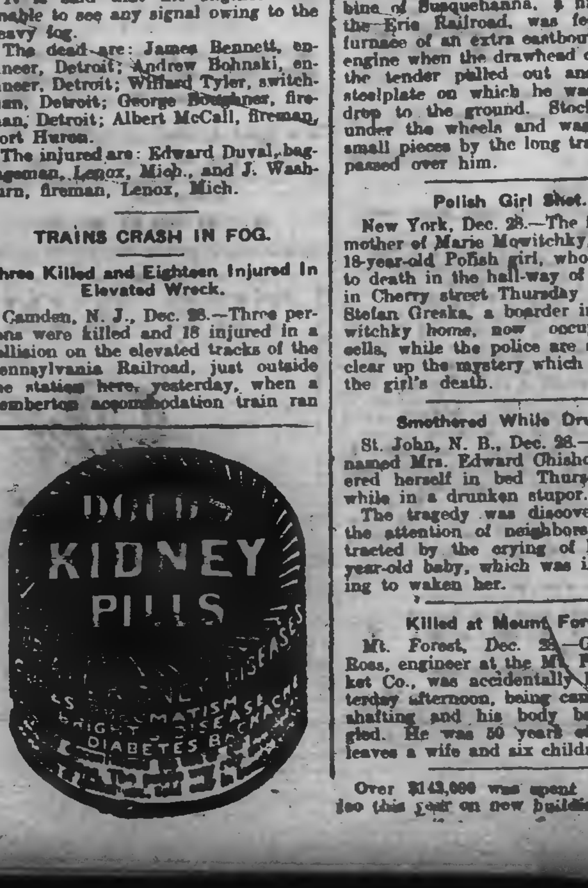
Three Killed and Eighteen Injured In Elevated Wreck.

Camden, N. J., Dec. 28.—Three persons were killed and 18 injured in a collision on the elevated tracks of the Pennsylvania Railroad, just outside the station here, yesterday, when a Pemberton accommodation train ran into the rear-end of an Atlantic City express. A heavy fog was the principal contributory cause of the accident. The dead are: C. P. Sontjen, Stanwick, N. J.; J. L. Garbanini, Mount Holley, N. J.; T. L. Webster, Merchantville, N. J.

Several of the injured may die. All those killed or injured were passengers in the first car of the Pemberton accommodation.

There was a very thick fog when the accident occurred, and it is believed that this condition is the primary cause of the collision.

The wreckage immediately took fire from the hot coals from the Pemberton locomotive and the fire departments of Camden were called into service. The fact that the collision occurred on the elevated structure made the work of rescue difficult. None of the cars left the elevated structure.



Gale on British Coast.

London, Dec. 28.—An easterly gale has been prevailing for the past 60 hours and still shows no signs of abatement. Terrible seas are running along the British and Irish coasts. Many wrecks have been reported. The Cunarder Lucania was not able to enter Queenstown.

None of the incoming steamers sighted the Leyland line steamer Cambrian, before reported with her shaft broken in tow of the steamer William Cliff, and it is the opinion among seafaring men that the Cliff had to cast the Cambrian adrift. If this is the case the Cliff will stand by the disabled vessel and take here in tow again when the weather moderates.

Cut Into Small Pieces.

Elmira, N. Y., Dec. 28.—T. F. Stockbine of Susquehanna, a fireman on the Erie Railroad, was feeding the furnace of an extra eastbound freight engine when the drawhead connecting the tender pulled out and let the steelplate on which he was working drop to the ground. Stockbine fell under the wheels and was cut into small pieces by the long train, which passed over him.

Polish Girl Shot.

New York, Dec. 28.—The father and mother of Marie Mowitchky, a comely 18-year-old Polish girl, who was shot to death in the hall-way of her home in Cherry street Thursday night, and Stefan Greska, a boarder in the Mowitchky home, now occupy prison cells, while the police are seeking to clear up the mystery which surrounds the girl's death.

Smothered While Drunk.

St. John, N. B., Dec. 28.—A woman named Mrs. Edward Chisholm smothered herself in bed Thursday night while in a drunken stupor.

The tragedy was discovered when the attention of neighbors was attracted by the crying of her three-year-old baby, which was in bed trying to waken her.

Killed at Mount Forest.

Mt. Forest, Dec. 28.—George M. Ross, engineer at the Mt. Forest Casket Co., was accidentally killed yesterday afternoon, being caught in the shafting and his body badly mangled. He was 50 years of age and leaves a wife and six children.

Over $143,000 was spent in Waterloo this year on new buildings.

SMOKED CIGAR TO GALLOWS.

Jake Sunfield Hanged at Hamilton For Murder of Radzyk.

Hamilton, Dec. 28.—Jake Sunfield, hanged yesterday morning for the murder of Andrew Radzyk, walked to the foot of the scaffold smoking a cigar. His hands had been pinioned and when he reached the door leading to the scaffold he spat out the cigar. He kept his nerve to the end, and found his way to the trap door unassisted. Hangman Radcliffe did his work quickly, drawing the hood over the doomed man's head and strapping his legs. As the cap was drawn over him, Sunfield said: "I have been warned not to say anything. Good-bye, gentlemen." A moment later he shot out of sight, and the doctors say death was instantaneous.

Sunfield gave out a signed statement in which he declared that he did not kill Radzyk. He protested that he did not have a fair trial, that he was done to death on the evidence of one man, and that no attention was paid by the Minister of Justice to the voluntary sworn statements of six responsible citizens, who contradicted his accuser. Although he termed his death a judicial murder, he pardoned those guilty of it.

FAINTED IN PRISONER'S BOX.

Painful Incident at Trial of Former Douma Members.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 28.—The trial yesterday on charges of treason of members of the first Douma, who signed the Viborg manifesto, calling upon the citizens of Russia to stand up for their rights, was interrupted by a painful occurrence. M. Rainischwili, who was taken into custody last June, tried to address the court as the spokesman of the Social-Democrats. Hardly had he begun speaking than he fainted from weakness, and his body hung limply over the railing of the prisoner's pen. Rainischwili has contracted consumption during his confinement. Since the beginning of the trial he has been brought to court from prison in a carriage every day.

Counsel Darrow Very Ill.

Boise, Idaho, Dec. 28.—Too ill to stand while speaking to the jury, Clarence Darrow, chief counsel for the defence in the Pettibone trial, sat in his chair as he outlined his case. He spoke with effort at times and never raised his voice above a conversational tone.

Darrow's statement made it evident that to a great degree the same line of defence would be followed as in the Haywood trial.

John Keith Reid's Suicide.

London, Dec. 28.—In a letter left by John Keith Reid, the Canadian, who committed suicide in Bloomsbury, he referred to his despondency and to his son. Giving evidence at the inquest a witness said deceased had expressed a hope that he would recover from the effects of the poison for his son's sake. The verdict was, "Suicide while of unsound mind."

Fire at Buffalo.

Buffalo, Dec. 28.—Fire last night did $50,000 damage in the wholesale produce market at Elk and Michigan streets. D. M. Wattles & Sons and Gleason & Ecker were burned out.

Cholera's Ravages.

Constantinople, Dec. 28.—The cholera is committing great ravages among the pilgrims to Mecca, the deaths at Mecca, Medina and Lembo averaging 100 a day.

HARDEN WAS MISTAKEN

German Editor Misinterpreted Remark of Bismarck's.

Frau Von Elbe's Physician Says Her Charges Against Von Moltke Were Purely Imaginary—Prince Eulenburg Denies Attempting to Influence the Kaiser—Tells Story of His Break With Bismarck.

Berlin, Dec. 28.—The hearing of the Harden-Von Moltke libel suit was resumed here yesterday with open doors. The greater part of the morning session was taken up with the testimony of Dr. Frey of Vienna, who at one time treated Frau Von Elbe, the divorced wife of Gen. Count Kuno Von Moltke. The witness declared that the former countess was most hysterical, and that her charges against Von Moltke were based upon fantasy.

Dr. Liman, editor of The Leipsiger Neuste Nachrichten, who at one time had rather intimate relations with Prince Von Bismarck, and who, since the death of the prince, has been one of the chief apostles of the Bismarck cult, was then called upon to testify regarding a remark he had heard Bismarck make concerning Prince Philip Zu Eulenburg. This remark played a considerable role in the first Harden trial, when Harden interpreted in an equivocal sense as implying a charge of secret vices of an abominable character against Zu Eulenburg. Dr. Limen swore yesterday that he understood Bismarck's words to mean simply that Zu Eulenburg was responsible for certain political occurrences, and that they conveyed no covert innuendo about vile practices.

Prince Zu Eulenburg, who had come into the courtroom with the assistance of his two sons, here asked permission to make a statement. This was granted and the prince said he had enjoyed the most friendly relations with Bismarck until the latter broke with the Emperor, when their intercourse ceased entirely. He had learned from various sources that Bismarck thought he should have made common cause with him and withdrawn his support from the Emperor when he did.

"This, for many reasons, I did not do," Prince Zu Eulenburg continued, "and I encountered much hostility because of my course. Bismarck's was a volcanic nature, and he was volcanic in his hate. I still think with joy of the hospitality I enjoyed at Bismarck's table, but with sorrow of the break in our relations. Bismarck complained of the presence of irresponsible persons in the entourage of the Emperor, but the Emperor had the right to summon who he would."

Prince Zu Eulenburg often accompanied the Emperor on his Norwegian voyages and hunting excursions as a representative of the Foreign Office, but he took oath that he had never sought to obtain political influence over His Majesty.

The prince spoke with deep earnestness, amid the profound silence of the court.

Strikes Were Few.

Ottawa, Dec. 28.—There were very few trade disputes in Canada during November, and the losses through this cause were comparatively slight. The only locality where a large body of employes was affected was at St. John, N. B., where transportation was hampered through a strike of longshoremen, during the latter part of the month. The total number of trade disputes reported to have been in existence in Canada during November was eight, a decrease of 14, compared with the previous month, and a decrease of 11, compared with November, 1906. About 34 firms and 1,686 employes were affected by these disputes, 15 firms and about 1,107 employes being involved in the disputes which began in November.

Gains Bride and Fortune.

Madrid, Dec. 28.—A remarkable stroke of luck has just befallen a soldier of the Saboya Regiment, in garrison here. He was enamored of a buxom cook, and they were discussing recently the prospects of their marriage in the near future, which were very slim indeed. Their combined financial resources amounted to only 100 pesetas ($18), and the marriage fees, etc., amounted to much more.

Finally they concluded to invest their savings in the Government Christmas lottery, which was drawn Dec. 23. Yesterday the loving couple were informed that their share of the ticket had brought them $60,000. The marriage will take place shortly.

Boy Killed by Whisky.

St. John, N. B., Dec. 28.—John Maxwell, a 10-year-old boy, living at Bonny River, a station on the New Brunswick Southern Railway, Charlotte County, died on Christmas Day from drinking too much whisky. Maxwell and another lad, while playing about the station the day previous, discovered liquor in transit and drank some, with tragic consequences.

Fire at New Liskeard.

New Liskeard, Dec. 28.—Fire broke out about 3 o'clock in the residence of John Marshland, Catharine street, yesterday morning, and before the blaze was under control had entirely destroyed his residence, along with the workshop and stable of Fred Balls, next door. The loss will be about $6,000.

Dead at 102.

Youngstown, Ohio, Dec. 28.—Rev. John Schaeffer, 102 years old, is dead at North Benton. He was born in West Moreland, Pa., Nov. 22, 1805, and became a minister of the Lutheran Church at the age of 21.

Supreme Court Adjourns.

Ottawa, Dec. 28.—The Supreme Court has adjourned pro forma until the mid-winter sessions in February, and no judgments will be given out until then.

Roy Pears, of Rosthern, Sask., received an injection of anti-toxine and expired instantly.

BANK ROBBERS CAPTURED.

Fought Citizens With Revolvers First —Loot Recovered.

St. Joseph, Mo., Dec. 28.—The Bank of Camden Point, 35 miles southwest of this city, was robbed by three men early yesterday.

The robbers were discovered by Prof. Barhan, president of the Camden Point College, who saw a light in the bank and aroused the citizens. Three explosions, set off by the burglars after the alarm was given, wrecked the safe and the interior of the bank.

A fierce battle between citizens and the robbers took place, in which many shots were exchanged, but the robbers escaped. Later they were captured in the woods on the Platte River. The loot was about $2,500, of which $1,000 was in silver. The robbers have told where they hid the money in a straw-stack near Edgerton.

One of the bandits has been identified as Clyde Reed, aged 24, son of a respectable farmer near Edgerton.

Empress of China Alarmed By the Present Conditions

Popular Agitation in China is Rapidly Increasing.

Government Looks to Great Britain For Assistance — Yuan Shi Kai's Position — Edict Issued Ordering That No Meetings Be Held in Pekin—Japanese Incivility in Manchuria—Travelers Complain.

Pekin, Dec. 28.—The Dowager Empress has given verbal orders to the Interior Department and to the police to suppress all public meetings in Pekin and there is reason to believe that this order will be extended to the province.

The popular agitation along the lines of "rights recovery" is growing in a phenomenal manner. The question of provincial as against federal sovereignty enters largely into the matter. Women's societies, schools for boys and for girls, the family newspapers and the political press all are participating in the agitation, and for a month past the Government here has been receiving telegrams in increasing numbers expressing the strong desire of the senders that the rights which have been alienated from them by foreigners be restored to the Chinese.

The movement has reached such magnitude that the Government is thoroughly alarmed and is striving to find a conciliatory position between the revolutionary agitators and those who consider themselves to be aggrieved. The agitations embraces the question of the patrol of the West river by Great Britain, in an effort to put an end to the piracy there, and leading Englishmen here apprehend that the present popular hostility will result in an enquiry into the British trade.

The Government is relying on the support of Great Britain, whose insistence upon China's maintenance of her original position has produced an apparent solidarity among the Chinese Ministers. The pressure of the British Government is strengthening the position of Yuan Shikaik, whose security and influence in Pekin is regarded by foreigners as essential to the safety and progress of China.

It is declared here that the foreign agitation in the matter of the attitude adopted by Great Britain with regard to Manchuria and the warning of Russia concerning the annulment to the telegraph convention, have led the British Foreign Office to take action and it is understood that this has been in the form of representations to the Tokio Government. China, it is stated here, considers the attitude taken by Japan to be based upon impossible claims and Japan, it is averred, is taking advantage of China's complications with Great Britain in order to postpone the negotiations regarding Manchuria.

Travelers arriving here complain of what they call the organized incivility, and in some cases even the "brutal conduct" of the Japanese trainmen and guards on the Manchurian railway.

Health of the Province.

Toronto, Dec. 28.—The returns to the Provincial Board of Health from 730 divisions for November give 2,079 deaths from all causes, making a death rate of 12.6 in 1,000.

The reports made of contagious diseases show smallpox, scarlet fever, diphtheria and measles to have been much more prevalent in the province than for the corresponding month of 1906, but happily of a mild type, as no deaths were reported from smallpox, and out of 444 cases of scarlet fever only six deaths occurred, and of 338 cases of diphtheria 31 deaths were reported.

Typhoid fever caused 73 less deaths for the month, with 315 fewer cases reported.

To Open Druce Grave.

London, Dec. 28.—The consistory court yesterday granted permission for the opening of the grave of T. C. Druce to determine whether or not it contains a body or a roll of lead.

The actual date of the exhumation is being kept a secret in order to avoid attracting a crowd, but there is reason to believe that Monday or Tuesday of next week will see the mystery of the coffin cleared up.

Telegraph Companies Retrench.

New Haven, Conn., Dec. 28.—An era of retrenchment in the telegraph business in this state is expected to dawn with the coming of the new year, and already big changes are planned by the Western Union and postal companies.

Victim of Highwaymen.

New York, Dec. 28.—Hugo Graffmug, a collector for the Prudential Life Insurance Co., was found in a dying condition on the roadside between Elmsford and White Plains. He had been shot in the breast and robbed.

Whole Family Perish.

Boston, Dec. 28.—Five persons were burned to death in a fire which destroyed the house of John Clark at Watertown, a suburb, early yesterday. Every member of the Clark family met death in the flames.

Costly Strike.

Valparaiso, Dec. 28.—The losses for the twenty days during which the nitrate strike has been on are estimated at about $3,000,000.

Halifax, Dec. 28.—Stanfield was served with papers yesterday, giving notice of a petition against his election for Colchester.

CURE SICK HEADACHE.

An Episode of the Russo-Japanese War.

[Original.]

At the commencement of the Russo-Japanese war Sessan Herano, a young Japanese, left his weeping mother and sweetheart to go with his battery to Manchuria.

While the separation and knowledge of their beloved Sessan's peril constantly wore upon the women, they were from time to time made happy by news of the young man's steady rise, he soon attaining the rank of captain of a battery. His promotions delighted the loved ones at home, and little Tsusima Amakuki's eyes alternately shone brightly at the hope that her lover would come home a great warrior and were sad with the thought that he might never come home alive.

But one day news was received of a very different kind. Captain Herano had been stationed at an important point with his battery and ordered to hold it at any cost. He had been attacked by a small force, which had come on steadily in face of a terrific fire with no loss whatever, and before they reached the Japanese position Herano and his men found it necessary either to desert their guns or be taken prisoners. Herano drew off the command, leaving the guns, which it was impossible to save. But before the Russians came near enough to prevent him he seized a caisson containing ammunition and with the help of his men dragged it away. This was the only part of the battery saved.

His general, seeing his retreat, rode up and ordered him to go to the rear under arrest.

"General," said the captain, "I have a request to make. I desire that the caisson we have saved be placed under the care of my first sergeant."

"What's a caisson compared with a whole battery?" snarled the general. "You should have died at your guns."

"That would have involved the death of many more who may live and conquer by my retreat."

The captain had been an excellent officer, and the general was too much engaged with weightier matters to hear more at the time, so he granted the strange request and ordered the first sergeant to take charge of the caisson. As soon as there was a lull in the fighting a court martial was ordered to try Captain Herano for his inglorious retreat. When his little sweetheart heard of his disgrace she was more pained than if he had died in defense of his guns. Sessan wrote only the facts, not venturing any opinion as to what punishment would be meted out to him. His case was a mystery to his superiors, for they were all aware of his brilliant record up to the time of his disgrace.

Finally the court convened, and the captain was brought before it under a charge of cowardice and inefficiency, the specifications being, first, that he had not died at his guns, but had himself given the order for his men to retreat; second, that he had not trained his men in marksmanship, since his shots had done no damage to the enemy; third, that he had dragged away a caisson of ammunition when the same effort might have saved a gun which was far more valuable.

Some witnesses testified that the gunners fired too low, others that they fired too high. One witness declared that he could tell the difference by sound between a shotted gun and blank cartridge, and that Captain Herano's guns were not shotted. This was the most damaging testimony of the prosecution, for a commander who would receive an enemy with blank cartridges must be mad. When the evidence against him was all in Captain Herano was called upon for his defense. At his elbow stood his first sergeant, at whose feet were piled a dozen shells. At a word from Herano the sergeant took up a shell, which he lifted with such ease as to surprise all present, and placed it on a table behind which sat the president of the court.

"There," said the accused, "is one of the shells with which we defended ourselves in the recent attack."

Taking a heavy artillery saber from the sergeant, Herano raised it and held it poised for a moment above the shell. The court, seeing his intention to bring the sword down on the explosive, jumped from their seats, but too late. The saber's edge descended with terrific force on the shell.

Was Herano so desperate as to commit suicide and kill those who sat in judgment over him!

No. There was a surprise in store for those who looked on, with eyeballs starting from their sockets. The shell was split in two like wood—which it was—and out poured a heap of sawdust, while a red dust of brick rose from the parts.

"Gentlemen," said the captain, "do you wonder that we were beaten with such means of defense? You think we should have died at our guns. Well, suppose we had, who would have known of the character of this ammunition?"

Every shell proved the same, and the court was convinced.

In a few days Tsusima was delighted to hear of her lover's acquittal and reinstatement.

Two hours after the arrival of the news it was announced that the officer in charge of an ammunition manufactory had committed harakiri.

The government, having need of an officer it could trust to inspect all ammunition sent to the front, promoted Herano to be major and brought him back to Japan for the purpose. Thus in less than a year of service he was enabled to marry his sweetheart and live at home.

ROBERT C. GIDDIS.

Lillian Pearl, the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Pender, of Stratford, is dead.

It Is a Good Umbrella.

It was a sound, substantial umbrella, with a cheery wood stick. We found it hanging on a peg in the corner of our room in the hotel at Bruges (writes "P."). Such an umbrella could belong to none but an Englishman, and it at once occurred to us that it had been left behind by some former passing visitant. The umbrella was particularly interesting to me because I had foolishly come away from England without one. I eyed that umbrella as a small boy eyes a forbidden orchard. The next morning threatened rain, and I could not resist taking the umbrella tentatively from its peg, unrolling it and displaying its comfortable tent-like proportions. I put it back on the peg with a sigh and nobly went out unprotected. During the stay in Bruges my eyes and thoughts returned to the umbrella with strong fascination, and on the morning of leaving the temptation was still more acute. The angels of light and darkness struggled within me, but the good one triumphed, and we went to the station without the umbrella. We left our luggage in the hotel to be brought to us at the station by the boots. The Brussels train came in, but our luggage was missing. We took our seats, and at the last moment the boots rushed up, compensating for want of English by a large smile, and dragged our bags—and the umbrella. He threw it in to us, and the train departed. It is a good umbrella.—Manchester Guardian.

The Way to Succeed.

Here is a bit of advice that will go as far as any that was ever paid for: The only way to succeed is to be successful. Doesn't sound very profound, does it? It isn't. It's about as simple as anything that has ever been printed, and at first sight it may appear idiotic. But there is a lot in it. The man who succeeds is the man who brings to a successful termination every minute undertaking of every day's activity. The successful man's life is made up of a myriad of successes. If you let one little item of your day's work get by you without satisfying yourself that you have done your best on it you are preparing for a failure. A million treatises on how to be successful will not help you.

The trouble with too many of us is that we are so busy trying to see a great success in the future that we can't see the chances for little successes under our noses. Heaven is not reached at a single bound, and neither is success. The only way to succeed is to be successful. It is worth thinking over.—St. Paul News.

The Original Tobogganer.

The otter was the original tobogganer and his slide the first of its kind deliberately chosen. Whence came his information? I know not. Turn if you can the leaves of nature's wonderful volume back to the opening chapters of animal life for information upon this and countless other curious traits. Maybe the primal otter saw a cube of ice break from its parent glacier and go sliding down a polished path to the sea. He may have then tried the feat himself under the notion that such sliding was rare good fun for otters. Quien sabe? Wherever the otter may have obtained his idea of sliding, he has neither lost it nor improved upon it. He slides as his forbears did for love of sliding, but he does not altogether depend upon snow and ice. During summer earth slides serve well enough, and these will surely be found on the banks of streams frequented by otters.—Outing.

Westminster Abbey Customs.

Burial in Westminster abbey is not of course a question of money, but there are certain fees charged for interment within that ancient pile. Formerly the fees amounted to £150 or £100. Dean Stanley introduced many reforms in the scale of charges, with the result that the maximum cost is now £111 4s. 2d. It may, however, be £20 less. The variations in the cost arise in connection with the contribution demanded for the fabric fund, which is £26 or £36 or £46, according to the place of interment. Other items in the bill are £34 2s. 2d. for fees to the dean, canons, choir and vergers and £31 2s. on account of silk scarfs, hat-bands and gloves to the clergy, choir and vergers, which were formerly provided by the undertaker and charged in his account.—Westminster Gazette.

Grounds For Suspicion.

The artist came in and seated himself with a foreign and unaccustomed air, a slight something of hauteur the woman thought.

"My landlord," he began, "came to me this morning and told me to have anything I wanted done in the way of improvements in my apartments. He told me to spare no expense."

The woman looked at him hard.

"I begin to suspect you," said she, "of having paid your rent."—New York Press.

Fish Have No Eyelids.

Goldfish do not close their eyes excause they have no eyelids. There exist in fishes no genuine eyelids, but in some (mackerel and sea mullet) there is a transparent film over the anterior surface of the eyeball, and in certain sharks there is a nictitating or winking membrane that is regulated by a special muscle.—St. Nicholas.

The Converse.

"Is success a crime?"

"I would not say that," answered the conservative citizen, "but I must state that crime seems to be a success in some quarters."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Self forgetfulness in love for others has a foremost place in the ideal character and represents the true end of humanity.—Peabody.

James A. Moore, the St. Thomas fur and hide dealer, arrested for forgery, has been released on $15,000 bail.

Why Peterborough Citizens Now Come to Dr. Browett for Glasses

ONE REASON: Most city people are now too intelligent and well informed to permanently injure their eyes and wreck their nerves for want of suitable glasses, especially when Dr. Browett's prices are so reasonable consistent with quality. Eye Glasses and Spectacles from $1.00 up; Colored Glasses 25 to 40c; Railroad and Mechanic's Glasses 25c to $1.00; Thermometers 25c to $5.00; Artificial Eyes $3.50 to $7.00; Non-Steam Lens Polish (keeps steam and frost from glasses) 25c.

ANOTHER REASON: Winter brings long nights with more use of artificial light. Ladies are now taxing their eyes doing fancy work for Xmas. Gentlemen are doing more reading and writing in the office and home. Scholars are doing long hours of home work. Thus all eyes work harder during the winter season, and if glasses are ever needed they are needed now. Some thoughtful sons and daughters are giving glasses to their parents for Xmas.

FIGHT IN INDIAN CONGRESS.

Election of President Ends In General Uproar.

Surat, Bombay, Dec. 28.—After two days of futile efforts to elect a president, the Indian National Congress broke up yesterday afternoon in a free fight, during which the police had to be called in.

The congress, which meets annually, was of especial interest this year owing to the agitation for home rule in India. When the delegates assembled Thursday the Moderates and Extremists at once locked horns on this issue, and the meeting was adjourned amid much disorder.

When the delegates reassembled yesterday their overheated passions broke loose a second time, and the platform from which moderation and constitutional action had been advised was rushed by the Extremists in a body, who loudly demanded the speedy establishment of complete home rule.

Chairs and tables were broken in the scrimmage and table legs and other pieces of shattered furniture were used by the delegates as bludgeons upon each other.

The fighting became fierce and many delegates sustained serious injuries before the police finally came in and cleared the hall.

SAYS SHOOTING WAS ACCIDENT.

Terrace Declares He Pointed Gun For Bit of Foolery.

Brampton, Dec. 28.—When John Terrace recovered consciousness and was told that William Curry was dead, he broke down and wept.

He was preparing to go to bed, he declares, when "for a bit of foolery," he pointed the gun at James Curry.

Curry answered him sharply, and the old man came to the door of his bedroom in his nightdress and asked what the quarrel was about. Terrace states he answered him that there was no quarrel at all, and to go back, but that the old gentleman rushed up close to him and the younger man knocked the weapon up in his hands. In doing so the gun was discharged, the shot entering the left breast of the old man.

He declares he had no intention of harming anybody.

Terrace arrived in Canada from Welsen-on-Tyne only Dec. 4. He has a wife and two children in England.

The Toronto immigration officials recall that Terrace arrived here Dec. 4, dead broke, having been robbed while on his way over on the steamship Manitoba. The next day he was engaged by James Curry.

MURDER STILL BAFFLES POLICE.

Body of Beautiful Woman Found In Marsh Not Identified.

New York, Dec. 28.—While the mystery surrounding the circumstances of the murder of the unknown young woman whose body was found nearly submerged in a pond on the outskirts of Harrison, N.J., appears no nearer solution than when the body was discovered, the theory which the detectives are now working on is, that the woman came to her death in Newark and her body carried to the lonely pond, that the real scene of the crime and the identity of the slayer might be concealed.

The Newark police are searching for the slayer, who is believed to have met the young woman by appointment in Newark, and then lured her to her death. Evidence was obtained yesterday that the woman was seen in Newark on Christmas evening.

Prisoners Had a Hot Time.

Kingston, Dec. 28.—All Christmas night there was a hot time in the penitentiary. The prisoners kept pounding in their cells and sang, "We'll Hang O'Leary on a Sour Apple Tree."

The guards were powerless to silence them, and they contented themselves with marking 27 for the dungeon, but as there are only 11 cells in the dark place, the prison of isolation, closed for some time, had to be opened for the surplus offenders.

Thomas Murphy attempted to commit suicide in the Queen's Hotel on Thursday night by taking carbolic acid. Medical aid may have saved his life.

Steamship Mount Royal Overdue.

St. John, N. B., Dec. 28.—There is much uneasiness in this port over the non-arrival of the C. P. R. steamship Mount Royal, seven days overdue from Antwerp.

Officials here believe some word would be received yesterday, but they were disappointed. The Lake Michigan, which left Antwerp five days after the Mount Royal, arrived here Thursday, but did not see her.

The captain of the Lake Michigan says the passage out was very rough, gales and terrific seas being encountered all the way across.

Cheese Factory Burned.

Brockville, Dec. 28.—Thursday night the cheese factory owned by Stevens and Halladay at Phillipsville caught fire in the drying-room and was burned to the ground. Most of the utensils were saved, but nine cheese packages went up in smoke. Loss about $1,500. Covered by insurance.

Negroes Disarmed.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Dec. 28.—A special from Henrietta, Okla., yesterday says that quiet prevails in that town and there are no further fears of a race riot. The negroes, who came from the country Thursday night, were disarmed without trouble.

Gen. Drude Ill.

Paris, Dec. 28.—It was announced yesterday that Gen. Drude, who has been in command of the French troops in Morocco, is again down with the fever. Gen. Darmade, brigade commander at La Rochelle, has been selected to succeed him.

Policy No. 203260 held by Mr. A. C. Frost, Chicago, in the Sun Life Assurance Co. of Canada, issued March 1902, for $50,000, calling for an annual premium of $1,907.50, has had the following results declared at the end of the first five-year division of profits:

LIQUOR MAN WAS HEAVILY FINED TO-DAY

For Selling Whiskey to an Indian —Case Will be Appealed

For selling liquor to John George, an Indian, on Friday, December 20th, Walter Head was fined fifty dollars and costs, amounting to $62.50, by Magistrate Dumble, at the police court this morning. "I have considered this matter carefully," said His Worship, "and I think that the defendant, in the business of the day, and owing to the fact that the Indian looked like a white man, he forgot himself and made the sale."

Realising the above facts, His Worship said that he would make the fine the smallest possible he could impose under the law.

Mr. G. N. Gordon, counsel for the defence, will appeal the case.

COUNTY GAOL IS FILLED UP WITH VAGRANTS

Says Magistrate Dumble—Refused a "Vag." Who Desired to Go

Jas. Christian, who claims Nova Scotia as his home, was in police court this morning on a charge of vagrancy. He wanted to be sent to gaol.

"What is he doing here?" asked the Magistrate. "Doing nothing," answered the chief. "Where do you come from?" was the next question.

The "vag" informed His Worship that for the past two months he had been working for a farmer in Ennismore.

"The gaol is loaded up now," said His Worship, "and then you don't belong to the city and we can't keep you."

His Worship directed Christian to County Magistrate Edmison, who would probably make arrangements for his removal to the House of Refuge at Lakefield.

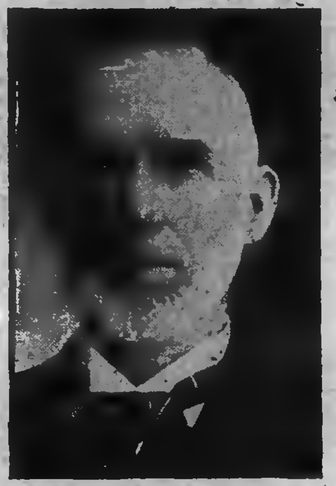
The Hearts of the Children Made Glad by Many Gifts

Entertainment at Market Hall Last Night Afforded Unbounded Pleasure to Many Hundreds of Little Ones—An Occasion Long to be Remembered

Three Treeloads of Presents Were Distributed Under Auspices of Children's Aid Society—Mr. Belcher in Role of Santa Claus.

Music by Salvation Army Band and Moving Pictures—Society Gives Thanks to Workers and Contributors

"Do you believe in Santa Claus?" is the name of a tuneful little ditty, and while the majority of the children who attended the entertainment, under the auspices of the Children's Aid Society, at the Market Hall last night, probably have never heard the song in question, they nevertheless, have every reason to believe in a real, live and beneficient Santa Claus. For wasn't he there to hand gifts from the Christmas trees with the assistance of his willing corps of distributors of good things? There is no doubt now that Santa Claus is no myth for the original St. Nick such as pictured in the juvenile books was undoubtedly the generous gentleman who brought such a bout of joy from the children when he popped out from behind one of the Christmas trees, as a signal that the giving was about to begin. In the general course of everyday life he is known as Mr. Mr. John Belcher, but when the occasion demands he finds no difficulty in calling into requisition his Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde powers of transformation and becoming the man who lends the bright light of his festive presence to the Yuletide function of gift giving.



MR. GEO. COCHRANE

Who is Prominently Connected With Children's Aid Society.

About six hundred children and parents assembled in the market hall and were made glad by reason of the philanthropy of the generous citizens of Peterborough and the energy and forethought of the city churches, the Children's Aid Society and those who assisted in carrying out the arrangements made for the benefit of the poor children of the city. The parents of the children as well as the latter themselves were thoroughly delighted with the generosity and spirit of cordiality displayed and the many of the children present who by reason of their circumstances have no way of being entertained at any public function the entertainment was nothing short of a one, big continuous and very pleasant surprise. As soon as the children received their various gifts the presents were made the subject of a minute inspection on their part and expressions of approval were heard from all sides. During the distribution there was somewhat of a miniature stampede there being a great anxiety on the part of the children to receive their respective donations as soon as possible. However, everything was conducted without a hitch and to the utmost satisfaction of all concerned. it was a particularly happy event from the time the children with their parents and friends first assembled until the band played "God Save the King," shortly after 9 o'clock.

CREDIT DUE TO MANY.

It would be impossible to particularize in the matter of according praise to any particular person or persons. The response both in the matter of giving and in conection with the actual executive work was spontaneous and gratifying.

Mr. Goodwill, secretary, and Mr. P. Campbell, treasurer, of the Children's Aid Society, and Mr. George Cochrane, the energetic and painstaking agent, merit great commendation indeed for their splendid work in connection with the entertainment and the city churches and the general public are to congratulated on their efforts in behalf of its success. The special committee of ladies, the names of whom have appeared in these columns, with Mrs. Kendry as convenor, and Miss Halliday as secretary, also come in for a large measure of congratulation and praise. The churches responded generously to the levies made on them in response to the solicitations from Secretary Goodwill, the larger ones each contributing 50 bags of candies and oranges and 50 toys and the smaller ones contributing 25. The number of bags received altogether totalled 680.

GRATITUDE OF SOCIETY.

The Children's Aid Society wish to thank the Salvation Army Band for the really excellent music they furnished at frequent intervals during the evening. The Peterborough Light and Power Co. also have the gratitude of the Society for the use of a lantern and the kindness of Mr. Edwards, manager of "The Crystal," in supplying a novel and instructive moving picture film. "The Ostrich Farm," is much appreciated. Among others who are deserving of thanks are: Mr. Alex. Gordon, who generously supplied the three Christmas trees; the ladies of the central office of the Bell Telephone Company, who spent much time in preparing the decorations on the platform on which were placed the Christmas trees, burdened with their numerous gifts, Mr. Graham for his work in constructing the platform free of charge; the Salvation Army band for supplying music, ladies and gentlemen who directly assisted, and the churches of the city and the general public for their hearty co-operation and support.

Mr. E. L. Goodwill stated to-day that the exact number of children present at the entertainment last night in the market hall was 450. There was also about 125 parents. Owing to the wet weather the younger children of the House of Providence and Barnardo Home were unable to attend, but their share of the good things provided was sent to them today.

The Society wishes to thank ex-Ald. James G. Graham for building the platform, and China Hall for the use and supply of dishes.

Partello Stock Co. is a Good One

The Best Stock Co. That Has Played Here in Years—Good Play Last Evening

The opera house was well filled last evening, when the Partello Stock Co. opened its week's engagement. Its offering last evening was "The College Girl," by Justin Adams. The play is a bright comedy drama in four acts, dealing with the college life in a Yankee town. The Partello Stock Company is without doubt the finest popular price company that has played in the city since the new house was opened, its offerings being of the best and its people all top-liners.

Miss Alice Kennedy as Gail Dudleigh, an under-graduate and daughter of the professor was a grand success. Miss Kennedy, by her charming manner, very soon won the audience, and clearly proved herself to be a talented young actress, putting just the proper spirit into her part, making just the part of a care free, happy, American girl, fond of out-door college life. Ernest Kast, as Dana Worthington, a junior and a football player of good standing, but one who fell from grace by a shady deal, was all that could be desired for his part. The part that took with the male element, and most of the ladies, was that of "Billy" Bulloch, the rough-and-ready American football coach. This part was portrayed by "Jack" Westerman, in an excellent manner. This man seemed to be built for and around this part, and he certainly brought out all there was in it. Frank Sibley had a very hard part to play in, that of Brace Houton, the college sneak, thief and would-be murderer. Mr. Sibley handled this part in a highly creditable manner. The minor parts were all placed in safe hands.

The specialties introduced were new and original and called for loads of applause. The company carries all its own scenery, and it is certainly of the finest, the scenes used last evening being equal to any shown here this season. Another good point about the Partello Stock Company is, that although it puts on melodramas at popular prices, the melodramas are all good, wholesome shows, and five and six people do not have to be killed to make a fitting climax for each and every scene.—From the Daily British Whig, Tuesday, Dec. 24, 1907.

This company opens a five days' engagement at the Grand Opera House, commencing Tuesday night, Dec. 31st, with matinees on New Year's and Saturday.

When beef and pork are too salt, soak for several hours in one part milk and two parts water.

Monday is Nomination Day; Outlook in Peterborough

Contest for the Mayoralty is Assured--Looks Like Acclamation for the Board of Education and Water Commission.

Ten to eleven o'clock — Nomination for Mayoralty, Board of Education and Water Commission.

Eleven to twelve o'clock—Nomination for City Council.

The above is the programme for nomination day at the City Hall on Monday when candidates will be nominated for the mayoralty, City Council, Board of Education and Water Commission. The returning officer will be City Clerk Armstrong, and nominations must be made in the time specified.

The retiring member of the Water Commission is Mr. W. H. Hill, and he will be nominated for re-election. No opposition to his candidature has yet developed, and he will likely be returned by acclamation.

The retiring members of the Board of Education are Messrs. Dumble, Hill, Pringle, Burnham and Crane. As far as can be learned at the present time they will all be re-elected by acclamation.

That there will be a contest for the mayoralty is assured, Messrs. Bush and McWilliams both being in the field to stay. They will likely be the only candidates.

New aldermanic candidates are somewhat scarce, but nomination day may bring some surprises and make a contest necessary. Just at present there does not seem to be much interest in matters municipal, but after nomination day there may be more liveliness.

THE FEATHER BED.

It is a Poor Thing to Use Either in Summer or Winter.

"Few people, even physicians themselves, seem to know the principal reason why medical science condemns the use of feather beds in winter as well as in summer," said a New York physician recently.

"It is because feather beds are highly hygroscopic—a rather formidable word, but one meaning simply that feathers readily absorb and condense moisture. The body is constantly throwing off waste matter through the skin and the lungs. The feathers in the bed will absorb this waste matter as readily as it will simple atmospheric moisture. The feathers retain the waste matter during the day, when the bed is cold, even when it is aired, unless also warmed by sunshine during the time it is exposed to the air.

"At night, when the body of the sleeper warms the bed, the feathers renew their hygroscopic action and throw off the waste matter absorbed the night before. The susceptible body of the sleeper is soon surrounded by a dense and highly poisonous atmosphere, the accumulative effect of which cannot help but be very injurious.

"The skin, like the lungs, is continually breathing and is very sensitive to external influences; hence arises the need for air baths as well as for water baths. The entire body should be exposed to fresh air every day for as long a time as you can make possible, and all beds should be thoroughly ventilated."

COTTON IN INDIA.

The Way It Was Discovered by a Man Who Was an Observer.

A remarkable story is told about the discovery of the cotton plant in India some years ago. Two gentlemen were driving out to dinner near Bombay, one the host and the other his guest. On both sides of the road were hedges.

It was getting dark, but the guest noticed some white stuff on the top of the hedges all the way along and at length told his friend that he thought it looked like cotton. His friend ordered the native driver to stop, and the two Englishmen got down and examined. The guest was right. It was cotton of an extraordinary strong staple.

Both men were cotton experts, and yet the host, who had driven along the same road for years, had passed the cotton without recognizing it. The guest immediately proceeded to buy up these hedges, for except them there were none that he had seen during a twelve years' residence in India.

During his investigations he discovered that natives often had one or two cotton trees in their gardens, and the English club compounds possessed three or four in different parts of India, but nowhere except in this Bombay district did he see cotton growing in such luxuriant abundance.

He bought up every tree and plant he could, for not a single native European imagined that it was a cotton tree that he possessed in his garden.—Cotton Age.

Lighted Streets In Europe.

The best lighted street in Europe, declares a weekly paper, is Unter den Linden, in Berlin. Perhaps it is, but we would not be sure. In the torrent seamed hills of the Jura, where water power is as cheap as anywhere in the world, there are little French villages in which every tiny cottage has its electric light installation, and the central street, that one could almost jump across, is flooded by the beams of arc lamps that would do credit to the Strand. However, the Berlin boulevard, otherwise a disappointing thoroughfare, is certainly well illuminated. Plate glass, Pilsener and policemen are the three most striking features of that capital, but the lighting of the streets is a good fourth.—London News.

Moments That Counted.

Bacon's fame is mainly due to books written in his spare hours while he was England's chancellor. Humboldt's days were so occupied with his business that he had to pursue his scientific labors in the night or early morning. Burns wrote his most beautiful poems in his spare moments while working on a farm. Grote wrote his "History of Greece" during the odds and ends of time snatched from his duty as a banker. "Moments are the golden sands of time" if rightly used.

Grass Eggs.

When a hen is made sick eating too freely of grass she lays what are known as "grass eggs." Grass eggs are poor stuff. They have an unpleasant flavor, and the yolk wabbles around in a weak and watery white and is green and dull in color. The term is one applied by candlers, who discover while testing that there is a pale greenish hue to the eggs and that they are not at all of the bright, fresh color that we find in healthy eggs.

What He Wanted.

A very baldheaded man went into the barber shop in the American House in our town and, plumping himself down in the chair, said:

"Hair cut."

Ed, the barber, looked at him a moment and replied:

"Why, man, you don't need no hair cut. What you want is a shine."—Life.

Greater Discount in Water Rates if the By-law Carries

Proposition to Tax all Property Fronted by Mains Should be Carried by the People—An Important Statement by the Water Commissioners.

The Water Commissioners think it well to place before the ratepayers a short statement of the objects to be attained by the by-law that has been published and which is to be submitted to them to be voted upon on election day.

The intention is, that property fronted by a water main shall contribute towards the cost of such main an annual sum that bears a just rate to the value conferred on the property by the main. In the past much property (particularly vacant lots) thus benefited, has paid nothing whatever towards the large expense of laying the main, but such expense has had to be borne by the general water users. The Commissioners consider this to be an injustice, which the By-law will greatly if not altogether remedy. By thus placing the burden where it should be, the Commissioners feel that they will be able to increase the present discount of twenty-five per cent. on the rates to thirty-three and one-third per cent., which will effect a considerable saving to water consumers; thus, a twelve dollar water rate with twenty-five per cent. discount is nine dollars net, and with thirty-three and one-third per cent. discount, is eight dollars net.

The special rate in the by-law, as will be observed, is four and one-half cents per running foot which reduced by thirty-three and one-third per cent. discount for prompt payment, will be three cents per foot net, and a thirty foot lot will pay ninety cents per year with this proviso, however, that if the owner or occupant pays for the use of water for the same property ninety cents or over the front foot rate will be cancelled and only the water rate collected; but if no water rate is paid the front foot rate will be collected. If the front foot rate is greater than the water rate paid the excess of the former over the latter will also be paid.

The Commissioners are not aware of a single case in the city where if a water rate is paid at all it will not for the same property be in excess of the special rate, and then as pointed out there will only be the water rate less its discount to be paid.

In short, the object of the Commissioners is to cause vacant land fronted by a water main and thus enhanced in value, to pay a fair share of its cost, and likewise to compel occupied property where the owner refuses to take water to pay the frontage rate.

The Commissioners have given this matter much consideration and are of opinion that the By-law is in the interests of the city generally, and hope it may pass.

All ratepayers have the right to vote upon the By-law.

W. H. HILL,
W. H. MOORE,

Professional Etiquette.

An eminent physician had a valuable cow, which became sick and seemed likely to die. He asked an Irish servant who lived with him if he knew anybody who followed cow doctoring. The doctor's groom said, "There's Jemmy Lafferty, who can cure any cow in the world." "Well, then," replied the doctor, "go for Lafferty." The cow doctor accordingly came and treated the brute for four or five days, and on the lapse of due time he waited on Dr. Lewis and pronounced her cured.

The doctor, greatly delighted, put his hand on his pocketbook. "Well, Lafferty, what do I owe you?" "Owe me!" replied Jemmy, drawing himself up with dignity. "Nothing, sir. We doctors niver take money of one another."

"My first impulse," said the doctor while telling the story, "was to throw his fee after him, but on second thought the whole affair seemed so ridiculous that I bowed him my acknowledgments with as much gravity as I could assume."—London Telegraph.

Loaded Ivory.

An ivory dealer uttered a cry of rage.

"Done again!" he said. "Done out of $50!"

And he laid aside one of the tusks from the great heap that he had been examining.

"It is ballasted with lead," he said. "That is a common Kongo trick. The native when he gets a good big tusk of eighty pounds or so melts up ten or fifteen pounds of lead and pours it down into the tusk's hollow. He fills it, so to speak, as a dentist fills a tooth.

"We dealers know the dodge, and every tusk is gone over carefully for a lead filling. My new trader, though, is rather careless, and this is the second filled tusk that has been worked off on him in the last quarter."

The dealer's frown vanished, and he smiled.

"Of course the trader and not I will have to stand the loss," he said.—Minneapolis Journal.

Deadly East Indian Duels.

There are a good deal of savagery and stoical disregard of death left in the east yet despite the advance of civilization, and this extends to the so called sports of the people. Thus among the natives of Baroda there obtains still a kind of gladiatorial display in the shape of a fearful fist fight wherein the contestants wear a very formidable cestus of steel studded with murderous spikes. The duelists—usually big, brawny, athletic men who have been infuriated for the occasion with copious drafts of opium in which hemp is infused—enter the arena singing and set to with deliberate intent to kill, one or both invariably succumbing.

NEWS OF STRATFORD.

Boy Burglar Sentenced — Two Men Narrowly Escape Death.

Stratford, Dec. 28.—Anthony Steeves, one of the boys convicted of wholesale burglary in this city, was yesterday sentenced to two years in Kingston Penitentiary.

A peculiar accident happened in the parlor cafe car between Stratford and Goderich. A gasoleng pipe exploded, and the concussion slammed the door, locking the cook and the porter inside. Flames sprang up and the two men were in imminent danger of a horrible death. By breaking open the door of the kitchen when the fire started they managed to get away. Their clothing was badly burnt. The car was badly damaged, and was taken to Toronto for repairs.

Halifax School Closed.

Halifax, Dec. 28.—Compton Avenue Public school, an eight-roomed building, accommodating six hundred pupils, was gutted by fire last night. The loss will be about $20,000, with $9.500 insurance on the building and $1.250 on the furnishings. The janitors were cleaning the building during the day, and the fire is supposed to have originated from a fire in the basement which they used to heat water. The school had been closed for the holidays.

[illegible] on Trial.

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 27.—Rev. Dr. William H. Shaffer, presiding elder of the west district in the Philadelphia conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church was placed on trial before the ecclesiastical court here yesterday on the charge of conduct unbecoming a minister.

An anonymous letter which the former landlady of Dr. Shaffer declares she found in the wastepaper basket in his room, figures prominently the case. It is charged the letter was sent Dr. Shaffer by Mrs. Martha J. Deichley, a widow, and postmistress of Morgantown, Pa. The defence claims the letter in question is a forgery.

Famine In Turkey.

Boston, Mass., Dec. 27.—The American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions has received advices from the interior of Turkey, showing unusually severe famine conditions.

Teachers in the villages near Erzroom, whose salaries average $79.20 in American money, are obliged to pay $62.80 for a year's supply of wheat.

Mr. Herd, the British consul at Bitlis, reports that several hundred persons in the Moushplain and Bularik will probably starve to death before the winter closes unless relief reaches them soon.

INDIANS WERE EMBALMERS.

Cave In Birnie Island, B.C., Contains Remains of Ancient Chiefs.

The Dominion Government has just had its attention officially called to the fact that the Indians of by-gone years on the northern coast of British Columbia were possessed of some kind of art of embalming human remains. The results of an investigation just made form a very curious story.

The Federal Department of Marine recently established a lighthouse at Birnie Island, which lies off the harbor of Port Simpson, 400 miles north of Vancouver. The Government ordered a reserve of a thousand acres to be surveyed and gazetted for the site of the lighthouse and farm. Then there came a loud and angry complaint from the Tsimpsian Indians. They declared that in the Government's reserve had been included a cave in which had been buried since time immemorial their chiefs and subchiefs. They asked that this cave should be given back to the lands of the tribe. And they wanted immediate action.

Their letter was written in such a decided fashion that Capt. Walbran, of the Government marine service at Victoria, was immediately despatched to make a re-survey and give the land back to the Indians. He returned to Vancouver by the steamer Camousun, having carried out the wish of the natives. He visited the cave and found that it was filled to the entrance with human bodies apparently petrified. Some were in boxes, while others were in postures of sitting or standing or lying on the ground or stacked in tiers along the sides of the cave. The place was so well filled that the official was unable to enter. There was not the slightest trace of smell about the bodies, any more than if they had been stones. The Indians told him that no burials had been made in the cave for hundreds of years. All around the mouth of the cave were large deposits of a fine sand or powder, which reminded Capt. Walbran of a guano field on an island in the south seas. The popular belief of the Indians is that this powder is one of the agents which has kept the bodies from decaying, and has assisted their turning into stones.

Mr. Kipling's Canadian Tour.

Ontario and all Eastern Canada is deeply disappointed that Mr. Kipling upon the occasion of his recent visit to Canada should have only seen "The West from a Car Window" and the east not at all. The older provinces are always proud and never jealous of the West, into which they are sending their shekels and their sons. With all his powers as a word painter, it is hardly to be expected that Mr. Kipling can do justice to all of Canada. He has not seen the thriving cities and towns of Ontario, with its splendid railways, mills and manufacturing industries. He had only a fleeting glimpse of Toronto, and saw nothing of the score or more other industrial centres of the Dominion. It is too bad, Canadians believe, that he should have spent the most of the time which he was able to give to the study of conditions in the Dominion to the troubled shores of the Pacific. With no desire to minimize the seriousness of the labor disturbances out there, or to disguise the fact that Canada is in sore need of more men to carry forward the work in hand, Canadians would have been proud of some pen pictures by Mr. Kipling of the industrial east, where the people are prosperous and happy. This conviction is by no means local—it is widespread, universal.—Canada.

On Tuesday evening, the 17th inst., a very pleasant and profitable entertainment was given in connection with the Sabbath school of Bethel church. The body of the church and the school room adjoining were both well filled and many of the children remained standing during the evening. The entire programme was furnished by members of the school. The admission fee was only nominal, 10 and 15 cents, yet although the members of the school, over one hundred in number, were admitted free, the proceeds amounted to $27.25.

The following programme was rendered:—

During the intermission an impressive event took place, when our genial pastor, called to the platform the organist, Miss Clara Payne, who was made the recipient of a gold watch and chain. The following address was read by Mrs. John Grant, and the presentation made by Miss Ina Dunford. Miss Payne made a suitable reply.

The address was as follows:—

Miss Clara Payne:

Dear Friend,—We, the members and adherents of Bethel church and Sabbath school, realise that we are indebted to you for being organist in our church during the past eight or nine years. We have not been unmindful of the effort that was necessary on your part to enable you to be so punctually and regularly in your place, and believe it has been a "labor of love and good-will." Not only do we recognize your faithfulness to duty, but we value more highly your loyalty to the high and holy obligations of the followers of Christ.

And we now feel the time has come when we should show our appreciation of your services in some tangible way, and therefore ask you to accept the gold watch and chain as a token of our love and regard; and may you and all of us be assured that our Heavenly Father looks down with approval on every effort to do something worthy in His cause.

Christmas is very near; may we all enjoy that day, and remember the "Christ of Bethlehem," and may we each and all at last have the Master's commendation, "Well done."

Signed on behalf of Bethel church.

Festival of St. John the Evangelist; Masonic Officers are Installed

Large Gathering of the Craft in Honor of the Day and Occasion—Presentation to Rt. W. Bro. Duncan Walker, D. D. G. M.—Enjoyable Banquet Held and Pleasing Toast List Carried Out.

The anniversary of the festival of St. John the Evangelist is ever a red letter day in Masonic annals throughout the English speaking world.

On that date, December 27th, the members of craft commemorate their patron saint and pay reverence to him whom tradition says was an eminent Grand Master, whose watchword was live for fellow men, whose mission was help and brotherly love, and whose noble deeds are followed and exemplified by Masons throughout the globe. The occasion—St. John's day — is marked in Peterborough by the installation of officers in Corinthian lodge No. 101 and Peterborough lodge No. 155, A.F. & A.M. The installing officer was Rt. W. Bro. THE BANQUET.

The banquet which followed in the spacious dining room was admirably managed and proved to be highly enjoyable. There was a large attendance including a number of visiting brethren. W. Bro. J. G. M. Wilson ably occupied the chair, while W. Bro. M. A. Morrison made an acceptable vice-chairman. After full justice had been done the excellent menu an interesting programme of toasts and songs was introduced. The first toast "The King, the protector of the Craft," was proposed by the chairman and loyally honored. Rt. W. Bro. R. E. Wood, was sponsor for the next toast, "The Grand Master and the Grand Lodge of Canada." The speaker briefly traced the early history of Masonry in Canada and told of the inception of the Grand Lodge in 1855. He referred to the personnel of the Grand Lodge, all of whom were men occupying the highest positions, men of honor, of principle and of worth. Masonry in Canada was united from one end of the country to the other and was doing a noble work and instilling exalted principles.

Rt. W. Bro. Duncan Walker, who responded, was accorded a hearty reception. He warmly thanked Peterborough and Corinthian lodges for electing him as their representative to Grand Lodge, which was a noble institution. He felt that Corinthian and Peterborough lodges were the banner ones of the district. There were 397 A.F. & A.M. lodges in Ontario and the jurisdiction was owing to rapidly increasing numbers becoming somewhat unwieldy. In a few years the Grand Lodge might take into consideration the advisability of revising its constitution and have subordinate bodies represent subordinate lodges and the central body represent the intermediate bodies. Men successful in all walks of life were found in Masonic lodges, laying deep the foundation of that noble body. He advised the lodges to guard well their portals and urged upon the members the importance of regularity in attendance at the meetings.

The D.G.G.M. emphasized the necessity of all contributing to the semi-centennial fund to pay up as rapidly as possible. Rt. W. Bro. Walker referred to the great work of charity. In three years the Grand Lodge had paid into Otonabee district for this purpose $2,300, while the district had paid out only $1,900, so that in that period they had been favored by the Grand Lodge to the extent of $400. Peterborough alone in three years had received $1,220 from Grand Lodge for charitable purposes. The speaker was pleased to report that the work of the district was in effective and excellent shape. He referred to the affliction suffered by Lorne lodge, No. 13, Omemee, in being burned out and losing their fine lodge rooms. In closing he urged upon the members to live up to their principles as Masons and put in practice as individuals these principles which would result in eradicating corruption, intemperance and many present day evils.

Bro. Wm. Mollroy sang in impressive manner, "Canada my Country," and was liberally applauded. Bro. F. H. Dobbin next gave a humorous sketch, "The average Man," which evoked much merriment.

W. Bro. John Crane then offered "The newly installed officers" as a toast. This was cordially drunk and drew forth terse, bright speeches from W. Bro. T. F. Matthews and W. Bro. E. E. Lord. They both warmly thanked their respective lodges for the honor conferred upon them and hoped to discharge the duties and responsibilities in a fitting manner during the year.

W. Bro. Matthews announced that after twenty-five years of service his company had given him three months leave of absence and he expected to leave at the end of January on a three months trip to the East.

Bro. Marcus Bennett in fine voice sang "Down in the depths below," which was admirably given.

"The day and those who honor it." was proposed in a most instructive and thoughtful speech by W. Bro. M. W. Morrison. He spoke of the festival of St. John the Evangelist, its importance, significance and how Masons honored it.

Rt. W. Bro. W. J. Drope of Grimsby, sang "Bro. Masons" in an inimitable manner and as an encore gave "When father joined the lodge." Both selections were very witty and created a decided hit.

Rt. W. Bro. A. Gibson offered a toast to the "Visiting Brethren," extending to them a glad welcome. Rt. W. Bro. Drope was the first to answer. He said that he was still a member of Peterborough lodge and was glad to get back to visit the members of the craft. He paid a glowing tribute to the worth of the late Grand Secretary, Most W. Bro. Hugh Murray, of Hamilton, who was identified with many organizations, including the famous Tiger football club. A member of that body was present tonight in the person of Bro. Ben Simpson. Rt. W. Bro. Drope said the Grand Lodge would meet at Niagara District next year and he would like the representatives from Peterborough to drop off and spend a day or two at "Lake Lodge" school, Grimsby. They would find the latch string open. The speaker said that the lodge of his adoption, Union lodge, Grimsby, had recently celebrated its 106 anniversary. He was pleased as historian of that lodge to say that even the earliest minutes were still preserved and formed a most interesting study some of the early secretaries using common brown paper. W. Bro. R. Q. Dench, of Lakefield, and Bro. H. B. Collins also made neat responses. W. Bro. W. Stocker then sang "War, war, war," and this stirring number was splendidly given. Bro. David Moore entertained the banqueters with two choice readings, the first being "The tenderfoot's ride." Bro. Moores numbers scored a hit and aroused much enthusiasm.

Rt. W. Bro. Walkey proposed a toast to the "Absent Brethren," and referred to former members of Corinthian and Peterborough lodges now scattered all over the continent, who though not present in body, were present in spirit. The toast was well received.

Bro. E. V. Moore next favored with a song in good style, after which Bro. Dr. J. M. McCulloch offered a toast "The retiring officers." W. Bro. J. D. Craig and W. Bro. J. Jeffries were coupled with the toast, the former replied in appropriate remarks, and W. Bro. Tovey spoke on behalf of W. Bro. Jeffries, who was unable to be present.

A PRESENTATION.

After another excellent song by Bro. Mollroy, W. Bro. J. G. M. Wilson proposed the health of the "Installing Master," and requested W. Bro. Matthews to present Rt. W. Bro. Duncan Walker with a Past District Deputy Grand Lodge Regalia.

W. Bro. Matthews made the presentation in a well timed speech and referred to the loss that the brethren felt at Mr. Walker's removal from the city, but they all hoped that by St. John's day next year he would become a resident here again. The officers and members of the lodge had derived much assistance and support from Rt. W. Bro. Walker.

The latter in responding was deeply touched and said since occupying the position, he had one favor after another bestowed upon him. He had received greater benefit from them than they from him. Of this he felt sure. He appreciated deeply the honor, but thought the sense that a man was endeavoring to do his duty should be ample recompense. Mr. Walker referred to his regret at leaving Peterborough and thanked W. Bro. J. G. M. Wilson and others for the good work performed. He congratulated the newly elected officers in both lodges and felt sure they would have the warm support of the brethren. In conclusion he spoke of the advantages of Corinthian and Peterborough lodges visiting other lodges and putting on the work and also the advisibility of forming a Masonic choir. He paid a tribute to the memory of the late Adam Dawson and again thanked all for their kindness.

Bro. Bennett next sang "Down in the Deep," after which the Junior Warden's toast was given and the company dispersed with the singing of the National Anthem and Auld Lang Syne.

Festival of St. John

On Dec. 27th throughout the British Empire the large majority of the lodges of the Fraternity of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons meet, many for the purpose of installing their officers for the coming year, after which a banquet or dinner is held in the evening, when the brethren enjoy a few hours of pleasant intercourse.

The Fraternity of Freemasons is the oldest of fraternal associations and can trace its history for about 500 years, previous to that no definite record is in existence and the history is therefore traditional. Many writers have endeavored to trace its origin beyond that date, but the present day historian throws out everything not proven and claims only that which can show evidence.

Among some of the earlier writers in the fraternity, Dewitt Clinton admits that its origin is difficult to trace and says;—

FREEMASONRY; ITS ORIGIN.

"Of all the institutions which have been established for the purpose of improving the condition of mankind, Freemasonry stands pre-eminent in usefulness as it is in age. Its origin is lost in the abyss of unexplored antiquity. No historical records, no traditionary accounts can with certainty point out the precise time, the place, or the particular manner of its commencement. While some have endeavored to discover its footsteps amongst the master-builders and artists engaged in the construction of the first Jewish temple, others have attempted to trace it to the Eleusinian mysteries, which are said to have taught the immortality of the soul and the other sublime truths of natural religion. Some again have ascribed its rise to the sainted heroes of the Crusades; while others have endeavored to penetrate the mysteries of the Druids, and to discover its origin amongst the wise men of that institution."

HISTORY OF FREEMASONRY.

The difficulty of arriving at the precise time, place or circumstances in which Masonry or its true prototype began, has been encountered by every writer upon the subject. Some, over anxious for the dignity of the fraternity have represented it as coeval with the world. Others, more moderate, find its origin in the religious mysteries of the ancient world, and particularly in a supposed branch of those religious associations formed by the architects of Tyre, who, under the name of the "Dionysian Fraternity," constituted an association of builders, exclusively engaged in the construction of temples and other prominent edifices in Asia Minor, and who were distinguished by the use of secret signs and other modes of mutual recognition.

Without adopting any untenable opinions, we are justified in avowing that the institution must have been framed by a people who had made considerable advance in science. The Egyptians in the time of Moses were proficient in all the arts and sciences, as the gigantic works constructed in those early ages, still existing, prove. Their language was mystical, and their priests secured the mysteries of their religion from the knowledge of the vulgar or unitiated by symbols and hieroglyphics, comprehensible alone to those of their order. The fraternity of Ancient Egypt was denominated the Hiero Lactomi, or Sacred Builders. They selected caste and connected with the government and priesthood, being in fact Masons of the priestly order, whilst the ordinary Masons or artificers were of an inferior caste. The intent and purpose of those stupendous fabrics, the pyramids, were a great mystery, and a mystery they still remain. Moses was initiated into the secrets and mysteries of the priestly order when in Egypt, and some have imagined the Hebrews assisted in the construction of the pyramids; but, in all probability, these wondrous efforts of Masonic skill were hoary with age when the children of Israel settled in the land of Goshen, and were emblems of sublime truths to a civilized nation, when Abraham was a wanderer in the wilderness. By Egyptian colonists, according to our Biblical chronology, the arts were carried to Greece two or three centuries before the age of Moses. By the Israelites a purer knowledge of building was carried to the promised land, and when they became a settled people, the remembrance of the stupendous edifices they had seen in Egypt, led them to attempt constructions suited to their future home. But it is evident that by the death of their great leader, Moses, the Israelites were not in full possession of the knowledge requisite to complete the glorious fabric which the G.A.O.T.U. had in vision to King Edward directed his son Solomon to erect; as we find by Holy Writ, that "the wisest man," needed the assistance of the King of Tyre. Tyre and Sidon were the chief cities of the Phoenicians; the latter boasts an antiquity anterior to any other whose site can be determined. It was a place of considerable importance in the time of Joshua, who speaks of it as "great Sidon." Hence it is evident that the Phoenicians were far advanced in the arts of life, when the Israelites reached the promised land. When Solomon was about to build the temple, he communicated to the King of Tyre his wish to enter into an engagement for the supply of timber, knowing, as he said, "that there is not amongst us any that can skill to hew timber like the Sidonians." The answer of the Tyrian king is remarkable: "I will do all thy desire concerning timber of cedar, and concerning timber of fir; my servants shall bring them down from Lebanon unto the sea, and I will convey them by sea in floats, unto the place that thou shall appoint me, and I will cause them to be discharged there." (I. Kings, v. 8, 9). Solomon was highly pleased with the answer of the Tyrian king, and in return he made him yearly presents of the most costly kinds. Hiram sent him also a man of his own name, a Tyrian by birth, but of Israelitish parentage, who was honored by his king with the title of father, and is called Hiram Abiff, the most accomplished designer and operator then known in the country, whom he made Principal Surveyor and Master of the Work. That no confusion might arise, owing to the great numbers employed, King Solomon selected those of most enlightened minds and comprehensive understandings, religious men, and zealous in good works, as masters to superintend the workmen; men skilled in geometry and proportions, who had been initiated and proved in the mystical learning of the ancient sages—these he made overseers of the work. To carry on this stupendous work with greater ease and speed, Solomon ordered all the craftsmen, as well as natives and foreigners, to be numbered and classed as follows, viz: Harodin, princes, rulers, or provosts, 300; Menatzchim, overseers, 3,300; Ghiblin, stone-squarers, 80,000; the levy out of Israel, at work in Lebanon, 30,000, The older traditions of Masonry say "that the only actual Masons who were present at the building of the Temple, were the three thousand overseers mentioned in I. Kings, v. 16, added to the three hundred who were called Ghiblimites, and were in fact masters over all the operative Masons employed in the work." This arrangement produced the happiest effects, and introduced among the workers that perfect harmony and universal brotherhood which is so often referred to in the ancient charges of the Order as an example of what order and system can do.

The Whirling Dervishes.

Those spirits on the hunt for "sensations" in Constantinople will wish to "take in" the dervishes. The whirling clan have a convenient convent on the Grand Rue, where their circumnavigations may be witnessed at 7:30 o'clock on Friday evening for the admission of 10 cents. This weird performance personifies the solar system and is exactly ordered in all its phases. After preliminary circuits of the ring in single file to the discordant accompaniment of flute and tambourine the robed and turbaned dervishes commence their turning. With arms outstretched, the right palm upward to beseech blessings, the left depressed to signify mercy bestowed, the head is bent upon the right shoulder. The rapid revolving upon the right heel is effected by employing the left toes as motive power. As the circling accelerates, the long white skirts dilate until they stand out stiff after the manner of the attenuated garment of the premiere danseuse. Very little space is allotted to each priest, and it seems strange that there are no collisions. The dance ceases in an hour or so with the men exhausted. —Travel Magazine.

Boys' Use of Barometers.

Every English schoolboy who can afford it has a barometer that he keeps hidden under his bed or in his trunk, for in all English schools barometers are strictly forbidden to the pupils. Why should they be forbidden? Why should they be desired? Through the autumn and winter the English schoolboy plays football every afternoon, weather permitting. He must play two hours each clear day. These two hours are taken off his recitations. They make his school tasks two hours lighter; hence when he knows beforehand that the next day will be clear he may spare himself two hours of useless study the night before. His barometer pointing to "fine" saves him a lot of toil. But when the instrument points to "change" then the schoolboy knows that there will be no football. Thus a boy with a barometer has a big advantage. He often sells weather predictions at a penny apiece.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Giants Not Long Lived.

Giants are not long lived, says Dr. Woods Hutchinson in the American Magazine. "Of nearly 100 names recorded I have been able to find the ages at death of only eighteen, as follows:

Lewis Wilkins	23
The Giant Constantin	30
Charles Byrne, the Irish Giant	22
Cornelius McGrath	23
James Toller	24
Thomas Hasler	25
The Minnesota Giant	19
The Norfolk Giant	43
Patrick Cotter	46
Clerk in Bank of England	32
C. Munster	45
J. Winckelmeier	23
The Kentucky Giant	22
Lady Aama	19
S. Botis	37
Peter Tuchan	29
The Peruvian Giant	30
Antonius of Syria	25

"This makes an average longevity of barely twenty-eight years, or only a third as many years as they had inches. A giant living to a good old age is a thing unheard of."

America's First Book.

The first book printed in America was "The Eccale Espiritual Para Fiegar al Cielo" (Spiritual Ladder For Reaching Heaven). It was printed in the City of Mexico in the early part of 1537 by Juan Pablos on a press brought from Europe by Fra Julan de Zumarraga, first bishop of Mexico. The first attempt at a newspaper in America was the Mercurio Volante (Flying Mercury), Mexico, 1693. The first Indian school was founded in 1524, and industrial schools for Indians date back to 1543. "Half a century before our overland pony express was inaugurated there were regular monthly mails the length of Spanish-America—from Paraguay to San Francisco, a little matter of 6,800 miles."—M. A. Lamburg in Scottdale Independent.

Howler and Healer.

Rokitansky, the father of the well known operatic singers, was professor of pathology at the Vienna university. Besides the two singers he had another couple of sons, who had acquired a certain celebrity as medical men. One day when the old professor was asked how his sons were getting on he replied, shaking his head:

"You see, friends, two of them heal and the other two howl, and the howlers earn four times as much as the healers!"—London Standard.

The Philosophical Father.

The old man had finally succeeded in marrying off two of his seven daughters.

"Your girls have been blessings," said the officiating clergyman after the double ceremony.

"Yes," the old man huskily asserted, "they are the sort of blessings that brighten as they take their flight." —Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Couldn't Take the Job.

An inland graduate came to New York to seek employment. Through a friend he received an offer of a place as shipping clerk to a certain firm. In reply he wrote as follows: "I regret that I cannot accept your kind offer of a position as shipping clerk, but the fact is that I am always sick when on the water."—Success Magazine.

Persuasion.

"I can't marry you," she said. "You are old enough to be my father."

"Don't hesitate on that account. Ten years from now nobody will suspect it."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Jos. Morrison Repeatedly Stabbed His Nephew in Row on Christmas Night

Two Got Into Altercation at Gooderham and Morrison Drew Knife on Madill—Blood Flowed Freely—Finally Overpowered and Arrested by Constable—Madill in Hospital, Morrison in Gaol.

Lindsay, Dec. 28.—The little village of Gooderham, in Haliburton county, was the scene of a vicious stabbing affair on Christmas Eve, wherein a young man named Roland Madill received injuries which may prove fatal. Among the arrivals from the camps was Roland Madill, 23 years of age, who was on his way to his home in Monmouth township, seven miles distant, where a wife and children were awaiting him. During his stay he met his uncle, James Morrison, a married man, aged about 50 years, whose home is in the village, and whilst the two were conversing in front of Barr's general store Morrison became suddenly enraged and attacked his nephew with a knife, inflicting five deep wounds before help arrived, two in the side, one in the back, and two in the shoulder. The weapon used was a hunter's knife, having a long blade.

The wounded man was carried into the nearest house and a doctor sent for, who found it difficult to stanch the flow of blood. In the meantime Constable John Kennedy arrested Morrison. There being no lock-up in the village, he was compelled to confine the prisoner in a room in his own dwelling.

The wounded man was brought to the Ross Hospital, Lindsay, and is in a critical condition. No theory can be advanced as to the cause of the deadly assault.

Former Peterboro' Man Wins Case in Edmonton

Mr. G. N. Gordon received word this morning from Edmonton that Mr. Austin Dunn, former proprietor of the Southern Hotel, city, and a former client of Mr. Gordon's, had won judgment for $1,000 and costs, against Thos. Edwards, also formerly of Peterborough, appeared for Mr. Dunn, and won for him.

Mr. Dunn first owned an hotel in Port Arthur, but afterwards bought one from Callaghan in Edmonton, over which the dispute arose.

Hector Smith Wants Warrant For George Moncrief's Arrest

Was Sitting in Latter's House When he Threatened to Shoot Him—Smith Alleges Moncrief Says he Will Shoot Him at Sight—No Cause for Moncrief's Action is Known.

Hector Smith, of Cavendish, was in the city today to lay a serious charge against George Moncrief, also of that township. Mr. Smith states that on the 26th of December he was going to the Ketchecum post office for his mail, and was passing the residence of Mr. Moncrief, when some of the members of the family requested him to get their mail, too. He complied with the request and was sitting in the house, he states, when Moncrief rushed in and, ordering him out, went to strike him. He naturally defended himself, and Moncrief rushed to a room for a revolver. Mr. Smith deeming that discretion was the better part of valor, in view of the fact that he was unarmed, ran out of the house, away from the place of danger." He had a long conversation with County Police Magistrate Edmison this morning, with a view of securing a warrant for Moncrief's arrest, and the latter, after much deliberation, referred him to County Crown Attorney Wood.

"I think the man should be placed under arrest," said Mr. Smith to the Review this morning. "He has threatened to shoot me at sight, and it seems to me that for my protection he should not be at large."

He says he can give no reason for Moncrief's attitude towards him.

Lieut.-Governor Will Visit City

On Occasion of Big Demonstration on Dominion Day

In connection with the big demonstration to be held in Peterborough on July 1st, His Worship Mayor McWilliams has received word from the private secretary of Sir Mortimer Clarke, Lieut.-Governor of the Province, to the effect that His Honor will be pleased to accept the city's invitation and come to Peterborough on July 1st, provided he is in the province at that time.

FOR PASSEPARTOUT WORK

The fad for passepartout pictures is again growing a favorite for pretty pictures and are always appreciated. One can always find room for a couple more on the walls and every one has their favorite subject, some like scenery, others historical subjects, many like kittens and one boy in the city has the walls of his bedroom fairly covered with pictures of dogs—small and large. When mounted on a suitable background and passepartouted they are very pretty and inexpensive to make up. The Review has a large stock of pictures in sepia and colors mounting papers and passepartout to match. Call and see them at the REVIEW Office, Hunter street. 3d

Lemon juice is very beneficial to the system and should be used in place of vinegar in foods requiring an acid.

HOCKEY

Local hockey enthusiasts should not pay too much attention to the report from Port Hope that the Lake Ontario team will be weak this season. When Port Hope can't scratch up a pretty fair hockey aggregation things will be looking pretty blue, and the other teams in the district want to keep their sights open. The Peterborough Strathconas play their first league fixture in Port Hope on New Year's day, and a strong team will be sent down. Peterborough is banking on having the strongest forward line in the district, with a defence that will stand a lot of beating.

C. R. Hanning, town clerk and treasurer of Preston, has resigned.

Mr. John Perrault, 385 Davidson street, Boulevard St. Paul, near Montreal, Canada, writes:

"I have been a bicyclist for over five years, and last spring I caught cold and did not take anything for it, for I thought it was not bad enough, but it came to catarrh. I was so discouraged that I didn't know what to do. I could not sleep; I always felt tired and troubled.

"Finally I began to take Peruna. After I had taken one bottle I felt better. I took another one, and now I am well. I would like to always feel as I do to-day. I often recommend Peruna to my friends."

Close Confinement.

Mr. G. W. Woodbury, Rogers, Ohio, formerly Captain and Center of the Hiram College Basket Ball Team, writes:

"There are times in the life of every student when excessive study and too close confinement and attention to the object in view will tell on your health.

"I have found that when body and mind alike are weary and refuse to work, a few doses of Peruna restores lost strength and invigorates one quicker and more permanently than anything I know.

"It gives one nerves of iron and muscles of steel, and assists the mental activities together with the physical to a wonderful degree."

The athlete knows the importance of being in fine form. Peruna is a valuable assistant to anyone who wishes to keep himself in vigorous health every day.

Coffin Contained Human Remains

Latest Development in Druce Case—No Lead Found in Casket

Special to the Review.

London, Dec. 30. — The body of Thomas Charles Druce, in Highgate cemetery, was exhumed this morning just 43 years to a day after its burial.

The coffin was found to contain the remains of a human body, thus exploding the romantic tales told by Robert C. Caldwell and others, who swore during the recent hearing of the Druce perjury case that it contained a roll of lead.

The official statement given out by representatives of the home office, seems effectively to confirm that the body buried in 1864 was actually that of T. C. Druce. The authorized statement follows: "The coffin was opened and found to contain the body of a bearded man. The plate on coffin bore the name, Thomas Charles Druce."

The specialties given between acts by The Partello Stock Co. are alone well worth the price of admission.

Entertainment at Springville

Enjoyable Function Held Under Auspices of Sunday School

The annual Christmas entertainment of the Presbyterian church Sunday school at Springville was held Friday night and despite the unfavorable weather the church was packed, chairs having to be placed in the aisles to accommodate the people. The programme was an exceedingly interesting one and reflected great credit upon those who had arranged it and those taking part.

The reports presented showed that the past year had been a most successful one, there being a good cash balance on hand. The children taking part in the programme took their parts splendidly and received valuable assistance from the young men and young ladies of the congregation and the choir. Miss Margaret Berry, of South Monaghan, and Mr. Laycock, of Walker's Falls added greatly to the programme with readings and recitations.

Three presentations were features of the evening. Mr. Vernon Trew, the bell ringer, of the church, was given a handsome chain by the managers and officer bearers as a token of their appreciation of his efficient services. Dr. March made the presentation. The congregation presented their pastor, Rev. Dr. March with a handsome otter cap, and Mrs. March with a purse of gold. Messrs. March with a purse of gold. Messrs. Albert Sanderson and Chas. Johnson made the presentations. Suitable replies were made.

"The Mechanical HMan" was one of the features of the programme, the gentleman having to be seen to be appreciated.

We have in stock a large consignment of very choice Crackers, suitable for evening parties—R. A. DUTTON

Sold His Overcoat for $1.50 to Keep Away Starvation

Sad Story of the Hard Luck of an Englishman--Impossible to Get Work--Shovelled Snow for His Breakfast This Morning.

A particularly sad case of the poverty of an Englishman having just recently come to this country, was related today to a Review reporter. Wm. Austin, an industrious and respectable looking man of about fifty years of age, called at Mr. Richard Sheehy's residence this morning and asked for work, having heard that men were wanted to take out stone back at Clear Lake. So anxious to work was the old fellow, that as soon as he heard that laborers were wanted, he lost no time in seeing the contractor. However, Mr. Sheehy had all the men he required, and once more the man turned away, further convinced that it was impossible for him to obtain employment. He has only been in Peterborough four days, having come here from Western Ontario. He did his utmost to secure work, having offered to do anything if only to receive his board in return. He is a miner by trade, and a wife and family in Lancashire, England, are depending on him for support. He wants to go back to England if he can get the money. So hungry was he a few weeks ago, as a last resource, he sold his overcoat for $1.50, and is now going about the streets with nothing but a thin jacket. His breakfast this morning was the first meal he has had since Saturday, and he obtained it by shovelling snow for a lady on Charlotte street.

The man is certainly deserving of assistance. He is anxious to work, and his appearance impresses one as that of an honest and upright fellow.

James Peterson, proprietor of Peterson's Iron Works, Winnipeg, had his skull fractured recently by the bursting of an emery wheel.

FOOT AFFLICTIONS
"One of the 14"

Ordinary-Insides

Ask any surgeon or physician or orthopedic specialist what sort of a shoe to wear and he'll tell you to get one that's shaped like the human foot, with a strong, well-raised arch. Why? Because the foot rests naturally, in an anatomically correct shoe, and because the raised arch holds the heel firmly against the back, thus preventing the toes from jamming and crowding into the narrowness of the shoe's fore part.

Cramping of the toes in this manner is the cause of all foot ailments, such as corns, bunions, deformed toes, ingrowing nails, etc. Ask any authority.

As Dolly Vardens are copies of perfect feminine feet, they are anatomically correct in shape, and as they are built with a strong, well-raised steel arch, they prevent the toes from slipping forward.

The Dolly Varden agent will convince you if given a chance. Purchasers or investigators equally welcome. $4.00 to $5.00 in Canada and the States. Every pair Goodyear welted.

Another Blaze in Toronto; Considerable Damage Was Done

"Skyscraper" Fire in Heart of Wholesale Section.

Several Firemen Severely Injured—Top Floor of Hees & Co.'s Building Gutted—Losses Estimated at $75,000—Burned Warehouse Contained Much Inflammable Material—Damage Covered by Insurance.

Toronto, Dec. 30.—Fire destroyed the top flat of the fine five storey building owned by George Hees, Son & Co., at 58 Bay street, on Saturday afternoon. The loss totals about $75,000. Two firemen were injured while working with the water tower.

Although in the heart of the city, the flames had broken through the roof before they were observed, and then it was James Pritchard, from the sixth floor of the I. O. F. Temple, several blocks away, who first sent in the alarm by telephone. That was just about 5 o'clock, and some of the apparatus were delayed a little in getting through the crowded thoroughfares.

The situation called for the sterner kind of fire-fighting. The whole flat, with lots of inflammable material, was entirely in flames. A partition separated the stairway from the rest of the flat and the firemen had to lift the nozzles of their hose branches over the partition. At times the heat and smoke was so terrific that the men had to retreat downstairs.

The Hees building is built on fireproof lines of mill construction. The ceilings are of three-inch hardwood, and there was a space between the upper ceiling and the roof of about 35 inches. The fire got in here and burned tenaciously and the deputy and his men had hours of work chopping through and extinguishing the last vestige of fire.

While lowering the water tower, the clutch in the reel slipped and the large handle got beyond control. Lieut. Davidson had his right arm broken in two places and the blood vessels of his left hand were ruptured, causing the hand to be terribly swollen. Lieut. Gordon of the water tower had his arms severely bruised.

Fireman Guinane had his nose broken and Fireman Hurd also went off duty yesterday as a result of injuries.

The losses are:

George Hees, Son & Co., window blinds, etc. Damage to building $5,000; damage to stock, $25,000.

Turner & Hamilton, manufacturers' agents; loss between $7,000 and $8,000.

Clarke & Clarke, leather goods, stock valued at $20,000, estimated damage by water $10,000.

Pocock Bros. & Co., stove manufacturers, stock valued at $30,000. damage, $20,000.

Wrench, McLaren & Co., smallwares, etc., stock worth $20,000; loss about $8,000.

The loss by water could largely have been eliminated had the building been provided with so-called "scrubbing" floors, which are slightly curved to allow water to run into drainways on either side, and so led direct from the building. As it was, the water rushed down the stairs in torrents and the entire building was drenched.

The greater part of the losses are covered by insurance.

It is only a month ago that the Hees Co.'s factory was damaged to the extent of several thousand dollars by the collapse of a huge water tank.

Married—Then Bride Refused to Go Home With Husband.

Pittsburg, Dec. 30.—For a year Samuel Wallace of Latchford, Ont., courted by letter 18-year-old Pearl Richards, soloist in the choir of the First Christian Church of Braddock. Last July he came to Braddock and married the little miss, returning home alone, and for six months the entire Richards family has coaxed the young bride in vain to join her husband in Ontario. Finally on Christmas eve, the groom came on to Pittsburg, announcing that he would not return until he took his bride with him. Saturday night the wedding, which had been kept secret, was announced, and the bride began preparations for her trip.

The young people's courtship started through the correspondence department of a magazine. The young man came on from his home in Ontario, where his father is chief timber inspector for the province, 48 hours before the wedding. After the ceremony, the bride cried that she could not leave the home of her childhood. Young Wallace returned to Canada and his parents joined in his entreaties. The girl steadfastly refused, until the husband appeared last week accompanied by his mother.

John Rees, of Weston, is dead, as a result of a car accident.

THE WATCHERS WATCHED.

Police Keep Vigil Within the Cemetery About Druce Grave.

London, Dec. 30.—Scores of policemen and detectives are tramping to and fro about the hastily-constructed shack over a grave in Highgate cemetery, on the outskirts of London, last night. Outside the cemetery are still others keeping a silent vigil—representatives respectively of the Sixth Duke of Portland and Lord Howard de Walden on one hand and George Hollamby Druce on the other, who in turn are watching the policemen and the detectives.

The grave itself now holds the centre of the stage in the drama played before the public for more than a dozen years. Asserting that the Fifth Duke of Portland led a double life and was one and the same with Thomas Charles Druce, the claimant, son of Druce's eldest son, demands the title and estates. He asserts that the funeral of Druce was a mockery, planned by the duke when he tired of his double life.

If when the coffin reveals its secret to-day the assertions of the claimant to title, vast wealth and estates of the Duke of Portland be justified, those empowered by law to open it will find within nothing but 170 pounds of lead; otherwise, it will reveal the remains of Thomas Charles Druce, thus proving that such an individual really lived, separate and apart from any dual personality assumed by the eccentric Fifth Duke of Portland. In the latter contingency the complete fabric of the claimant's case will of course fall to the ground, and with it the curtain on the last scene of a remarkable drama.

The first step in the work of opening the grave was taken yesterday, when the great three-ton monument which marks the resting place of the Druce family was removed. All in attendance at the grave have been sworn to secrecy, so that the result of the investigation will not be known until the experts give evidence in the Police Court.

To Invade Guatemala.

Puerto Cortez, Honduras, Dec. 30.—An expedition is being organized at Belize, British Honduras, for the purpose of making an armed invasion of Guatemala, according to advices received here, and Gen. Lee Christmas, formerly of Memphis, Tenn., who has recovered from his wound received last July during the war between Nicaragua and Honduras, is recruiting a force at Puerto Barrios, an Atlantic port of Guatemala.

U. S. Consulates Closed.

Lethbridge, Alta., Dec. 30.—O. L. Bowman, U. S. consular-general here, has received word from the consul in Calgary that this agency will be discontinued. The consular agencies in Fernie, Rossland and Nelson have also been discontinued.

American Fleet Sails.

Port of Spain, Dec. 30.—The American fleet sailed at 4 p. m. yesterday for Rio Janeiro.

PLOT AGAINST COUNCIL

Another Revolutionary Conspiracy Unearthed in Russia.

Explosives, Plans, and Documents Were Discovered — Newspaper Offices Raided—Conspirators Disguised as Reporters — Over Hundred Members of Staff Arrested — But Proved Their Innocence and Were Released.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 30.—In unearthing another revolutionary conspiracy the police Saturday rounded up the newspaper offices of the Sovremnoye Slavoe and Segodyna and arrested one hundred members of the respective staffs.

The police had previously seized a quantity of explosives and plans and documents belonging to an extensive terrorist organization showing that a plot was afoot to bomb the building of the Council of the Emperor.

The idea of the conspirators was to obtain entry to the building as newspaper reporters and editors. A majority of the members of the staffs of the two newspapers convinced the authorities of their innocence of the whole affair and were released.

FAMINE APPROPRIATION.

Russian Douma Pass Vote of $7,500,000 For Relief Works.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 30.—The last session of the Russian Parliament before the beginning of the Christmas holidays was held Saturday, and a famine appropriation of $7,500,000 was passed.

This appropriation with a few local bills comprises the entire legislative product of the first six weeks' work of the third Douma. Committee work, however, is well advanced and the Douma will be in a position to begin consideration of the budget and several other important measures soon after the recess, which terminates on Jan. 23.

The famine appropriation which is double the amount originally proposed in the budget, will be immediately available for the relief of about 12 provinces. An additional appropriation will be necessary later.

A large part of the money voted Saturday is to be distributed through the Zemstvos and other local organizations. This course is adopted because the centralization of relief work, such as obtained in 1906, showed the danger of abuses, as, for instance, the Gurko-Lidval case.

FRENCH GENERAL RECALLED.

Bolder Operations Will Be Commenced In Morocco.

Paris, Dec. 30.—It is already apparent that the replacing of Gen. Drude by Gen. D'Armade, marks the beginning of a more energetic policy in Morocco. There is reason to believe that Gen. Drude's recall is due as much to dissatisfaction with hesitating course as to his illness.

France has reached a complete understanding with the foreign board of Morocco, the rebellion under the leadership of Mulai Hafid is no longer formidable, and the French Government has decided that the time has come to take a bolder position. Gen. D'Armade will be given reinforcements and will be expected to put an end to the anarchy which prevails in the vicinity of Casablanca.

The Temps last night declared that 1908 will witness an important change in France's Moroccan policy.

"While the Government intends to keep within the limits of prudence and fulfil its international obligations," the paper declares, "it purposes also to repair the errors committed in the past and regain the time lost."

ARRESTED IN CHICAGO.

Quebec Man Must Answer for Wife's Death.

Chicago, Dec. 30.—Omer Rochette and his wife, Albana Rochette, were arrested here Saturday on request of the Montreal police. They are wanted in Montreal to answer a charge brought in connection with the death of Rochette's first wife, who died in Quebec on Nov. 17.

Rochette is accused of having poisoned his wife. He married again within a few days and left for the United States.

New York's Homeless.

New York, Dec. 30.—With every charity bed in the city occupied, lodging houses overcrowded, Bowery saloons turned into barracks, and an array of wanderers on the streets, the charity organizations in New York are helplessly facing a situation, which will reach the climax with the first cold wave.

Although the managers of the relief organizations were long taxed with the problem, it was not until after the informal conference of the various charity organizations Saturday that it became known that more than 50,000 strangers were homeless in this city, and that at least half that number spent nights on benches and floors, wherever shelter afforded.

All Quiet at Henrietta.

Oklahoma City, Dec. 30.—A special from Henrietta, Okla., says all is quiet in that town, but the people are in a state of alarm. A few negroes living there have left. No armed negroes near the town have been reported.

Because of reported threats by negroes, armed guards were stationed about the place Saturday night. Railroad bridges are inspected before trains cross, since several torpedoes have been placed on the track.

No troops have been called and it is not believed they will be needed.

Boyd Will Hang.

Ottawa, Dec. 30.—At a Cabinet meeting Saturday it was decided not to interfere with the sentence of Boyd, the negro who is awaiting death for murder at Toronto. He will be hanged Jan. 8.

John Hodge, M.P., says he will inform the British Parliament that that workingmen are brought to Canada under false pretences.

MIDDLE LIFE

A Time When Women Are Susceptible to Many Dread Diseases—Intelligent Women Prepare for It. Two Relate Their Experiences.

The "change of life" is the most critical period of a woman's existence, and the anxiety felt by women as it draws near is not without reason.

Every woman who neglects the care of her health at this time invites disease and pain.

When her system is in a deranged condition, or she is predisposed to apoplexy, or congestion of any organ, the tendency is at this period likely to become active—and with a host of nervous irritations, make life a burden. At this time, also, cancers and tumors are more liable to form and begin their destructive work.

Such warning symptoms as sense of suffocation, hot flashes, headaches, backaches, dread of impending evil, timidity, sounds in the ears, palpitation of the heart, sparks before the eyes, irregularities, constipation, variable appetite, weakness, inquietude, and dizziness are promptly heeded by intelligent women who are approaching the period in life when woman's great change may be expected.

Mrs. E. Powless

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was prepared to meet the needs of woman's system at this trying period of her life. It invigorates and strengthens the female organism and builds up the weakened nervous system.

For special advice regarding this important period women are invited to write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., and it will be furnished absolutely free of charge. The present Mrs. Pinkham is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, her assistant before her decease, and for twenty-five years since her advice has been freely given to sick women.

Read what Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound did for Mrs. Powless and Mrs. Mann:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"In my opinion there is no medicine made for women which can compare with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and you have no firmer friend in the Dominion than I am. At the time of change of life I suffered until I was nearly crazy, and was not fit to live with. I was so irritable, irrational and nervous that I was a torment to myself and others. I surely thought that I would lose my reason before I got through, when fortunately an old friend recommended your Vegetable Compound. I took it for five months and then off and on until the critical period had passed, and it restored me to perfect health. My advice to suffering women is to try your Vegetable Compound, and they will not be disappointed."—Mrs. E. Powless, Deseronto, Ont.

Another Woman's Case.

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"As I owe my splendid health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I am very pleased to write and tell you my experience with it. I am the mother of three children grown to womanhood, and have safely passed the change of life, and feel as young and as strong as I did twenty years ago, and I know that this is all due to your woman's friend, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I used it before my children were born, and it greatly assisted nature and saved me much pain during the change of life. I took it, off and on, for four years, and had but little trouble and sickness that most women have to endure."—Mrs. James K. Mann, 806 Bathurst St., Toronto, Canada.

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for Mrs. Powless and Mrs. Mann, it will do for other women at this time of life.

It has conquered pain, restored health, and prolonged life in cases that utterly baffled physicians.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Succeeds Where Others Fail.

Long Chapter of Accidents; How Lamp Cost Two Lives

Father and Son Burned to Death at Ottawa.

Mother Saved Two Babies — Third Child Injured—Bank of Commerce Destroyed at North Battleford—Tragic Death of Young Married Woman at Nepinka—Fire at Silver Heights.

Ottawa, Dec. 30.—A sad tragedy occurred on Saturday night at 11 o'clock on Nelson street, whereby a father and son lost their lives. Mrs. Desloges was sitting in her kitchen, while her husband and two children were sleeping upstairs. She had been sewing and in replacing the sewing machine cover, slipped upon an orange peeling and fell. The oil lamp was overturned and the curtains were soon ablaze. The woman caught up one child and screamed to awaken the sleepers, but was unsuccessful. Some little delay occurred in ringing a fire alarm. On the arrival of the fire brigade a small fire was well started and the firemen brought out F. X. Desloges, his 7-year-old son and a smaller daughter. The father could not be revived and succumbed to suffocation; the boy Alexandre died of burns yesterday morning and the girl, Rosetta, though hurt, will recover. The man was employed as a printer in the Government Bureau. The fire itself was insignificant.

COAL OIL EXPLODED.

Tragic Death of Young Married Woman at Napinka.

Napinka, Man., Dec. 30.—Mrs. John Yeomans, wife of John Yeomans, one of Medora's most promising young farmers, died yesterday morning from the result of injuries received from the explosion of a cup of coal oil. Mr. Yeomans, before going out to do the chores, lighted a fire in the kitchen range, leaving a cup of coal oil, part of which he had used to light the fire, upon the top of the range.

Mrs. Yeomans was in the act of dressing beside the range, when, without any warning, there was an explosion. In an instant, she was covered with a mass of flames, and before help could be secured was so badly burned that very little hope could be held out for her recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Yeomans had been married about a year, and the tragedy has cast a gloom over the whole district. Mr. John Yeomans, the bereaved husband, is a son of S. Yeomans, one of the oldest farmers in the district.

The late Mrs. Yeomans was Miss Lizzie McKay, formerly of Seaforth.

Fire at Silver Heights.

Hespeler, Dec. 30.—Hespeler was startled near noon yesterday by the cry of fire on Silver Heights at the house of Robert Hartrick. The fire was caused by a bottle of benzine standing on a shelf in the kitchen, which in some way fell on the stove and immediately set the place on fire, seriously burning Mrs. Hartrick about the face and down the body.

In some way the infant son of Mrs. Hartrick was forgotten for a minute, when one of the ladies ran into the house, which was filled with smoke, and brought the little one out. The child was nearly smothered by smoke.

Mrs. Hatrick's burns are very serious and very little hope is held out for her recovery.

Fire at Richard's Landing.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Dec. 30.—Fire Saturday night wiped out almost the entire business section of Richard's Landing, a town about twenty-three miles below the "Soo." A high wind was blowing and in the absence of any fire protection the flames swept up both sides of the main street unchecked, until it was finally got under control at Moore's hardware store.

The fire started in the Tweedy Block from some unknown cause. The block was totally destroyed as also were the following business places: Armstrong's drug store and the furniture store adjoining, the Richard's residence, the Methodist parsonage, Smedley's butcher shop, the postoffice and a large block adjoining the postoffice.

The amount of the loss is not yet known as the wires are down and the news comes from Port Findlay just across on the mainland.

North Battleford Fireswept.

London, Dec. 30.—A private despatch states that a serious fire has occurred at North Battleford, Sask., and that the Bank of Commerce is among the buildings destroyed. Local bank officials have had no word of the fire.

Harry Maughan's shortage may total $25,000. His father will meet a certain percentage of this, for which he feels himself responsible.

MERMAIDS OF LEGEND

Sea Women That Were Vouched For by Ancient Writers.

ORIGIN OF THE DELUSION.

These Traditional Creatures Were Probably Dugongs and Manatees. Seal Maidens of Fable—Mermaids of Fiction and the Seal of Fact.

There is a decided fascination about the mermaids of legend. Considering their traditional form, it does not seem quite certain whether they can be included among the fair "humanities" of old religion, but it would be extremely interesting to see one. In all seriousness the truths and poetry underlying and inherent in the old myths are well worth attention, but apart from these there is something distinctly entertaining in the quasi-historical accounts that we have of mermaids and the heroic attempts at rationalistic explanation. The fancy has taken firmer hold on popular imagination than many of the old legends. Of course they are recognized as nonexistent; but, unlike the majority of mythological beings, they are invested colloquially with a sort of humorous reality.

A "History of the Netherlands" gives a circumstantial account of a great tempest which washed ashore near Haarlem a "sea woman" as she was swimming about. She was captured and cleansed from the "sea moss that had grown about her" and became a humanized creature, except that she was always trying to escape into the water. And it is added, "Many persons worthy of credit have justified in their writings that they had seene her in the said towne of Haarlem." In the sixteenth century off Ceylon some sailors captured "seven mermen and mermaids," several priests and physicians testifying to the fact and the latter leaving it on record that after examination and dissection they found the external and internal structures resembled those of human beings. Hudson, the famous navigator, declared that his ship's company had seen a mermaid, the upper part of her body like a woman, skin very white and long black hair. An old Iceland history tells of one near Greenland, "the neck and head in all respects like a human being." The Norwegian Bishop Pontippidan, who wrote in the eighteenth century, "records the appearance of a mermaid which was deposed to on oath by the observers." And not to multiply quotations proving the belief even of the learned in the actual existence of the mermaids, Pliny asserts authoritatively that "as for the meremaidens it is no fabulous tale that goeth of them, for looke how painters draw them, so thay are indeed."

It seems hard after all these weighty testimonies that we should be assured that the "historical" mermaids were only dugongs or manatees, seals or sea lions, especially as some of these interesting creatures measure some eighteen feet in length and are by no means attractive in appearance. Something in the shape of the head and the breast is relied on by the rationalistic scientists as explaining the delusion, but one is at a loss to understand how this can account for the circumstantial descriptions that have come down to us. Coevals of those old writers have proved to us by their paintings that they held very much the same views as to what constitutes feminine beauty as we have, and we should certainly not discover in the dugong or manatee anything whatever to suggest in the very faintest degree the idea of a pretty woman. Yet there is generally the implication of comeliness in the verbal pictures the old writers give of their mermaids, though Columbus, who reported that he had seen two or three, admitted that he saw no beauty in them. The seal explanation perhaps does the least violence to one's traditional ideas, as, whatever may be thought of its resemblance to a woman, it is in itself graceful and its face and eyes are pleasing.

There is, at any rate, a rather suggestive coincidence in the view that the mermaid of fiction is the seal of fact, for closely allied if not identical with mermaids were the "seal maidens" of a thousand fables. The accepted tradition was that these maidens assumed the form of seals, which they could relinquish at any moment by divesting themselves of the sealskins. Only if while they were disporting themselves in quasi human guise their seal integuments were stolen or hidden they would have to remain as "maidens" and could not resume the form of seals. We know on the authority of many a song and legend that willingly or unwillingly a man has been "married to a mermaid

At the bottom of the deep blue sea," but in the case of the fortunate purloiner of a seal maiden's "troublesome disguise" there was no need for a submarine descent. She could quite comfortably live on land and, indeed, had to unless she found her sealskin again, though always longing, like the mermaid of Haarlem, to become a sea dweller once more. There is therefore unquestionably a certain poetic propriety in the scientific identification of the mermaid with the seal.—London Globe.

Renunciation.

"I have always been a good friend to you, Mrs. Jinx," said Mrs. Lapsing, with blazing eyes, as she rose to go, "but I am a friend no longer. You have talked about my husband. Right here is where our paths divulge. Good afternoon."

CLOTHES AND THE MAN.

Study the Lord of Creation and the Things He Wears.

See the man!

He wears a hat of straw, stiffened with glue until it is like a tin pail, or of felt or silk, stiffened with bum shellac until it is like a cast iron pot. Inside this unyielding brim is a thick band of hard, stiff leather, re-enforced with inner bands of flannel. Result, compression of the blood vessels of the scalp, causing undue perspiration, headache and baldness.

About his neck in summer is a turndown collar, which is a high, stiff fence of eight thicknesses of starched linen. This fits closely, leaving him unable to turn his head without great effort. Imbedded in this and tied in front in a thick, uncomfortable bunch is a tie of heavy cotton or silk, re-enforced with linings of quilted canton flannel.

His shirt has a stiff, unyielding front of the firmness of a priest's breastplate. This must be donned with dexterity and worn with care lest it break or bend. His waistcoat is made of heavy woolen cloth, and in summer he wears one of heavier, thicker and warmer duck or cheviot. This warmth and thickness, however, are only in front, where nature has already protected the lungs and heart. At his back, where protection is required against draft or chill, the waistcoat is of thin muslin.

His coat is built similarly, the fronts being re-enforced with lapels of many linings.

About his waist he buckles a belt so tightly as to interfere with breathing and circulation, yet can rarely get it tight enough to achieve its own purpose.

For this reason he must wear suspenders, which are probably the most uncomfortable garment known.

He carries a stick which has no pretense to use or beauty.

He has dozens of pockets into which he never puts anything.

He has buttons which button nothing and buttonholes which are not to be used.

He has strange jewelry of clumsy intent. Great buttons of uncouth shape must be thrust through stiffly starched layers of linen. Collar buttons must be lost and hunted for.

He has rings on his fingers, pins in his scarf, chains across his breast, fobs dangling from his pockets and studs in his shirts.

He is not what he was created, but is what he has created.

Is the man a savage?

No; he is the lord of creation!—Life.

MILLET'S POVERTY.

Incident in the Life of the Great French Painter.

It seems almost incredible that Millet, painter of "The Angelus" and other now world famous pictures, should have suffered from the poverty that forms the basis of the following story, but it is a fact that he did: One day, indeed, he found himself without food in the house for himself and his family. In his extremity Dias offered to take two of Millet's drawings to Paris and make an effort to sell them. Evening came, the Millet family anxiously awaiting their friend's return. If he came back without the drawings it meant bread; with them, hungry to bed. Night fell, the family sitting in darkness because they felt they could not afford a light.

At last they heard the stamping of Dias's wooden leg as he crossed the little paved court and his lusty voice calling out: "Light! Light! Where is the light?" The family hurried to light a candle. But even while the head of the old fashioned sulphur match still was spluttering Dias, who was a Spaniard and nothing if not temperamental, slapped down two loaves of bread on the table, one after another, in quick succession. When at last the candle was burning he drew out 60 francs in gold, all save one piece, which he had been obliged to change in buying the bread. He arranged the gold pieces in a circle like a halo around the candle, ending with the change, of which he made a neat pile.

"Ah," sighed Millet as he regarded the unhoped for treasure, "if only I could count on a sum like this every week!"

"Would you turn capitalist?" reproachfully asked Dias.

If to suffer is a spur to genius, is it a wonder that these Barbizon men were great painters?

Getting Even.

"I've worked for the party faithfully for the last twenty years," began the office seeker, "and I can say with truth that I never once asked for an office"—

"Great record," put in the party leader. "I wouldn't think of urging you to break it. Keep it up."

Why Peterborough Citizens Now Come to Dr. Browett for Glasses

ONE REASON: Most city people are now too intelligent and well informed to permanently injure their eyes and wreck their nerves for want of suitable glasses, especially when Dr. Browett's prices are so reasonable combined with quality. Eye Glasses and Spectacles from $1.00 up; Colored Glasses 25 to 40c; Railroad and Mechanic's Glasses 25c to $1.00; Thermometers 25 to $5.00; Artificial Eyes $3.50 to $7.00; Non-Steam Lens Polish (keeps steam and frost from glasses) 25c.

ANOTHER REASON: Winter brings long nights with more use of artificial light. Ladies are now taxing their eyes doing fancy work for Xmas. Gentlemen are doing more reading and writing in the office and home. Scholars are doing long hours of home work. Thus all eyes work harder during the winter season, and if glasses are ever needed they are needed now. Some thoughtful sons and daughters are giving glasses to their parents for Xmas.

JINGLES AND JESTS.

Two Views.

Such a lovely earth,
  Such a glorious sky,
Such a lot of mirth,
  No one need to sigh;
Such a jolly moon
  Sailing up above,
Such delight to spoon—
  When a chap's in love!
Such a pesky hole
  Earth is anyway!
Such a beastly role
  One has got to play!
Such a lot of woe
  One needs be a churl—
Can't be worse, you know,
  When he's lost his girl.

"Woman," remarked the old bachelor, "is a creature of many moods."

"My wife isn't," rejoined Henry Peck. "She is always in the imperative mood."

Swift Vengeance.

[Original.]

Traveling in New Mexico, I stopped one evening in a hamlet. A number of desperadoes had ridden into the town and were in possession of the saloon, from which came a chorus of yells.

I was sitting on the veranda of the tavern when I saw a young Mexican man and woman go by. The man was good looking, and the girl was a beauty. Though I could not understand the Spanish lingo they talked, it was plain they were lovers. They separated almost in front of the tavern, not scrupling to embrace at parting nor caring that any one saw them in each other's arms, apparently oblivious to all except themselves.

Ten minutes later the young man was passing the saloon when several of the brawlers came out roaring drunk, brandishing revolvers.

"You say you can beat me shootin'?" yelled one to another. "I'll show you what I can do." And, aiming at the young Mexican, he fired. The boy sank down on the ground with a moan.

I heard a shriek and, looking toward a house the girl had entered, saw her staggering toward her lover. But she made only a few steps when she sank down in a swoon. Her mother came out and carried her back to the house. Several people put their heads out of their doors and windows and, seeing the young man lying on the ground, gathered round him and carried him into the nearest dwelling, where he died in a few minutes.

It was the shock of my life. I burned to see swift retribution meeted out to the murderer, but there were only a few peaceable Mexicans in the town, and I knew it was impossible. I would gladly have left the place at once, but there was no conveyance except my horse, and I did not care to risk a journey at night alone.

I sat during the evening on the tavern veranda, endeavoring to quiet my indignation with tobacco. There was a half moon in the sky. The air was balmy, and perfect quiet reigned. The people of the town were all indoors. The desperadoes had drunk so hard that they were all doubtless in a stupor. At any rate, they made no noise, and they were still in the saloon. I knew I would not sleep if I went to bed, so continued to sit where I was, lighting one cigar from another. At midnight I was still there. The moon was blood red, just above the horizon and gave no light. There was a flaring lamp on a post in front of the saloon, which partly illumined the street.

It was near morning when the men came out of the saloon, a few at a time, and staggered past the tavern to a stable below, where they had put their horses. Presently one went by alone, whom, though the light was dim, I recognized as the murderer. He had scarcely passed the tavern when I saw a figure—I could not tell if it was man or woman—emerge from behind a house opposite and scud along behind him, keeping so far as possible in shadow.

Curiosity got the better of me, and I followed the man and his shadower. The former—I did not see the latter—was drawing near the stable, when I heard a soft voice call:

"Signor!"

The man paused and turned. What light there was shone directly on his face. I can see that face now, brutal, bloated, with a background of long tousled hair and a beard falling below his broad brimmed felt hat. He wore a shabby coat over a dark blue woolen shirt. His trousers were tucked in his boots.

Then I caught a glimpse of another figure whom I deemed to be the shadower. The back was toward me, and by the silhouette I knew that it was a woman. I could hear her talking to the man, part in Spanish, part in English, but was not near enough to hear what she said.

Two more men came out of the saloon, and the man and the woman I watched moved into shadow. The men went on past the place where the couple had been standing and entered the stable. By this time the gang began to lead their horses out and were making preparations to mount, some tightening their saddle girths, some looking to articles strapped to their saddles, while others went back to the saloon for a last drink. Half an hour went by before they were all mounted and ready to depart. Then I heard one of them ask:

"All here?"

A few minutes later a voice said, "Sam is missing."

"Oh, I saw him go off with a gal," said a voice.

"Well, I reckon he'll come when he gits ready."

Then they all rode away.

I waited till the clatter of their horses' hoofs had died away in the distance, then strolled along, taking care to keep in shadow, toward the place where the murderer and the woman had disappeared. I listened, but could hear nothing. I waited, still listening and peering into the darkness. All was still. I entered a lane through which I thought the couple had probably gone. There was nothing but the stars to light the way, and, passing a dark point, I stumbled against something lying on the ground. I turned and, looking down at my stumbling block, saw that it was the shape of a human body. I put my hand down on a man's breast and against something wet. I started to get away, but a desire to fix my suspicion conquered my dread. I struck a match, and it flashed in the ashen face of the murderer.

An hour later I left the place without a word of my find.

Refused to Pay His Help Wages

Isaac Noble was charged in the police court this morning with refusing to pay Harry J. Gibbs $29.25, wages due him as express driver. Mr. Noble pleaded not guilty, but after the magistrate had carefully figured out accounts and books of both parties, it resulted in Mr. Gibbs having to pay Gibbs $18.55. His Worship gave judgment for this amount, and the defendant also had to pay costs, the whole thing amounting to $21.55. He was given eight days in which to pay it.

Below will be found a list of the meetings of the city council and committees during 1907, with the attendance of the members. It will be seen that Ald. Toll Can't be Collected From Stores Adjoining Market

Case of Robt Bailley Refusing to Pay Toll When Delivering Grain to Denne's Store Dismissed—Merchants Should Not be Deprived of Their Rights.

"Men with their places of business adjoining the market should not be deprived of their rights, and be obliged to pay toll when goods are being delivered to them," said His Worship Magistrate Dumble this morning, in giving judgment in the case of Robt. Bailley, of North Monaghan, who was charged with unlawfully refusing to pay toll to the market clerk on December 6th. It will be remembered that this case came up before the magistrate a week ago, and he reserved judgment to carefully consider it. He dismissed it to-day. Mr. E. H. D. Hall, city solicitor, appeared for Mr. McIlmoyle, the market clerk, and Mr. G. N. Gordon defended Bailley.

His Worship thought that merchants with the rear of their stores facing the market square, should have the privilege of access to their back door as well as the front. Bailley came to Mr. Denne's store, with the intent to sell him his grain. He did not come looking for a purchaser. It would be a great hardship to the merchants within a hundred yards of the market if toll could be collected on goods delivered to them. Under the statute, His Worship dismissed the charge.

Much discussion over this affair took place, particularly among the farmers, and it might be of interest to many to know this law regarding this matter.

Subsection [illegible] of clause 578 of the Ontario statutes states that a market clerk has the right to collect a fee for allowing a vehicle to stand on the market or on a street adjoining the market or within 100 yards of it, for the purpose of selling goods or otherwise gaining advantages of the said market. The sale of grain, seeds, dressed hogs and wool does not come under this section.

Sub-section 13 of the same clause states that the bylaw shall not prevent the sale of any such articles to any person carrying on business, and having an actual and bona fide store, shop or similar place of business on those portions of the streets bordering on the market.

This is the first appearance in Canada of "The Partello Stock Co." It is away ahead of the Canadian Stock Co's. that have played Peterboro here-to-fore.

BAIL GRANTED STANLEY GORMAN

Amount Fixed at $800 by His Honor Judge Weller—Date for Trial Not Yet Chosen

Stanley Gorman, who appeared before Magistrate Dumble a short time ago on a charge of stealing a cash box containing money and mining certificates from the Big Dipper Mining and Milling Co., was to-day allowed out on bail of $800. That theft is alleged to have taken place on July 21st, 1906. The bail was granted today by His Honor Judge Weller. Gorman was committed for trial a short time ago by Magistrate Dumble and bail was refused. Mr. G. N. Gordon acted on behalf of the accused. The date when Gorman will appear for trial has not yet been fixed.

BETTER THAN SPANKING
Spanking does not cure children of bed wetting. There is a constitutional cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. Summers, Box W., 82, Windsor, Ont., will send free to any mother, her home treatment, with full instructions. Send no money, but write her today if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child, the chances are it can't help it. This treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled with urine difficulties by day or night.

Cressman's to Meet the Pill Pounders

The Cressman hockey seven wish to accept the challenge given by the Pill Pounders, at as early a date as possible, on condition that all city league players are barred. Owing to stock taking coming on, it will necessitate a delay of a few weeks before they can chase the puck again.

STRATHCONA'S NEW UNIFORMS

The Strathconas have their new uniforms for the season and have secured them from Messrs. Merrell & Meredith, in whose window they are now on exhibition. The sweaters are red and white with "Strathconas" written on the band across the front. The stockings are red and white. In design the uniform is the same as that of the Pete's last year, except for the colors. The outfit is a very natty one and will be worn by the players for the first time in the game with Port Hope on New Year's day.

Practice and Skating at Rink

Although the weather is mild, it's a hard matter to beat out the ice man. There will be a hockey practice tonight from 7 to 8, and skating afterwards.

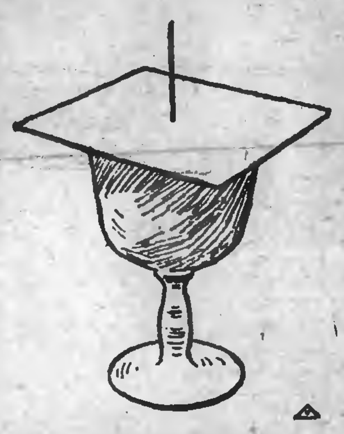
A MAGIC PENDULUM.

An Interesting Experiment With a Goblet of Water.

The accompanying picture shows a glass goblet in what some persons might think a dangerous position, for its rim is simply clinging to the surface of a piece of cardboard suspended by a string. But the goblet is in no danger of dropping and will swing there all day long, for it is held to the cardboard by the pressure of the air, just as a boy's moistened leather "sucker" holds the brick that he lifts with it.

Before suspending the goblet in this way, suppose we make a preliminary experiment illustrating the same principle. Pour water into a goblet until it is full to the very brim, and then lay on the rim a piece of stiff paper, pressing and smoothing it down until there is no bubble of air left between the water and the paper. Now, placing the palm of your left hand squarely down on the paper, hold it tight and firm, and, catching the goblet by the stem with your right hand, quickly turn it upside down. Then remove your left hand gently, and you will find that none of the water will escape from the goblet, for the pressure of the outer air keeps the paper close against the rim of the goblet like an air tight lid.



THE GOBLET SUSPENDED.

To convert the goblet into a pendulum, get a piece of cardboard that is perfectly flat, and in the center of it make a small hole. Through this run the end of a cord and knot it so that it will hold. Melt a little sealing wax around the knot to close the hole entirely, for it must be air tight.

Tie the other end of the cord to the chandelier, press the card firmly down on the rim of the goblet, which, remember, must be filled to the brim with water, and you may let it swing with perfect confidence in its safety.

As an extra precaution, it would be better to grease the rim of the goblet before making the experiment. This would help to make the exclusion of the air certain.

THE EARTHWORM.

Wonderful Work Performed by This Lowly Creature.

Little and unpleasant as an earthworm is, Mr. Darwin thought it important enough to spend thirty years of his life in experimenting upon it. It is blind, it is deaf, it is dumb, it lives in the cold, dark earth, yet it knows how, better than any man in the world, to plow the ground so that all the green things can grow.

Would you believe it that the huge chestnut tree from which you are so fond of gathering nuts needs the help of the earthworm? It plows the ground by turning it over and loosening it up so that light and air and sunshine and rain can get into it. To be sure, it needs millions of worms to effect much good. These worms cast up piles of earth, and the longer they work the thicker the layers grow until they form a vegetable mold. Nearly every bit of this vegetable mold has been through the bodies of these worms, and the soil where this mold is found is finer, darker and richer. It is finer because it has been ground up by the little stones in the worm's gizzard. It is darker and richer because it has been mixed with juices and dead leaves in the worm's body.

The worm has been called "the most wonderful plow in the world." Remember all the good the earthworm does, and the next time you see one don't crush it under your foot, but give it a chance to do its wonderful work, for without it our grass, flowers and trees would suffer destruction.—Philadelphia Ledger.

A New Denomination.

Two small girls were playing near the foundation of a large church. A stranger who was passing asked them, "Little girls, what kind of building are they putting up here?" The children replied, "A church." "Of what denomination?" asked the stranger. "Oh," answered one of the children, "we don't know for sure, but we think it will be brick."

Bedtime.

I wonder why, when mother calls
Me in to go to bed,
Such lovely plans for "make believes"
Come popping through my head?

I think of really splendid games
With gun and spear and red,
But off I have to go upstairs
To find the Land of Nod.

I wish ideas would only come
Quite early in the day
Instead of waiting till they know
I haven't time to play.

BY-LAW No.

A by-law to fix and provide for levying a special frontage rate upon lands in the city of Peterborough, fronting on streets, and alleys upon which water mains are laid.

(Passed .... day of .... 1908.

WHEREAS by Chapter 84 of the Statutes of the Province of Ontario, passed in the seventh year of the reign of His Majesty King Edward the Seventh, it is enacted, that subject to the approval of the majority voting thereon of the electors entitled to vote at municipal elections, the Peterborough Water Commissioners shall have power by by-law to levy and charge a special rate upon the several lands, lots or parts of lots, whether occupied or vacant, fronting or abutting upon all streets, lanes and alleys in the municipality upon which water mains, from which the Commissioners are willing to supply water, are laid; such special rate to be an annual rate according to the frontage of the said lands, lots or parts of lots and not to exceed five cents per foot for such frontage and to be subject to the same discount for prompt payment as shall be allowed in respect of ordinary water rates for domestic use and to be payable at the time or times during each year, fixed by the Water Commissioners for payment thereof.

AND WHEREAS the said Water Commissioners have decided to fix the said special rate at four and one-half cents per foot for each foot of frontage in said streets, lanes and alleys and to make the same payable on the same days and times as ordinary water rates are payable under the by-laws of the said Commissioners from time to time in force and effect.

THE PETERBOROUGH WATER COMMISSIONERS, therefore, enact as follows:—

1. This by-law shall come into force and effect on the final passing thereof.

2. An annual special rate of four and one-half cents per foot for each foot of frontage of all lands, lots or parts of lots, whether occupied or vacant, fronting or abutting upon all streets, lanes and and alleys in the city of Peterborough, upon which water mains, from which the Commissioners are willing to supply water, are laid, is hereby fixed, levied and charged, subject to the provisions hereinafter contained.

3. The said annual special rate shall be due and payable to the said Commissioners in equal portions, on the days and times specified and appointed for ordinary water rates under the by-laws of the said Commissioners from time to time in force, and shall be subject to the same discount, on each of such payments, as is allowed by the said Water Commissioners for prompt payment in respect of ordinary water rates for domestic use, provided, however, that upon the production by the owner or occupant of any land, lot or part of lot against which said special rate is charged and who is also the user of water from the said waterworks on the same land, lot or part of lot, of a receipt for the payment of any sum, rate or rent, chargeable for the use of such water for the same period, the Commissioners shall remit or allow to such owner or occupant, the amount so paid, as a payment on account of the said special rate, and if the sum, rate or rent paid by the said owner or occupant, as shown by the receipt therefor, shall for the same period, be greater than or equal to the said special rate, the Commissioners shall remit to such owner or occupant, the amount of the said special rate.

4. The votes of the electors of the City of Peterborough entitled to vote at Municipal elections shall be taken on this By-law on the same day as the annual election for the Municipal Council for the year 1908, and the polls will be held during the same hours, at the same places and by the same Deputy Returning Officers and Poll Clerks, as are fixed and appointed for the said annual municipal election.

5. The seventh day of January, 1908, at the hour of 12 o'clock noon, and the City Clerk's office are hereby fixed as the time when and the place where the Clerk will sum up the number of votes given for and against the by-law.

6. The fourth day of January, 1908, at the hour of 12 o'clock noon, and the office of the City Clerk, are hereby fixed as the time and place for the appointment of persons to attend at various polling places, and at the final summing up of the votes by the Clerk respectively, on behalf of the persons interested in and promoting or opposing the passing of the By-law.

NOTICE

Take notice that the foregoing is a true copy of a proposed By-law which has been taken into consideration and which will be finally passed by the Water Commissioners of the City of Peterborough (in the event of the assent of the electors being obtained thereto) after one month from the first publication hereof in The Morning Times newspaper, the date of which first publication is the tenth day of December, 1907, and that at the hour, day and place therein fixed for taking the votes of the electors the polls will be held.

Father Preached From Son's Pulpit to Old Congregation

Unique Spectacle Witnessed at George Street Church Yesterday—Anniversary Services Largely Attended—Rev. W. L. Pearson Was Special Preacher.

Special interest was lent to the anniversary services at George street Methodist church yesterday by the fact that the special preacher for the occasion was Rev. W. L. Pearson, a former pastor of the church, and a father of the present incumbent Rev. E. A. Pearson. Mr. Pearson, sr., was pastor of George-st church from 1888 to 1890, and is at present stationed at Strathroy, where he has a large congregation. Despite his advanced years, he has retained great mental and physical vigor which was evidenced in the two splendid sermons preached yesterday. Both morning and evening large congregations were present, and the former pastor's discourses were listened to with great interest. Mr. Pearson referred to the pleasure it gave him to be able to meet his old congregation again, and thanked the officers of the church for the hearty invitation that had been extended him to conduct the anniversary services. He saw many changes in the congregation. Old faces were missing and voices of other days were stilled. Many workers in the church's service eighteen or twenty years ago had been called home to enjoy their reward. He was glad to see, however, that George street church was prospering and continuing to progress in every respect. Mr. Pearson also alluded briefly to the great development of Peterborough, a fact that had been brought forcibly to his attention by a drive around the city on Saturday afternoon. Peterborough's progress gave him pleasure, as he had always been deeply interested in this city and the congregation of which he was pastor while here.

Mr. Pearson's sermons at the two services were of exceptional excellence. In the evening his text was part of the third verse of the 15th chapter of Revelations: "And they sing the song of Moses, the servant of God, and the song of the Lamb."

Mr. Pearson was given a warm welcome by his old congregation, who had the privilege of witnessing the unique spectacle of the father preaching from his son's pulpit in an old pastorate of the former.

Rev. Mr. Keith Spoke on India

Y.M.C.A. Doing Wonderful Work There—New Years Reception

The Rev. H. J. Keith, pastor of the Knox Presbyterian Church, and at one time one of the International Y. M. C. A. secretaries in India, gave a most interesting address at the Y.M.C.A. yesterday afternoon. The great difficulty in doing Christian work in India has always been the caste and social distinctions are so strong that it is almost impossible to get the different classes to mix in any way. The Y.M.C.A. have been able to reach each class of young men and are doing a wonderful work in that country. Mr. Keith spoke more especially in regard to the natives of India, the difficulties the secretaries had in reaching these men and yet great success had attended their efforts. He also spoke of the enormous growth and great good of the student work in India, and especially in Calcutta, where they have an association that would compare with almost any in the European countries or in America. This is where the secretary whom the members of the Y.M.C.A. of Peterborough help support, works, Mr. Farquhar, a former professor in a university there, but who is now engaged as a Y.M.C.A. secretary in Calcutta, and is being supported by some of the Ontario associations, one of which is Peterborough.

An offering was taken up for the work at the close of the address. The Misses Charty rendered a duet and Mr. J. Brown a solo, and were much appreciated.

At the New Year's day reception Mr. Rowland Common's orchestra of six or seven pieces will provide music for the afternoon. A musical treat is in store for those who can attend. The committees are all at work and everything points to a most successful reception. Invitations can be secured at the association or the stores.

The Trades and Labor Council will meet tonight, when consideration will be given the nominations that have been made for mayor and aldermen. BROTHER AND SISTER SPEND

Christmas To-gether for the First Time in 37 Years

One of the many happy reunions that took place on Christmas Day was that held at the home of Mr. D. Hillier, 169 Park street. It was the first time in thirty-seven years that he had spent Christmas with his sister, Mrs. Thomas Targett, Wiltshire England, and Mrs. George Dredge, Downie street, another sister, spent Christmas with Mrs. Targett, for the first time in twenty-six years. Among other guests present were Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Curtis, Ilkeston, Derbyshire, Eng.; Mr. R. J. Cox, of Chard, Sommerset, Eng., and Mr. and Mrs. Byron, of Toronto.

A very pleasant and enjoyable day was spent.

MURDERED FARMER BURIED.

Large Concourse of People Attend the Funeral—Wounds Examined.

Brampton, Dec. 30.—The remains of William Curry, the aged farmer who was shot on Christmas day, were reverently laid to rest Saturday afternoon in the little cemetery surrounding the Presbyterian Church at Dixie. There was a large concourse of sorrowing relatives and friends.

The pall-bearers were old friends of the deceased, and the services were conducted by Rev. Thomas Campbell, assisted by Rev. E. R. Young.

The statement made by Terrace to the effect that the shooting was the result of an accident and would not have occurred had not James Curry, the murdered man's son, taken hold of the gun while in his hands, caused a good deal of concern to those interested in the case. To make his statement more convincing it was added that the course taken by the shot was upwards. To remove any doubt Dr. J. A. Lawson of Brampton was called upon to examine the wound. His report did not agree with the other physician, Dr. D. Heggie, who made the first examination.

Yesterday the chief coroner of Toronto, in company with Drs. Lawson and Heggie, made an examination. He, too, held that the wound indicated that the shot was fired direct at the spot where it took effect, the gun evidently having been fired from the hip of the man who held it and not from the shoulder.

Had the prisoner's story been substantiated it would no doubt have been used in the trial with some effect. The prisoner has recovered considerably from the shock and seems to be terribly affected by the deed. He protests his innocence of any desire to do injury to Mr. Curry. The inquest will take place to-day at Elmbank.

The solution of the hole in the ceiling of the room to the right of the murdered man has not yet been found.

This hole would bear out the Reid boy's story that after the shot which killed Mr. Curry had been fired, the son grappled with Terrace and the gun was discharged a second time in the struggle. The hole is drilled cleanly through the plaster and the lath above is forced up. Above this ceiling is a cockloft and, as yet, no examination of this has been made to find the charge of shot which made the hole, if it was so made. The story is borne out by the fact that two discharged shells were found. Mr. Curry, Jr., is unable to confirm this. He says that after he grappled with Terrace, the fight was so hot that whether a second discharge occurred he cannot say.

MONTREAL'S TRAGIC DEATHS.

During the Year 785 Were Reported to the Coroner.

Montreal, Dec. 30.—The year now drawing to a close has been a busy one with the morgue officials, and the records kept by Deputy Coroner Biron show that 785 deaths have been reported to the coroner since the beginning of 1907, or 25 more than were reported last year. There were twelve cases of homicide reported. The juries were unable to fix the blame on any particular person.

Fire was responsible for 44 deaths, including the 16 children and principal, who were suffocated in the Hochelaga school fire, and Mrs. Joseph Lalonde, an insane woman, who burned herself at a stake near her home at St. Lazare.

No less than 83 were killed by railways. Of these steam railways were responsible for 60, and the street railway for 20. There were 27 suicides during the twelve months, and 53 met death by drowning.

Alcoholism was responsible for four deaths, while 18 persons died from accidental poisoning.

There were 317 sudden deaths, due to natural causes.

Had Eyes Shot Out.

Kingston, Dec. 30.—A pitiful case has just been brought to the Hotel Dieu in this city. It is that of a young man from Hastings County who a month ago had both eyes shot out. The unfortunate fellow was in the act of unloading a charge in a rifle that failed to explode. He struck the end of the ramrod against the charge and it exploded, not only driving the contents into his face, but forcing the rod into his head at the same time. He was brought here to ascertain whether he could get any help from a specialist, but his case was pronounced hopeless after an examination. He is friendless and penniless.

Mails Delay Express.

Halifax, N. S., Dec. 30.—Eight hundred and seventy-five passengers sailing on the Empress of Ireland were detained here from 10.30 o'clock Saturday until 6.15 in the evening, awaiting the arrival of the Canadian mail, the last car of which reached the ship's side at 5.45 o'clock. The Empress left St. John at 4.30 Friday afternoon and made Halifax in 18 hours. The detention here on account of the mails, together with the loss of time caused through the deviation from the regular course in making this port, caused a total delay of about 15 hours to nearly a thousand people.

Mission Not a Failure.

London, Dec. 30.—(C. A. P.)—The Tokio correspondent of The Times says there is no foundation for the rumors which have been in circulation that Lemieux's mission has been a failure. Both Lemieux and Sir Claude MacDonald declared themselves entirely satisfied with the action of Japan, who determined vigorously to restrict the number of emigrants into Canada.

Peterboro, Dec. 30.—George Moncrief of Cavendish Township was arrested Saturday charged with threatening to shoot Peter Smith of the same township, with whom he boards. Moncrief has made threats to take Smith's life and the latter says he has pointed a revolver at him on different occasions.

MURDERED WOMAN KNOWN.

Police Are on the Trail of Two Young Men.

New York, Dec. 30.—The veil of mystery enveloping the tragic death of the young woman whose nude body was found half submerged in the water and mud of a lonely pond near Harrison, N. J., Thursday, is being rapidly lifted, and detectives working on the case believe that the slayer of the woman, who was identified yesterday as "Annie O'Keefe" or Annie Nevins, will soon be run down and taken into custody.

The identification of the dead woman was first made by Mrs. Margaret Wright, who conducts an employment bureau in Montclair, N. J. She said the woman had called on her earlier in the month and asked for employment. She gave the name of Annie Nevins, but did not state where she lived. Late yesterday afternoon her identity was partly corroborated by Detective Draybell of Orange, N. J., who said the woman's name was Annie O'Keefe, and that he knew her well two years ago, when she was employed in the home of Thomas Nevins, a contractor in Orange. Since that time Sergt. Draybell states the woman was employed in the capacity of a maid in several places in and about Orange.

While Mrs. Wright could give little further information concerning the woman, she recalled that Miss O'Keefe had told her that she had been acting as a housekeeper for two young men in Brooklyn. The Harrison police have learned much of Miss O'Keefe's movements just before the murder.

ASIATICS IN TRANSVAAL.

Government Enforcing Registration—50,000 Have Left the Colony.

Pretoria, Dec. 30.—The Transvaal Government has lost no time in enforcing the provisions of the immigration restriction act, which requires all Asiatics in this country to register. Several British Indian leaders, including an eminent lawyer, who refused to comply with the conditions of the act, have been ordered to leave the country within 48 hours, and many others have been arrested. A number of Chinese have been similarly treated.

Since the passage of the act 50,000 residents of British India have left the colony, and there are 7,000 still here who refuse to register. Those who have taken their departure have expressed a determination to start an agitation to bring enough power on the Imperial Government, so that it will intervene in the matter.

Buried Under Woodpile.

Ailsa Craig, Dec. 30.—After being buried 36 hours in a woodpile in the woodshed of his home, Robert Gray, an elderly retired farmer, was discovered at 6 o'clock Christmas night by neighbors, and is now in a critical condition from exhaustion.

The loud mooing of a cow on the premises attracted attention and an investigation followed, resulting in the finding of the unfortunate man.

Mrs. Gray was spending Christmas away from home.

Poor Consolation.

"Oh, dear!" exclaimed the society woman. "I feel so wretched, and this is my receiving day, too! I do hope no one will call, for I'll be in misery all the time."

"Well," remarked her husband facetiously, "I always understood that 'misery loves company.'" — Catholic Standard.

Abingdon, Mass. Dec 30.—Edith Ashley, the 18-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Ashley, died yesterday at the Brockton Hospital from a bullet wound inflicted Saturday night by her lover, Samuel H Stetson, 24 years old, of Rockland who killed himself after shooting her. She made no statement at the hospital, but after the shooting Saturday night she said she had told her lover that he must give her up, and that "Sam" had then shot her.

SUPPORT THE BY-LAW

On Monday next the electors will be asked to vote on a by-law whereby all property fronted by mains will be taxed at so much per foot frontage. If the by-law is passed the commissioners claim they will be able to increase the discount to the ordinary consumer from twenty-five to thirty-three and a third per cent. This will be a material reduction. The commissioners point out with reason that, as all city property is made more valuable and saleable by the mains in front of it, all owners should contribute a fair share to the expense of maintaining and operating the system. The mains have been laid in front of certain property, without any cost to the possessors, and it is high time that non-consumers paid something for this great civic asset, and convenience. It is proposed to levy a tax of four and a half cents per lineal foot which, if this discount is made thirty-three and a third per cent., will be only three cents a foot, certainly not an excessive amount. The commissioners state with considerable force and directness that there object is to cause vacant land fronted by a water main and thus enhanced in value to pay a fair share of its cost, and likewise to compel occupied property where the owner refuses to take water to pay the frontage rate.

It would appear that the by-law is in the interest of the citizens generally, and that the time has now arrived when the discount should be increased. This can only be brought about by making all property pay its just share. The object attained is a laudable one, and the water commissioners are not submitting the measure without having given it a great deal of attention and consideration.

The commissioners have wisely and economically looked after the system in the past and would not bring forward any measure not looking to the best interests of the citizens. All property owners should bear a proportion of the expense of maintaining the system, which erstwhile heretofore has fallen solely upon the water users.

It is believed the proposed by-law will carry by a large majority on Monday next.

A GROWING EVIL

There is altogether to much profanity heard on the streets of this and every other city.

The practice is senseless, disgusting and vulgar. It serves no good purpose and in the majority of instances indicates the paucity of a man's vocabulary.

Bishop Worrell of Nova Scotia in a recent address scathingly observed that: "The growth of profanity is one of the greatest evils of the present day. The vain use of God's name, Father, Son and Holy Spirit is shockingly common. The profane man fouls the air, he fouls his tongue, he fouls society, and has gained nothing by it. He shows no respect for himself or for others. When you damn this, or damn that, or damn your enemy, or damn your friend, or damn yourself, have you ever thought what it means to be damned. If you do not believe in future reward or punishment you are using an idle and meaningless expression and making yourself as an insincere and witless man. If you do believe that there is some time when you must answer for your deeds, if you have listened to experience and seen how true it is that your sin will find you out, you surely could not mean you wish such a fate for anyone. The raving maniac, or the helpless invalid, the ruined gambler, or the lettered prisoner, these are some who have been damned here and now, whatever may be the future for them. Would you go to the hospital, the asylum, the prison, and jest at them? Then let me with full sense of the responsibility of life avoid such words. They condemn their users. They injure all and benefit none."

BIG PROFITS

Some have wondered how much profit, if any, the owners obtain from one of the large ocean greyhounds.

The Liverpool Courier (England) has asked a pertinent question on this very point, and the following taken from a Glasgow paper, will no doubt be of interest to some of our readers.

On one of the recent trips of the above steamship the receipts and expenditure was as follows:

INCOME.

Passengers only	£28,000
Cargo	500
Profits on wines, cigars, etc	500
Proportion of subsidy	2,350
Total	£31,350

EXPENDITURE.

Victualling	£ 4,000
Wages	2,000
Establishment charges	1,000
Coal	6,000
Water, oil, breakages, etc.	600
Interest	1,120
Repayment of capital	2,050
Insurance	1,200
Total	£17,970

A grand total of £17,970 to be spent before one penny of profit can be made. According to these figures there is a profit of £13,380, a snug little fortune in itself, and figuring this at about 30 trips for the year, would net about £400,000 clear profit on an outlay of £940,500, or about 43 per cent. profit. The profit, £401,400 equals $1,950,804 for the Conard-er Company.

PEN POINTS

How do you like the looks of the contestants?

Just one week from to-day and it will all be over.

Well, the candidates are off. Can you pick the winners?

How do you like this spring like weather so suddenly sprung upon us.

The value of the new buildings erected in Brantford this year, according to official figures, exceeds $500,000. In Peterborough the figures are $750,000, one-half more than Brantford. This city should feel proud of its showing.

The custom of according mayors a second term by acclamation is passing away. In Peterborough the mayor is being opposed and in Brantford Mayor Bowlby will have as an opponent Mr. Whitham, who ran against him last year.

Every fad has its day and every day its fad. And with what sorrow will many read the following from New York: The Teddy Bear craze is over and the stores and factories have a stock of them that will soon adorn the bargain counters. Girls who forsook their dolls for the furry beasts are going back to the old love and their small brothers are taking kindly to stuffed bulldogs, etc. Any sort of stuffed animal except a Teddy bear seems to take the fancy of the youngsters now.

The Montreal Gazette says: "A decrease in imports last month compared with November, 1906, led to a reduction of the customs revenue by some $460,000. With business men in charge of the national administration such an incident would be regarded as a reason for making a corresponding check in the contemplated expenditure till it was seen what the situation would result in. The Laurier government, while it was taking place, introduced in parliament estimates providing for an expenditure next year from ten to fifteen millions greater than has been. The Laurier is not a business government."

The aggregate value of Canadian cheese and butter exports for the season 1907 was $20,186,398, as compared with $25,999,034 for 1906, so that the returns to the dairy farmer from this season's exports to the close of navigation were $5,812,636 less than the returns received last season. The principal difference was in the butter exports, the returns for which were $3,882,400 less than last year. This is, of course, simply dealing with the export movement, the decreased returns from which were largely made up by the home consumption. Allowing for the cheese still to go forward we have a total in round numbers of approximately $20,000,000 as the returns to the Canadian farmer for the year's exports, as against a return for the whole of last year's make in round numbers of $26,000,000.

SEARCHING FOR ADOPTED LITTLE GIRL

J. B. Marion, of Lindsay, Seeks for Her at Brockville—Still Unsuccessful

The Brockville Times says:—J. B. Marion, of Lindsay, Ont., was in town last night, returning home after a long search for his adopted daughter, Lillian Marion, aged eight years, who was kidnapped from her home on Nov. 21 by her mother, Mrs. L. (A. Young, of 2226 Bordeau street, Montreal. The incident created somewhat of a sensation at the time by the action of the conductor of the train on which Mrs. Young was making her escape of the child. When trace of the woman was obtained word was sent ahead to constables at the various stations to arrest her but the conductor refused to allow the officers of the law to interfere with the passenger. Consequently she escaped and no trace of either her or the child can be obtained. Mr. Marion interviewed the local police with a view to having them keep up a sharp lookout for the kidnapper. He adopted the child three years ago yesterday.

SURPRISE FOR THEIR TEACHER

Mrs. M. Ruth, Bethel, Honored by Her S. S. Class—Other Newsy Notes

Bethel, Emily, Dec. 27.—Mesdames James H. and Lewis E. Jones, of Midland, are spending Christmas and New Year's visiting their father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Gabriel Switzer, and other friends at Bethel.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mills, of Gravenhurst, are visiting old friends in the Bethel neighborhood.

Mr. Milton Sherin, of Chicago, is visiting his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. John Sherin, of Emily.

Mr. Seyward Switzer finished drawing the last of his brick the day before Christmas. He has twenty-six thousand of the sandstone brick home and will erect a handsome dwelling next summer.

Mr. Gabriel Switzer has purchased another farm at the head of Chemong Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Ruth were greatly surprised on Christmas eve by hearing a rap at the door, and upon going to it found that the parties had withdrawn themselves after depositing a beautiful chair upon the verandah. The chair was presented to Mrs. Ruth by her Sunday school class, consisting of young men.

The Friday evening following Mrs Ruth gave a party in honor of her class when some twenty guests assembled and spent an enjoyable evening.

RECIPE FOR CATARRH

Easily Eradicated by Using Simple Home-Made Mixture.

Here is a simple prescription which drives from the blood and system every vestige of catarrhal poison with remarkable promptness. To prepare the mixture: Get from any good prescription pharmacy one-half ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion, one ounce Compound Kargon and three ounces Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla. Shake well and use in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime.

This is a harmless mixture, which has a peculiar action upon the eliminative tissues of the Kidneys, assisting them to filter and strain from the blood and system the catarrhal poisons, which if not eradicated, are absorbed by the mucous membrane, and an open sore or catarrh is the result.

This remarkably simple recipe has been the means of relieving thousands of men and women of this foul and dangerous disease, and every sufferer here should give it a test, as it is not expensive nor unpleasant to take.

Prepare some and try it anyway, as it is certain to do much good, if only to purify and sweeten the blood; though it may prove just what your system requires to overcome the catarrhal condition.

Mr. Dan Cupid Is so Stupid

Allows Young Couple to Say Fond Farewell in Bright Porch

Of course it is unreasonable to find old heads on young shoulders, and cold lips on young mouths, but even in the ecstasy of a fervent affection should be at least a small amount of ordinary "horse sense" brought into play. It is quite the natural thing for a clinging maid to tenderly kiss her cavalier on his departure from her father's house, but both the winsome miss and her true love should confine their devouring smacks to a cosy corner, unless the lights are dim or low on the front verandah. On Thursday night in a certain portion of the city, the spectacle of a young girl giving her lover, or admirer, or whatever he may have been, three fond kisses in a brilliantly lighted porch, afforded a couple of watchers considerable amusement. It was just like making love in a comic opera, with a sparkling stage setting, although in one case an audience is specially privileged and expected to be witnesses, and in the other it was an instance of an electric light giving away a private understanding.

Local Option Has Hurt Owen Sound

the Matthew Kennedy, Mayor of Owen Sound and one of its chief business men, publicly asserted on Nov. 27 last that "Local Option has injured local trade, has not lessened drunkenness, and has lowered the moral well-being of very many."

Yet the believers in Local Option hold up Owen Sound as an example of their belief's operation. If Local Option has hurt Owen Sound, why is it likely to benefit YOUR town.

Messrs. Tucker & Patterson, Barristers, of Owen Sound—that "model temperance town"—certify to the fact that its citizens "have been less prosperous because of hampered trade under Local Option, and less able to pay their debts."

In 1905, before Local Option began there, 584 debt suits were entered for trial in the Division Court. In eleven months of this year, under Local Option, 778 suits have been entered there arising from debt.

No business man would vote for Local Option if he forsaw how it really works.

G.T.R. Announces Details of Pension Fund for Employees

A splendid Christmas box was handed out to its men Tuesday by the Grand Trunk, in the shape of announcement of the details of its new generous nature. The pension fund will be entirely contributed by the pension system, which is of a most company, the men not being assessed one cent for its maintenance or administration. It will affect every member of the staff, from Charles M. Hayes down to the humblest section man, while provision is also made for men incapacitated by accident or otherwise, or even men discharged without cause, and otherwise eligible under the pension rules.

The establishment of this pension system was approved at the last annual meeting of the shareholders, when the handsome sum of $200,000 was voted as a nucleus. In addition, to the income from this sum, however, it is estimated that the company will have to supplement this by a large sum, varying from $70,000 to $75,000 a year.

It was stated at Grand Trunk headquarters yesterday, that it is now proposed to make the operation of the pension fund effective on and after January 1, 1908, when the rules will be published to all the 35,000 or more employees on the rolls of the railway. Unlike the pension funds, which have been established by some of the other large railways of this continent (of which there are not a few), the rules of the Grand Trunk pension fund will apply from the highest to the lowest of the staff—from the general manager himself down to the humblest section man or gate keeper. They require absolutely the retirement from active service of every officer or employee when attaining the age of 65, and if he has entered the service before the age of 50 years, and has served for a period of 15 years, or more, he is entitled with the approval of the pension fund committee to an annuity of 1 per cent of the average annual salary paid ten continuous years, for each year of uninterrupted employment. The basis of calculation being the same as that practical universal on this continent.

Thus if a man has served say, 30 years, receiving an average of $1,000 per annum ($83.33 per month) on the pay rolls of the company for the last ten years—or for any period of ten years during his term of service—he would be entitled to 1 per cent. of $1,000, $10x30 years, or $300 per annum, equal to $25 per month.

The company, however, have made a provision that, irrespective of rate of pay or service, the minimum allowance to be paid under any circumstances will be $200 per annum, and this without any counterbalancing maximum.

Another distinguishing feature is that whilst nearly all other companies base their pension on the average wage rate of the last ten years, of of service, the allowance from this fund will be on the highest average rate of wages for any ten consecutive years of continuous service. The most satisfactory rule, however, from the employees' standpoint will be one providing that any employee over 50 years of age, after fifteen years of service, if discharged without cause, at any time previous to reaching the pension age limit, becomes eligible to pension in proportion to the number of years of service up to date of discharge.

COMPANY TO BEAR ALL COST.

Although it was originally considered advisable to follow the general rules prevailing in Great Britain, of the formation of such fund by mutual contribution from the company and employees, it has been finally decided to follow the practice of companies generally on this continent, of contributing entirely out of their own revenues, the necessary funds for the pensioning of their aged and faithful employees.

There is an old saying that is often worn threadbare by interested agitators and cynical politicians, that "Corporations have no souls"; such statements fall to the ground, when met with facts such as are illustrated in this case, for this fund is to be contributed entirely by the company, without requiring any contribution whatever on the part of the employees.

The rules of the new Grand Trunk Pension Department will include the best provisions of all other companies, railway and industries with two or three features entirely novel or not common to all. It will be administered by a board selected by the company from among its official staff (themselves possible beneficiaries), which board will be known as the Pension Committee, whose decisions will be final in all matters pertaining to the administration of the fund.

The benefits of the fund will also apply to worthy employees who may have been injured in the service of the company, or who have suffered the loss of faculties which render them incapable of self-support, such employees having served the company the minimum period of 15 years—whether the age limit has been attained or not.

SUPERSEDES OLD SYSTEM.

While the Grand Trunk established a number of years ago, what is known as the "Superannuation and Provident Fund Association," which is still in existence, its membership is limited to the official and clerical staff throughout its lines in Canada whereas the new fund will apply to employees on all lines of the present system, and, as before stated, to all classes of employees.

The Superannuation Fund will continue in operation with the registered membership as of Dec. 31, 1907, but will be closed against the admission of any new members after that date.

It is anticipated that the pension scheme will form an admirable adjunct to the Company's Insurance and Provident Society which has been for many years in operation; the weak point in this has always been the inability of an aged or permanently disabled employee to keep up his payments to the insurance fund, although privileged to do so. Hereafter a very small deduction from his pension allowance will enable an employe to make provision for his family up to the maximum amount of $1,000.

Many of the conservative and thoughtful men among the employes will welcome this innovation, because of the class of men it is likely to induce to join the service of the company, as well as the inducement it furnishes to the trained and careful employees, whose experience makes them desirable to remain.

Meeting of the S. S. Teachers

A meeting of the Teachers' Association of St. Andrew's church was held in St. Andrew's school house with S.S. superintendent Stevens presiding, Friday night. Considerable routine business was transacted. The election of officers was deferred until this Monday evening. Arrangements for the Christmas tree entertainment on January 2nd, was left in the hands of the special committee appointed for that purpose.

SCHOOL COOCERT WELL ATTENDED

Many friends and acquaintances of the children of S. S. No. 2, Smith, spent a very pleasant evening at the school concert and Christmas tree, held in Temperance Hall, on Friday, Dec. 20th. After listening to an excellent programme, which spoke well of the talent of the pupils, jovial old Santa Claus made his appearance and displayed his liberality by distributing many gifts to the children and friends, among them being a beautiful manicure set, presented by the pupils to their teacher, Miss Ada Elmhurst. The programme was made more effective, if possible, by having a very able chairman in the person of Mr. Andrew Young, the secretary treasurer of the school. The proceeds of the concert amounted to over $21, admission being 10 and 15 cents.

HENRY BEST, gentleman, proposed by N. T. Laplante and J. H. Smith.

Unusual interest was manifested in the nominations today. The council chamber was crowded and it was plainly evidenced that the Mayoralty contest was the one that appeared uppermost. Nominations for the Mayoralty, Board of Education and Water Commission took place between ten and eleven o'clock, and for Aldermen between twelve and one. From eleven to twelve was devoted to speaking. Those who addressed the gathering were Messrs. H. Rush, Wm. Yelland, Mayor McWilliams, W. H. Hill and G. W. Hatton. The latter wished to speak for Mr. Best, and endorsed his candidature.

City Clerk Armstrong was returning officer, and also chairman during the speaking.

The candidates nominated must fyle their declaration of qualification before nine o'clock tomorrow night, or their names will not go on the ballots.

The speeches were listened to with deep interest. Those present were in a jovial mood, and everything was taken good naturedly.

THE SPEECHES.

Mayor McWilliams moved that Mr. Armstrong be chairman. This was seconded by Mr. Rush, and carried.

It was decided that each speaker should have twelve minutes to speak, the Mayoralty candidates to come first, in the following order;—Mr. Rush, Mr Yelland and Mayor McWilliams

Mr Rush was greeted with applause on coming forward to speak. "Gentlemen," he said, "I have lived in Peterborough for 45 years, and this is the second nomination I have ever attended Rather funny, isn't it? The first one was a number of years ago"

"During the past few weeks," Mr Rush continued, "I have been repeatedly asked to be a candidate for the Mayoralty, and then a petition with 500 names on it was presented I told the deputation that I would spend no money and would ask for no votes When the petition was received I considered it a call to duty, and I decided to stand. I have been in business in Peterborough for many years and have made a success of my business. Every dollar I have is invested here. I also pay a certain amount of taxes. I am the people's candidate and I have no axes to grind. I am in your hands and will abide by your decision."

Mr. Rush then went on to deal with his work in the council during the time he was alderman. One of the questions that was to the front at that time was, where is the city to get gravel? The gravel pits seemed to be used up and the problem was a pressing one. Mr. Rush and Mr. Edgcumbe, then an alderman, were appointed a committee to deal with a proposition to secure a gravel pit on the Hilliard farm. On going to Mr. Hilliard it was found that Mr. Hilliard would not sell part of the property, but was willing to dispose of the whole farm. This was reported to the council. Mr. G. M. Roger, who was then Mayor, did not think it would be legal to purchase the whole farm. Mr. Rush kept on working, however, and succeeded in purchasing the property, which he now considered one of the city's best assets, and worth at least $50,000.

"If I am elected, I pledge myself to do whatever I can for the city of Peterborough without fear or favor. As I already said, I have no axes to grind, and will do all in my power for the city."

These were Mr. Rush's concluding remarks, and he took his seat amid great applause.

MR. YELLAND.

Mr. Yelland also received applause on coming forward.

"Like Mr. Rush, I have no axes to grind," said Mr. Yelland, "and I'm glad of this opportunity to say a few words to you."

"Mr Rush did well when the gravel pit was bought," said Mr. Yelland, "and if he is elected Mayor he wants to see that the gravel is got out cheaper than at present. The teamsters are getting too big pay for the work they do, and I very often see them stopping at a hotel door and going in and taking a nice boost. I know this, for I have seen them do it. I know this is slippery ground if I was looking for votes, but I am not. I just want the ratepayers to know these things."

Mr. Yelland then got after the teamsters on account of their being union men.

"These unions are a curse to the country, and should be controlled and not given in to," he said in some heat. Hisses greeted this statement and the chairman had to restore order.

"If we have union men up in that pit," continued Mr. Yelland, "and if a non-union man goes up there to work, the unionists will quit. This shouldn't be. This is a free country, and everyone should be allowed to work who wants to. One body of men shouldn't rule the whole thing."

Another thing Mr. Yelland found fault with was the cutting down of the hill leading to the lift lock. The estimate for the work was $500 and it cost $3,000. That was money foolishly spent. "I think $300 would have been enough to make that road good enough to go to the lift lock."

Mr. Yelland also referred to the big overdraft despite the fact that the taxes were greater than in any past year.

"Mr. Rush says he's going to use all economy if he gets in and he'll have do it. He won't have much money to spend by the way things are going."

Mr. Yelland then got after the council on the David Hartley demonstration on his return to Toronto. "I've walked many years and the only thing I ever got for it was tired legs. I heard the Mayor promise Mr. Hartley at Central Park that the Council would do great things for him next year. I felt like looking up in the Mayor's face and telling him he wouldn't be there to do it."

Laughter greeted this statement.

Continuing on the Hartley question, Mr. Yelland said the Council should pay back into the city treasury all the money that was spent on the Hartley demonstration. It was illegal expenditure and not justified in any respect.

"What about the assessment," asked somebody at the back of the room.

"Oh, I was pretty nearly forgetting that," said Mr. Yelland. He went on to say that wards 1 and 2 were not the only ones that were wrongly assessed." Mr. Yelland then drew attention to some over-assessment in the north of the city and cited the case of a widow whose assessment had been greatly increased. She had been ill and unable to appeal to the Court of Revision.

"Time's up," said the chairman and Mr. Yelland retired.

"Allow him a few minutes to explain the Romaine street sewer," came from the back but the request could not be granted.

MAYOR McWILLIAMS.

Mayor McWilliams came next.

"Mr. chairman and gentlemen," he began. "I am in a somewhat difficult position as regards replying to the two former speakers as the only criticism is from the candidate who says he is not going to run.

"I ask what grounds upon which I am being attacked and why I should not get the customary term of two years. I don't ask for it, but I think I should know upon what grounds I am being attacked."

Taking up some of the questions of the day Mr. McWilliams said:

"Regarding the teamsters' strike and the increase in wages granted them, we only tried to deal with the question in fair manner. We thought they were entitled to an increase, but not as large as what was asked and the matter was settled by giving them 40c per day increase, which everyone must admit was fair.

Regarding the road to the lift lock Mr. McWilliams stated that it had been a matter of reproach to Peterborough that the government had spent a half million dollars on the lift lock, and the city of Peterborough was too stingy to buy a road to it.

Speaking of another matter touched on by Mr. Yelland, the Mayor said that $48,000 of the overdraft is due to the new schools being erected, over which the council has no more control than the man in the moon. The year was started with an overdraft of over $55,000 and $42,000 had been spent on sidewalks, sewers, etc., during the year. The moment the debentures for the schools are sold there will not be much of an overdraft There are $86,000 in school debentures to be sold during the next two months.

Regarding the assessment question, the Mayor stated that he agreed that the present assessment was an exagegrated one, but he denied having ever spoken to the assessors regarding what they should do. He was positive that the council had never given them any instructions.

In connection with the purchase of the Hilliard farm, Mr. McWilliams said that it was a splendid bargain, and he did not wish to detract from Mr. Rush in that connection. Mr. Rush deserved praise for what he had done.

"Who's bringing Mr. Rush out, who brought out that requisition?" asked Mr. McWilliams.

"Who got it up, who was at the bottom of it? You know as well as I do who has induced Mr. Rush to take the field. He did not come out of his own accord; he says so himself. You know who I've had to fight since I first came to the front in Peterborough. It's not a fight between Mr. Rush and myself, but between the interests behind him and myself."

Mr McWilliams had to stop as his time was up.

MR. W. H. HILL.

Mr. Hill said he wanted to thank the gentlemen who had nominated him for the Water Commission and Board of Education. He dealt briefly with the management of the waterworks system in Peterborough since it was taken over by the city in 1902. When the system was taken over by the city there were 1070 water users; now there were 2237, and there also had been a big increase in the number of hydrants and the number of water mains. Mr. Hill claimed that the waterworks were being well managed. He had nothing against Mr. Best and advised the ratepayers to elect whom they thought was the best man.

MR. HATTON.

Mr. G. W. Hatton asked if he might say a few words when Mr. Best was not present when called upon, and was permitted to speak.

He said he was going to support Mr. Best in this contest, not because he had any personal feelings against Mr. Hill. In connection with the bylaw that was to be submitted to the people to tax vacant property fronting water mains, Mr. Hatton said it would be an injustice to the owners of vacant property.

Charged With Indecent Assault and Also Selling Liquor Without License

Frederick Holland, a cement burner in the Lakefield Cement works and a well known resident of Lakefield, faced County Police Magistrate Edmison this morning on two charges, one of a very serious character. One was that of committing an indecent assault upon Mrs. Thos. S. Weston, and the other of selling whiskey without first having ontained a license to do so. Both of the above offences are alleged to have been committed on Christmas day. The prisoner did not plead or elect on either charge and was remanded until Thursday next, January 2nd, his own recognizance of $400 being accepted. Mr. G. N. Gordon, who appeared for the defence, admitted in the charge of selling liquor without a license that Lakefield was a local option district, thus doing away with the necessity of having the Crown prove that it was. As the prosecution was not ready to go on with the case it was enlarged until the above mentioned date.

THE HUSBAND'S STORY.

Thos. S. Weston, the husband of the woman, who is alleged to have been assaulted by Holland, came into the city Saturday morning and called at the police station inquiring for the Chief of Police. The chief was not in and upon being asked by a couple of press representatives present what the nature of his troubles were informed that he wanted to lay a charge against Holland. He was told that the matter was one for the county magistrate to deal with and was shown to County Magistrate Edminson's office where papers against Holland were drawn up.

Weston stated that on Christmas day he sent his wife to Holland's house to buy a bottle of liquor. She went out on her mission, the time she left her home being 12 o'clock noon, and did not return until 5.30 o'clock. She had the liquor with her when she returned. Weston stated, and appeared to be in a very nervous and agitated state. The liquor, it is claimed, was for Weston, who was not very well. Upon being asked what kept her so long and what accounted for her condition, she said that Holland had locked the front and back door of his house and made approaches of an indecent character toward her. She lost consciousness after a while and when she finally regained it was lying on a bed in one of the bed rooms. There are many other details in connection with the matter that would not form appropriate reading matter. Weston said his wife became very ill and he was unable to leave her to come to the city until last Saturday.

He asserted that Holland attempted to intimidate his wife with the threat that he would shoot her if she ever gave him away and stated Holland also made the same threat concerning him. He also said he saw Mrs. Holland on the train from Lakefield on Saturday morning and she wanted him to take no steps in the matter, but to keep quiet concerning it.

Weston, who it appears is an employee of the Lakefield Cement Co., comes originally from Brighton, England. He has been in Lakefield eight months and is a young man. He has a family of three children. His wife is twenty-three years of age.

HOLLAND'S STORY.

Holland claims the charges preferred against him are without any foundation whatever. He says Mrs. Weston came to his house on Christmas and wanted to buy some liquor. He refused to sell it to her, saying he would give her some however, if her husband was sick. He states she made a demand on him for $10, saying the family needed the money. He refused the money and believes that it is on account of this that she told her husband she had been maltreated at his hands. He says all that transpired between him and Mrs. Weston took place in the kitchen of his house and in the presence of his wife and mother-in-law.

QUICK ARREST. S

High County Constable Cochrane and County Constable A. Moore, drove out to Lakefield Saturday evening and calling at Holland's house took him into custody. The prisoner made no resistance when placed under arrest. He was lodged in the county gaol and remained there until he was brought up for trial this morning. The constables were only two hours and a half from the time they left Peterborough until their prisoner was placed behind the bars.

Holland is a man of medium height and weight, dark complexion, with dark curly hair and appears to be between 45 and 50 years of age. He was accompanied in court this morning by his wife and brother-in-law.

NOTES OF THE DAY

There are 38 entirely unprotected steam railway crossings, out of a total of 80 within the limits of Toronto.

The Hamburg-American line will fit out a number of its small channel and North Sea steamers with gyroscopes.

Emperor Francis Joseph on his first appearance since his recent illness, was given a remarkably affectionate reception.

The assessment rolls at Port Arthur have been found to be padded, presumably to assit in increasing the hotel licenses.

Rev. Andrew Allan, the Scottish Divine, at St. Andrew's on Jan. 12

Rev. J. G. Potter, pastor of St. Andrew's, has received word that Rev. Andrew Allen, the celebrated preacher at Glasgow, Scotland, will be here for Sunday, January 12, and will conduct a ten days' mission in this city. He will preach at both services on the 12th, and every afternoon during his visit here will hold a Bible conference at three o'clock with "The Work of the Holy Spirit" as the subject for study and discussion. In the evenings he will conduct services, evangelistic in character.

Rev. Allen is widely known as an inspiring preacher and a great student of the Bible, and is at present making the Canadian portion of the world's tour. Owing to his magnetism and earnestness as well as his knowledge, many will doubtless take the opportunity of hearing him preach and of reaping the benefit of his valuable teachings.

Mr. Yelland is Contradicted

Mr. O'Brien Makes Statement Regarding Road to the Lift Lock

To the Editor of the Review.

Dear Sir,—At yesterday's nominations Mr. Yelland made statements which are entirely untrue. Mr. Yelland made it appear that the estimated cost of the work was $500. Where Mr. Yelland got this estimate I don't know. The city engineer never put in any estimate. He only struck the grade. Then the owner of the property made it part of the agreement that the road should be made with a certain cut, otherwise he would not sell and the Council carried out the agreement.

Mr. Yelland made it appear the work cost $3000, and he thought it could be done for $300.

Now as I was foreman on this work I know what it cost.

I here give the cost of the work $2,488.32; then there was sold to different parties $90.04 worth. Now deduct what was sold leaves $2,398.28 as the cost of the work.

Then as the bridge over the old raceway would soon have to be repaired at considerable cost, there was 1782 yards from the cut put into the raceway and the bridge done away with. This of course added greatly to the cost of the work. Now when I commenced the work every man I met told me the hill would be gravel. Even Mr. Cox who lives on the farm for a number of years, told me the hill was gravel, and there is a good gravel pit just over the fence from the cut. But unfortunately instead of gravel we got hard pan and stone.

Mr. Yelland didn't think much of the job. Well of course, Mr. Yelland is not posted in that kind of work. Perhaps Mr. Yelland meant to make a kind of a half job of it.

Well, Mr. Editor, I think you will agree with me, if a job is worth doing at all it is worth doing right.

Now as I was foreman on this work I thought it only fair to the Mayor and Council to make this statement.

Thanking you Mr. Editor, and wishing you a happy New Year, I remain,

Yours truly,

JAS. O'BRIEN.

Some Reminiscences of Sixty Years Ago in Peterborough

Interesting Information Gleaned From a Copy of the "Despatch" Peterborough's Weekly Newspaper of the Days of Long Ago—How the Times and Conditions Have Changed.

Passing from the old year into the new it is interesting to turn for a moment to the records of sixty years ago, the printed pages of Peterborough's weekly paper of the days, "The Despatch" the files of which have been handed down in family progression and which are carefully preserved in the Review office. Peterborough was in those days of large importance in the district, though small in size. It was the centre of business life, the point to which all roads led. Everything in the line of transportation was done on wheels in summer and on runners in winter. Port Hope or Cobourg were the points at which the lake boats discharged cargo for Peterborough, and the difficulties of carriage out were so great that glass was refused for carriage, except in 7x9 and 8x10 sizes. The town boasted of five distilleries and three breweries and whiskey sold at a shilling the gallon, being made in large quantity in the building now occupied by J. E. A. Fitzgerald, the local coal dealer.

Of all the men in business and whose names appear in the pages of the Despatch of December 30, 1847, one alone remains, Mr. James Stevenson, whose name is the footing to an advertisement of cooking stoves "which are remarkable for convenience and saving fuel." This latter attribute must have been a very admirable one, seeing that cordwood sold at $1.50 per cord in the four foot length, and that slab wood in any quantity could be had free of expense, save that of hauling from the mill. The advertisement further announces that "the pattern of this stove was never before offered in this market."

As might be expected, there was a dearth of local news that was printable. There were ructions and rows, but such matters were of trifling moment and not worthy of notice, but as an election was in progress, (polling was agreed over four days) the state of the poll was given, up to the hour of going to press, and it will be seen covered returns from the whole county, or rather Colborne district:—

	Hall	Birdsall	Langton
Smith	60	11	25
Douro	35	9	9
Dummer	33	9	7
Peterboro	45	12	51
Otonabee	62	36	17
Emily	23	19	49
Ennismore	18	1	10
	288	94	168

The candidates were, James Hall, father of Sheriff Hall, and E. H. D. Hall, Richard Birdsall and John Langton, (afterwards Auditor-General.)

Half a column is devoted to a complimentary notice of the examination of the (pupils) Grammar school. The report says: "The same class showed good acquaintance with the Latin Language; they read several of the Odes of Horace ad aperturam Libri, with ease and accuracy," a feat the present generation would not accomplish in like manner.

The editor is moved, in a quarter column to reprove the citizens for what is termed "A Disgraceful Riot," which ended in the destruction of one home and its contents and injuries to one or two others." The holding of the quarterly fairs of that day, is roundly condemned.

Notice is given of an application to the Legislature, for an extension of the charter of the "Cobourg and Rice Lake Plank Road and Ferry Company, to enable them to extend their Road through Monaghan and Otonabee to Peterborough." This line was afterwards built and known as the Gravel Road, kept up by a system of toll gates and fees.

The Peterborough and Port Hope Railway Co. give notice of the annual meeting, at the Albert House, Peterborough, on Monday, 10th Jan., 1848, for the purpose of electing directors.

One Michael Hanlon desires the return of a strayed cow "four years old with the subscriber, since the 15th September."

That the servant problem was before the public is a sure thing, for notice is formally given that "Women, Boys and Girls as Servants and Apprentices, can be procured at the Widow's and Orphan's asylum in Peterborough East." The noble 5th ward was at the time mentioned known as "The Scotch Village."

Jos. Carey, Deputy Inspector-General, gives notice that "all persons having in their custody or possession any MONEYS, GOODS, CHATTELS or EFFECTS, heretofore belonging to DECEASED Emigrants, are without loss of time, to deliver up the same under severe penalties."

A queer custom was that of advertising in the papers a list of letters "remaining uncalled for" at the local post office. Sixty-seven letters are awaiting owners, whose names, titles and places of residence are duly set forth, under the hand of S. J. Carver, postmaster.

Thomas Bell, of Cavan, publicly announces his troubles as follows: "Stop Him! Ran away from the subscriber, last Monday week, James McBain, My Indentured Apprentice. Any person harbouring him, or employing him after this Notice, will be prosecuted to the utmost limits of the law."

Among the names following the business announcements are many that will be remembered by our older citizens; William Snyden, who kept a general store, William Cluxton, who dealt in wheat and produce, G. H. Lennon, dry goods, Joseph Shaw, tailor, Thomas Hurley, undertaker, A. McPhail, druggist, Duncan McLeod, hardware, T. O. Donnelly, hotelkeeper, Thos. Leonard, shoemaker and many others. There were a round dozen of lawyers, eight or ten doctors and one insurance agent.

Shooting Done Wilfully By Curry's Hired Servant

Coroner's Jury Bring in Verdict of Deliberate Murder.

Accused Englishman Must Face Trial on Capital Charge — Autopsy Reveals Fact That Two Shots Were Fired at Curry—Son Tells Story of the Struggle After the Tragedy—Boy Not Called.

Brampton, Dec. 31.—A verdict of murder was returned by Coroner Heggie's jury at Elmbank Hall, yesterday after pressure had been brought on the coroner's jury by the crown officials. The text of the verdict was:

"We find that William Curry came to his death by a gunshot wound caused by a shot from a gun fired by one John Terrace, and that the said John Terrace did directly kill and murder William Curry."

The evidence of James Curry concerning his father, which charges John Terrace, for three weeks an employe on the farm near Elmbank, with the murder, was taken, as was the result of post-mortem examination, as made by Drs. Arthur Jukes Johnson, Lawson and Heggie. Crown Attorney McFadden then announced that sufficient evidence had been brought forward to send the case to the jury. He did not see any necessity to put little "Jimmy" Reid, the only other witness of the tragedy, before the jury.

A. R. Hassard, who appeared for Terrace, said that the evidence was enough to establish the cause of death, but he objected to the charge being laid against his client. In this he was upheld by several members of the jury, who, speaking from the jury bench, expressed themselves as not fully satisfied with their knowledge of the jurisdiction in the matter.

Attorney Drafted Verdict.

Crown Attorney McFadden then wrote out a verdict, which he handed to the foreman, and to which several members of the jury agreed. Others demurred and wanted the boy called. Coroner Heggie then went into the case as he thought fully, to show, according to the evidence, that there was no one else who could have fired the gun.

One juryman got up and said that he knew that Curry died from gun wounds, but the crown had not proved who pulled the trigger. Curry, Jr., had sworn that he did not see Terrace cock the gun, a point which was neglected by the crown, but one asked by a juryman.

The crown attorney then said he would call the other witness. Before this was done, however, after many questions were directed at the coroner, the jury seemed satisfied to accept the advice of the crown, and the crowd of 300, which packed the hall, surged out.

A new feature of the case was brought out in the evidence of Detective Greer, who produced shot found in the sheeting of the ceiling of the dining-room at the Curry house, showing that two shots had been fired. This point, it is said, Terrace had denied.

Son Tells of Shooting.

James Curry, the first witness, told the details of the shooting Christmas Day. Several times during the day he had asked Terrace to put away a hammer which he was carrying around.

"After the evening meal," he said, "I was sitting at the table reading. Terrace went over to the corner and stood for a while. Suddenly Terrace said, 'It is my turn to laugh now.' I said, 'In the name of common sense, Jack, what does this mean?' He said, 'You laughed at me at the pump. It's my turn to laugh now, put your hands behind your back. Both barrels are loaded.' I said, 'Where did you get the cartridges? Have you been searching the house?' He said, 'They were in my room.'

"Then father came out of the room. That's all I can remember now."

"Were you carrying on this conversation with Terrace with the gun pointing at you?" asked the coroner.

"Yes."

"Curry continued: "My father said 'What does all this mean?" Terrace said, 'You keep back or I'll shoot you.' Then I heard a report."

At this point Mr. Hassard objected to Detective Greer prompting the witness. The coroner said that he was there to find out everything, and he did not care how he found out. Witness said he had a faint idea that the gun went off a second time. At any rate, he heard the gun drop. He sprung at Terrace, who tried to get away from him around the table. Then Terrace struck him on the left side of the head with something hard. Witness took him by the throat and hit him in the face. The elder Curry said, "I'm done."

"I got Terrace on the floor. I got a hold of the stove-shaker which he had in his hand. He said, 'Tie me, there is twine in my pocket.' I said, 'Not until I get this iron.' I got it. Then I asked him which pocket the twine was in. He told me and I found some string and another cartridge. I said to him 'This twine won't hold you,' and I hit him with the stove-shaker and knocked him unconscious. Then I tied him. During this time my father did not speak. I had said to Terrace 'You've killed my father.' Then I hit him. Terrace said, 'The poor old man.' Before I knocked Terrace out I told Jimmy to go for MacKay. Terrace said, 'Don't you do it.' Father had gone back into bed and was covered up."

Witness had engaged Terrace in the immigration office at Toronto. He engaged him for a month on trial with a promise of $110 a year if he suited. He did not suit, and the witness had told him so on Monday night. Terrace got angry and said he had been hired for a year.

Witness In Tears.

To. Mr. Hassard, in the course of cross-examination, the witness said that he did not want to swear to anything exactly and he broke into tears.

"I don't want to give evidence against him at all," he said.

Witness swore that on Christmas night there was no talk about wages or Terrace's leaving at all.

Dr. M. H. Aikens had arrived at the Curry house at midnight and found the aged man dying. He died 32 minutes later.

Dr. W. L. Heggie of Brampton, who assisted in the post-mortem, said death was due to shock and hemorrhage. The general line of the wound was upward.

Detective Greer examined the hole in the ceiling at the Curry house. There was a gun shot hole in the ceiling where he found some shot in the sheeting of the roof.

SIX MONTHS IN PRISON.

Farmer Worth $10,000 Stole Right and Left.

Galt, Dec. 31.—A remarkable case came before Magistrate Blake yesterday, when a Beverley farmer, John Riddell, by name, who is reported to be worth $10,000, was charged with theft. He admitted his guilt, offered no explanation of his extraordinary conduct and was sent to the Central for six months.

Farmers about Galt have lately been missing a lot of stuff from their wagons such as blankets, shoes, groceries, meats, in fact anything that an able bodied man could carry away.

Photographs by Wireless.

Paris, Dec. 31.—Pascal Bionneau, an inventor, yesterday exhibited before the Postmaster-General and a number of persons interested in scientific inventions, a new telephotography apparatus, which can be adapted to the wireless system or to the ordinary telegraph wire system. He transmitted the picture of the Postmaster-General without the aid of wires, from one end of the hall to the other. The inventor claims that distance does not interfere with the effectiveness of his methods. Photography, he said, can be sent between New York and Paris.

Canon Attacks Archbishop.

Montreal, Dec. 31.—A great deal of interest has been aroused in Roman Catholic circles over a sermon preached by Canon O'Meara, parish priest of St. Gabriel, who severely criticised Mgr. Bruchesi's appointment of Rev. Gerald McShane to the chief pastorate of St. Patrick's.

The canon says it is a slap in the face to 25 Irish priests, and that the archbishop was badly advised by a clique of men who must be called English-speaking Catholics, for they do not deserve the name of Irish.

The N. St. C. and T. Railway will re-lay their tracks in Niagara Falls in the spring.

FIND RUNAWAY RECTOR.

Eloped With 17-Year-Old Girl—Hiding in California.

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 31.—The Call yesterday published an interview with Rev. Jere Knode Cooke, formerly pastor of St. George's Church at Hempstead, L. I., who it is alleged left his wife some eight months ago, eloping with a 17-year-old heiress named Floretta Whaley. The couple have been located, it is said, at a flat at 1,199 Green street in this city, while a search has been going on for them all over the country.

A child has been born to them during the interval. The rector has been working partly as a painter and decorator and partly at hard manual labor for the support of himself, his companion and the child. He had, it is said, lived quietly in Los Angeles before coming here after he left the east.

Enquiry at the flat occupied by Cooke and Miss Whaley revealed the fact that the couple fled with their child.

The couple seem to have been identified beyond all question as Cooke and Floretta Whaley. They were living under the name of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Balcom.

BOUND BY BURGLARS.

Railroad Agent Gagged, Robbed and Burned to Death.

Clarington, Ohio, Dec. 31.—Edward Hutchinson, the Baltimore & Ohio railroad station agent here, was robbed and murdered at an early hour yesterday and the station burned over his head.

The burglars bound and gagged Hutchinson and after taking his watch and money ransacked the station. Hutchinson had worked for the Baltimore & Ohio for a number of years.

The burglars evidently decided to burn Hutchinson as he lay bound in order to conceal their identity.

Fisherman Not Seaman.

St. Thomas, Dec. 31.—An interesting decision was rendered by His Honor Judge Ermatinger on Saturday, in the Port Stanley case of Going vs. Fritzley. The plaintiff secured judgment for $22.80 and costs against Fritzley and garnisheed the wages owing the latter from Capt. A. C. Brown. It was proved at the trial that Fritzley was employed as fisherman by Mr. Brown, on the tug Gordon Brown, and there was about $40 coming to him.

W. K. Cameron, acting for Fritzley, contended that the wages of a fisherman cannot be garnisheed, as under the Shipping Act of Canada all seamen's wages are exempt. The plaintiff's solicitor contended that the act does not apply to this province, and even if it did, the defendant was not a seaman. The judge decided that the act is not applicable and that a fisherman cannot claim the exemption as a seaman, and gave judgment for the plaintiff with costs.

Arrested For Murder.

Gretna, Man. Dec. 31.—As a climax of a week's investigation in a brutal murder at Neche, N. D., on the international boundary, of Fred Leclaire, a young railroader, James O'Brien, son of Deputy Collector of U. S. Customs, has been arrested, charged with the crime.

It is said the most damaging evidence was suddenly revealed against young O'Brien in the form of bloody clothes which he wore the night Leclaire was beaten to death and his body shoved under the ice of the Pembina River.

CONFESSES TO MURDER

Omer Rochette Admits Having Given His Wife Strychnine.

Was Arrested at Chicago—Had Recently Married Pretty French-Canadian Girl—Says He Killed His First Wife After Eleven Years of Fighting—Brought Back to Montreal For Trial.

Chicago, Dec. 31.—Omer Rochette, a chef of Quebec, who was arrested in Chicago Saturday, on a charge of murdering his first wife, last night made a full confession.

The man, who was arrested with the second wife, Filon Marceau Rochette, admitted to Chief McCaskill of Montreal that he put strychnine in food that he gave his wife. Rochette and the pretty French-Canadian girl were taken back to Montreal last night.

"I killed her because we were always fighting," Rochette said. "For eleven years we were always in a row, and I was driven half crazy by it all, then after she was dead I loved Filon and married her.

Chief McCaskill went to the cell where Rochette was locked up: "I am going to take you back to Montreal for murdering your wife," the Canadian official said; "are you ready to go or do you want to make a fight?"

"I don't see why I should be persecuted like this," complained Rochette. "I didn't kill her."

"But you did," the chief insisted. "You used enough strychnine to kill 20 persons. Your children saw you put it in the food, and you warned them not to eat any of the meat in which you put it. We have the complete evidence against you." Rochette hesitated a moment and then broke down.

"Yes, I killed her," he said, "I had to do it. We had fought so long that I just couldn't stand any more of it. But Filon Marceau didn't know anything about this. She married me secretly and we came on to Chicago, where I bought a restaurant on Wentworth avenue. I am willing to go back without a fight and stand trial."

Prisoners Return to Canada.

Chicago, Dec. 31.—Omer Rochette and his wife, who were arrested here last week on information furnished by the Canadian secret service, were yesterday returned to Quebec, the scene of the supposed murder of Rochette's former wife.

Miner's Terrible Death.

Brockville, Dec. 31.—Nelson La Fare, a French-Canadian, met a horrible and instant death in a Taleville mine. The mine is about 400 feet deep and he was descending into it on a ladder and was down on the 200-foot level when the skip came along at a good rate of speed. Making a quick spring for the passing skip he grabbed its sides and got partly into the cage. In the flight of the cage down his head was struck by a projection, as he was dead when the bottom of the pit was reached.

An Alleged Confession.

New York, Dec. 31.—Augene Dippotti swore on the witness stand in the court of general sessions yesterday that Guiseppi Capuzzo, also known as Charles Davis, confessed to him that he strangled Sophie Kehrer of Buffalo, and that he had killed other women in the same way. Mrs. Kehrer was found murdered in a furnished rooming house in West 22nd street last July. Capuzzo was arrested a few days later, charged with having caused her death.

Russia's Position In Manchuria.

Pekin, Dec. 31.—Ivan Shipoff, agent of the Russian Finance Minister, has just concluded a three months' investigation of the serious problems which confront the Chinese Eastern Railway, and as a result had recommended that expenditures be reduced in every direction possible. This action is construed here as a reflection of the hopelessness of Russia's position in Manchuria.

Gotham's Unemployed.

New York, Dec. 31.—Declaring that over 125,000 persons were out of work, the Central Federated Union voted to have its executive committee undertake immediately a plan for Governmental relief and submit it at a meeting next Sunday.

The Socialist delegates at the meeting declared that the city's army of unemployed was three or four times as great as it is usually at this season.

Witness Could Not Travel.

Georgetown, Ky., Dec. 31.—At the trial of Caleb Powers for complicity in the Goebel assassination yesterday, Attorney Wilson, speaking for the defence, declared that Charley Finley, who was indicted with Powers, and is now a fugitive in Canada, would have to come back to Kentucky to testify at the trial, but is dying of consumption and unable to travel.

Murderers Fight.

Kingston, Dec. 31.—John Troy, the slayer of Angus McLeod at Napanee 10 years ago, attempted to kill Valentine Shortiss, the Valleyfield murderer, on Saturday afternoon by stabbing him in the face and neck with a thick piece of wire. Both murderers are prisoners in the insane ward of the penitentiary. Shortiss is not seriously hurt.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Dec. 30.—(Special.)—At the Montreal Stock Yards West End Market, the receipts of live stock for the week ending Dec. 28 were 2480 cattle, 1364 sheep and lambs, 2334 hogs and 117 calves. The offerings this morning for local consumption consisted of 600 cattle, 200 sheep and lambs, 1150 hogs and 50 calves. There was no important change in the condition for cattle, prices being firm on account of small supply offered. The weather was somewhat stormy, but this did not interfere with buyers attending the market, and, as they all wanted some beef, the demand was fairly good and a moderately active trade was done. Cables from Liverpool on Saturday reported trade in cattle slow and noted no improvement in prices. Choice beeves in this market sold at 5c to 5¼c, good at 4½c to 4¾c, fair at 4c to 4¼c, common at 3½c to 3¾c, inferior at 2½c to 3c per lb., and canners at 75c to 90c per 100 lbs.

The market for sheep and lambs was very firm, owing to the limited offerings and the fair demand for the same, but prices showed no change from a week ago. Choice lambs sold at 6c, good at 5½c to 5¾c, and common at 5c to 5¼c per lb. Export sheep brought 4c, good butchers' stock 3½c to 3¾c, and culls 3c to 3¼c per lb. In spite of the further weakness in European markets for Canadian bacon and another decline in prices of 1s to 2s, which makes a net drop of 2s to 4s during the past two weeks, a firm feeling continues to prevail in the local hog situation on account of the small supplies coming forward. The demand from packers and dealers was good, and an active trade was done, with sales of selected lots at $6.50 per 100 lbs., weighed off cars.

Latest on the Druce Case; The Grave Was Opened Up

Coffin in Highgate Cemetery Contains Human Bones.

Exhumation Just Forty-Three Years After Burial—Absence of Roll of Lead Disposes of Claim to Portland Estates—Perjury Charges Likely to Follow—Remarkable Scene at the Graveyard.

London, Dec. 31.—The body of Thomas Charles Druce, in Highgate cemetery, was exhumed yesterday, just 43 years since its burial. The coffin was found to contain the remains of a human body, thus exploding the romantic tales told by Robert C. Caldwell and others, who swore during the recent hearing of the Druce perjury case that it contained a roll of lead.

The official statement given out by representatives of the Home Office and others who were officially present at the exhumation, not only definitely disposes of the lead myth, but seems effectively to confirm that the body buried in 1864 was actually that of T. C. Druce. The authorised statement follows:

"The coffin was opened and found to contain the body of an aged, bearded man; the plate on the coffin bore the name, Thomas Charles Druce."

The scene at Highgate cemetery when the vault was opened was remarkable. Constables seemed to spring from everywhere; every bush and every tree apparently hid an officer of the law. All the entrances to the cemetery were surrounded by the cordons of police. Only those who had passes from the Home Office were admitted to the grounds. George Hollamby, who claims he is the rightful heir to the Portland dukedom and to its vast estate, tried twice to get into the cemetery, but was met with a stern refusal.

The operations began at daybreak with the removal of the topmost coffins in the vault, containing the bodies of the wife and a son of T. C. Druce. It was nearly half-past eleven before the coffin, the contents of which have aroused the curiosity of the whole world, was brought up ready for opening and inspection.

The top was quickly unscrewed and the inner casing of lead cut open; there was no need for the dictum of the eminent surgeon, Augustus J. J. Pepper, who was appointed by the Home Office to carry out the exhumation, to assure all present that human remains lay in the coffin.

The Druce vault has given up its secret after ten years of legal proceedings, which have cost, all told, a considerable fortune. A large part of this money was obtained from servant girls and other women who were induced to buy shares in a company formed to prosecute the claims of George Hollaway Druce against the estate of the Duke of Portland.

The charge of perjury against Herbert Druce is effectively disposed of. These persons who have sworn to the placing of lead in the coffin instead of a human body, have deposed to facts which now have been disproved and they probably will have to take the consequences of their acts.

So far as the general public is concerned, the entire long drawn out Druce-Duke of Portland controversy is at an end and the case of the claimant, Geo. Hollamby Druce, has fallen to the ground.

Caldwell Under $5,000 Bonds.

New York, Dec. 31.—Robert C. Caldwell, whose remarkable testimony as a witness in the so-called Druce case led to the reopening of the grave of T. C. Druce, is now at the home of his daughter at New Brighton, Staten Island, under $5,000 bonds to answer to a charge of perjury preferred by the British authorities in connection with the story he told in the London court.

Caldwell's story of the alleged dual personality of the Duke of Portland was the real sensation of one of the most remarkable legal cases which ever engaged the attention of the British courts. The reopening of the Druce grave was undertaken as a final effort of the Government to prove their charge that Caldwell's testimony was wilful and corrupt perjury. In substance Caldwell's story, upon which the claim of the Druce heirs for the great fortune and the title of the Duke of Portland was based was to the effect that the Duke of Portland and T. C. Druce, a London storekeeper, were one and the same.

He had known the Duke of Portland under both names, he said, and at the request of the duke had arranged a pretended death and mock funeral of Druce so that his dual personality could be buried. He swore that a coffin buried in Highgate cemetery and which was supposed to hold the body of T. C. Druce, in reality contained only two hundred pounds of lead. It was this coffin which was exhumed yesterday.

Delayed by Storms.

St. John, Nfld., Dec. 31.—The Allan line steamer Sicilian, over due from Glasgow for Boston, arrived Sunday night, having been delayed by stress of weather. Her officers report encounters with fierce gales.

On account of the stormy weather, it is thought probable that the steamer Anita, bound here from Norway, with 300 reindeer for Dr. W. T. Grenfell, head of the Labrador Mission, will make a long passage. The steamer is now 14 days out.

Writs For Bye-Elections.

Ottawa, Dec. 31.—Writs have been issued for the bye-elections in Stanstead and South Huron. Nomination day will be Jan. 15, and polling day Jan. 22. The vacancy in Stanstead was caused by the death of Henry Lovell (Liberal), and that in South Huron by the death of B. B. Gunn (Conservative).

Three Workmen Killed.

Field, B. C., Dec. 31.—Three muckers named Maretti, Paulo and J. Duffy, were blown up and killed in an accidental explosion of dynamite in the Macdonnell and Gzowski's grading contract here. The explosion was due to stray pieces of dynamite that had got mixed with dirt.

Weird Scene In Court.

Buffalo, N. Y., Dec. 30.—Charles Schroff, the 17-year-old boy who shot and killed his father in the living rooms of his saloon on Genesee street on Thursday last, pleaded not guilty Saturday to a charge of manslaughter in the Police Court.

Afterwards he was taken to the County Court, where bail was fixed at $10,000 and was furnished.

Young Schroff was accompanied by his mother, in defence of whom he fired the fatal shot. Soon after entering the court, Mrs. Schroff gave way under the terrible strain and fell fainting from her chair. Her son, thinking she was dying, cried out: Oh, mother, mother," and fell senseless beside her.

Restoratives were administered and soon after they left the court.

MACBETH.

A Famous Actor's Views on the Sleepwalking Scene.

The first time I read this tragedy I expected to see the sleepwalking scene played by Macbeth instead of his wife. This scene occurs at the beginning of the fifth act, and not until the gentlewoman and the doctor converse together are we aware of the change in Lady Macbeth's character and of the illness that has made her weak. A woman so brutal in her conception and so resolute in her projects—how could she at once lose steadfastness, she who was capable of saying:

I would, while it was smiling in my face,
Have plucked my nipple from his boneless gums
And dashed the brains out.

Such a woman is capable of committing any crime without losing her impassiveness. I should have preferred not to see her, even in sleep, wash her hands of the murder of Duncan. Her wicked personality would have appeared still greater.

I do not believe that Shakespeare meant the sleepwalking scene for Lady Macbeth. Have you not noticed how precise the famous writer was in drawing his characters? He always tried to keep them in the same light from beginning to end. To my mind it seems impossible that Lady Macbeth should collapse like that. Instead it would be more natural in Macbeth. I found this scene so unnatural that I cut it out in my version.

The explanation may be something like this: In Shakespeare's day there were no women players. Perhaps some of the actors were not satisfied with the length of their respective parts. Shakespeare, to keep the peace, may have shortened Macbeth's speeches and given them to somebody else.

The tragedy of Macbeth is a sublime display of tragic passion, a pathetic picture of fate and evil conquering good. There is no moral, but without doubt this play may be regarded as the greatest work of dramatic literature.—Tommaso Salvini in Putnam's Monthly.

ENGLISH GHOST STORY.

A Vision That Saved a Life on the Yorkshire Dales.

It is not often that we hear of a ghost saving a man's life. There is, however, an instance, and it seems to be tolerably well authenticated, and materialists will hardly know how to account for it. Here is the story. It is of the Yorkshire dales and of a good many years ago. A clergyman whose duty lay in that wild country, where a strong race of men and women lived principally on bacon and oatcake and knew not save rarely butcher's meat, used to ride or walk to visit the people. He had been raising a subscription in a time of scarcity and had to be out late at night. One evening on his outward journey he suddenly became aware of a figure moving beside him, and in the gloaming he recognized his brother, who had died some time before. He was too awestruck for words, and after keeping by his side for some distance over the lonely moor the figure disappeared. He noted the time and the vision, but nothing occurred to throw any light upon it. However, some years after he had taken the duty at a jail in another part of the country one of the prisoners lying under sentence desired to make a confession. After telling him of a lot of crimes he said: "I wor very near once taking your life, sir. It was in that bad year, and I heerd as how you went carrying money about in those lonesome dales. I hid behind the big bowlders of the brown moor. I saw you coming up and waited till you should be near enough, but that night you were not alone." This is a startling tale and the stronger because the vision or whatever it was was seen by two people. The anecdote occurs in an article twenty years ago in Macmillan's Magazine by Lady Verney.

Sense of Smell.

The olfactory nerves are wonderfully sensitive. Much has yet to be investigated with regard to the differentiation of the points in these nerves so that they may discriminate with such apparently miraculous accuracy, yet even the results in the scent of dogs show how wonderfully fine is their discriminating power. Our sense of smell, unless in the trained chemist, is not even so acute as that of the semi-savage. Much have we gained by civilization, but not without some loss to our bodily energies and senses. Man's recuperative power after an injury is said frequently to be in inverse ratio to his social advancement. Similarly he seems to become less acute and delicate in the sense of smell as he fares better and lives more comfortably.

Houses and Homes.

There have been and there are today in the various lands of the earth many people who have no houses and nothing that you could call furniture even of the antique variety. But there can be no doubt that they are far happier than many who are comfortably housed in mansions which contain everything that money can buy.—Uncle Remus' Magazine.

Talking and Thinking.

The Man — A learned scientist advances the theory that a severed head is capable of thinking, although it is unable to speak. The Woman—That's queer. It is so much easier to talk than it is to think!

Call Money.

Nell — What is call money, dear? Belle—I guess it's the kind you call up your husband on the telephone for to tell him you must have it right away. —Baltimore American.

A new type of war vessel, which will carry submarines in her hold is being built for Japan.

GREATEST OF PORTS.

New York Has Four Hundred and Four Miles of Dock.

More than twice as many vessels clear the port of London, to be sure, one every fourteen minutes as against one every half hour for New York, but the average cargo value is only $47,242, whereas that of New York is $92,307. In point of tonnage New York exceeds London by 1,000,000. This is due to a difference in the character of the ports that must be borne in mind in comparing them. London is England's one commercial center and aside from Liverpool its only great place of export and import.

On the other hand, New York is not the commercial center of America. When the manufacturer of shoes in Boston sends his goods to Baltimore he either sends them by rail or by vessel direct without entering New York. If he wants to send his goods to France or Germany he sends them from the port of Boston. That is, the chief ports of the Atlantic seacoast, New Orleans, Charleston, Mobile, Norfolk, Philadelphia and Boston, engage in a coastwise and foreign trade in entire independence of New York. Less than 28 per cent of New York's tonnage is represented in coastwise trade. Fully 50 per cent of London's commerce, amounting to $1,870,000,000 annually, or $685,000,000, represents foreign trade, whereas of New York's $1,200,000,000 annual commerce $864,000,000 represents foreign trade, or an actual excess over London of $179,000,000.

To accommodate this enormous trade New York has 404 miles of improved water frontage—that is, 404 miles of docks. This is half the distance between New York and Chicago. London has less than 200 miles of similar water frontage, Liverpool has less than 100 miles, while Hamburg, Antwerp, Rotterdam or Havre has each less than Liverpool. Practically all the available water frontage of these foreign ports has been absorbed by their docks, while New York has improved only a little over one-half of its available shore. When all the available coast is improved, as it must be rapidly, it will measure nearly as many miles as lie between the Atlantic seaboard and the Mississippi river. —Broadway Magazine.

When the Elevator Stops.

In some of the downtown skyscrapers the elevator service is suspended on Sunday, and the janitors and their families, who in many buildings are quartered on the topmost floor, have to descend and climb from twenty to thirty flights of stairs whenever they want to get in touch with the outside world. In one building, which is twenty-four stories high, the ten-year-old daughter of the janitor makes three round trips each Sunday—one when she goes to church in the morning, one when she attends Sunday school in the afternoon and another when she goes to meet her playmates after dinner. Each flight consists of twenty steps, making 960 steps to a round trip. Three trips make it 2,880 steps, a mountain climbing record.—New York Tribune.

Short on Princesses.

By the birth of the little son and heir to Prince and Princess Alexander of Teck the number of unmarried English princes is now increased to eleven, and if to these are added the two sons of Prince and Princess Louis of Battenberg there may be said to be thirteen princes for whom wives will have to be found at some time. It is noteworthy that at the present time Europe is suffering from a dearth of young princesses. Of late boy babies have appeared in all the royal families, and even as matters now stand it is difficult to see how these little princes are to be mated in the future. Such princesses as there are likely to be seem too old for the small boys who are coming so quickly on the scene.

Santos-Dumont Makes a Bet.

M. Santos-Dumont has made a bet that in eight months he will have constructed a hydroplane capable of travelling at a speed of sixty miles an hour. This idea of a gliding craft or hydroplane is no new one. So long ago as the year 1831 a Frenchman named Garpon built a sort of flat bottomed boat for river navigation which was to all intents and purposes a hydroplane, in that it drew less than an inch of water. Its means of propulsion, however, consisted of small, old fashioned engines working a ridiculous apparatus at the rear that resembled a fish's tail and fins combined.

London's American Colony.

A correspondent writes: "The consular estimate of the number of citizens of the United States permanently resident in London either for business, pleasure, profit or because generally they prefer to live outside the United States is 5,000. Of these the names of 3,500 are known to be in the London directory; about the remaining 1,500 there is more uncertainty, and the number itself is an approximate calculation.—London Times.

Why Peterborough Citizens Now Come to Dr. Browett for Glasses

ONE REASON: Most city people are now too intelligent and well informed to permanently injure their eyes and wreck their nerves for want of suitable glasses, especially when Dr. Browett's prices are so reasonable consistent with quality. Eye Glasses and Spectacles from $1.00 up; Colored Glasses 25 to 40c; Railroad and Mechanic's Glasses 25c to $1.00; Thermometers 25c to $5.00; Artificial Eyes $3.50 to $7.00; Non-Steam Lens Polish (keeps steam and frost from glasses) 25c.

ANOTHER REASON: Winter brings long nights with more use of artificial light. Ladies are now taxing their eyes doing fancy work for Xmas. Gentlemen are doing more reading and writing in the office and home. Scholars are doing long hours of home-work. Thus all eyes work harder during the winter season, and if glasses are ever needed they are needed now. Some thoughtful sons and daughters are giving glasses to their parents for Xmas.

BUT ONE WOMAN TO WED.

(Original.)

Many years ago there existed in Europe a principality, Calpurnia, so small that its population numbered only a few thousand persons. They were very exclusive, never adopting foreign citizens and intermarrying among each other. The consequence was that hereditary diseases became so plentiful among them as to threaten their ruin. Theodore VII., then prince, at last issued a decree prohibiting marriage between persons related within the fifth generation. Under this law marriage was extremely difficult.

One of the first persons on whom the edict reacted was the hereditary prince Theodoric, who, like the people, must marry within the principality. At the time it was issued he was studying at a foreign university, but was about to finish his course and was expected to return and marry in order to secure the succession. Meanwhile his father directed the heralds to examine the family trees of the nobility with a view to discovering some family into which the young prince could legally marry. They reported that but one family, the Count of Vervin's, came within the limit. In this family was one unmarried woman, Vergilia, twenty years old, in every way attractive and a very suitable match for the young prince.

Theodore at once sent the prime minister to the count, Vergilia's father, with a proposition for his daughter. The minister returned, reporting that the count felt greatly honored by the proposition, but his daughter had declared that she was not inclined to marry. She was a wayward girl who had always been used to having her own way, and her father's command that she should return a suitable answer to her sovereign had had no effect upon her.

Theodore was much perplexed. He wrote of the refusal to his son. But Theodoric paid no attention to it and soon after his graduation wrote his father that he was minded to travel. So then his father replied, advising him —he was overfond of the boy and seldom commanded—to come home at once, that the only woman he could marry was accepting the attention of a young foreign artist who had recently appeared and solicited the privilege of painting her portrait. She sat for him every day, and her father feared the headstrong girl was in love with him and would disregard not only the wish of her sovereign, but the national custom of marrying only within the country. To this warning the prince did not reply, and his father concluded that he had gone beyond the reach of his letters.

Meanwhile the artist, Rodrigo Nunez, a young Spaniard, was busy with the portrait. He was very respectful, keeping his distance from the highborn dame, but she noticed whenever he strove to interest her in order to catch her best expression that he was a man of culture. Gradually as Virgilia gave him encouragement he showed by his manner that he loved her, and one day, forgetting herself, she called out a declaration. Then the girl, with her eyes bent upon the floor, told him of the proposition for her hand for the young prince.

"And will you accept?" asked Rodrigo mournfully.

"I have declined it thus far."

"And in the end?"

"What would you consider my duty?"

The artist did not reply. Turning to the portrait, he painted absently. The girl repeated her question.

"It is for you to make up your own mind what that duty directs," he said.

"If I do not marry the prince our people will be the sufferers."

"And if you do marry him—you will be the sufferer."

"Yes."

Her face was averted. He stole up beside her, placed his arm around her waist, and her head dropped on his breast.

Suddenly he released her.

"I love you too well," he said, "to ask you to do that which you do not conceive to be your duty."

When the artist left Vergelia it was the last seen of him in the principality. Where he went or what became of him no one knew. In time Vergelia informed her father that she would do what the interest of her sovereign and his people required of her. Her decision was communicated to the young prince, who wrote her a frank letter thanking her for at last giving her consent. "Perhaps you love another," he said, "but I trust to win your heart in time."

He did not seem inclined to hurry home, and rumor said that the women of foreign countries were loath to lose him. Finally, however, when his father pointed out to him that under the circumstances his continued absence was delaying and endangering the succession, he wrote requesting the court to make preparations for the ceremony, to announce the date, and he would return in time.

While the preparations were making Vergelia remained shut up at home. The story got about that she was sacrificing herself for the common good, and she was much beloved for it. The young prince, on the contrary, was becoming unpopular for remaining abroad at such a time.

It was the very day of the wedding before he arrived. However, he made amends for his inattention by going straight to the home of his affianced bride, having sent word ahead asking that no one might be present at their first meeting. When he entered the room Vergilia fell fainting through excess of joy into his arms. The prince and Rodrigo Nunez were one and the same person.

Some Work Which Will be Done on Trent Canal During Winter

The Lift Lock at Kirkfield Formally Taken Over To-day—Stony Lake Claims for High Water Settled—New Concrete Dam at Gooderham Completed—Other Work.

During the winter considerable work will be carried out on the Trent Canal system, which will give employment to several men.

A new wooden dam will be built at Norland, seven miles up the Gull river from Coboconk. It will result in raising the water in the Gull river, and conserving the high level. The dam will replace an old one and will be seven feet high. The work will be carried out by Mr. George Littleton, under the direction of Overseer Samuel Clegg, and about fifteen men will be employed all winter long.

NEW GATES AT BUCKHORN.

Cement, gravel, sand, timber and other supplies are being conveyed to Buckhorn, where new lock gates with the latest modern opening apparatus will be installed. About 20 men will be employed and the work will be in charge of Mr. Alex. Richardson, under the direction of Mr. Clement Gordon, overseer.

DAM COMPLETED

The new dam at Gooderham on the Burnt river, was completed last week. It is a concrete structure on the site of the old wooden dam, but is considerably higher than the wooden one. The cost of the new structure is $3,500, and a fine job has been done, under Mr. Alex. Richardson.

LIFT LOCK TAKEN OVER.

Supt. J. H. McClellan is in Kirkfield, to-day, where the lift lock was accepted by the engineers from the contractors, the Dominion Bridge Co., as a finished work, and handed by them over to the canal officials. The administration and control of the lift lock at Kirkfield will henceforth be under the direction of Mr. McClellan.

Mr. L. Sherwood was the engineer in charge of the work at Kirkfield, under the direction of Mr. A. J. Grant, superintending engineer.

CLAIMS SETTLED.

It is understood that the Stony Lake cottagers, who have claims against the department of railways and canals by reason of the high water, have been settled with, on at least a majority of them have. It is learned that about thirty have agreed to accept certain sums — in many instances smaller than the original claims put in—and the outlay from adjusting the damage done by high water was about $4,500. This is considered a very satisfactory settlement.

Havelock Assyrians Have Fight in Public Street

Havelock, Dec. 30.—A case of assault took place in town to-night, shortly after six o'clock, and as a result, Mr. Nise Goevam, of Toronto, an Assyrian, is in the lockup. There was some misunderstanding between Goevam and another Assyrian who keeps a store in town, some months ago. This Assyrian merchant, whose name is S. Aboud, tried some months ago to put Goevam, but of his shop, and this man came to avenge the insult with a knife and loaded pistol with him. The result was a free fight in the street, in which several other Assyrians, who have their headquarters here, took part. When Policeman James Brill arrived on the scene, the two Assyrians were about to attack each other, and it is quite likely that something serious would have happened if this officer of the peace had not arrived.

Policeman Brill put the offender in the local jail, where he alarmed the neighbors with his fierce cries for liberty.

He will likely appear before Magistrates Mathison and Joyce on Tuesday morning for trial.

Chas. Porteous' Assailant Believed to be in Custody

The Toronto police on Saturday evening arrested two young men after a desperate fight, and it is believed they have the party who held up Charles Porteous near Millbrook on December 12th. George Chambers and Thomas Morgan are the names of the two men who have been captured, and Morgan has confessed to be implicated in fourteen holdups, the majority of them in Toronto.

A Toronto despatch describing the incident, says:

There was a desperate hand to hard struggle on Sherbourne street, at the corner of Shuter, on Saturday evening, when two young men, Geo. Chambers, aged 27, and Thomas Morgan, aged 29, neither of whom have any fixed place of abode, were arrested by Detectives Newton, Twigg and Guthrie, and Plain Clothes Constable Lydiatt. Both were heavily armed.

Acting on information gathered by Detective Tipton, Inspector Duncan detailed the officers to watch the house in Sherbourne street early on Saturday evening.

After a short wait in the rain and darkness, two men came out of the steps, their hats pulled well over their eyes and overcoats buttoned up. As soon as they were clear of the house, the four officers rushed at them.

They evidently realized at once that the game was up, and prepared to make a fight for it. Morgan succeeded in getting his weapon out of his pocket, but it was instantly wrenched from his hand and thrown on the pavement.

A charge of attempted murder may be laid against the men in connection with the Porteous holdup.

Efforts Being Made to Retain Hamilton Industry

Joint Meeting of the Board of Trade, and Manufacturers' Committee to Meet Representative of the R. A. Williams Co.

There is a probability that a company may be organized to take over and operate the plant of the Wm. Hamilton Company. The City Council and Board of Trade are behind the proposition, and it is hoped that it will be carried to a successful issue.

A joint meeting of a committee from the Board of Trade and the Manufacturers' Committee of the City Council was held last night to meet Mr. R. A. Hollingrake, vice-president of the R. A. Williams Machinery Company of Toronto. The Williams company have the contract of selling the plant in bulk or parcel if something is not done to re-organize the company.

The matter was discussed at length, and it is understood that the prospects are bright for the industry again being put on a working basis. The meeting resulted in the joint committee agreeing to submit a proposition to the Williams Company of what assistance they will furnish in connection with the re-organization of the company.

It will be pleasing news to the citizens of Peterborough to know that efforts are being made to retain one of the city's oldest industries.

Mr. Wm. Wheeler, East City, has been awarded the tender for the supplying of bread for the county gaol for the year 1908. There were a large number of tenders received, but Mr. Wheeler's was the lowest, it being 3 3-4 cents per pound.

The tenders for supplying cordwood have been received, but no award has yet been made.

SUSTAINED INJURIES BY BAD FALL

Mr. Jas. McCullogh, 317 McDonnel street sustained a bad injury to his back this afternoon on Chambers-st. He was walking along when he suddenly slipped on the icy sidewalk. He was carried in Dr. Johnston's office and Dr. Carmichael was called. He was afterwards removed to his home in the Dan Spence ambulance where it was found that several ribs were broken. The old man is doing nicely but it will be some days before he will be able to be around again.

NEW YEAR'S DAY

Ever since man knew enough about astronomy to divide time into years which more or less agreed with the earth's annual revolution around the sun, he has in various characteristic ways regarded the first day of the new year as a day of rejoicing and well-wishing.

It was the great day for exchanging gifts until, in some Christian countries, Christmas Day was substituted. While in America New Year's Day is generally observed as a holiday and as an occasion for paying ceremonial social calls, in France, even now, New Year's presents have not entirely disappeared.

New Year's Day is not observed on January 1 in every country, although most nations nowadays use the Gregorian calendar, and consequently begin their new year on that day. In Russia the Julian calendar is still in use, and as a quarter of a day in each year is lost by that system, there is now an accumulated loss of thirteen days. January 1 in Russia, then, corresponds to January 14 of our calendar. The Mohammedan New Year, the Jewish New Year and the Chinese New Year, owing to the peculiar system of keeping time by those people, are very elusive dates, or seem so to persons familiar only with the Gregorian Calendar.

PLEADED GUILTY AND FINED $100

Mr. T. Cavanagh, proprietor of the Cavanagh House, was fined one hundred dollars in police court this morning on a charge of selling liquor on Sunday. Mr. Cavanagh pleaded guilty and no evidence was taken. Mr. Jos. Stewart, license inspector, was the complainant.

$50.00 REWARD

THE UNDERSIGNED will pay the above sum—FIFTY DOLLARS to any person or persons who will recover and produce the body of the late Richard Beaman, who is supposed to have been drowned in the Otonabee River by falling off the Canadian Pacific Railway Bridge on December 9th, 1907.

Cablegram Bore Sad News Of Death of Both Parents

Mr. Fred Thomas, Albert street, yesterday received a very sad and shocking message from Liverpool, England, his home town. It was a cablegram stating that his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Thomas, had both died, but outside the bare announcement of their death nothing was stated. Mr. Thomas was naturally greatly effected when he received the message. He had no idea that either of his parents were in anyway dangerously ill and it may be imagined what a severe blow it was to him when he heard of the death of both his father and mother in the same cablegram. Mr. Thomas has not seen either of his parents since he left England five years ago and on account of this the news was all the harder to bear.

When seen by a Review reporter this morning he said he could give no particulars whatever, concerning the demise of his parents on account of the cablegram simply containing the statement that they had died last Sunday. In about a week, however, he expects to receive all particulars by letter. His parents were between 60 and 70 years of age.

"I wouldn't have been so greatly surprised had I heard that my mother had died," Mr. Thomas stated, "as she has been ailing more or less for some time, but as far as I knew my father was enjoying perfectly good health. In a letter I received from home last Friday nothing was mentioned of either one of them being ill. I was completely astounded when I got the cablegram."

There are three children surviving the deceased—Sarah, at home, Mr. Frederick Thomas and his brother Mr. Sam Thomas, a driver for the Peterborough Fuel and Cartage Company. The latter came to Peterborough with his brother five years ago and has resided here ever since.

The late Mr. Thomas was in the employ of one of the English railways.

How New Year's Will be Spent

Some Public Events and Various Forms of Amusement

From every indication New Year's will be a much brighter day from a standpoint of general happenings than was Christmas. Several public events of importance have been arranged, and there will be various means of amusement open to those desirous of finding enjoyment on the holiday.

One of the big public events of the day will be the formal opening of the fire hall, Aylmer street.

The public are invited to attend the opening and the hall and fire fighting equipment will be open for their inspection all day. At the official opening in the afternoon the Mayor and other public officials will give addresses and refreshments will be served during the day, and in the evening the firemen will give a dance to some of their friends. There will be a reception at the Y.M.C.A. at which Common's orchestra will provide music. A prominent feature of the day will be the newsboys' dinner at the Gospel Hall. At the Grand Opera House the Parello Stock Company will give a matinee and night production. There will be skating at Brock street rink and at the Jackson Park rink also. The toboggan slide at Jackson Park will also be a strong source of attraction. There are many other ways of amusement that may be taken advantage of.

"Grand" New Year's Matinee "Lena Rivers". Evening "The Railroad King".

New Years Day at the Y.M.C.A.

From 2 to 5 p.m. the senior members of the association will receive their friends, both ladies and gentlemen, and invite their inspection of the building. Refreshments will be served and Common's orchestra in attendance for the afternoon.

At 4 p.m. presents will be distributed from the New Year's tree. Some presents have been received already, and any one is entitled to give a present to a friend in this manner.

At 8 p.m. a fine entertainment will take place in the lecture room. The programme may be seen in another column of to-day's paper.

A final dividend of 4 3-4 cents on the dollars was declared on Saturday by the liquidators of the Atlas Loan company of St. Thomas.

Lieut.-Col. Clarence A. K. Denison has been appointed from the reserve of officers, to command the first cavalry brigade, Western Ontario.

PERSONAL

The wedding is announced at Erskine church, Toronto, of Miss Susie Thompson, Toronto, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Thompson, and E. D. Munro, M.D.C.M., Parkdale. Miss Thompson who was head milliner for two years until four years ago, at Misses R. A. Sutcliffe and sons when that firm was located in this city is widely and favorably known in Peterborough.

The Original Tobogganer.

The otter was the original tobogganer and his slide the first of its kind deliberately chosen. Whence came his information? I know not. Turn if you can the leaves of nature's wonderful volume back to the opening chapters of animal life for information upon this and countless other curious traits. Maybe the primal otter saw a cube of ice break from its parent glacier and go sliding down a polished path to the sea. He may have then tried the feat himself under the notion that such sliding was rare good fun for otters. Quien sabe? Wherever the otter may have obtained his idea of sliding, he has neither lost it nor improved upon it. He slides as his forbears did for love of sliding, but he does not altogether depend upon snow and ice. During summer earth slides serve well enough, and these will surely be found on the banks of streams frequented by otters.—Outing.

Westminster Abbey Customs.

Burial in Westminster abbey is not of course a question of money, but there are certain fees charged for interment within that ancient pile. Formerly the fees amounted to £150 or £160. Dean Stanley introduced many reforms in the scale of charges, with the result that the maximum cost is now £111 4s. 2d. It may, however, be £20 less. The variations in the cost arise in connection with the contribution demanded for the fabric fund, which is £26 or £36 or £46, according to the place of interment. Other items in the bill are £34 2s. 2d. for fees to the dean, canons, choir and vergers and £31 2s. on account of silk scarfs, hatbands and gloves to the clergy, choir and vergers, which were formerly provided by the undertaker and charged in his account.—Westminster Gazette.

Ancher Ice Makes Trouble for Waterworks Department

City's Suppy of Water Shut off This Morning Owing to Sudden Drop in Temperature—Some Inconvenience Caused.

For the first time this season anchor ice caused trouble at the pump house of the Peterborough waterworks this morning. The sudden change in the temperature caused the ice to form with the result that one of the big wheels stopped revolving and when citizens arose this morning they found that there was no water in the taps. The effect was general throughout the city, although in some places a small quantity of the much desired liquid came through the pipe when the tap was turned on. The sudden shutting off of the water caused one considerable inconvenience, but the difficulty was beyond the control of the waterworks department and could not be helped. The water was shut off for several hours.

The Peterborough Light & Power Company and the Otonabee Power Company, when called up this morning stated that they had experienced no trouble from anchor ice, and had their usual supply of power.

Attractive and Enlarged Home of the Bank of Ottawa—Flooring Space Has Been Doubled—Convenience and Fittings are Thoroughly Up-to-date.

The extension and improvements to this handsome premises of the Bank of Ottawa on George street are now complete. A more attractive banking house it would be difficult to find in any of the cities of the province. The management is to be congratulated on its superb quarters.

The front is imposing, there being fluted pillasters of Indiana stone, artistically capped and resting on substantial pedestals. Intervening are pressed red brick window walls. There are two attractive plate glass windows, placed in oblong position and each of these are drip glass transoms. Over the front is a neat gold block letter sign, The Bank of Ottawa, and in white globes, suspended from black hammered iron brackets, supported by a chain, are electric lights. The whole is most striking and impressive.

Inside there is a double vestibule, the ladies' entrance being to the right, and that of the general public to the right. At the right is a nicely fitted up ladies' sitting room, writing table, chairs, etc. affording immediate access to the savings department, while to the left is a private consulting room for the bank's customers, also suitably equipped.

By taking in the premises formerly occupied by the late Peter Simons, the Bank has practically doubled its flooring space and accommodation. It now has a frontage of about 35 feet, and the location is very central and easily accessible. The fittings are all of quartered oak. The ceiling is a very handsome one, being covered with straw colored burlap, and supported by heavy oak beams. Around the walls is a dado of green burlap, surmounted by an oak rail, while from the rail to the ceiling the walls are adorned with paper of a fetching design, the pattern being known as a wood pattern. The floor is laid with a light linoleum, which harmonizes admirably with the fittings. The floor inside the fixtures is of brown linoleum. The conveniences and arrangements of the premises are excellent, both from the standpoint of the public and the staff of the institution.

At the rear are located a cloak room and lavatory, which are fitted up in good style. Upstairs there are three sleeping rooms for the members of the staff, a stationery department and other accessories. The premises are brilliantly lighted by means of electric lamps in white globes, resting on square brackets.

It is only two and a half years since the Bank of Ottawa opened its doors in Peterborough, and since then a large and constantly increasing business has characterised a progress which can be described as little short of remarkable.

The manager and his staff are to be congratulated upon their attractive, inviting and commodious establishment, and the splendid connection worked up in Peterborough.

Trades and Labor Council Resent Mr. Yelland's Remarks

Strong Resolution Passed at Last Night's Meeting—Resignation of Labor Gazette Correspondent Called for—Municipal Candidates are Discussed.

A meeting of the Trades and Labor Council was held last evening in the Labor Hall with President Alexander in the chair. The meeting was one of the most important of the year, as several important matters were considered during the evening.

LABOR MASS MEETING

The committee having in charge the arrangements for the labor mass meeting to be held during January presented its report, and it was decided to invite Mr. Jas. Simpson to deliver an address to the workingmen of the city on the evening of the second Friday in January. The meeting will likely be held in the City Council chamber and further particulars will be announced later.

RESIGNATION CALLED FOR

A number of protests were received from several unions in the city against the reports regarding the conditions in the different trades as forwarded to the Labor Gazette by the local correspondent. The matter was carefully considered and a committee was appointed to secure evidence to substantiate the different charges made and to draft a resolution to be forwarded to the Department of Labor at Ottawa urging upon that body the necessity of demanding the resignation of the local correspondent.

MUNICIPAL MATTERS

The record for the City Council for the past year and the mayoralty and aldermanic candidates for 1908 furnished food for a lively discussion.

One delegate characterized the council as an "aggregation of fossils," while another stated they were the poorest body of civic representatives Peterborough has had in years. It seemed to be the consensus of opinion that with one or two exceptions a new council should be elected.

Credit was given Aldermen McIntyre and Morgan for the stand taken on several matters during the year. The aldermen were severely scored for the Romaine street sewer muddle and the exorbitant cost of cutting down Stenson's hill. The delegates argued that poor judgment and a lack of system had characterised the work of this year's council. The lavish expenditure on the streets and the poor results obtained resulted, the delegates argued, from the fact that the city had not a practical man to look after this work. Reference was made to the disgraceful condition of many of our thoroughfares and one delegate remarked that things had reached a crisis in the city's affairs. Many of the aldermen, it is understood were handled without gloves during the discussion.

The aldermanic candidates were also considered. Some of the delegates were of the opinion that a new Chief Magistrate was needed as well as a new council.

"I don't think either one of the candidates is a proper man for the position," ventured another, while another delegate gave it as his opinion that the aldermen were endeavoring to hoist their shortcomings on the shoulders of the Mayor.

"Until they can make out a strong case against the Mayor," said one of the members, "I intend to support him. No charges have been laid at his door and I consider it shabby treatment not to give him a second term unopposed, when the precedent had been established. I notice the same 'gang' is opposed to him that was after his scalp last year."

Other delegates had different opinions and thought the Mayor was as much to blame as the council. However, none of the aspirants for municipal honors was endorsed by the delegates.

A STRONG RESOLUTION.

The remarks of Mr. Wm. Yelland at the nomination proceedings, in which he characterized the labor unions as a curse to the community, were warmly resented by the delegates present. "We don't want to let that charge go by unanswered," said a delegate. "I move that a warm resolution be drafted by this Trades and Labor Council representing as it does the labor sentiment of this city, desires to publicly condemn the statements made by a citizen of this city at the nomination proceedings, in which he characterised the labor unions as a curse to the community.

"We feel that such a statement is the result of a deep rooted ignorance of facts, and we desire to inform this citizen that we are living in an enlightened age when the rights of labor are recognized, and not in the misty past when long hours prevailed and men could be secured for their board and clothes. We strongly protest against such language and such wild-eyed misrepresentations, and feel that he has, in the language of the small boys, slopped over. It doesn't require much water to overflow a small tub.

"Futhermore we recognize the fact that in every community there are individuals who delight to torture municipal gatheirngs by displays of "oratorical wind-jamming," and who speak "an infinite deal of nothing." We regret exceedingly that said citizen is not in the contest, as he would then receive striking evidence of the power and influence of the curse."

The next regular meeting will take place the second Wednesday in January when the election of officers will take place.

Track at Park in Good Shape

Local Horses Will Commence Training for Ice Races

The ice track at the Driving Park is in good shape, and the weather is the best possible for making track. There is a good firm ice bottom on the track, and with favorable weather it should be in the best of condition for the races on January 21 and 23. The local track is known as one of the best half miles in Canada, and is a great favorite with horsemen both as a turf and ice course. The local horses will commence working out on it at once.

Port Hope Game Declared off

No Ice in Lake Ontario Town—Port Hope May be Here Friday

There will be no game with Port Hope to-morrow, as there is no ice in the Lake Ontario town. The weather has been so mild that the management of the Port Hope rink have found it a hopeless task to make ice for the game.

However, arrangements are being made to reverse the schedule, and the local club will endeavor to have Port Hope here next Friday night.

Pill Pounders Throw Gauntlet

The Pill Pounders challenge Creasman's Counter Jumpers for a game of hockey between 10 and 11 o'clock at the Brock street rink, at as early a date as is convenient to the clothing boys. A match between the Pill Pounders and Creasman's should make a good getaway game in the mercantile league.

THE TURF

Mr. Gerald Dunsford is driver for City Queen, owned by Mr. L. Bennett, Port Hope, for the Dufferin Park ice races.

HOCKEY

The Strathconas are in good condition for their New Year's game with Port Hope, and should be able to put up a big fight for the honors.

RUNNING

Vancouver, Dec. 27. — George Y. Bonhag, one of the greatest distance runners in America, will probably meet Arthur Burn, Calgary, in this city in the spring, probably on Good Friday.

On Charge of Cruelty to Horse

North Monaghan Man Will Face Magistrate Edmison—The Animal Died

A charge has been laid against Mr. Albert Crouter, of North Monaghan, for cruelty to animals. It appears that a horse which he owned, died, and there were reports that it had not been properly cared for and had not received sufficient food. High Constable Cochrane and Constable Archie Moore drove out yesterday, and found the animal dead. It had been kept in a dirty stable about 7 feet x 7 feet, part of the building being only five feet high. The place was in a filthy condition, and Dr. Johnston, who made an examination of the animal, found that it had passed away from fatty degeneration of the heart, a disease which might be caused from unsanitary surroundings. The stable was in a lean-to against the house, and Dr. Greer, medical health officer of North Monaghan, examined the dwelling yesterday and ordered the family to have it cleaned and thoroughly disinfected, and, in the meantime, to move out.

The charge against Crouter of cruelty and neglect to an animal will be instituted in the county police court.

TO PROVIDE WORK FOR THE UNEMPLOYED

Board of Works Decides to Purchase 33 Cords of Stone

The Board of Works at a meeting last night decided to purchase 33 cords of stone to be broken by hand to provide work for unemployed men in the city. The tenders received for stone were opened, but it was decided to leave the purchase of about 30 cords of stone in the hands of the city engineer and Street Commissioner Evans. The stone will be placed on Charlotte street between Park street and the North Monaghan road.

A few other matters were also dealt with, including Mr. Stabler's account over which there has been considerable discussion. It was decided to recommend that $1,300 be paid Mr. Stabler in settlement.

TRAGEDY OF THE COALFIELD.

How Disaster Overtook Rescue Party in South Wales.

Another of those stories of "silent heroism" associated with the oft-recurring mining disasters in the South Wales coalfield has to be recorded. The scene of the latest accident was the Seven Sisters colliery, Neath, where, singularly enough, two explosions occurred within 24 hours of each other. It appears that as a party of four miners descended the pit for the purpose of carrying out repairs in readiness for work on the following day, they encountered a heavy fall of roof. Hardly had they noticed this when a great tongue of flame lit up the whole area, and met them full in the face. On the plight of the men becoming known assistance was soon forthcoming, and three of the men, who were badly burned, were removed to a place of safety. The fourth man, Owen Gethin, could not be reached for some time. When his body was recovered it was found that he had been suffocated by after-damp. The poor fellow had evidently made a great struggle for life, and had pressed his cravat, soaked with tea, over his mouth in his effort to save himself from being asphyxiated. Then followed a second explosion. While an exploration of the workings was being made by a party of five a second accumulation of gas exploded with great violence and enveloped the whole group. Being old and experienced colliers they fell prone and there lay until the full effect of the explosion had expended itself. But still there remained, in the heading, a quantity of foul gas, and it was with the greatest difficulty that they managed to reach the pit bottom. When there they found that two of their number, both overmen, were missing. These were Morgan Hugh Jones and Evan Harris. When news of the second explosion got to the pit-head a rescue party was promptly organized, and after overcoming great difficulties they brought out David Williams, under-manager, Watkin Morgan, overman, and John Williams, seriously injured. But there was no trace of Jones and Harris. Yet another rescue party descended, but the work of exploration had now been rendered almost impossible by a fierce fire which was raging in the pit. Casks of water were lowered into the mine, and conveyed in trams to a spot as near as possible to the affected area. It was a fierce fight this fighting of the flames, for beyond undoubtedly lay the two entombed workmen. The work continued for hours, but still the flames would not be mastered, and on the following day hope was abandoned of reaching the poor men alive. It is a pathetic circumstance that both Jones and Harris had only a few hours before worked heroically to rescue their comrades in the first explosion, and it was Jones who recovered poor Gethin's body. After strenuous work the fire was overcome, and the bodies of Harris and Jones were found under a heavy fall of earth. Harris—a widower—leaves six children, and Jones leave a widow and four children. "Yes, Seven Sisters is a sad place," said a local colliery manager, "but what would have happened had the event occurred when all the men were at work? Yes, what would have happened? Probably, some hundreds of men would have been affected, and the whole valley plunged into mourning. As it is the results are most painful, but we all ought to be thankful that the explosion did not occur when hundreds of men would have been laboring in the pit."

ADRIFT IN ICY SEAS.

Wrecked Crew Row 400 Miles In Open Boats in the Arctic.

A thrilling story of the privations of the crew of the wrecked Dundee whaler Windward was told by the crew of the Diana, which arrived in the Tay recently from the Arctic.

On or about June 15, in a dense fog, the Windward struck a reef at Carey Island, and became a total wreck. From the report sent home by the Canadian Government cruiser, it was surmised that the other vessels of the fleet had been close at hand, and had rendered assistance. That, it now appears, was not the case, and the story of how the hapless mariners reached Pond's Bay, a voyage of 400 miles, in open whale-boats, is a thrilling one.

When the Windward struck, and it became evident that her position was hopeless, the boats were launched and provisioned, and the men were apportioned among them. The situation was desperate. To recross Melville Bay was impossible, or at the best could only have been accomplished with great loss of life. Further, it was extremely improbable that any of the minor settlements that might be reached would have sufficient food to meet the wants of so many mouths.

In the circumstances it was decided to make for Pond's Bay, distant to a steamship some 300 miles, but for small craft, which require to follow closely the coast line, about 100 miles more. For twelve days and nights the men struggled at the oars for dear life. Food supplies were short, and only a few biscuits were served out per day. Ice was melted to provide drinking water. Sleep was next to impossible.

Fantastic Bodyguard.

Much amusement has been caused in Armagh, Ireland, by a unique wedding display there. A wedding carriage was driven along the principal street followed by young men on bicycles and attired in fantastic raiment. Each wore a loose-fitting overall displaying all the colors in the rainbow, and caught at the waist with a fancy-colored belt, and carrying horns. Their headgear was even more fantastic, some wearing long conical hats, whilst others were of the Dolly Varden type, and bedecked with gay-colored streamers. The garb worn by the cyclists reminded one forcibly of a cycle gymkhana or a fancy dress ball. The wedding party in the carriage, were, it appears, unaware that they had such an extraordinary bodyguard. The bridal party, were, nat-

WILL REPRESENT THE KING.

Prince Arthur of Connaught Will Attend Champlain Celebrations.

Prince Arthur, only son of the Duke of Connaught, accompanied by an imposing suite, will represent his uncle, King Edward, at the celebration next year of the tercentennial anniversary of the founding of Quebec in 1608 by Samuel de Champlain, who bestowed upon it its present name. All the rumors to the effect that the King and Queen or the Prince and Princess of Wales would visit the Dominion next year are therefore set at rest. It was originally intended that the Duke of Connaught should represent the King, but his appointment as Lord High Commissioner of the British possessions in the Mediterranean and of Egypt and the Soudan, and the possibility of a crisis on the banks of the Nile within the next year, render it impossible for him, to cross the Atlantic. It is proposed that on the termination of the ceremonies at Quebec Prince Arthur should spend several weeks in an extended tour through Northwestern Canada, which is as yet terra incognito to the members of the reigning house.

Prince Arthur, though relatively young in years, is blessed with an abundance of tact, coupled with a pleasant, modest, unaffected manner, and thus far has succeeded in making friends for himself and for the royal family wherever he has been, either at home or abroad. In England he is particularly popular, by reason of the knowledge that he declined the German throne of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha in order to remain an Englishman, preferring the position and life of a British prince of the blood to that of a Teuton sovereign. Moreover, his name has been invested with a certain amount of romance in consequence of the widespread belief that there are dynastic obstacles to his marriage with the very pretty girl, the daughter of a peer, with whom his name has been connected.

It is doubtful whether King Edward will again ever be seen on this side of the Atlantic. Any visit to Canada would necessitate similar compliments to Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, India and other dependencies, in order to avoid colonial jealousy and ill-feeling. added to which, Edward VII. has arrived at a time of life when it is important not only for himself personally, but likewise to the state that he should husband his strength and avoid unnecessary fatigue.

A Vermont Tragedy.

The Pope and Redmond.

Rome, Dec. 31.—In receiving in private audience William Redmond, M.P. for East Clare, the Pope yesterday, learning that Mr. Redmond represents the constituency which returned Daniel O'Connell in 1829, said: "You have a noble predecessor; follow him in everything."

Grounds For Suspicion.

The artist came in and seated himself with a foreign and unaccustomed air, a slight something of hauteur the woman thought.

"My landlord," he began, "came to me this morning and told me to have anything I wanted done in the way of improvements in my apartments. He told me to spare no expense."

The woman looked at him hard.

"I begin to suspect you," said she, "of having paid your rent."—New York Press.

A PRACTICAL SCHOOL FROCK

One of the most becoming designs of the season for a little girl's dress is here sketched. It is as simple as it is pretty and on this account will prove a boon to the busy mother who prefers to make her little ones frocks at home. The long-waisted blouse is tucked in front and back in the popular Gibson style, and is attached to the tucked skirt beneath the belt. The full-length sleeve is cut on the modified bishop lines, being becomingly and comfortably spacious from shoulder to cuff. Any of the new soft woolens may be used for making this stylish little frock; a contrasting material being suggested for collar, cuffs and belt. For the 8 year size 3½ yards of material 36 inches wide will be needed.

Goldwin Smith Condemns Local Option

WRITING to the Toronto Globe, Professor Goldwin Smith thus expresses his views on Local Option

"I do not think it possible to enforce total abstinence. The taste for fermented liquors is common to all races of mankind, and it antedates the beginning of history. This taste the extreme prohibitionist hopes to eradicate by a single stroke of prohibitive legislation. Unless he can eradicate the taste, experience shows he cannot put down the habit. In the attempt radically and suddenly to change the habits of mankind by law, I have no faith whatever, and I appeal to multiplied and decisive experience as a warrant for my unbelief."

THE MAYORALTY CONTEST

There promises to be a lively contest for the Mayoralty, and, while Mayor McWilliams is doing a great deal of personal canvassing, the friends and supporters of Mr. Harry Rush are leaving no stone unturned to ensure his election. Mr. Rush has been an honored and honorable citizen of Peterborough for 45 years, and has had a successful business experience. His insight into municipal work extended over a period of four years ,and during that time he never canvassed a vote or sought a nomination. In the present instance it is not a case of the man seeking the office, but rather the office seeking the man. Mr. Rush has been urged on all sides to enter the contest. These requests have come from all classes and conditions of people, and a requisition was presented to him signed by 800 property holders who want a sound, progressive, business administration of the city's affairs. Mr. Rush has a clean record, and is a citizen who is generally respected and esteemed. If elected to the position of Mayor—as he is likely to be—he will do credit to the office and see that the affairs of the city are guided and controlled with firmness, promptness and wisdom.

As to his opponent, Mr. McWilliams, one of his principal faults is that he does not appear to enjoy that confidence and trust which a chief magistrate should possess—at least so far as the members of the council are concerned. He seems to have a strong desire to be looked upon as the whole municipal machinery himself and does not think that the aldermen or chairmen of the committees can transact any business without it being personally moulded and turned out by him. In short the Mayor has constituted himself as executive head, chairman, council and committee—all in one.

The time of the aldermen is too much taken up in listening to his views. He does too much talking and makes too big an effort to convert the aldermen to his way of thinking, desiring to claim all the honor and credit for everything done by the civic legislators.

Now, the chief function of a mayor is to preside and act in an advisory capacity. A presiding officer should not be a talkative one. He is not supposed to take part in the discussion of all matters little and big that may come up for consideration, and when the decision arrived at does not coincide with his views he takes every means to coerce the committee into his way of thinking or acting. A mayor must have confidence and repose trust in those under him, and not seek to make a dozen men fall in with his own particular line of conduct. He must recognize that others have opinions and that they are entitled to respect. An occupant of the civic chair should give those under him credit for having some initiative, and executive ability, and not endeavor to direct all matters that come up to fit in with his own ideas. The mayor has occupied hours and hours of time in talking to no useful purpose, and, after all, it is not what a council or mayor thinks, it is what is done, the work, the results that constitute the standard by which any municipal body is to be judged. The business of the city is not so vast or extensive that nearly every night in the week should be taken up—and too often by the mayor himself. Peterborough needs a progressive, sound business man as chief magistrate, and such a man is ex-Ald. Harry Rush, who should receive a vote on Monday next that will ensure his election by a large majority.

HAPPY NEW YEAR

Tomorrow another year will be ushered in. We say good-bye to 1907 with feelings of regret, but we hail with gladness and joy the youngster 1908 and bid him welcome.

At the end of each twelve months we are prone to look back and at the same time wonder what is in store for us for the future.

1907 has, on the whole, been a good year. It has, of course, brought the usual number of trials and disappointments, but as long as life lasts, there will be many ups and downs. We are too inclined, perhaps, to look at the dark future, and not to give ample credit and thanks for what we enjoy and possess, for what we have escaped. Is there one of us who has not in some respect been mercifully spared, when comparing our lot with those around us? As we gaze in retrospect over the days of 1907 we should be grateful for health and strength and a fair measure of happiness and prosperity.

Canada as a country, Ontario as a province, and Peterborough as a city, have been splendidly favored. There may have been mistakes and misunderstandings, but, as long as the years roll around, the highest ideals will not be realized, and, when reviewing our work and progress, we discover—alas—how far off we are from attaining the summit of our hopes, the zenith of our ambitions.

New Year's is generally a time to make fresh resolutions, to determine upon many fresh reforms. Some cynic, some misanthrope, may observe: "Oh, what is the use of deciding to do thus: to attempt that or reconstruct in any way?" Yes, 'tis true human nature is weak, that good resolutions are often broken almost as soon as they are made, but, to paraphrase Tennyson, the average reader must agree that "it is better to have tried and lost than never to have tried at all."

The very fact that one engages in retrospection, self-examination, admits that there is room for improvement is an encouraging omen, a healthy sign, and every resolve to do right, every impetus to play the game of life fairly and squarely is indicative of some good within us.

Strive, never cease to strive, should be the watchword. Courage, persistence and earnestness will accomplish much. Rome was not built in a day, neither is improvement nor reform of any kind instaneous in character. To ensure permanent, lasting results the process may be difficult and progress often necessarily slow, but never let go. Look ever aloft and remember the words of the familiar old hymn, "Each victory will help you some other to win."

The Review wishes all its readers, friends and patrons a new year, full of many blessings, peace, promise and prosperity.

THE COMING CONVENTION

As will be seen in another column of The Review, meetings have been called next week to select delegates for the West Peterborough Liberal-Conservative convention, which will be held in Bradburn's Opera House on Wednesday, January 29. The electors of each ward will assemble on certain nights next week and five delegates will be chosen from each polling sub-division in the ward. It is hoped that all interested will govern themselves accordingly and that the attendance at each meeting will be large and representative.

In the rural sections of the riding it is highly important that these primary meetings, as they are called, should be looked after, and that those who have been written to should take up the matter at once. The necessity and importance of having this done without delay cannot be too strongly urged or impressed upon the members of the Liberal-Conservative party in West Peterborough.

Now that the holidays are about over, there should be no delay. It is less than a month from the date of the convention and the gathering of the party should be large and representative of all parts of the riding. No polling sub-division should be unrepresented, and it will not be if properly looked after. The primary meetings must be called at once. Peterborough city is acting promptly, and so should all the adjoining villages and townships. Every polling sub-division is entitled to send five delegates. It is well to remember at the convention to be held in Peterborough on Wednesday, January 29, a candidate will be chosen by the Liberal-Conservatives not only for the Federal House but for the Provincial Legislature as well.

The gathering will be the most important therefore that has been called in this constituency for many years, and it is therefore of the greatest moment and concern that the delegates should be chosen at the earliest possible convenience.

PEN POINTS

Happy new year.

Be sure and write it 1908! Now, don't forget.

How many good resolutions have you formed?

After all, there were only a few of us who did not receive a nomination.

This is election week, and next is the week of prayer—rather significant.

Mr. Darling has been re-elected reeve of Dummer. After all there is something in a name.

Mr. William Yelland is quite a humorist. There is no man who can put the boys in a better mood.

After all, an election would not be an election without frequent mention of our old friend, "The Overdraft."

The office of alderman is certainly not going a-begging in Peterborough, when forty-three men are placed in nomination.

Vote for the bylaw to tax all property fronted by water mains. Why should consumers bear the whole expense of maintaining the system.

A good way to begin the new year is to settle all small accounts that you owe. Another good motto is when you get out of debt keep out of it.

Mayor McWilliams intimated at the nomination that he had the battle already won. So he thought in the last provincial election — until the votes were counted.

Too bad that Mr. Yelland is not a candidate. Just think how all the city teamsters were aching for a chance to hitch up and draw voters to the polls all day long for him.

Now, if all Mr. Rush's supporters will get out and work, his election as chief magistrate is no further away than on Monday next at six o'clock.

The Review congratulates Mr. Robt. N. Scott on his return by acclamation as Reeve of Smith township. May he attain the exalted position of Warden of the county during the coming year, is the wish of his many friends.

If W. F. Nelson is a relative of Admiral Lord Nelson, the valiant defender of Great Britain, he should have no difficulty in winning in a fight for a place on the Board of Education.

Tomorrow being New Year's Day and a public holiday, there will be no issue of the Review, which wishes all its readers a bright, prosperous and happy new year.

CHRISTMAS MUSIC WAS REPEATED

At St. Andrew's Sunday—Children Excel Themselves

The Christmas music at St. Andrew's church was repeated yesterday, and the chorus of fifty children was excellent. The programme was reversed on Sunday, that of the evening being given in the morning, and vice versa. Mrs. R. W. F. K. Davidson's solo, "Oh! I Heard the Glad Song," was rendered in her usual pleasing manner, and Mr. F. C. Freeland gave a solo, "The Star of Peace" in fine style.

The superb work done by the choir and children reflects great credit upon Mr. F. C. Freeland, who trained them. The following are the names of the boys and girls who took part: Vera Freeland, Jean Potter, Grace Stevens, May Henry, Rea Potter, M. Atkinson, Edna Sharpe, Helen Henry, Blanche Hart, Hilda Meharry, M. Carter, Adeline Grant, Meta Richardson, Jessie Stevens, Margaret Rae, Vera Peters, Edythe Richardson, R. Robson, Laura Grant, Jennie Richardson, Dorothy MacMillan, Nellie Mather, Bessie Read, Dorothy Harstone, Mary Potter, George Read, Carlyle Potter, William Common, John Common, Alex. Fortye, Orville Moore, W. Read, James Gibson, Stanley Scott, Walter Evans, Vernon Henry, Nelson Conover, Bruce Less, Edward Reid, Frank Saunders, Melville Saunders, Norman Grant, Ernest Langford, A. Harper, Robert Langford, Sherlock Thompson, Arnold McWilliams, N. Firth.

Meeting at Park St. Church

Bright Services on Sunday—Christmas Music Repeated

The people of Park street Baptist church had very profitable services on Sunday. There was a repetition of the special Christmas music. The morning theme of Rev. A. H. Brace was the "Ideal Christian Life." It was an interesting and earnest discourse and helpful in leading many to Christ.

A watch night service will be held at Park street church, commencing at eleven o'clock.

On Wednesday at 8 p.m. a church rally will be held.

The Hamburg-American line will fit out a number of its small channel and North Sea steamers with gyroscopes.

WHAT THE CLERGYMAN SAID.

Hanover, Ont.—No other class of men have the opportunity to do as much good, and be such helpful influences, as the clergy. Not only in their sermons, but in their daily life, they can teach us the better way of living. The example of the Rev. Mr. Brand, of Hanover, is one to be followed in every home in Canada. Owing to the arduous duties, incidently to his parish, the reverend gentleman suffered severely with liver trouble accompanied with constipation and indigestion. But he quickly found relief, and in a letter, tells how. "I can say I like Fruit-a-tives very much, as I am troubled with Liver Trouble—and shall continue to use them."

"Fruit-a-tives" are made of fruit juices and valuable tonics—and form the ideal combination for the treatment of Biliousness, Constipation, Headache and all Stomach, Bowel, Kidney and Skin Troubles. 50c a box.

Excellent Music at St. John's Church

The Christmas Services Attended by Large Congregations

The Christmas services at St. John's were attended by crowded congregations yesterday, each service being distinguished by the general excellence of its musical setting. The seating capacity of the chancel is inadequate for the large choir which numbers 46 voices, giving a good account of themselves in leading the festival music at this sacred season. Dyke's Te Deum in F and Farmer's carol, "In the Fields" with verses by the choir boys and refrain by all the choir were the principal features of Matins. At a hearty service for children in the afternoon the girls from the Dr. Barnardo home sang a carol number during the offertory very well indeed. The Evensong was fully choral, Responses to Tallis, Proper Psalms sung to Cathedral Psalter chants, and well known Christmas hymns heartily joined in by the congregation. Rev. Canon Davidson, at the conclusion of the office, announced that instead of the sermon carols and choruses would be sung by the choir and school children. Stainer's Carol, "Ring Out Ye Bells," by the choir, was followed by two carols sung freely by the Sunday school children who sat in the front seats, emphasizing by their presence the children's side of the Christmas festival. "Comfort Ye," tenor solo from the "Messiah" was well sung by Mr. Geo. Chandler, followed by a chorus from the same work, "And the Glory of the Lord," brung out the full strength of the choir. The final number was the "Alleluia, Amen," chorus and trio, one of Stainer's most intricate choruses, but the choristers rose to the occasion and gave it a splendid rendering. To put on five numbers from the "Messiah" is a remarkable achievement for a parish church choir with no paid singers in its ranks; and in the vestry Rev. Canon Davidson warmly thanked the members for their services on that and other occasions, and congratulated Mr. R. J. Devey on the result of his ardous work with both choir and Sunday school children.

WEDDING BELLS

WEATHERSTONE--STEVENSON

Mr. George H. Weatherstone, of Peterborough, and Miss Ethel Stevenson, daughter of Mr. Wm. Stevenson, of Campbellford, were united in the holy bonds of matrimony in Campbellford Church on Christmas day.

Rev. A. C. Reeves, pastor of Campbellford Presbyterian Church, performed the ceremony at high noon mass. Miss B. Stevenson, sister of the bride, played the wedding march. There were no attendants. The house was artistically decorated for the occasion. The bride looked dainty in cream crepe de chine with cream lace trimmings.

After the nuptials a reception was held at which a sumptuous dinner was partaken of by the many friends and relatives who were present.

Mr. and Mrs. Weatherstone left for Montreal. The bride's travelling dress was of becoming brown cloth with taffeta hat to match. She also wore a fine set of sable furs. A large number of handsome gifts testified to the popularity of the couple. On their return from their wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Weatherstone will reside on Water street.

GRAY—THROOP

The weddding was celebrated at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Throop, in Otonabee, on Wednesday, of Miss Lillian Throop and Mr. James Gray. Rev. W D. Harrison, pastor of the Methodist church, Keene, performed the ceremony.. The bride was prettily attired in white silk and was unattended. Miss Violet Scriver, Toronto, played the wedding march. The bride was the recipient of many numerous, handsome and costly presents. The happy couple will reside in Otonabee.

The Wrong Boy Was Summonsed

Alex. Davis, a young lad residing on Union street, was charged at the police court this morning with breaking several windows in the house of Mrs. Hope, London street, a few days ago. Davis pleaded not guilty, stating that he had nothing whatever to do with it. "The wrong boy has evidently been summonsed," said His Worship. Davis was allowed to go.

WELCOMED BACK FROM DOMINION

Pleasant Event Marked Lieut., Col. Greenwoods Return to Johannesburg

The Review has just received several copies of the Transvaal Leader, published at Johannesburg. They are exceedingly interesting, and go to show that South Africa is not behind the times as far as its newspapers are concerned. While differing considerably from Canadian newspapers in its make-up, the "Leader" contains a large amount of news, local and of the world.

In the issue of the "Leader" of November 29th the following item of local interest is found, Col. Greenwood being well known here:

"A pleasant dinner was given in the Langham Hotel on Friday night to Lieut.-Colonel H. S. Greenwood, V.D., Officer commanding the C. S. A. R. Corps, on his return from Canada by the officers of the regiment. Those present included Hon. Colonel T. R. Price, C.M.G., General Manager of Railways; Colonel Briggs, Commandant Transvaal Volunteers; Major Lamont, Chief Staff Officer; Mr. W. W. Hoy, Chief Traffic Manager of Railways; Mr. T. D. Brooke, Chief Accountant of Railways; Major Collins, Officer Commanding Pretoria Wing, C.S.A.R. Corps; Major Fairweather, Officer Commanding Johannesburg Wing, C.S.A.R. Corps; Major King, Major Pickburn and the remaining officers of the regiment."

Another issue of the Leader has an extended account of some military manoeuvres with which Col. Greenwood was prominently connected.

It is claimed that there are few victims of this dread and torturous disease who will fail to find ready relief in this simple home-made mixture, and in most cases a permanent cure isthe result.

This simple recipe is said to strengthen and cleanse the eliminative tissues of the kidneys so that they can filter and strain from the blood and systems the poisons, acids and waste matter, which cause not only Rheumatism, but other numerous diseases Every man or woman here who feels that their kidneys are not healthy and active, or who suffers from any urinary trouble whatever, should not hesitate to make up this mixture, as it is certain to do so much good, and may save you from much misery and suffering after a while

Epworth League of Geo. St. Church

Held Missionary Meeting Las Evening—An Interesting Time

Last night was missionary evening at the George Street Methodist Epworth League meeting. A large number were present and an interesting and profitable time was spent. The president, Mr. W. McCann, was in the chair and opened the meeting. A vocal duet, "The Man of Galilee," by the Misses Chastey, was given in excellent style.

The most important feature of the meeting was the address by Mr. Percy Might of Toronto on "A Christmas Message."

NEW YEAR'S MARKET WAS A SMALL ONE

Three dollars for a turkey and $1.50 for a goose were the market prices to-day. The New Year's market was not very well attended, very few being present. The lordly turkey was in much demand, but the supply was far inadequate. Butter was thirty cents a pound and very scarce. Considerable beef was offered for sale at 5 and 6 cents.

THE MUNICIPAL CANDIDATES

ADDRESS TO THE ELECTORS

TO THE ELECTORS OF PETERBOROUGH:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—Having been duly nominated a candidate to contest the mayoralty of Peterborough for the year 1908, I accept this nomination and respectfully solicit your vote and influence to secure my return.

I had no aspirations for the position and no thought of entering the contest for the Mayor's Chair until a few days ago. I was waited upon by some of the most substantial of our citizens and presented with a requisition, signed by several hundred taxpayers, urging me to enter the field as a candidate. I could do no other than regard such a requisition, signed by a large and representative number of citizens, as a call to duty. Consequently, as I have, during my 45 years' residence in Peterborough, tried to do my duty faithfully to the place in which all my material interests are centered, I have decided to place myself in the hands of the electors.

If I am chosen as Mayor, I shall use all my ability to practically apply the motto of my life—"The interests of Peterborough first, last, and always." I am known to you all by virtue of a residence of 45 years in the city, and through a corresponding experience in business, which, through the kind co-operation of the public, I have been favored in making a success.

Though I have not sought public office any more than I am seeking the present offered position, I may say that, for four terms in succession, I was returned as alderman without soliciting or attending a nomination or soliciting a vote. I felt that both as an honour and a flattering mark of confidence, which I endeavoured to justify to the fullest of my ability. And if elected as Mayor I shall discharge the duties of the office to the full extent of my powers and with a single eye to the promotion of the best interests of the city.

This is the platform upon which I can and do appeal to your support; that is the platform upon which I will justify your choice, if you do me the honour to elect me. It is not practicable for me, even if it were in line with my inclination, to personally call upon the electors. I hold that the office should seek the man rather than the man the office. I have no personal interests to serve; my only object in accepting the nomination for Mayor is to serve the best interests of the city of Peterborough. With cordial wishes for a Happy New Year to all, I remain,

Your obedient servant,

H. RUSH

Ladies and Gentlemen,—

In deference to numerous requests, I have consented to place myself at your disposal for the position of alderman for 1908.

I therefore ask your support in the effort to assist in maintaining for the city of Peterborough the position and standing which it is its right to possess.

The management of the city's affairs on business lines is my platform, and if the electors will do me the honor of electing me, I will make the general welfare and progress of the municipality my aim.

For Alderman
Geo. H. Duncan

Ladies and Gentlemen, — Having served you as alderman for three years, I once again, at the request of a large number of ratepayers, offer myself as a candidate for re-election. During last year I held the important position of chairman of the Board of Works, thereby acquiring a knowledge of municipal affairs that should enhance my value as a member of the Aldermanic Board for 1908. If elected for a fourth term I shall use my best endeavors to advance the interests of the community as a whole, without fear or favor, and will ably support such measures as are calculated to secure my fellow citizens a maximum of benefits at a minimum of expenditure.

Trusting that you will once more honor me with your confidence, believe me to remain

Your Obedient Servant,

Geo. H. Duncan

For Alderman

Ladies and Gentlemen,—

Having accepted nomination for a third term as alderman, I shall if elected use every effort to further the best interests of the city, and advocate and support such measures as will promote the welfare of the community as a whole. Believing that two years service on the Council Board will enhance my value to the city as alderman another year, I have the honor to solicit your vote and influence.

With best wishes for a Happy and Prosperous New Year.

Yours Respectfully,

Geo. E. Elliott

W. H. HILL

Presents his compliments to the Electorate of the City of Peterborough and solicits their vote and influence for his election as

WATER COMMISSIONER

and a Member of the

BOARD OF EDUCATION

FOR SCHOOL TRUSTEE

To the Electors of the City of Peterborough:

Having, without solicitation or knowledge, been nominated for the honorable position of member for the School Board, I feel it my duty to accede to the wishes of a large number of my fellow-citizens, particularly in "Ashburnham," and submit myself to your suffrages. The Fifth Ward, in which I reside, is without a representative on the School Board, and it is naturally felt that this part of the city, situated as it is, and having a large and important School, should have voice in the management of educational affairs, and I am asked to be that person. I do not place myself in opposition to any of the gentlemen who have well and faithfully served during the term for which they were elected, nor do I in any way depreciate their ability and fairness; there is, however, a growing impression that not only should the honor of public service be from time to time passed on, but also that better results are obtained by the partial changes contemplated by the law governing School Board elections. If then, taking these matters into consideration, the necessary majority should favor me with their choice, I shall be happy to render to you my best efforts.

Believe me, Ladies and Gentlemen,

Very truly yours,

W. F. NELSON

Norwood, Dec. 30.—Nominations for reeve and councillors, also school trustees were held in the Town Hall on the above date from 7.30 to 8.30. Village Clerk Mr. Jas. Calder received the nominations.

Considerable interest was manifested, and a large number of ratepayers were present.

At 8.30 after declaring the nominations closed, the returning officer read the following nominations:

For Councillors—

B. W. Squire, by Messrs. W. H. Brethen and H. G. Buck.

R. B. Patterson, by W. H. Tucker and Wm. Spence.

Geo. W. Buck, by J. L. Squire and Thos. Watson.

John Robb, by I. Puffer and W. H. Tucker.

A. B. Greenbank, by B. W. Squire and R. S. Patterson.

Hugh Robb, by John Baskin and Fred Anderson.

E. P. Cuff, by F. W. Woltembe, and John Baskin.

Coleman Stinis, by C. E. Pakenham and W. R. Howson.

For Reeve—

A. Brault, by J. L. Squire and H. G. Buck.

School Trustees—

Fred Anderson, by C. N. Watson and Thos. Waller.

E. R. Cuffe, by J. B. Pearce and H. G. Buck.

John E. Elliott, by John Doherty and R. S. Patterson.

W. H. Cuthbertson, by Alf. T. Robson and D. Campbell.

C. E. Pakenham, by John Doherty and W. H. Brethen.

There being only one nomination for reeve, Mr. Brault was declared elected by acclamation.

Mr. Brault thanked the electors for the honor of being returned for the third time by acclamation. In a neat little speech the reeve reviewed the finances of the village, showing everything in a thoroughly satisfactory condition.

Mr. J. B. Pearce asked the reeve to explain why the money was spent on the walks and Town Hall before the debentures were sold. Mr. Brault said that the council did not anticipate any difficulty in disposing of the debentures at par, and consequently went on with the work, but on account of the financial stringency the price offered was not considered sufficient and were expected to bring at least 93 per cent.

The nominees for councillors and trustees addressed the electors, but at the time of writing it is not known who will be in the field for election.

Was Remanded For One Week

Jas. Williamson Will Have Time to Get the Whiskey Out of Him

The name of Williamson is getting to be quite common in police circles. This morning Jas. Williamson, a gypsy, who has appeared in police court on former occasions, was charged with assaulting his wife, Margaret Williamson. James, who has been locked up for the last two days, there being no police court on New Year's, was remanded for a week, "to get the whiskey out of him," as His Worship said.

Williamson's young son, when he heard his father was going to gaol, shed many bitter tears. "I would like a chance, Your Worship," he said, and referred to the sorrowful condition of his boy.

"He's all I have," he stated.

"Well, it's a good thing to have him, as he will be able to look after your domestic affairs while you are in gaol," replied the Court.

Williamson asked for bail, but it was not granted him.

Go to the Crystal to-morrow (Friday) afternoon, from 2 to 6. Admission 5c. All proceeds for benefit of Children's Aid Society.

Old Man With Broken Leg Lay Helpless in the Cold

Robt. McGill, East City, Victim of Painful Accident on Tuesday Night—Fell on Icy Sidewalk—Taken as Far as His Door and Was Left Lying There.

Robert McGill, an old man residing alone at 621 Mark street, east city, was the victim of a painful and serious accident on Tuesday evening about eight o'clock when returning home. He was passing along Hunter street and when opposite the Quaker Oats Co., his feet went from under him and he fell striking the icy sidewalk with great force. A few minutes later he was picked up on one [illegible] by a gentleman who happened to see him fall. A sleigh was procured and the injured man was taken to his home. However, the most serious part of the mishap, it seems, occurred after Mr. McGill had been taken home. Not knowing that he lived alone, Mr. McGill's good friend who gave him assistance, left him at the door, evidently thinking there was someone else to give him the proper care and attention. Weather being quite cold the old man was chilled through and lying in a helpless condition. It was not until some time later that a gentleman passing by was attracted by the injured man's groans. He went to the old fellow, and seeing his helplessness carried him into the house. Dr Scott was summoned and ordered that Mr. McGill be removed to Nicholls hospital. In addition to being chilled with the cold, it was found that he had fractured his right leg just above the ankle.

Dance in Aid of Deep Sea Mission Brilliant Success

The third annual "At Home" in the form of a ball poudre in Conservatory of Music Hall last night, in aid of the Deep Sea Mission, was one of the most brilliant and successful social functions ever held in Peterborough. In the neighborhood of two hundred ladies and gentlemen were in attendance, and the results from a financial standpoint were most gratifying, a large sum towards the good cause being realized. Mr. R. H. Marlowe, of the local office of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, acted as honorary secretary for the dance. Music was supplied by Mr. Musgrave, Toronto, whose ability as a finished player of dance music is too widely known to need any comment. To the unparalleled success of the affair a large measure of praise is due to the ladies of the reception committee:—Mrs. J. R. Stratton, Mrs. Peter Campbell, Mrs. J. A. Aylmer, Mrs. Cyril Currier and Mrs. D. Hughes-Charles

A WONDERFUL CURE OF RHEUMATISM

THE CAUSE An excess of uric acid and ureates are deposited in the tissues of the body and joints, causing aches and pains which are called rheumatic.

All the various causes of rheumatism, such as the acute, articular, muscular and gout, have the same common cause—Uric Acid.

To effect a satisfactory cure the uric acid must be removed. This can only be done by introducing into the circulation a remedy which will dissolve the uric acid and stimulate the action of the excretory organs.

No Case That Ferrozone Can't Cure

The remarkable success of Ferrozone is due to the fact that it attacks the disease in the blood. It goes right to the root and cause of the trouble.

Ferrozone is a perfect solvent for uric acid and quickly destroys its evil effect. It stimulates and quickens the sluggish circulation and drives every trace of rheumatic poison out of the system.

Rheumatism Can't last if FERROZONE is Used.

We have conclusive proof of this. The strongest possible endorsements from people who have been cured after all else failed. If you suffer from rheumatism yourself, or in case you have a friend or relative subject to this disease, read the following—they tell their own tale.

LIFE-LONG CRIPPLE CURED

Mr. Louis Noll, 15 Fulton street, New York, N. Y., writes: "Ever since boyhood I have been a sufferer from rheumatism. My joints were twisted and swollen, and the pain at times was really intense. I used gallons of liniments, vapor baths, and other treatments, but was first noticeably relieved by Ferrozone. It cured me perfectly after taking twelve boxes."

Mr. Henry Heer, Pharmacist, 23 Eldridge Ave., New York, vouches for Mr. Noll's absolute cure. He says: "Mr. Noll has been freed from chronic rheumatism by Ferrozone. For years he has not been so well, and today shows no signs of rheumatic trouble. It is a pleasure to recommend Ferrozone."

The BEST remedy for rheumatism that science has produced is Ferrozone—it is unquestionably the only sure and lasting cure. Sold everywhere by druggists. Price 50c per box or six boxes for $2.50—by mail to any address if price is forwarded to N. C. POLSON & CO., Kingston, Ont., and Hartford, Conn., U.S.A.

FERROZONE, THE ONE SURE CURE.

Entire Train Left the Rails; Fell 50 Feet Down Embankment

Wonderful Escape of Carload of Passengers.

Accident on G. T. R. Near Penetanguishene—Cars Rolled Down Steep Embankment, Smashed, and Were Burned—List of Injured Who Were Taken to Barrie Hospital—Engine Did Not Leave Rails.

Barrie, Jan. 2.—G. T. R. passenger train No. 24, from Penetang, due here at 8 a. m., jumped the track near Colwell. The passenger, baggage and express car rolled down the embankment, where they were subsequently burned.

The passengers escaped through the windows, none being seriously injured. They were brought to the local hospital in a special.

The injured are:

Herbert Greenwood, Elmvale, head cut, back strained.

William Hunter, Barrie, shoulder strained.

Charles A. Herron, Penetang, head cut.

H. Carnahan, Elmvale, face cut and back injured.

Mrs. J. J. Trace, Elmvale, head cut, badly shaken up.

C. Spearin, Penetang, face cut.

Dr. Leatherdale, Penetang, back hurt.

Fred J. Perring, Toronto, back injured, head cut.

James McVeigh, New Flos, head cut and back hurt.

John Honden, Elmvale, face cut.

Miss Allen, Allenwood, cut and bad shaking up.

Douglas Willoughby, Penetang, forearm cut.

None of the injured are supposed to be dangerously hurt as no bones were broken.

Mrs. Greenwood, who was accompanying her husband to Barrie to spend the day with relatives here, was uninjured. Miss Hart and J. R. Maw, who were passengers, escaped. Conductor Paton, in charge of the train, was severely shaken up and received an injury to his leg.

The contents of the safe in the express car were not damaged. Engineer Harry Hawker and J. Spearn remained on the engine, which did not leave the rails, the tender, however, rolling down the bank with the cars.

D. Willoughby was the first man out of the wreck, and gave his experiences as follows: "We were going at a slow rate of speed up a grade, when from spreading rails or some other cause the train suddenly left the rails, and before we had time to realize what happened the car was standing in the ditch after turning over three times in its drop of thirty-five feet. I broke my way out of the smoking-car window, and after helping out Mr. Petrin and another man went into the main section of the car, where grown-up people, boys, broken seats and cushions were piled in confusion. The position of the car permitted exit through the door, and in a few minutes the car was cleared. Fire starting from the stove in the baggage-car spread rapidly, and the coaches soon went up in smoke. It was a miracle that the passengers escaped death, or even serious injuries."

Assistant Superintendent Lynch states that the cause of the wreck is unknown, but a thorough investigation is being held.

When seen at his home, where he is confined with two broken ribs and legs badly bruised, Arthur Stone, the express messenger, told of his miraculous escape. "I don't see how I came through it alive," said he, "Conductor Paton, Baggageman Hamilton and I were riding in the baggage car. When the car left the rails the lights went out, plunging us into darkness. As the car tumbled down the bank we heard the safe crash three times between the floor and the roof, while lamps, chairs and express matter were thrown everyway. Live coals scattered from the stove soon started a smoke, which impelled us to haste. Our car was nearly upside down, and standing on Paton's shoulders, I managed to reach the window of the door, and, smashing it, crawled out, the door being jammed so that it could not be opened. Helping the conductor out, he at once went to look after his passengers, while I climbed in again to assist the baggageman. By this time the flames were spreading, and Hamilton had become stupefied by the dense smoke. Luckily he was near the door, and, aided by the light of the approaching flames, I was able to render prompt aid. A moment later he was outside and rapidly revived in the cool air. He did not escape a minute to soon, for the whole car, bursting into a blaze, in five minutes was reduced to ashes. I never saw anything burn so swiftly. We had no time to get even our book.
our books. Baggage, express, mail and our clothes all were lost."

Ten of the injured are still in the hospital, but all are reported to be progressing favorably and no serious results are anticipated.

DISGRACEFUL FIGHT.

Dozens of Men and Boys Become Intoxicated In Oklahoma.

Oklahoma City, Jan. 2.—When the work of emptying 2,300 barrels of beer from the New State Brewery was resumed yesterday morning a crowd of several hundred persons gathered with buckets, pitchers and barrels with which the carry the beer to their homes.

The scenes attending the work were disgraceful. Little children carrying buckets heavy enough for grown persons, were sent after beer by their parents. Dozens of men and boys became intoxicated to such a degree that it was necessary for their friends to take care of them. Boys just out of school went to the brewery yesterday afternoon with buckets and tin cans and had joined in the mad rush for the intoxicating beverage when the police interfered and prevented the officials emptying any more beer into the street.

The work was then directed to private sewers, but these soon became congested and the flow was shut off until to-day. It is estimated that fully 1,000 persons carried beer from the brewery during the day.

As an evidence of Governor Haskill's apparent determination to see prohibition sentiment carried out, he has refused to grant an amnesty to 5,000 or more persons under indictment or complaint in that part of the state which was formerly Indian Territory, for misdemeanor and excise charges.

MOUNT ROYAL SEEN?

Vessel Sighted Off Sable Island Believed to Be Missing Steamer.

St. John, N. B., Jan. 2.—A steamer thought to be the overdue C. P. R. liner Mount Royal, Capt. Purcell, now 25 days out from Antwerp, for this port, with 304 immigrants aboard, was passed on Monday last off Sable Island, N. S., by the C. P. R. steamer Lake Champlain, which arrived here yesterday from Liverpool.

Capt. Webster of the Lake Champlain, when reporting to the local officials, was asked if he had seen the Mount Royal, and said that off Sable Island he passed a four-masted steamer, about fifteen miles away on the same course as he was steaming, but moving slowly. No signals were seen. As Capt. Webster did not know of the anxiety about the Mount Royal, he did not attempt to identify the steamer he passed. The Mount Royal has four masts, and this with the fact that the unknown vessel was steaming in the same course as the Lake Champlain makes the local officials believe it is the Mount Royal, and that she will be here before to-morrow.

Although the boat has been 25 days coming from Antwerp the local authorities are not worrying about her, and attribute her delay to a broken shaft or some other mishap to her machinery.

She carries 304 emigrants, mostly steerage, from the continent.

Brooklyn Police Busy.

New York, Jan. 2.—A long record of killings, assaults, accidents and minor crimes was written in Brooklyn police blotters yesterday. New Year's Day in the usually peaceable Brooklyn was as even more disturbed one than in larger Manhattan.

Gas escaping from a partly open burner asphyxiated Jacob Spriesterback and his wife in their home in Ocean Parkway, Brooklyn.

An unknown burglar was shot down and killed while trying to enter David Jaffe's store on Meserole street.

The police are hunting for Frank Fereso, who shot and killed Michael Schindello as an outcome of an altercation in Carrol street.

Hattie Shubert took offence at a remark made by her husband, Max Shubert, in their home on Ocean Parkway and stabbed him with a knife. He is in a serious condition.

After a quarrel with his wife as to the manner of celebrating New Year's, Archibald P. Mitchell, who several years ago married Augusta Herne, a daughter of a wealthy West Virginia politician, took his life by inhaling illuminating gas.

Bombs In Barcelona.

Barcelona, Jan. 2.—In consequence of the renewal of the campaign of bomb outrages by local anarchists, King Alfonso has signed a decree provisionally suspending a portion of the constitutional guarantees in this city.

In the last few days five infernal machines deposited in various parts of the city exploded without causing material damage. Tuesday night, however, a policeman found a large one on the doorstep of a mansion. In carrying it away the machine exploded, frightfully mutilating the officer, injuring several bystanders and partially wrecking surrounding buildings. The policeman died of the injuries he sustained.

Detective Arrested For Perjury.

Stouffville, Jan. 2.—Christen Hansen, Government local option detective, appeared Tuesday before Justice Parker, charged with perjury, in swearing that Donald Christie of Samtfield supplied him with liquor on Oct. 29 last. Hansen pleaded not guilty, and after hearing considerable evidence as to Christie not being at Samtfield on the day in question, the magistrate adjourned the case to Jan. 8, at Goodwood.

DELUGE OF HOT METAL

Rushed Into Pit in Steel Converter at Pittsburg.

Two Workmen Killed—Their Bodies Were Terribly Mangled—Thirteen Others Seriously Scorched by Burning Gas—Bottom Fell Out of Converter — Leak Was Probable Cause of the Accident.

Pittsburg, Jan. 2.—Two men were killed and thirteen others seriously injured by an explosion in converted No. 3 of the Edgar Thompson plant of the United States Steel Corporation, at North Braddock, about seven miles east of here, yesterday.

The two men killed were foreigners. Six of the injured were Americans, and the others Slavs.

No official statement of the cause of the explosion has been issued, but old converter mill men say the cause could hardly be other than that some of the molten metal sifted through the soapstone lining of the converter and come in contact with the steel sheathing which perhaps, was damp.

When the explosion occurred the bottom of the converter dropped out, throwing 15 tons of molten metal into the pit where 15 men were working at the ladles. There was no explosion when the hot mass of steel struck the bottom of the pit, but instead flames of burning gas were sent up which burned the men in the pit. The two men who were killed had been working under the converter, and their bodies were terribly mangled.

The force of the explosion blew the sheet iron off the converting mill and caused two of the walls to collapse, besides breaking all the windows, in the buildings in the vicinity. It partially destroyed the warehouse near the converting mill.

MANITOBA BUYS IT OUT.

Bell Telephone System Now Owned By the Province.

Winnipeg, Jan. 2.—Greetings for the new year to the people of Manitoba from the Provincial Government were conveyed in the announcement that the Bell Telephone system had been purchased in its entirety. The price paid, according to the announcement of Premier Roblin, was $3,300,000, and besides this the province has also purchased a share of the equipment to the extent of a hundred thousand more. Payment will be made in 40-year 4 per cent. bonds, payable at par, which at the present market price of the province's bonds makes the price paid in round figures about $3,000,000. The Government will assume control on Jan. 15, and Mr. Roblin announced last night that the system would be operated by a commission. The present officials of the company will likely be retained, as they are very competent. This gives Manitoba the first complete Government-owned telephone system on the continent.

Priest Makes Apology.

Montreal, Jan. 2.—There is still another sensation in connection with St. Patrick's pastorate, following Canon O'Mara's alleged criticism of the new appointment.

Rev. Father Kiernan, parish priest of St. Michael's, gave an interview to an evening paper, in which he called in question Father McShane's advent to St. Patrick's in a very severe manner. This public interview of the archbishop caused general surprise and no astonishment was expressed when it was learned that his grace brought the critical priest to time.

As a matter of fact Father Kiernan read at all the masses yesterday morning an apology which he had written to his grace. He admits that he was not speaking within his competence and agrees to have the apology published in the same paper that produced the interview.

Fed Through a Pipe.

New York, Jan. 2.—The Herald has received the following despatch from Ely, Nev.:—Rescue work is progressing slowly on the Alpha shaft of the Giroux Consolidated Mines Co., where three miners, A. D. Bailey, Peter McDonald and Fred Brown, have been entombed since Dec. 4. Through a six-inch pipe food, air and water have since been sent, and a few days after the accident enough canvas was sent down to enable the men, with the help of some timbers and iron which they found on the 1,000-foot level, to make three cots.

It will take at least three weeks more to reach the men. Communication can be had with them by telephone, and they are patiently waiting to be liberated.

International Outlook.

Berlin, Jan. 2.—The Lokal Anzeiger yesterday published a series of interviews with the ambassadors in Berlin of Great Britain, the United States, Russia, France, Spain, Austria-Hungary and Turkey and the Ministers representing most of the other nations of the world relative to the condition of international relations at the beginning of the year 1908.

The diplomats whose views are quoted all entertain the most satisfactory opinions concerning the outlook for the coming year.

Wrong Coffin Opened.

London, Jan. 2.—The attorneys of Geo. Hollamby Druce, the claimant for the vast estates of the Duke of Portland and for the duke's title, have given out a statement expressing dissatisfaction over the character of the exhumation of the body of Thomas Charles Druce, because the floor of the vault was not opened. They say that their representatives at the exhumation were instructed to demand that this be done, because they had received letters stating that a second coffin, containing lead would be found there.

Revenue officers at Okalhoma City poured 2,300 barrels of beer into the sewers.

GAS EXPLOSION IN ROME.

Twenty Persons Injured — Exchange Is Thrown Into Panic.

Rome, Jan. 2.—The Temple of Neptune, built by Hadrian, and standing in the centre of the Forum of Agrippa, now occupied by the Stock Exchange, was the scene on Tuesday of a tremendous explosion, causing a sensation almost as great as the explosion of the bomb at St. Peter's on Nov. 18, 1906. The concussion was so great that many persons throughout the city were terrified, and great crowds rushed to the scene.

Within the building there were many people, but fortunately the great majority of the brokers had left. No one was killed, but twenty persons, chiefly clerks, were injured.

The explosion resulted in the collapse of the roof of the Exchange, and a number of those injured were caught in the wreckage, but later were released by the firemen who responded to the call.

The detonation was terrific, and when the roof fell clouds of dust were thrown high in the air. The police, firemen and troops hurried to the scene and had difficulty in calming the excitement of the thousands who rushed to the temple. Later when another explosion was feared the crowds again became panic-stricken and many persons received minor injuries in the resultant crush. Most of those who were taken from the ruins had received injuries about the head and upper part of the body, although none was known to have been fatally injured. Soon there was a procession of injured in open cabs and ambulances to the hospitals traversing the crowded thoroughfares amid pitiful scenes.

DEPENDS ON WRONGED WIFE.

Rector Will be Arrested If Mrs. Cooke Wishes.

New York, Jan. 2.—"I will immediately ask for the extradition of Jere Knode Cooke, who eloped with Floretta Whaley of Hempsteady, Long Island, just as soon as I receive word from Mrs. Cooke that he is to be made defendant in abandonment proceedings," said District Attorney Franklin A. Coles of Nassau County last night.

"Under present circumstances I do not see any way open to me," he added, "I shall be glad to have him brought back and tried for whatever crime a Nassau County grand jury indicted him, but I do not feel like sending those thousand miles for him, unless his wife takes the initiative. I am waiting to hear from her."

Mrs. Cooke has not expressed a desire to have Mr. Cooke brought back.

Opening of the Mint.

Ottawa, Jan. 2.—The official opening of the Canadian branch of the Royal Mint will take place this afternoon, in the presence of His Excellency the Governor-General, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and members of the Government and other high officials of state. The first coins minted will be of silver and copper, and Canadian metal will, of course, be used. The silver bullion will be the product of the Cobalt mines, and the copper coins will be made from the output of British Columbia mines. Later on gold coins will be minted. In addition to coins of denominations current in Canada, such as the one-cent copper, the five, ten, twenty-five and fifty-cent silver pieces, gold five-dollar pieces will be made. Besides these, gold coins of the same denominations, designs, weight and fineness, as the gold coins made in the Royal Mint in England are to be produced at the Ottawa branch, and, after separate inspection, these coins shall pass current in England as if coined there.

May Call Conference.

London, Jan. 2.—(C.A.P.)—The Times is hoping that Consul-General Nosse, with his great knowledge of Canadian conditions and feeling, will be called in by the Japanese Government to assist in the final stage of the negotiations with Hon. Mr. Lemieux, and opines that at best the reported agreement can hardly be an exhaustive settlement of the whole difficult question of oriental immigration.

A number of papers agree on the desirability of summoning the imperial conference to discuss the question.

Shot by Burglar.

Newark, Jan. 3.—George A. Fisher, a city building inspector, was shot and mortally wounded at his home yesterday by a burglar who escaped.

Mrs. Fisher was awakened early in the morning by a noise in the adjoining yard, in the rear of a grocery store. She aroused her husband, who went to a window overlooking the back yard. His wife heard him call out, "What are you doing there?" The words were quickly followed by the report of a revolver.

Serious Stabbing Affray.

Quebec, Jan. 2.—Lying in a bed in Jeffery Hale Hospital, suffering from a number of knife wounds inflicted by an Italian, a young man named Henri Badard, a surveyor of Cap Rouge, is in a serious condition. An Italian, who gives his name as Stephano Spano, is now an inmate of a cell in the central police station, charged with the crime.

Pittsburg Firemen Hurt.

Pittsburg, Jan. 2.—Two firemen were seriously injured and damage estimated at $100,000 resulted yesterday from a fire which completely destroyed the Excelsior Building, located on the southwest corner of Sixth avenue and Grant street, this city. Owing to the holiday there was no one in the various offices of the building.

Governor-General's Levee.

Ottawa, Jan. 2.—The Governor-General's New Year's Day levee was attended by about 600 gentlemen. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, R. L. Borden, Sir Louis Davies, Sir Frederick Borden and other distinguished residents of the capital were present.

Killed at St. Thomas.

St. Thomas, Jan. 2.—George Harris was killed yesterday in the Pere Marquette yards. His people live near Woodstock.

CHAPTER I.

BUSHWHACKED.

"HANDS up!"

Why he shouted the words I don't know, for in another moment he gave me one barrel, and before I could raise a finger I heard a click, admonishing me that I was about to get the other. A thin film of smoke floating above the fence to the right and two malignant eyes peering at me from between the rails betrayed his position. Like a flash I whipped out my revolver, but before I could raise it there was another report, and my right arm dropped, numbed by a charge of buckshot. Seizing my weapon with my left hand, I brought it to a level with the eyes behind the fence and fired. There was a sound of a body falling, and I knew that I had struck home.

Spurring my horse to the side of the road, I craned my neck over the fence, and there in the ditch lay the bushwhacker. His hat had fallen off and left bare a head of red, shocky hair. In his belt was his revolver, beside him a shotgun. His body, clad in "butternut," lay on an incline, his feet in the water, which flowed lazily past. The sun shining through budding branches, lighted up his face, and I knew that I had seen him before. Indeed, a vivid scene in which he had borne a part came up out of the past to fling over me a cloud of gloom like the wing of an Apollyon.

I drew an involuntary sigh. It was not that I had taken a life (lives were cheap enough in those days, and he had sought to take mine); it was not my narrow escape from death, but an overpowering consciousness that the spirit of war lurked everywhere; that the beautiful face of Nature about me—trees, fences, bushes, everything—best served to cover assassins.

"Is he dead?"

Startled at the sound of a voice, I glanced aside. There, leaning against the fence, her arms resting on the top rail, gazing at the disagreeable sight on which I had been intent, stood a young girl.

"Where did you come from?" I asked, lifting my hat with my left hand.

"There." She turned her head and glanced at a house on the other side of the road.

"You must have stepped lightly. I didn't hear you coming."

Without reply she continued gazing at the body of the bushwhacker. I, too, looked again at the upturned face, with its glassy, staring eyes.

"Why did you kill him?"

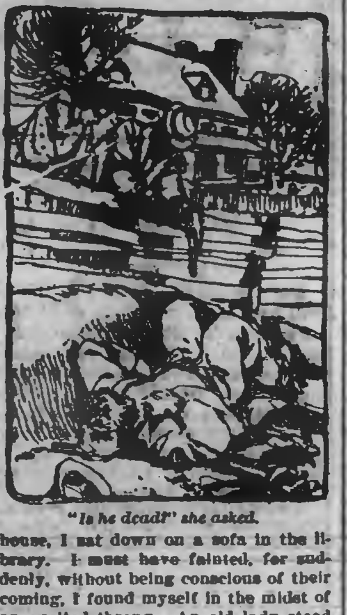
"I will tell you."

But I did not tell her then, for as I spoke I felt something warm trickling over the back of my hand and, looking down, saw blood dripping upon her dress.

"Come into the house, quick. That's arterial blood."

Seizing the reins, she led my horse, I following, to a side gate. This she opened, and we went up to the veranda. Catching sight of a colored boy, she called to him:

"Mount quickly and ride for the doctor! Tell him a man has been shot, an artery cut, and a life is in danger."



"Is he dead?" she asked.

I had a dim image of the boy tearing down the road, and, tottering into the house, I sat down on a sofa in the library. I must have fainted, for suddenly, without being conscious of their coming, I found myself in the midst of an excited throng. An old lady stood beside me with a basin, from which she was sprinkling my face. A white haired old gentleman with pink cheeks, a towel in one hand, a decanter in the other, was bending over me. A boy of 12 with a toy gun was staring at me, while the girl who had brought me there looked on with far more interest than I had yet seen in her impassive face. Beyond all was a dark background of house servants. My coat had been removed, and a negro had a tight grip on a bit of wood twisted in a handkerchief tied around my arm just above the wound. A long, thin man in a rusty suit of black came hurrying in with a leather case in his hand and, whipping out his instruments, began the work of picking up a partly severed artery. He first took out a piece of my coat sleeve, which had retarded the hemorrhage and doubtless saved my life, then a half dozen shot, did some stitching and then carefully bandaged the wound.

"There," he said, "if you move that arm within 48 hours you'll be in danger of your life. Keep quiet, and you'll come out all right."

"I must go on at once, doctor."

"You'll go part way as a corpse if you do."

The old lady declared that I should not stir out of the house till the doctor gave the word, the old gentleman bade me welcome as long as I needed to stay, the young lady who had brought me there said nothing, while the boy looked as if to lose a subject so fruitful of interest would break his heart.

"I'll send a young associate of mine," said the doctor. "If the wound opens, you must have attention at once."

"Thank you, doctor. There seems to be a great deal of commotion about a very small matter. I don't care to put so many people to so much trouble."

No one paid any attention to my protest, all busying themselves to make me comfortable. Pillows were laid beneath my head, a silk quilt was thrown over me, and a stand with a silver bell on it was placed beside me that I might ring for anything I wanted. All being satisfactorily arranged, the doctor ordered everybody out of the room and then departed himself.

What a singular transition! Half an hour before I had left Huntsville—beautiful Huntsville, nestling among the hills that slope away from the Cumberland plateau—and was working my way northward toward Fayetteville, Tenn. The plants in the yards beside the road were putting forth their buds, the leaves on the trees were opening, insects were awakening, birds singing—all revived by the rays of the vernal sun.

I permitted my horse to drop into a walk. A pleasant languor stole over me, replacing a bitter mental turbulence which had been ever present with me for months. Perhaps it was the genial warmth, the balmy air; perhaps an absence of war scenes with which I had long been familiar; perhaps both. At any rate, I watched the sun glisten on the dewdrops, felt its rays warm my shoulders, and listened to the singing of the birds with a consciousness that, after all, sometimes it is pleasant to live.

Then came an unaccountable sinking. It may have been something in the restfulness, the security I had felt, incongruous with pestilent war; just as amid the luxurious foliage of the tropics one feels that behind every leaf and flower lurks invisible fever. Suddenly the shots rang out; then came my reply to the girl standing beside me looking at the dead bushwhacker; then my entry into the house, and now I was lying on a comfortable lounge an object of tender solicitude on the part of people who, from being strangers, had suddenly become very dear friends.

But suppose they knew me—that I was a renegade, a traitor to the south. There was no name harsh enough among Confederates for those of their own people who were not with them, and all who were not with them were against them, and doubtless these new found friends were all Confederate sympathizers. The bushwhacker could tell no tales. I was thankful for that, for he had known me well. The thought of him took me back to that night of horrors. I was again at the head of those Tennessee Unionists endeavoring to lead them to a haven of safety. We were near the Cumberland gap. One more day and we should be at Camp Dick Robinson, where we should find Federal troops. Then the attack. By the flashing of guns I could see their faces, and here and there recognize a neighbor—men beside whom I had lived for years, and whom civil war had converted into fiends. One by one I saw my friends shot down. There was one dearer to me than all besides. Through the darkness, guided by the flashes and the sound of my voice, she darted to me, and found refuge in my arms.

Then that sudden dash of Confederate cavalry. I felt the figure I held quiver and slip through my arms. I moaned and kissed the white lips; then, like lightning, the wild beast jumped within me. I looked up to see who had done this last, this crowning atrocity. A Confederate officer sat on his horse staring at me, in his hand a smoking pistol. A sudden collapse, and I knew that I was hit. This is all I remembered of the massacre.

How I gloated in my revenge! The homes of men who had committed those murders were burning, and I had applied the torch. Their barns, grain—everything they possessed—passed away in black spark spangled clouds, which shot upward as if to carry vengeance to the very heavens. These men had made my life a waste; I had made theirs a hell.

There was one I had not yet punished, one whose punishment I longed for more than all the rest—the Confederate officer with the smoking pistol. I sought for him without success. Then I tried to forget him, but whenever I remembered that beloved figure fleeing to me for protection, that tremor, that sinking away before the blight of death, I would start again on my long hunt. I joined the army, thinking that war's greater horrors might for a time enable me to forget my feud. All went well till I heard of him. He was at Huntsville. I burned to reach him. Our general was casting covetous eyes on northern Alabama. I begged him to let me go down and bring back a report of the country, the railroads, its rolling stock, machine shops, bridges, everything—a knowledge of which would assist in its capture.

But this low cur who had tried to kill me—he was at the massacre. With my own hand I had applied fire to his miserable hut. How had he known that I was in Alabama? Had he heard of me during my stay at Huntsville? It had been brief, for as soon as I reached the town I learned that my enemy was not there and, disappointed, turned my face northward. Or had the bushwhacker met me by chance? I did not know. I do not know now. Of one thing I was certain—he was one of my old enemies, and they would hunt me like a hare.

I lay for hours unwillingly turning over these war horrors as if they were a wheel on which I was obliged to tread. No one came into the room, and I called no one. Doubtless they wished me to be quiet. I was weak and tired—tired in mind, tired in body, tired of existence. If I could only find him, the world might vanish for all me.

I fell into a troubled slumber, and when I awoke I saw standing in the doorway a girl of 8 or 9 years—a frail, blue eyed little thing, with her hair cut square about her neck and held by a semicircular comb. She was gazing at me intently, as children in fairy tales stand on tiptoe and look at the sleeping ogre who is intending to eat them for supper.

"Come in," I said encouragingly.

She shrank back. But, though she seemed to dread me, she could not keep away from me. Without for a moment taking her eyes off me she began to approach by slow, very slow, steps. I felt as if I were a snake charming a bird.

"Don't be afraid of me," I said. "I won't hurt you."

"You killed him." She pointed like an accusing angel to the opposite side of the road, where I had left the body of my would be assassin. Her voice was soft, but her eyes were big with the enormity of my act.

"Sweetheart, don't look at me that way. Come and kiss me."

I reached out for her hand. She shrank away, but I gently pulled her to me with my well arm, drew her down and kissed her. As I touched her pure young lips with mine the crimes of which I had been thinking, vivid as the day they were committed, seemed to move far from me, like a retreating storm muttering in the distance. And somehow, with this bit of innocence in my arm, my beard brushing her cheeks, looking into her mild eyes, it seemed as if there had come a patch of blue sky, and I wished—yes, strangely enough, I wished—that it had not been necessary for me to shoot a man that morning.

CHAPTER II.

INCOGNITO.

THESE kind people with whom I was lodged persisted in considering me always in danger. A doctor must needs be at all times within reach, a stripling of a medical graduate must sleep in the same room with me, the old gentleman was constantly coming into the room to ask if I wanted anything, while his wife was as tender and motherly as if I had been her own son. Even the servants vied with each other in waiting on me, and when anything was ordered for me with haste unusual to the negro they scrambled to see which one would bring it. Only the girl who had brought me there came and went as though I was an ordinary person with an ordinary wound, to be treated in an ordinary manner.

All this attention and sympathy vexed me beyond measure. What right had I to accept it—I, a Tennesseean, in arms against the south, in search of a Confederate enemy? Yes, and more—was I not the bearer of information that would enable the hated Yankee to swoop down on this fair region and reclaim it for the Union? The least suspicion of my true character would turn the devotion lavished upon me to contempt. My very life would be in danger. Pooh! What cared I for my life, except that I dreaded to go to my long home detested by those who had succored me. Besides, the information I possessed—information of vital importance to the Union cause—must be carried northward.

A crisis came soon enough. It was evening, and I was reclining on my sofa looking out upon the beautiful hills lying to the eastward. The girl with the cool head and impassive face was standing by a table rearranging books and bottles and what not which had been in use during the day. Suddenly the door opened, and my host entered. I saw at once by his expression that something had occurred to put him on his guard, or perhaps he had been thinking, wondering what kind of person he was harboring. At any rate, he came up and, drawing a chair beside me, began to talk. It was plain that he wished to ask me questions, but he was too kind, too generous to one in my condition, too hospitable, to ask them directly.

"The doctor tells me, Mr."— he began. "Upon my word, you have been with us three days, sir, and we don't know even your name."

"Branderstane, John Branderstane. I am equally ignorant to whom I am indebted for all this attention."

"Our name is Stanforth, sir. This is my daughter Helen, Mr. Branderstane."

Helen inclined her head slightly, and I raised mine far enough from the pillows to do the same.

"Mr. Stanforth," I said—there was gratitude both in my voice and in my eyes—"whoever bears your name may hereafter call upon me for any service. You have placed me under an obligation which"—

"Tut, tut! You know our southern customs—we are nothing if not hospitable. You are a southern man, of course?"

"Of course." I spoke the words hesitatingly.

"Your state?"

"Tennessee."

"East, middle or west?"

"East."

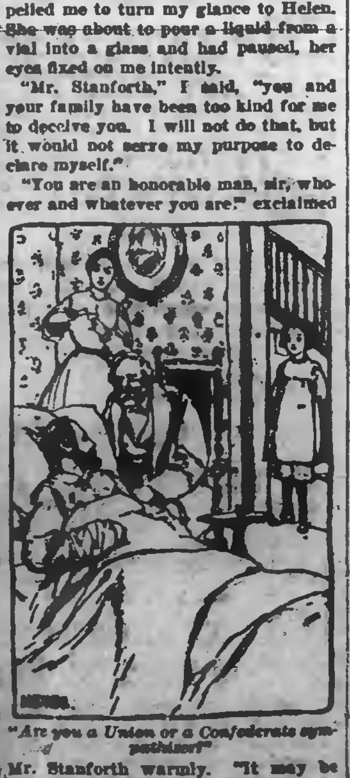
Mr. Stanforth paused. There was no information as to my sentiments in the fact that I hailed from east Tennessee. More than two-thirds of the people of that section were with the Union.

"May I ask, sir," said my host, with an evident intention of ending all doubt in regard to the side with which I was affiliated, "are you a Union or a Confederate sympathizer?"

I was about to declare myself an ardent supporter of the Confederacy when my little friend Ethel, who had visited me on the day I was shot, appeared in the doorway, her blue eyes looking straight into mine. Had my intended falsehood been rammed back into my throat with the butt of a revolver it could not have been more effectually stopped. Then something impelled me to turn my glance to Helen. She was about to pour a liquid from a vial into a glass and had paused, her eyes fixed on me intently.

"Mr. Stanforth," I said, "you and your family have been too kind for me to deceive you. I will not do that, but it would not serve my purpose to declare myself."

"You are an honorable man, sir, whoever and whatever you are!" exclaimed Mr. Stanforth warmly. "It may be sometimes necessary to withhold confidence, but never to lie, sir. Keep your secret; I shall not trouble you for it. I am merely a citizen and take no part in the national dispute."



"Are you a Union or a Confederate sympathizer?"

"But I do, papa."

I looked at Helen. She was regarding me earnestly. "If this gentleman is with us," she said—"us of the south—he need not fear to declare himself. If he is with the Yankees"—

"Helen!"

There was an uncomfortable silence, during which Mr. Stanforth regarded his daughter sternly.

"If there is one right in the south," he said, "sacred above all others, it is the right of hospitality. Mr. Branderstane cannot be forced to divulge his opinions."

"But has he a right to conceal them, papa?"

"While our guest he has."

"Mr. Stanforth," I said, "your daughter is right. No man should remain under the roof of one who has succored him without revealing his identity when it is called for. May I ask you to order my horse?"

I started up. I was too preoccupied to notice the stand beside me covered with books, with which I had vainly tried to alleviate my confinement, and struck my arm at the very spot where I had been wounded.

A shiver passed over the father; the daughter gave an involuntary start. My coat, which had been thrown loosely over my shoulder, had become disarranged, exposing the arm, upon which every eye was turned. Both Mr. Stanforth and Helen bent forward intently. We were congratulating ourselves that no damage had been done when on the white shirt sleeve appeared a spot of bright red blood.

"Jackson, run! The doctor! Quick! Tell him the wound has opened!"

I sank back on the sofa. Mr. Stanforth began running about wildly; Mrs. Stanforth entered in wonder; the servants flocked in with open eyes and mouths.

"Papa, your handkerchief."

Helen Stanforth spoke the words as coolly as if she had been an experienced surgeon. With her father's handkerchief she improvised a tourniquet, and the bleeding stopped at once.

"Now, see here," said the doctor when he had arrived and repaired the damage, "you've had a close call, sir. Perhaps you'll pay some attention hereafter to what I tell you, sir."

"Next time, doctor," I said feebly, "let me go. My life is of little moment to me."

As I spoke Helen, who had gone out of the room for something, returned.

"Ah, Miss Stanforth," said the doctor, "I will leave the patient in your care. You seem to be always on hand when he needs you and to know exactly what to do. Let the others keep away."

"I will relieve you, doctor," she said quietly.

The doctor gathered up his belongings and left the room, leaving Helen standing looking at me with a certain curious earnestness that I could not interpret. As she had been the indirect cause of my mishap, I naturally expected she would refer to it, perhaps express some regret. She was thinking of an entirely different matter.

"Why is your life of little moment to you?" she asked.

"You overheard?"

"Yes."

"You have a right to require me to disclose my affiliations in the great struggle in which we are involved, but my private griefs"—

"I ask your pardon." There was no regret expressed. It was simply a well bred way of noticing that she had failed to elicit the information she desired.

"I should have got on well enough," I continued, "if that confounded stand had not been in the way. I believe I could go now just as well as not." I paused. I was very weak. "May I ask you to hand me that glass?" I added, looking at a tumbler containing brandy.

Without noticing the proof of my inability to do as I asserted she handed me the glass and when I had taken a swallow put it back on the table. Her coolness was beginning to irritate me.

"I have a mind to get up and go on," I said. "I don't believe there is any danger."

"What did the doctor say?"

"He told me to keep quiet as I valued my life."

"You don't value your life; therefore you will get up and go on—in other words, commit suicide."

"You know very well that it galls me to be obliged to impose upon a family that has loaded me with kindness without declaring my identity."

"Then why not declare it?"

"Because it doesn't suit my plans to do so."

I was acting ungraciously, recklessly, and I knew it, but I was in no condition to fence with this cool creature.

"Shall I leave you?" she asked, without appearing at all offended.

"I don't need your attention."

"You need some one's attention. I will have Jackson sit in the hall, where he can hear you if you ring." And she walked out of the room.

CHAPTER III.

A DEFINITE OBJECT.

"WILL this unlucky wound never heal? Time flies, and I, who should be up and doing, am caged like a tiger walking back and forth within the limits of its inclosure."

This was my complaint as I paced my room one morning shortly after the accidental reopening of my wound. My impatience was not without cause. I had gone south, as I have said, with two objects—to find my enemy and to gather information. I had failed in finding my enemy, but had gained a complete knowledge of the points essential to the capture of north Alabama and was carrying it to the general on the day I was shot. It had occurred to me before setting out that, after finishing my military mission, I might still wish to continue my search for my enemy. Besides, there were other contingencies, such as arrest or illness, which needed to be provided for. I had therefore arranged that the general's favorite scout should be at Huntsville on the morning of the 1st of April to receive any communication I might find it necessary to transmit. If I were prevented from meeting him, I was to send a messenger and had devised a code of signals by which he might be recognized. The appointed day was drawing near, I was not able to keep my appointment, and there was no one at hand to whom I could intrust the message.

I chafed till I had exhausted my small store of strength, then threw myself on my couch. Little Ethel came in and, like a soft ray of sunlight breaking through stormclouds, turned my thoughts into gentler channels. She held in her hand a bouquet of flowers which, it was easy to see, she intended for me, but needed encouragement to offer. I finally induced her to do so and to admit that she had been out a long while looking for them for me especially. I tried to unloosen her tongue, to induce her to confide in me, but in spite of all I could do she remained shy, and there was ever present that awe she had shown before of one who had taken a life.

"Why do you look at me in that way?" I asked.

She made no reply, casting down her eyes at my brown hand, which held her dimpled fingers.

"You mustn't dread me because I am obliged to fight," I continued. "These are wartimes. There are a great many soldiers in the land who think nothing of killing one another."

"Don't they?" She raised her eyes, wide open with surprise.

"Of course war is cruel, but—but it calls out much that is noble."

"When they kill each other?"

To be continued.

Why Peterborough Citizens Now Come to Dr. Browett for Glasses
ONE REASON: Most city people are now too intelligent and well informed to permanently injure their eyes and wreck their nerves for want of suitable glasses, especially when Dr. Browett's prices are so reasonable consistent with quality. Eye Glasses and Spectacles from $1.00 up; Colored Glasses 25 to 40c; Railroad and Mechanic's Glasses 25c to $1.00; Thermometers 25c to $5.00; Artificial Eyes $3.50 to $7.00; Non-Steam Lens Polish (keeps steam and frost from glasses) 25c.
ANOTHER REASON: Winter brings long nights with more use of artificial light. Ladies are now taxing their eyes doing fancy work for Xmas. Gentlemen are doing more reading and writing in the office and home. Scholars are doing long hours of home work. Thus all eyes work harder during the winter season, and if glasses are ever needed they are needed now. Some thoughtful sons and daughters are giving glasses to their parents for Xmas.

Open House at Y.M.C.A. Rooms

Hearty Reception Tendered all Callers—Good Programme of Attractions

Open house ruled at the Y.M.C.A. all day yesterday. This New Year's reception was a great success in every way, hundreds of visitors calling at the association building and sharing in the good cheer that was so largely in evidence. To those who were responsible for the function the greatest credit is due. The interior of the building was prettily decorated, and everything was bright and cheerful. From early morning till late in the evening, activity reigned at the "Y," and when over there was a unanimity of opinion that a good day's work had been done.

About forty boys were present in the morning, and were given free use of all privileges. They especially enjoyed the gym. There was an abundance of provisions, cocoa, pie, cake and sandwiches being served at 12 o'clock. A number of inquiries of inquiries regarding membership, which will be followed up.

About 200 were at the afternoon reception. Commons' orchestra rendered excellent music, and refreshments of coffee, cake and sandwiches were served by a committee, of which Mr. P. Redgrave was chairman. The Ladies' Auxiliary provided an abundance of good things. The guests were received by a committee of which Mr. Norman Perry was chairman. The visitors were shown through the building, and everything explained in regard to the work. Among the outsiders who called were visitors from Detroit, Mich., Oshawa, Toronto, Madoc, Galt, Ont., Walhalla, N.D., and Calgary, Alberta.

At 4 p.m. Mr. Wm. McLaren presented three of the presentation the New Year's tree, which caused a great deal of amusement.

The social committee of the association, Mr. Charles Coleman, chairman, undertook the planning and carrying out of the whole project, and at night provided the fine entertainment, which was such a complete success. Mr. D. Campbell was the chairman of the committee appointed especially in regard to arranging this programme, and Mrs. C. E. Sisson chairman of the decorating committee, who did such excellent work in decorating the building. Many favorable comments were heard in regard to the decorations.

The programme was as follows;
Mr. Harding, chairman.
Piano solo—Mr. Commons.
Reading, Mr. Wm. McLaren.
Exhibition of mystery—Mr. R.; M. Roy.
Cello solo—Mr. Eliott, of Toronto.
Comic sketch—Mr. Greenhalgh.
Reading—Mr. Johns.
The Annual Meeting of Balmy Council of Slushtown by the Slush, by several members of the Y. M. C. A. Debating Club, was one of the features. Mr. W. Shiner was mayor and Mr. Frank W. Simpson, clerk.
Comic solo—Mr. C. E. Coleman.
Comic exhibition of tumbling — Mr. Edwin G. Daly.
God Save the King.

The entertainment was enjoyed by a large audience, and was of unusual merit. Mr. R. M. Roy's exhibition of mystery was pronounced the best of its kind every seen in Peterborough. It was along somewhat the same line as the work of the Fays, who visited Peterborough over a year ago. Removing his coat while his hands were securely tied, getting out of a bag in which he had been tied, and several more feats of this nature completely mystified the audience. Mr. Roy was loudly applauded, and made a great hit.

Peterboro' Curling Rink Property Completely Wiped Out by Fire

Blaze Started at 2.45 O'clock This Morning and Spread Rapidly--The Rink and its Contents All Eaten Up by Fierce Flames.

Loss Will be About $7,000, Partially Covered by Insurance--125 Pairs of Curling Stones Ruined, Valued at $2,000—Adjoining Buildings Had Close Call—Several Narrow Escapes by Falling of Front Wall—Blaze Believed to be of Incendiary Origin—Firemen Did Splendid Work.

Peterborough was visited by a disastrous blaze this morning, about 3 o'clock, when the Charlotte street curling rink was completely destroyed. The origin of the fire is a mystery. It started in the northwestern corner of the building, and in a few minutes the whole structure was a mass of flames. The loss is in the neighborhood of seven thousand dollars, and the cost to rebuild is estimated at about $12,000. There is insurance to the extent of $4,500 on the building.

The firemen had just got nicely settled down, after the gayety and merriment connected with the formal opening of the fire hall, when at exactly to three minutes to three a man, by the name of O'Brien, rushed into the hall, yelling Fire! Fire! Most of the firemen had gone to their respective homes, but those who sleep in the building had not yet retired, but were sitting around talking over the affair of the day. About 1 o'clock the brigade were called to the C.P.R. station, but on their arrival found that it was only a fake alarm, and evidently the work of some smart alecks, who were seen running towards the river when the firemen arrived on the scene.

However, when the second alarm was given, no time was lost in getting to the conflagration. "I never saw a building burn so quickly," said Archie Moore this morning. When the brigade arrived, the fire had made great headway, evidently having been raging for some time before it was detected. Once it got started it did not take long to go. Several persons passed the rink at half past two, but noticed no signs of fire. It seemed to burst out very suddenly, although it is thought it had been burning on the inside for some time.

Five streams of hose fought the flames, and Chief Rutherford, with his able body of firemen, worked heroically to save the structure, but it had gained such headway that everything that could be done seemed of little avail against the ravaging and sweeping effects of fire.

WATCHED THE FIRE.

Despite the early hour of the morning that the blaze started, a large crowd of people were on the scene soon after the brigade, and a number of willing hands rendered assistance in various ways.

The picture of the burning building is one that will not soon be forgotten by those who were fortunate enough to witness it. The illumination in the cold winter's night was a grand one, and were it not for its destructive nature, it would be a pleasure to see it again. The people were lined all along the streets, and viewed the conflagration from every vantage point possible. It could be seen for miles around, and some of the citizens residing in the outlying portions of the city saw the flames, but did not know what building was on fire.

WALLS FALL IN.

Both the north and south walls of this rink fell in, but fortunately no one was injured in the collapse. The north end of structure fell backwards, smashing every window in a small broom shop owned by Mr. Thos. McQuillan. A heavy beam that extended across the rear end of the building fell with the wall, and as it struck the little plastered shop it split in two. Strangely to say, in spite of the heavy pressure upon the little building, no damage was done, save to the windows.

Just at twenty minutes to four the south wall went down, and it is nothing short of a miracle that no one was injured by its fall. As it was, Chief Rutherford, and Firemen W. Metharal and W. Tremain had narrow escapes from being seriously hurt. Mr. T. Yelland saw that the wall was going to fall, and shouted for the people to get out of the way. With a crash it fell, covering the street with piles of bricks, and burying the hose in the debris. However, the streams of water were not stopped, but the work of mastering the flames was considerably inconvenienced. Several panes of glass in Dr. Blanchard's house were smashed to atoms, and traffic on the street in front of the rink was delayed. Before the street cars had commenced their daily trips this morning the track was cleared, but the sidewalk, piled high with timbers, brick and other ruins of the disaster was not cleaned up until later in the day.

ADJOINING STORES IN DANGER.

At one stage of the disaster it looked like as if the stores to the east of the rink would be destroyed. Mr. Gemmell's store became ignited and for a while it looked like as if it would go, too. However, it was quickly noticed and put out. A bucket brigade was also busily engaged at the rear of the Empire Agency Co., a spark having ignited one of the outbuildings. The wind was blowing in the wrong direction to affect Mr. F. W. Robinson's livery barns, and at no time were they in danger.

ORIGIN OF THE FIRE.

The origin of the fire is shrouded in mystery. Mr. Angus McIntosh, the genial caretaker of the rink, stated that he left the place at eleven o'clock and everything seemed to be in a good, safe condition. The fire in the stove was low, and Mr. McIntosh feels confident that it did not start from that source. While it is not definitely known, it is said that it originated in the northwest corner. Nothing of an ignitous nature was left there, and how it come to start there cannot be fathomed. It is belived by some that the fire was of an incendiary origin, but no intimation as to who the guilty party is has been made.

LOSS A HEAVY ONE.

All that remains of the rink that rang with the merry yell of the curler yesterday is a few black and charred timbers. The curling stones, with the exception of those belonging to Messrs. S. Oke, D. Davidson, Dr. Wightman and J. A. Aylmer, were destroyed. In all 125 pairs are gone, and the loss is estimated at $2,000, without any insurance. The Lakefield curlers lost eight pair of stones.

The loss of the building is between five and seven thousand dollars. There is $4,500 of insurance, $1500 with the Phoenix Fire Insurance Co., $1500 with the Northern Co., and $1500 with the Western Co.

About a year and a half ago, the rink was taken over from the Peterboro Curling and Skating Co. and is now owned by the Peterborough Curling Co., a joint stock company of one hundred shareholders. Mr. Thomas Brightman is the president, and Mr. R. M. Waddell, secretary treasurer.

The building formerly was situated where the Quaker Oats Co. mills now stands. Twenty-two years ago when the waterworks system was instituted in the city, it was moved to Charlotte street. It is a very old building, and many of the older citizens recall many happy incidents that have taken place beneath its roof.

CURLING WILL CONTINUE.

Mr. Charles Brown, president of the Curling Club, says that they will be again playing the grand old game in a few days. A committee of curlers met this morning, and decided after clearing up the debris to have an open air rink. In all probability a new rink will be built, but not this winter.

Only Seventeen Remain Out Of Field of Forty Three

Two Members of Present Council Drop Out and Seven New Men Seek Aldermanic Honors—Lined Up for the Start.

Two candidates are in the field for Mayor, two for the Water Commission, seventeen for Aldermen and six for the Board of Education. Twelve aldermen are to be elected and five members for the Board of Education. Election takes place on Monday.

The time for fyling declarations of qualification closed at nine o'clock on Tuesday night, and the following took the necessary steps to have their names placed on the ballots:—

FOR MAYOR

ROLAND F. McWILLIAMS,
HENRY RUSH.

FOR ALDERMEN

W. G. MORROW,
W. H. BRADBURN,
JAMES BOGUE,
JAMES CLANCY,
GEORGE H. DUNCAN,
GEO. E. ELLIOTT,
GEO. A. GILLESPIE,
J. J. TURNER, jr.,
W. J. JOHNSTON,
R. H. LEARY,
HENRY MORGAN,
ROBERT NEILL,
HARRY PHELAN,
GEO. J. TOVEY,
ARCH A. McINTYRE,
WM BULLER,
JOHN C. ANDERSON.

FOR WATER COMMISSIONER

W. H. HILL,
HENRY BEST.

FOR BOARD OF EDUCATION

W. H. HILL,
JOHN CRANE,
WM PRINGLE,
DR GEO. BURNHAM,
D. W. DUMBLE,
W. F. NELSON.

Two members of the present council, Ald Stevenson and Wilson, are out of the fight, while the new men are James Bogue, James Clancy, Geo. A. Gillespie, John J. Turner, jr., Robert Neill, Wm. Buller and John C. Anderson. Jos. Batten, who was nominated, and qualified, has decided not to stand, and his name will not be on the ballot.

Three of the aspirants for the aldermanic board are from Ashburnham, namely, Ald. Morgan, and Messrs Geo. A. Gillespie and John C. Anderson. The ratepayers of ward 5 are of the opinion that there are too many men in the field from that division. It is felt that East City would have better chances of electing one or two aldermen from that ward if there were fewer candidates from that section of the city.

In addition to voting for mayor, alderman, water commissioner and Board of Education, the ratepayers of the city will express their opinion upon two other questions. A bylaw making provision for a water tax on vacant property, fronted by water mains, will be voted on, and the ratepayers will also be asked to express their opinion as to whether or not they want a garbage system. The question to be voted on in connection with the latter is as follows;—

"Are you in favor of the establishment of a system of garbage collection for the city of Peterborough?"

The Mayoralty contest is one of the most interesting in years. The supporters of both candidates are working hard, and the vote will likely be a close one. The aldermanic field also furnishes some interesting possibilities, and is being widely discussed.

The Presbytery of Peterborough

Presented Rev. P. Duncan, of Colborne, With Purse of Gold—His 50 Years' Ministry

To few ministers in any church is the privilege given to serve for fifty years continuously, and fewer still enjoy the privilege of ministering for half a century to the same congregation. Yet that is the honor that has come to Rev. Peter McLaren Duncan, pastor of the Presbyterian churches at Colborne and Lakeport, whose jubilee was celebrated on Monday evening in the Colborne church with appropriate honors. The church was crowded to the doors when the Synod of Toronto and Kingston, the Presbytery of Peterborough, and the Presbyterian congregations of Colborne and Lakeport, united to do him honor. Mr. Duncan is Moderator of the Synod and of Peterborough Presbytery.

The Synod was represented by Rev. Principal McLaren, of Knox College, Toronto, and Rev. Dr. Carmichael, of Kingston, class-mates of Rev. Mr. Duncan, who expressed felicitations and congratulations and gave eloquent and appropriate addresses.

Rev. D. A. Thompson, the oldest co-Presbyter, gave an excellent address, representing Peterborough Presbytery, and Rev. Wm. Beattie, of Cobourg, in an able speech, presented congratulations in behalf of the younger ministers in the Presbytery, while Rev. C. S. Lord, of Fenelon Falls, brought greetings on behalf of Lindsay Presbytery, and added his congratulations to the previous speakers. On behalf of the Synod of Toronto and Kingston, Mr. Duncan was presented with an illuminated address. The Presbytery of Peterborough presented him with a purse of gold, and his own congregation presented him with an address and Mrs. Duncan with a purse of gold.

Charged With Selling Liquor Without License

Evidence in Case Against Fred Holland of Lakefield Being Heard To-day—Mr. and Mrs. T. Weston Both Gave Evidence—Adjourned Till 2.30 This Afternoon.

At the County Police Court this morning before County Police Magistrate Edmison, the charge of selling liquor without a license is being heard against Fred Holland, of Lakefield. It will be remembered that a short time ago Holland was arrested by High County Constable George Cochrane and County Constable A. Moore on the charge of indecent assault, Mrs. Thos. S. Weston, of Lakefield, being the complainant, and it is alleged he sold a bottle of liquor to Mrs. Weston. The charge on which he was arraigned this morning was also preferred against him. Both of the offences are said to have been committed on Christmas day. The evidence of Mrs. Weston was heard and also that of her husband. Their testimony seemed rather conflicting in some of the details.

Mrs. Weston told of visiting Holland's house and said she asked Mrs. Holland for whiskey, but the latter said she didn't want to give it unless her husband knew it. Holland told her he had one bottle of whiskey to spare. Witness gave him a dollar bill. Holland's mother-in-law accompanied witness down the street, when witness left and gave her the bottle of whiskey. Holland told his wife to start the gramaphone going. She did so, and he offered to give her back the dollar bill if she accompanied him upstairs. She said he and his wife carried her upstairs. Witness fainted away owing to shock received by nature of proposals of Holland's.

Cross-examined by Mr. G. N. Gordon, who appeared for the defence, witness said she had ordered a keg of porter from Peterborough, but was disappointed as the porter didn't come and so got the bottle from Holland. Was at Hollnad's house from 12.30 to about 5, and during that time her husband didn't come to enquire why she didn't return home.

The evidence of Mr. Weston was then heard and the case was enlarged until 2.30 this afternoon.

NEW YEAR WEDDINGS

MORPHET—MARTIN

An exceedingly pretty wedding was solemnized yesterday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock, at All Saints' church, when Miss Ruby May Martin, youngest daughter of Mr. G. H. Martin, Aylmer-st., was united in marriage to Mr. E. Vernon Morphet, son of Mr. E. W. Morphet, 350 Aylmer-st. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Wm. Major in the presence of only the immediate relatives of the contracting parties. The bride was assisted by Miss Margaret Corbman of this city, while the groom was ably supported by Mr. Bruce Patterson. After the ceremony the bridal party drove to the residence of the groom's father, where a dainty wedding repast was partaken of, and hearty congratulations were bestowed upon the bride and groom.

The bride was the recipient of many beautiful and costly presents testifying to the high esteem in which the young couple are held by a wide circle of friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Morphet will reside at 350 Aylmer-st.

HUGHES—FITZGERALD

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized on New Year's afternoon at 4 o'clock, at St. John's church, when two of Peterborough's most popular young people plighted their troth. It was the marriage of Miss Pearl F. Fitzgerald, second daughter of Mr. George Fitzgerald, Sheridan street, to Mr. Frank J. Hughes, of Youngstown, Ohio, and son of Mr. John Hughes, east city. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Canon Davidson, in the presence of only the immediate relatives of the contracting parties.

The bride was becomingly attired in a travelling suit of navy blue chiffon broadcloth over a blouse of Dresden taffeta. She wore a hat to match.

Bride and groom were unattended.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Hughes drove to the C.P.R. station where they took the 4.48 train for Youngstown, where they will reside at 121 West Woodland avenue. At the depot a large number of friends friends had gathered and the young couple left amid showers of confetti and with the good wishes of a host of acquaintances.

KIRK—SANDERSON

A pretty wedding took place at the residence of the bride's father, 277 Harvey street yesterday afternoon, when Miss Jennie Sanderson, daughter of Mr. John Sanderson, was united in marriage to W. J. Kirk of this city. The ceremony took place at 3.30 o'clock and was performed by Rev. J. G. Potter, B.A., of St Andrew's church, in the presence of a large number of guests. The bride wore a becoming costume of crepe de chene and the bridesmaid, Miss Emma Argue, was similarly attired. The groom was supported by Mr. Fred Sanderson, brother of the bride.

The bride received many beautiful presents—a tribute to her popularity. The groom's gift was a handsome gold watch and chain, while the bridesmaid and groomsman presented the happy couple with a beautiful marble mantle clock. The bride was the recipient of a polished oak rocker from the lady employees of the Quaker Oats company, and the groom's employers, E. F. Mason & Co's., presented them with a beautiful tea set. The groom's gift to the bridesmaid was a set of combs and to the groomsman a gold stick pin.

After the ceremony, a dainty repast was served after which Mr. and Mrs. Kirk left on the evening C.P.R. train to spend the honeymoon at points east. The bride's going away costume was of steel gray with hat to match.

On their return home, Mr. and Mrs. Kirk will reside on Harvey street.

GRAY—THROOP

A very pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. John Throop, of Otonabee, on Christmas day, at three o'clock, when his daughter, Lillian, was united in marriage to R. James Gray, eldest son of Mr. James Gray, of Otonabee. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. D. Harrison, of Keene, in the presence of a number of friends and relatives.

The bride, dressed in a pretty gown of white silk, and carrying a bouquet of carnations, entered the drawing room on the arm of her father, to the strains of the wedding march, played by Miss Violet Shriver, of Toronto.

The bride was the recipient of many handsome and useful presents, the groom's gift to the bride being a beautiful gold bracelet, set with pearls, and to the pianist a ring.

COBOURG WON.

Cobourg, Jan. 1.—In an intermediate O.H.A. game here tonight Cobourg defeated Whitby in an exciting contest after ten minutes of overtime, by 7 goals to 5. The score at half time was 2 to 1 in favor of the visitors and at full time 5-all. The ice was not in the best of shape, but this did not prevent good hockey.

SCHOOL CONCERT WELL ATTENDED

Many friends and acquaintances of the children of S. S. No. 2, Smith, spent a very pleasant evening at the school concert and Christmas Tree, held in Temperance Hall, on Friday, Dec. 20th. After listening to an excellent programme, which spoke well of the talent of the pupils, jovial old Santa Claus made his appearance and displayed his liberality by distributing many gifts to the children and friends, among them being a beautiful manicure set, presented by the pupils to their teacher, Miss Ada Elmhurst. The programme was made more effective, if possible, by having a very able chairman in the person of Mr. Andrew Young, the secretary treasurer of the school. The proceeds of the concert amounted to over $21, admission being 10 and 15 cents.

The covent at Rimouski was destroyed by fire. All the inmates, including nearly three hundred young children, got out without loss of life.

DON'T NEGLECT YOUR SKIN

Zam-Buk Unequalled as a Skin Cure.

About 80 per cent. of prevalent skin disease is due to neglect and the remaining 20 per cent. to some weakness or infection. The skin, in fact, rules the health. In proportion as the skin acts well or ill, we are well or sick, for every square inch of skin has no fewer than 2,800 pores through which all waste matter, which would be injurious to health if allowed to remain, is expelled from the body.

The skin, because it has important work to do, and is so exposed to injury and disease, deserves far more attention than most people give it. Often the timely use of Zam-Buk, the well-known healing balm, will avert a nasty attack of eczema, prevent festering, allay pain and inflammation and prevent other skin troubles which, if neglected, would only affect the general health.

A sudden chill, dirt in a cold-crack, or sudden contact with disease-germs, are all dangerous to your skin health, and neglected cuts, sores, chafings or chaps, may lead to festering or blood-poisoning.

Neglected scald caused months of agony—spent dollars seeking a cure—One box of Zam-Buk cured.

Below we give the testimony of a lady who, if she had known of Zam-Buk earlier, might have saved nine weeks of painful agony.

Mrs. Frederick Bryant of 169 Railway Ave., Stratford (Ont.), says: "I scalded my foot while preparing supper. Next day the skin came off and my foot was in a serious condition. I could not wear my shoe and had to lay up for nine weeks. During this time I used dozens of salves, but none did any good, in fact the wound developed into a running sore. I got no rest day or night from the cruel pain. At this point a sample of Zam-Buk was left at my house and I tried it. Several applications of Zam-Buk had a marvellous effect in soothing the pain and irritation and I was encouraged to buy a box. One box of Zam-Buk was sufficient to heal the scald, although I had spent dollars in other remedies. New skin has formed nicely over the whole open sore. Zam-Buk is the most wonderful and effective remedy I have used, and I advise others to use it."

Zam-Buk is so refined that it soaks easily through the skin to the seat of disease and exerts a wholesome influence upon the rest of the body. Absolutely pure, soothing and antiseptic, Zam-Buk is recognised as the world's one great and only perfect healing balm for everyday household use. It is just as invaluable for cuts, bruises, burns and sprains, as it is for eczema, ulcers, piles, bad legs, festering sores, ringworm, swellings, scalp sores, hidden sores on back or joints, pimples, rashes, chafings, chaps, inflamed and irritable patches, and all diseases of the skin. Every family needs a box of Zam-Buk.

Zam-Buk is sold by all druggists and medicine vendors at 50 cents a box, or will be sent postpaid on receipt of price by the Zam-Buk Co., Toronto. [illegible]

News Boys Enjoyed Supper at Gospel Hall Last Evening

One Hundred and Sixty Newsies Were Given Sumptuous Spread—Addresses by Mr. Maplesden and Magistrate Dumble.

One hundred and sixty newsboys enjoyed a sumptuous repast on New Year's night, given by the Christians at Gospel Hall. Around two tables, reaching the length of the room, were seated the lads who deliver to the citizens of Peterborough the many different journals that are sold in this city. The newsies were given a treat that they will not soon forget, and, judging from the merriment at the hall, last evening, they were thoroughly enjoying the many good things provided.

It was largely due to Mr. G. W. Mulligan that the pleasant affair that night took place. He made all arrangements and superintended everything. He and his able body of assistants deserve credit for the successful manner in which it was carried out. He worked faithfully and left nothing undone to make it a success.

The hall was prettily decorated with flags and bunting and presented a very attractive appearance.

After the boys had feasted on the tasty viands provided, Mr. W. Maplesden, of Buffalo, N.Y., and His Worship Magistrate Dumble, gave short addresses. A well rendered vocal solo was also given by Mr. Mulligan.

MENU.

The following is the excellent menu partaken of:—

Roast Turkey. Ham.
Vegetables.
Mashed Potatoes.
Relishes.
Pickles Jellies
Bread.
White and Brown.
Cakes.
Apple Pie. Mince Pie. Lemon Pie
Nuts. Candies. Raisins.
Apples. Oranges.
Tea Ice Cream. Coffee.

Mr. Maplesden was the first to speak to the boys. He was delighted to be present, and see such a large number of bright and happy faces. He hoped the boys had enjoyed the spread. He referred to the kindness of Mr. Mulligan, who first proposed this treat for the paper pedlars, and the speaker was sure that they all appreciated his thoughtfulness very much. Mr. Maplesden then related a gospel story and, in concluding, urged the boys to be honest and pure, always striving to do that which their Saviour would have them do.

Magistrate Dumble was greeted with great applause as he rose to speak. He was glad to be present, he said, to have the opportunity of speaking to the boys. He hoped that the same kindly spirit that prompted Mr. Mulligan to get up such an excellent supper would also prevail among them all. "Selling newspapers was an honorable business, and and many of our best citizens have been newsboys," said Mr. Dumble. He urged the boys to be honest in all their dealings, to be pure and clean-mouthed, and to shun all that which is wrong and harmful. He concluded by wishing them all a happy and prosperous New Year.

During the evening a photograph of the assembly was taken by Mr. R. M. Roy. The gathering dispersed about half-past seven.

Greater Discount in Water Rates if the By-law Carries

Proposition to Tax all Property Fronted by Mains Should be Carried by the People--An Important Statement by the Water Commissioners.

The Water Commissioners think it well to place before the ratepayers a short statement of the objects to be attained by the by-law that has been published and which is to be submitted to them to be voted upon on election day.

The intention is, that property fronted by a water main shall contribute towards the cost of such main an annual sum that bears a just rate to the value conferred on the property by the main. In the past much property (particularly vacant lots) thus benefited, has paid nothing whatever towards the large expense of laying the main, but such expense has had to be borne by the general water users. The Commissioners consider this to be an injustice, which the By-law will greatly if not altogether remedy. By thus placing the burden where it should be, the Commissioners feel that they will be able to increase the present discount of twenty-five per cent. on the rates to thirty-three and one-third per cent., which will effect a considerable saving to water consumers; thus, a twelve dollar water rate with twenty-five per cent. discount is nine dollars net, and with thirty-three and one-third per cent. discount, is eight dollars net.

The special rate in the by-law, as will be observed, is four and one-half cents per running foot which reduced by thirty-three and one-third per cent. discount for prompt payment, will be three cents per foot net, and a thirty foot lot will pay ninety cents per year with this proviso, however, that if the owner or occupant pays for the use of water for the same property ninety cents or over the front foot rate will be cancelled and only the water rate collected, but if no water rate is paid the front foot rate will be collected. If the front foot rate is greater than the water rate paid the excess of the former over the latter will also be paid.

The Commissioners are not aware of a single case in the city where if a water rate is paid at all it will not for the same property be in excess of the special rate, and then as pointed out there will only be the water rate less its discount to be paid.

In short, the object of the Commissioners is to cause vacant land fronted by a water main and thus enhanced in value, to pay a fair share of its cost, and likewise to compel occupied property where the owner refuses to take water to pay the frontage rate.

The Commissioners have given this matter much consideration and are of opinion that the By-law is in the interests of the city generally, and hope it may pass.

All ratepayers have the right to vote upon the By-law.

T. F. MATTHEWS,
W. H. HILL,
W. H. MOORE,
Water Commissioners.

Merchants Will Support Mr. Rush

Believe That He is the Better Man for Chief Magistrate

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—I observe that there are two candidates in the field for Mayor, Messrs. Rush and McWilliams.

Now, I am going to support Mr. Rush, as I believe we we require a business man to act as chief magistrate. We have been paying a large share of the taxes, especially with our increased assessment, and yet we have been harrassed and hampered in many picayune ways. We have been interfered with unjustly in reference to signs, and also in cleaning our walks, being told not to leave so much as a snow flake on the pavement. It is not pleasant to do business under such discouraging circumstances and petty annoyances. We bear the brunt of taxation, and should be freed from irksome regulations calculated to do us harm. Mr. McWilliams has certainly not been a friend to the business men, and, after talking with a number of fellow merchants, I find that almost to a man, they are going to vote for Mr. Rush, who is a property holder and has had a long and successful business career. I feel that he will look after the interests of the city in a wise, careful manner. He is a man who knows what the business interests of the city require and demand. He has no personal interests to serve and no private prejudices to gratify, and his whole object, I believe, will be to serve the city in a generous, unselfish and wideawake manner.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for allowing me to take up this space, and wishing you a Happy New Year.

Yours, etc.,
MERCHANT.

Property Holder Airs His Views

Believes That Mr. Rush Should Get General Support for Civic Chair

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—I own considerable property in the south ward—on Romaine street to be exact—on which the assessment was raised sixty per cent.

Now I am not alone in this respect. Others also had valuations raised without rhyme or reason. I do not blame Mayor McWilliams for this altogether, but I think in some manner he was in sympathy with the uncalled for elevation of values—at any rate he did not discountenance them. I do not object to a fair increase, but the amounts put on were beyond all reason as the overhauling given them by the Court of Revision shows. I think, sir, we have just cause for grievance and that the affairs of the council have not been looked after in a business manner. We need a Mayor who is a property holder himself—one like Mr. Rush who can sympathize and work for us, one who understands our needs. Mr. Rush not only owns real estate, but he has bought and sold a great deal of it. I am strongly in favor of his candidature and intend to support him, and I am greatly mistaken if many others do not do the same.

Sincerely yours,
SOUTH WARD.

Correspondent Hands Out Some Advice to Trades and Labor Council

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—I notice in your issue of Tuesday, Dec. 12, an article from that wonderful organization known as the Trades and Labor Council, which appeared to me something like what you would hear among a lot of school boys just emerging from one of the A B C classes.

They first start after the correspondent of industrial matters here from the city about wrong reports being sent to Ottawa. Well, it is no new thing to be after him. It seems to be an annual affair to touch him up just before election times. I think it is a good thing, because it seems to advertise him and do him a world of good. "The more you rub him the better he shines." Let the good work continue.

I believe that this man Johnston has forgot more about labor matters than the whole bunch of these wonderful knights of labor ever knew.

There was a time when this wonderful hippodrome did cut some figure, when such men as Charlie Mitchell, Bill Menzies, Tom McKee, Bob McGregor, Billy Johnston belonged to it. The views of these were too far advanced so they had to go away back and sit down.

Then they get back after the City Council and Mayor. It seemed to be great food for their wonderful vocabularies. One fellow says—and he must have been a corker—that they were an aggregation of fossils. It is lan that the ground is frozen or she would swallow him boots and all.

But I forgot, they do give a couple of the city fathers a great boost, and I certainly think they could not have chosen two better ones to befriend the great and glorius cause of labor—"That is when they are spending the other fellows money." Two lightweights, "firey gents too," who are always studying the market for votes and cheap notoriety, and I tell you they struck it just about right when they have won the affections of such an influential body of knights of the day.

And so it reads "They handled the aldermanic gentlemen without gloves." "Oh the knockers." Well, then they get right after the high-cock-a-lorum the chief magistrate. I suppose they mean the Mayor. They seem to think that the iniquities of his subordinates, or I should say colleagues, was weighing heavily upon him. But listen he has a friend who is going to stay with him through thick and thin. The Mayor will get one vote anyway as a result of this fracas. Then they get after old man Yelland. "By jove I would not like to be him. There will be a hot time when that resolution of these sturdies gets after him. It is a good thing my friend Yelland that you have had your day, for two would be out of the question. This oratorical wind-jamming of yours is too wild-eyed and could not be held in a small tub. You are an old man, but if you took a notion to get after some of these worthies they would be slightly in need of repairs after it.

Now, Mr. Editor, I am through my text. If time and space would permit I might enlighten you further, but I refrain. If these men would take up some matter in connection with municipal affairs and deal with it intelligently, I am satisfied that the people and the City Council would appreciate it and give them credit for so doing, but the manner in which they go about it will never accomplish anything never, never, never, and that is a long time.

Alderman Johnston has his faults like any of us but I like to see him getting fair play. He is up and above board, and is not afraid to give his views on questions of any kind and has the backbone to stay with what he thinks is right and that is the kind of man any municipality wants.

Thanking you Mr. Editor for space.

FAIR PLAY.

Two Successful Entertainments

There have been two very successful Christmas entertainments on the Bridgenorth circuit about Christmas time.

At Zion a crowded house listened to an attractive programme and showed their hearty appresiation.

At Bridgenorth the same was true, the attendance being away beyond that of past years.

The agreeable spirit of fellowship existing on the circuit in some measure accounts for it.

Handsome Gift For Teacher

After addressing the Sunday school on temperance on Sunday Mr. W. McLaren was presented by the boys of his class with a complete work of Shakespeare's poems bound in Morocco with his name tastefully engraved in gold letters. The gift came as a surprise to Mr. McLaren and he made a suitable reply and expressed his thanks to the boys for the valuable gift, which he appreciated very much.

TWO SUSPECTS ARRESTED.

Sequel to Daring Robbery of Car Company's Receipts.

Rochester, Jan. 2.—Two men, Frank Whitney and George Carlisle, are under arrest here as a sequel to the robbery by three men in a big black automobile of Sodus Bay car No. 112, on Tuesday, and their escape with a strong box containing $2,859 of the receipts of the Rochester Street Railway Co. Both men are locked up at police headquarters on charges of grand larceny, first degree, and accused of complicity in the highway robbery. A third man suspected is at large, but may be arrested any time.

The plunder was taken to No. 37 Clifton street, the home of the brother-in-law of one of the party. When the house was searched a suit case was found, in which was all the missing money, a lot of silverware and a set of burglar tools. When George Carlisle later entered the house and saw the detectives and sheriff's officers, he fired two shots at them, and in a hand-to-hand fight was badly beaten before he surrendered. The detectives were unhurt by the shots.

The silverware bears the marks of the Fifth avenue hotel in New York City. Carlisle is about 20 years old and Whitney about 25.

TWELVE HURT IN WRECK.

Express Dashes Into Light Locomotive Crossing Track.

Sunbury, Pa., Jan. 2.—The Pennsylvania Railroad express which left Buffalo at 9 o'clock Tuesday night, and which was due in Philadelphia at 7.23 a. m. yesterday, was wrecked at Montandon, 10 miles west of here, and more than a dozen passengers injured.

The express was running on time when a light locomotive crossed from a siding to the main track. The engine of the express was so close that the engineer was unable to bring his heavy train to a stop and it crashed into the shifting engine with considerable force. Both locomotives were disabled, and a combination car, a day coach and a Pullman sleeper were so badly damaged that the passengers had to be transferred to other coaches and the wrecked cars cut out. Most of the passengers received medical treatment here. The main was delayed four hours.

Magistrate Half a Century.

Windsor, Jan. 2.—Scores of Windsor's citizens attended a public reception given Tuesday night by Col. Bartlet in honor of his father, Magistrate Alexander Bartlett, who upon the closing day of the year saw also the close of the 85th anniversary day of his birth. Tuesday the venerable magistrate occupied his seat on the bench of the Police Court, where he has officiated for nearly thirty years, and to-day shows apparently the same vigor that he did twenty years ago.

Early next month Mr. Bartlett will have completed the fiftieth year of his public service in this city, he having been appointed town clerk in 1858.

Found Dead on Commons.

Fort Erie, Ont., Jan. 2.—The lifeless body of John Ricker was found at Fort Erie in a place known as the Commons. He was apparently on his way home about 9 o'clock on New Year's eve, when he was possibly overtaken by heart failure.

Mr. Ricker was about 80 years of age and a respected citizen. He was well known throughout the village. The body was discovered by Mr. Barnhart, who notified Chief of Police Kee, who after viewing the body notified Coroner Brewster, who viewed the body yesterday. Deceased resided with his son at this village.

Gas Wrecks Building.

Arnott, Jan. 2.—G. W. Collins' drug store and J. Herbert's tailor shop in Chatsworth were completely wrecked by a gas explosion early yesterday morning. The large building was moved two feet off its foundation. Fortunately no person was hurt. The windows in Dr. Oldham's office across the street were broken. The cause is supposed to be a gas pipe leaking and came in contact with the furnace.

SOLDIER'S SUICIDE.

Blows Brains Out In House of His Divorced Wife.

London, Jan. 2.—Major Coates Phillips, an officer, who distinguished himself in the South African war, committed suicide here Tuesday night under sensational circumstances.

The major had been divorced. Some time ago he made an attempt to kill himself in the residence of his former wife, but was restrained. Tuesday night he returned to the home of Mrs. Coates Phillips and forced an entrance. His former wife, her mother and a solicitor were in the house, but when they saw the excited man break in they fled. The major opened fire with his revolver, aiming at everyone he could see, and then blew out his brains. The solicitor and the mother of Mrs. Coates Phillips were wounded, but not seriously.

Row Among Foreigners.

Hamilton, Jan. 2.—A number of foreigners who live at 377 John street, got into a drunken row yesterday, and George Antoce, a Hungarian, drew a knife ad stabbed Stephen Knight. The blade struck one of Knight's ribs and glanced sideways, inflicting a nasty cut. Had it not been for this, the wound would likely have been very serious. Antoce was placed under arrest and will be charged with cutting and wounding.

Empress' Condition Serious.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 2.—It is learned that the present condition of Empress Alexandra, who had been ill for some time from the grip and in a weakened condition as the result of a severe regime to reduce her weight, is complicated by the expectations of childbirth. Under these circumstances her general weakness is beginning to arouse concern.

Local Option Fosters Crime

To-day, with Local Option, Owen Sound has SIXTY places where liquor is sold. Under license, there were only ELEVEN places. Yet, despite the best efforts of a capable license inspector, no one has been sent to jail in Owen Sound for selling since Local Option came into force. Last year, with five months of license and seven months of Local Option, OWEN SOUND had 362 police court cases. This year, in eleven months of Local Option, there have been 510 police court cases there.

Do you want this state of things?

Mr. Matthew Kennedy, Mayor of Owen Sound, who has lived there fifty years, said, Nov. 27 last:

"I have seen Owen Sound under indiscriminate license, under restricted license, under the Duncan Act, and under the Ontario Liquor License Act, and finally under Local Option: and I have no hesitation in saying that Local Option has NOT lessened drunkenness, has not improved business nor the financial position of the people generally. Neither has it improved the moral tone of the citizens as a whole, but, on the contrary, Local Option HAS INJURED LOCAL TRADE, and lowered the moral well-being of very many."

Local Option substitutes the "blind pig" for the decent bar.

A Mob of Armed Japanese Made Attack on Firemen

Terribly Mangled With Knives and Left For Dead.

Serious Stabbing Affray In Vancouver—Man Accidentally Fell Through Window of Japanese Store—Armed Mob Turned Out—Firemen's Faces Torn Into Ribbons—Japs Fought Like Demons.

Vancouver, B. C., Jan. 2.—Three firemen, Frost, Anderson and McDonald, were set upon by a mob of armed Japanese yesterday and left for dead at the corner of Powell street and More avenue, two blocks from the police station. The men were clothed in uniforms with brass buttons and the attack of the Japanese is all the more serious for that reason.

By accident, Frost, a fireman, fell through the window of a Japanese store. In an instant the Japanese proprietor rushed out. Many of his countrymen came to join in the fight, for it was in the centre of the Japanese district.

The firemen were overpowered after a fight, when the flesh of their faces had been torn into ribbons by the razor-like knives which the Orientals carry.

Frost was mortally hurt, for his neck was cut, slashed and laid open for four inches and two inches deep alongside of the jugular vein. The men were frightfully mangled about the arms and breasts, but McDonald and Anderson, the other two firemen, were still fighting over the body of Frost when a squad of police arrived. Four Japanese were arrested and the three firemen were taken to the hospital. The Japanese fought like demons and the knives carried were a foot long.

"Hutch" and His Crew Did Something to be Proud of Defeated Peterborough Section of "B. A. C." by Close Score—Some Details of a Struggle That Will be Handed Down to Posterity.

Someone once said that when Greek met Greek then came the tug-of-war, but if the aforesaid author had been present at Brock street rink yesterday forenoon he would have seen something that would have made the ancients look cheap. It was was nothing more or less than a hockey match, although the spectators who numbered about fifty, might not have been able to recognize it from the above description. Backed by five or six sturdy gladiators, the great M. J. Hutchinson, who has frequently appeared before the public in various roles, drifted into Peterborough from Toronto on Tuesday night, and assisted by a couple of local members, gave battle to a hockey team representing the Peterborough section of the "B.A.C." at Brock street rink, between ten and eleven o'clock on New Year's day. Hutch's Toronto friends had been initiated into the mysteries of the club on Tuesday evening, but the experience did not detract from their ability to play hockey. Ray Best and Leslie Turner, tempted by offers of jobs on sewer work in Toronto, went over to the enemy at the last minute, with the result that the teams lined up as follows:

Referee—W. Motheral.

The game was marked by considerable swatting, heavy body checking, numerous mixups, and the ice was also marked in various places. The score at the finish was 7—1 in favor of Hutchinson and his crew, some of the visitors proving themselves skilled hockeyists. Peterborough's only score was the result of a nice piece of combination by Huston and E. Best, the latter scoring. Mackay and Jackson were the stars of the visitors, although the great Hutchinson came into the limelight—and the walls—occasionally. "Jesse" James also proved a star in goal and stopped shot after shot. Best and Robertson shone most for Peterborough. Huston broke a skate in the early stages of the game, and later re-appeared in "Josh" Craig's famous "Pontoon" speed blades (retail price 78 cents). One of these also broke, whereupon Josh's tears flowed freely, and he had to be removed from the rink lest he should be the means of melting the ice. Ernie Bruce distinguished himself in the net for Peterborough, and stopped everything that didn't get past. These were considerable.

"Bill" Motheral, the Strathcona manager, gave satisfaction as referee, although the spectators hooted at his decisions.

A return game will likely be played. Norman Jolliffe, who the older residents here will remember, was expected for the game, but failed to show up. A warrant has been sworn up for his apprehension.

Hon. J. H. Cameron was formally proclaimed Justice of the King's Bench in Manitoba.

Oliver Elected Mayor of Toronto

Power By-law Was Carried by Over 10,000 Majority

Toronto, Jan. 2.—Joseph Oliver is mayor of Toronto for 1908, his majority of more than 6,000 being the largest that has ever been given a candidate for the office.

In more than one respect the civic elections of yesterday established a record. The total vote, exceeding 32,000, was the greatest ever polled in the history of the city, the previous high-water mark, made in 1905, when 29,000 ballots were marked in the Urquhart-Gooderham contest, being easily surpassed.

Toronto yesterday, by the magnificent majority of over 10,000 again approved the power policy of the Provincial Government. The verdict on this bylaw was even more decisive than that of last year, when the electors were only asked to authorize the City Council to proceed with the preliminary steps necessary for the preparation of the official scheme. Yesterday the citizens emphatically declared themselves ready to undertake the responsibility of a municipal competitive plant. Nothing could more completely evidence their determination to break the electric monopoly that was so nearly established over the light, power and transportation services of the city.

Hastings Buys New Fire Engine

On Saturday afternoon the long expected fire engine arrived in town and Messrs. Cameron and Watt, of the Waterous Company, who were already here, at once had it unloaded and placed in the fire hall, and on Monday the brigade turned out and assisted in the test of the engine, which, to all appearance, was very satisfactory. The engine is a 400 gallon engine, weighing about 3,500 lbs., and for its weight works well. The longest test was with 1,000 feet of hose stretched from the race near the locks, and threw a stream over the tower of the town hall.—Hastings Star.

Saved Her Friend.

Ottawa, Ont.—Acquaintances of Mrs. M. E. Dewar, of this city, are showering her with congratulations on being rescued from what promised to be hopeless invalidism. Mrs. Dewar had not been herself for years. Physicians treated her for various complaints, but none of them did any permanent good. Finally, a friend determined that something must be done and that quickly. So she insisted on Mrs. Dewar trying "Fruit-a-tives"—those wonderful Fruit Liver Tablets that are curing so many people. Here is what Mrs. Dewar says about "Fruit-a-tives." "I have much pleasure in stating that I have found 'Fruit-a-tives' the best medicine I ever used for Constipation and Biliousness. I suffered from headaches of a severe kind for a long time, but, after taking 'Fruit-a-tives,' I have become entirely well. I can, with every confidence, recommend 'Fruit-a-tives' to anyone suffering from Constipation, Biliousness or Headaches."

Calomel, salts, oil and other violent cathartics act simply on the bowels. "Fruit-a-tives" are a liver tonic and stimulant. They act directly on the liver — reducing inflammation and increasing the flow of bile. Besides insuring complete digestion, bile makes the bowels move. That is why "Fruit-a-tives" also cure Constipation. They are made of fruit and tonics. 50c a box; 6 for $2.50. At all druggists, or sent on receipt of price. Fruit-a-tives, Limited, Ottawa, Ont.

Partello Stock Co. Delights Big Audiences

And so the college coach married the daughter of the professor of chemistry! Doesn't it sound like a probable match, does it? But if you knew the college coach and the daughter of the professor, it would seem the most natural thing in the world. When the curtain was rung down on the last act of probably the best interpreted piece ever put on in Peterborough by a stock company, Billy the Coach and Gail Hadleigh the College Girl, are wrapped in a fervent embrace that even the most uninitiated could see would have a matrimonial culmination. While no wedding bells were rung, nor the services of any preacher called into requisition, the audience went away with the knowledge that the match was a sure thing. And when the appearance and good qualities of the girl in question are taken into consideration, Billy has every reason to congratulate himself on a happy new year.

The Partello Stock Company is immeasurably better than some cheap repertoire troupes that have come to this city with a cast of raw readers masquerading under the misleading names of actors and actresses. Before a large audience at the Grand Tuesday night, the above company put on "The College Girl," in a thoroughly satisfying manner. Every member of the cast assumed the roles in a way that showed a good knowledge of the lines and the possibilities of the different parts. The play, from the pen of Justin Adams, is a pleasing comedy drama, bright and original, and with many strong climaxes in its serious phases.

Miss Alice Kennedy as Gail Hadleigh was superb. Her work was natural and clever and was greeted with warm applause. She acted with a vim, dash and vivacity, exactly suiting the role and was appealing and sympathetic in the tenderer parts. Billy Bullock was capital as football coach of Gordon university. He is one of the most refreshing comedians seen here in a long time, and made a great hit by clever work. His specialty turn between the acts, when he sang, "Every Little Bit, Added to What You've Got, Makes Just a Little Bit More," and his recitation telling of the honesty and heroism of a little wharf rat, were splendid features. Ernest Kast showed considerable histrionic ability as Dave Worthington, a college football man, who had commendable qualities, but who failed to make good in the eyes of the girl he loved, by reason of a somewhat nefarious piece of business, in which he was concerned, in a moment of weakness.

Frank Sibley as Bruce Horton, the villian of the play, deserves the greatest praise for masterly work. Unlike the orthodox villians carried by repertoire troupes, he gave a natural portrayal of the part, and adopted none of the time worn methods in vogue for the acting of this unpopular character. The other members of the cast were uniformly good, and "The College Girl" was a real treat from start to finish. The various specialties provided good entertainment. The scenic effects employed were realistic and appropriate.

On New Year's afternoon Lena Rivers held the boards, and last night "The Railroad King" was the play presented. Both attractions drew particularly large and well pleased crowds.

Installation of New Officers

There Will be Joint Event at Foresters' Hall Tomorrow Night

There will be a big time in the Foresters' Hall, Simcoe street, tomorrow (Friday) night, when there will be a joint installation of the officers of three courts—Court Peterborough, No. 29; Court Zion, of Otonabee, and Court Bridgenorth, of Smith township. Mr. R. Q. Dench, of Lakefield, will be the installing officer, and it is expected there will be a large attendance of local and visiting brethren.

Don't Forget The Carriers

Public Should Remember Men Who Deliver the Mail

The public of Peterborough should remember the mail carriers. Considering the fact that this is the first season that the system has been inaugurated, the postmen of the city deserve great credit for the dispatch with which they have carried out their duties. At this time of the year it is customary in other towns where the mail delivery system is in vogue, for those enjoying benefits of the service to express in some way their appreciation of the work of the postmen.

New Members For the "B. A. C."

Six Toronto Gentlemen Initiated—A Happy Re-union

The members of the "B.A.C." had somewhat of a family reunion on Tuesday night. Mr. M. J. Hutchinson, of Toronto, who was formerly prominently connected with the Peterborough section of the club, came down for the holiday, bringing with him six young Toronto gentlemen who desired to join the club.

The visitors were duly initiated and afterwards a little supper was held at the Dominion cafe. The Toronto boys were royally entertained during their stay here, and expressed themselves as having had a most enjoyable time.

The territory and influence of the "B.A.C." are steadily widening. The Toronto branch is now in good condition, having a membership of over a dozen, with such capable men as M. J. Hutchinson, R. N. Jolliffe, Dr Bagshaw, and S. S. Moore, to carry along the old traditions.

Deacons of Murray Street Church Gave Their Pastor and His Wife a New Year Call

The deacons of the Murray Street Baptist Church met yesterday morning at the residence of Dr. Scott, and from there went in a body to the home of Rev. J. R. and Mrs. Webb. They wished the pastor and his estimable wife a very happy new year. Deacon Benj. Matthews, the senior member of the deaconate, presented Mrs. Webb, on behalf of the callers, with a beautiful bouquet. The relations existing between Mr. Webb and the deacons are of the happiest character.

Adopted Father Gives Up Search

Kidnapped Child Prefers its Mother—Adoption Papers Faulty

Lindsay, Ont., Jan. 1. — The curtain has probably fallen on the Marion child abduction case. Mr. Marion succeeded in tracing the child to Ogdensburg, N.Y., and after securing the assistance of the local police, the child was brought to the police station, and had an interview with her adopted parent.

It is reported that the child declared that she did not wish to return to Lindsay with him. In view of the complete change in the attitude of the child, Mr. Marion decided that he would not have anything further to do with her.

It has since transpired that the adoption papers are faulty, and unfinished, not having been signed by the father.

Splendid Concert Was Held at Zion

Good Programme Rendered—Most Satisfactory Receipts

The annual concert and tea of Zion appointment on the Keene circuit, took place on New Year's night. For thirty years this event has been held on the same date and has always been characterized by a big attendance and a large measure of success. Tea was served by the ladies and, after ample justice had been done to the many good things provided an excellent programme was carried out. Several visitors from Peterborough contributed to the enjoyment of the occasion. The receipts amount to $55. Rev. W. D. Harrison, of Keene, proved to be a most acceptable chairman and the following programme was pleasingly rendered:—

Must Fly the Flag.

Winnipeg, Jan. 2.—Trouble is brewing in the Mennonite district of the province on account of the Government's compulsory policy of flying the Union Jack over all the public schoolhouses of the province, on pain of losing the grant. These people have not been flying the flag as regularly as the new regulation demands, and the Government has decided to enforce the law and withhold the grants. Monday a large number of representatives from all the different Mennonite districts waited on the Government, and urged that they amend the school act, so that the Mennonite people might be exempt from the necessity of flying the flag on their schools. The Government made them no definite promise that the proposed amendment would be introduced.

Haywood Deposed by Miners.

Denver, Col., Jan. 2.—William D. Haywood is no longer secretary and treasurer of the Western Federation of Miners. Ernest Mills has been elected to that position by the executive board and now fills that office. It is rumored that Haywood is out for good, and that he will not in the future be associated with the organization in which he has been recognized as the leading spirit, but this is denied by his successor. The change took place some time ago, but the announcement of it was held back.

Parrot Shouted "Burglars."

Winsted, Conn., Jan. 2.—A belated Christmas present, a parrot, received on Saturday by George Strait of 220 Willow street, from an unknown giver, caused a burglar scare in that home Tuesday night. When a boarder came in quietly late the bird shrieked "Burglars! Where's Nellie and Charlie?"

The household was aroused and everybody ran out looking for the burglars. Then the bird began to use profane language and the police were not called.

Chinese Sailors Mutinied.

New York, Jan. 2.—The steamer Queen Eleanor arrived yesterday from Havana with three of the Chinese crew in irons, charged with mutiny. While at Havana the Chinese members of the crew, numbering 20, were refused shore liberty. They showed their disappointment in such a manner that the three who were looked upon as ringleaders were put in irons. No further trouble was experienced.

Convent Burned.

Rimouski, Que., Jan. 2.—The Convent of the Sisters of Charity was completely destroyed by fire on Tuesday night. It was while the sisters and pupils were at supper that the fire started. Fortunately there was no loss of life. Loss is estimated at about $150,000, covered by about $100,000 of insurance.

Nine Dead.

Albuquerque, Nm., Jan. 2.—At least nine miners were killed and three fatally and two seriously injured in an explosion of gas and coal dust yesterday in the Bernal mine at Carthage, Nm.

Cecil Simpson, agent of the Canadian Express Company at Berlin, Ont. has been arrested on a charge of embezzlement.

THE MUNICIPAL CANDIDATES

ADDRESS TO THE ELECTORS

TO THE ELECTORS OF PETERBOROUGH:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—Having been duly nominated a candidate to contest the mayoralty of Peterborough for the year 1908, I accept this nomination and respectfully solicit your vote and influence to secure my return.

I had no aspirations for the position and no thought of entering the contest for the Mayor's Chair until a few days ago. I was waited upon by some of the most substantial of our citizens and presented with a requisition, signed by several hundred taxpayers, urging me to enter the field as a candidate. I could do no other than regard such a requisition, signed by a large and representative number of citizens, as a call to duty. Consequently, as I have, during my 45 years' residence in Peterborough, tried to do my duty faithfully to the place in which all my material interests are centered, I have decided to place myself in the hands of the electors.

If I am chosen as Mayor, I shall use all my ability to practically apply the motto of my life—"The interests of Peterborough first, last, and always." I am known to you all by virtue of a residence of 45 years in the city, and through a corresponding experience in business, which, through the kind co-operation of the public, I have been favored in making a success.

Though I have not sought public office any more than I am seeking the present offered position, I may say that, for four terms in succession, I was returned as alderman without soliciting or attending a nomination or soliciting a vote. I felt that both as an honour and a flattering mark of confidence, which I endeavoured to justify to the fullest of my ability. And if elected as Mayor I shall discharge the duties of the office to the full extent of my powers and with a single eye to the promotion of the best interests of the city.

This is the platform upon which I can and do appeal to your support; that is the platform upon which I will justify your choice, if you do me the honour to elect me. It is not practicable for me, even if it were in line with my inclination, to personally call upon the electors. I hold that the office should seek the man rather than the man the office. I have no personal interests to serve; my only object in accepting the nomination for Mayor is to serve the best interests of the city of Peterborough. With cordial wishes for a Happy New Year to all, I remain,

Your obedient servant,

H. RUSH

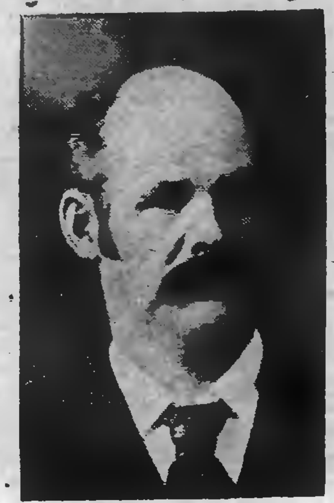
Thousands of People Visit Peterboro's New Fire Hall

Building Thronged With Crowds From Morning to Evening on Occasion of its Formal Opening—Speeches by Mayor and Aldermen and Chief Rutherford—Refreshments Served to Many Visitors—Dance in the Evening—Appropriate Decorations.

The splendid new fire hall of Peterborough was yesterday given a formal opening worthy in every way of the importance of the institution. The public, through the medium of the local press, have at different intervals for some time past been extended a hearty invitation to attend the opening, and responded in a most cordial manner, thousands of citizens taking the opportunity to visit the building during the time allotted for public inspection, from 10 in the morning till 6 in the evening.



CHIEF RUTHERFORD

The local firemen deserve the warmest congratulations on the success of the occasion. Arrangements of a most complete character were made by the different committees in charge, and everything passed off harmoniously.

Hundreds of citizens visited the hall during the morning and afternoon and they were heartily received by the brigade. A buffet had been established at the end of the stairs from which refreshments were served during the day. The visitors were provided with cake, wine and cigars while the children were made happy with gifts of candies and apples. There was apparently an inexhaustible supply of these dainties and they were needed, as there was a never slackening procession of children into the building. It was a great occasion for the small boy and he certainly made the most of the opportunity.

Many were the flattering remarks made on the modern equipment and the spick and span appearance of the hall, which reflected most creditably upon the men in charge at the building. The hall was elaborately decorated for the occasion, the work being done by Mr. Kingscote in a manner brought forth much praise for his work, not only from the firemen, but from the visitors. A large Canadian flag blew from the roof while the front of the building was in gala attire of flags and bunting, while several Christmas trees added to the effect. The exterior was made gay with many flags and the whole presented a most attractive appearance.

THE SPEECHES.

In the afternoon a short program of speeches was listened to by a large crowd. Chief Rutherford acted as chairman and in a few words welcomed the citizens of Peterborough to the new hall. The fire brigade were proud to have such a fine building in which to receive their friends. Some good strides had been made in the past he said, and hoped that the new council would see that the work went ahead.

Mayor R. F. McWilliams complimented the brigade upon its excellent record, saying that the city should be proud of the volunteers whose work was as good as that of any paid city brigade. He congratulated Ald. Johnston and the others connected with the erection of the building and also Mr. H. Carveth, the contractor, who built the hall.

Ald. Johnston, Elliott, Phelan, Morgan and others delivered short congratulatory addresses and were well received.

The ceremony was brought to a close with three hearty cheers for Chief Rutherford and the members of the brigade.

For the benefit of the visitors the Chief arranged a number of harness drills which were most interesting.

The brigade was photographed in the morning by Mr. R. M. Roy, all the equipment being taken out and manned. Afterwards another photograph was taken at the studio.

The firemen and some of their friends held a most enjoyable "At home" in the evening, the affair proving a fitting climax to the festivities of the day. Dancing was held in the large hall upstairs. Music was provided by Wilson's orchestra, their numbers being much appreciated. Mr. Archie Moore was the efficient director of ceremonies.

COMPANY HANDED LEMON HAVELOCK AUDIENCE

"Perils of a Great City" Experiences Perils of a Small Town—Management Gave Back Money to Patrons—Installation of Masonic Officers.

Special to the Review.

Havelock, Dec. 31. — The drama, "Perils of a Great City," which held the boards in the Opera House on Christmas night proved to be a failure to the most extreme point of that term. From the rising of the curtain it could easily be seen that the company were not used to the game, and by the second act they were being hooted at and jollied by the audience which was not used to the non-classical acting performed by those who took part in the play. Lancaster and Dineen, the managers of the Town Hall, soon noticed that the audience would not stand for the kind of acting done, so they ordered the players to stop proceedings. The management then gave out a Christmas box to every member of the audience in the form of money, being the admission fee. Messrs. Lancaster and Dineen have brought good companies to Havelock during their management, and are not to be blamed for this mistake. The result was that the company dissolved, but several members were left stranded in Havelock without any money. We do not advise companies intending to start on the road to come to Havelock for to have a rehearsal, as a Havelock audience will not stand for it, neither will the management.

Ice Makers Are Having Troubles

Lack of Frost Makes it Difficult to Keep Rinks in Shape

Not for years have those in charge of skating rinks in this part of the province had such difficulty in making ice. Many towns and villages are still without skating, it being almost impossible to get a sheet of ice on an open air rink. In several towns it has been found impossible to secure ice in a closed rink, Port Hope being among the places that are situated in this manner.

Peterborough people should congratulate themselves on the fine ice they have at Brock street rink. Jack Thirnbeck has worked hard to get a sheet of ice, and has succeeded well under the conditions. Several times he has worked at the rink all night in order to take advantage of any frost that wha going, and incidentally, it may be stated that frost has been a mighty scarce article this winter.

The prospects are not bright for rink managers who who are behind in their ice making. The probs call for showers by tomorrow night, and judging by the conduct of the weather man, any old thing can be expected, showers included.

No Word of the Steamer; Anxiety is Now Being Felt

Mount Royal Now Twenty-Nine Days Out From Antwerp.

Has Coal For Ten Days Yet—C. P. R. Liner Empress of Britain Has Seen Nothing of Her—Wireless Stations Instructed to Keep Good Look Out—Great Anxiety Is Felt—Hope Not Abandoned Yet.

Halifax, Jan. 3.—Hope that the C. P. R. liner Empress of Britain, which arrived from Liverpool last night with the British mails, would bring some news of the missing steamer Mount Royal, was dissipated when a wireless message was received from the Empress reporting that she had not sighted the Mount Royal, nor had she received any report in her wireless communication with other steamers of the overdue vessel. The Mount Royal is now 28 days out from Antwerp, and while hope for her safety has not been abandoned, many shipping men think that the chances of her ever turning up are very slim.

No effort is being spared to ascertain the whereabouts of the steamer. Instructions have been sent to all the wireless stations from here to Cape Race asking them to communicate with all passing liners, seeking news of the Mount Royal. In this way, it is hoped, if the vessel is still afloat, to get trace of her in the quickest possible way. There is no list on this side of the crew, but if the ship is posted as missing a list will be sent out from England, along with the names of the 300 passengers. Capt. Purcell is in command, and the chief engineer is Mr. Murray.

The Mount Royal, it is believed carried about 3,200 tons of coal, or enough under ordinary steaming to last for 34 or 35 days so if she is still afloat she has enough coal for another ten days at least, and for a longer period if steam has been reduced.

Working Up War Scare; Great Britain's Problems

Paris Journal Professes to See Danger With Japan.

Thinks Government Intends to Press For Diplomatic Explanation From the United States — Similar to Russo-Japanese Situation—Britain and Asiatic Question — Weakening of Loyalty In the East.

London, Jan. 3.—Great Britain is experiencing what might well be called an almost startling awakening to the grave problems caused by the immigration of Asiatics to her white colonies. The principal political topic for a week past, has been the situation in the Transvaal, where several thousand Indians and Chinese were given the alternative of submitting to what they consider a degrading system of registration or of being imprisoned and expelled.

The reports of further racial rioting at Vancouver come at a particular inopportune time on account of the negotiations now under way between Canada and Japan, and they are very annoying to the British Government. Officials have hoped that Japan's willingness substantially to restrict her emigration would soften the anti-Japanese prejudices in the Pacific coast. The latest outbreak in Canada may excite popular feeling in Japan and impede the efforts of the Japanese Government to conclude friendly arrangements with America and Canada.

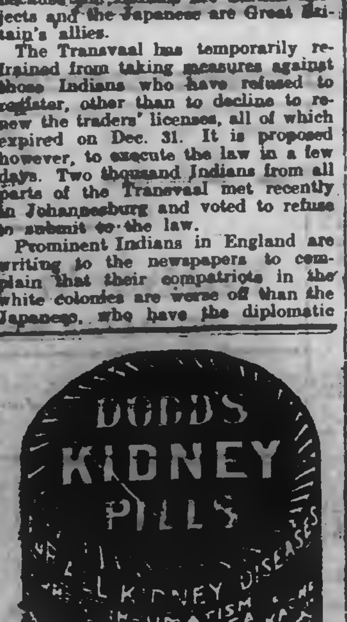
If anything was needed, however, to impress upon England the seriousness of the race question, it was another outbreak in Canada, following the Transvaal trouble. It is recognized that the question is more serious for Great Britain than for America, because the Indians are British subjects and the Japanese are Great Britain's allies.

The Transvaal has temporarily refrained from taking measures against those Indians who have refused to register, other than to decline to renew the traders' licenses, all of which expired on Dec. 31. It is proposed however, to execute the law in a few days. Two thousand Indians from all parts of the Transvaal met recently in Johannesburg and voted to refuse to submit to the law.

Prominent Indians in England are writing to the newspapers to complain that their compatriots in the white colonies are worse off than the Japanese, who have the diplomatic protection of their Governmnet. They predict a weakening of the loyalty of the Indian Empire.

Paris Paper Scents War.

Paris, Jan. 3.—Some of the Paris newspapers, notably The Matin, which have been giving considerable prominence to the American-Japanese "war scare," have taken the cabled reports of Japan's refusal to accept the American conditions in the matter of immigration together with the decision of the Navy Department to keep the torpedo boat flotilla and the battleships together for the remainder of the cruise to the Pacific, and made of them a subject for fresh alarm. The Matin regards the coincidence of these two facts as highly suggestive and expresses the opinion that Japan intends to press for a diplomatic explanation before the fleet reaches the Pacific. This paper asserts the situation is almost analogous to that which existed before the Russo-Japanese war.



French Take Citadel.

Paris, Jan. 3.—Official advices received here from Admiral Philibert, the French naval commander in Moroccan waters, reports that French troops captured Wednesday the citadel of the Mediounas tribe with the loss of one man killed and three wounded. The transport Nive, with reinforcements on board, went ashore during a storm at a point five miles south of Casablanca. The troops and horses on board were safely disembarked. The cruiser Desaix went to the relief of the transport.

Second Officer Blamed.

Halifax, N. S., Jan. 3.—All the responsibility for the loss of the C. P. R. liner Mount Temple is thrown on the second officer, Griffith Owen Lewis, by the finding of the Court of Inquiry. He was grossly culpable, and recommends the proper authorities to deal with him.

The same court investigated the loss of the steamer Kildona, and the captain, officers and crew of that ship are all exonerated.

Killed Child, Wife and Self.

Kingston, N. Y., Jan. 3.—Irving Baker, his wife and four-year-old son who live at Leibhardt, 20 miles south of here, were found dead in bed with their throats cut late Wednesday night.

It is believed that Baker killed his wife and child with a butcher knife and then committed suicide.

Charges Against Fruit-Growers.

Port Colborne, Jan. 3.—Four fruit-growers of Ridgeway — Melvin Burdette, Burt Forman, Jack Halavin and Ellsworth Trope—appear before Magistrate Quinn here to-day upon a charge of illegally packing apples or falsifying the marks. It is understood that the charge was instituted by Montreal men.

Soo Elections.

Sault Ste. Marie, Jan. 3.—Municipal elections: For councillors, T. Bishop, J. Collins, T. E. Simpson, G. W. Goodwin, J. Dawson, W. O'Brien, nominated and elected by acclamation. W. H. Munro and W. J. Thompson candidates for mayor.

In an explosion in a Pittsburg steel mill yesterday two men were killed

GERMAN MAJOR SHOT.

Dead Man's Wife Is Being Connected With the Crime.

Allenstein, East Prussia, Jan. 3.—The confession made by Capt. Von Coeben, that he killed Major Von Schoenbeck, a brother officer, on Christmas day, is a rather dramatic recital of murder.

According to it, Von Coeben dined with Major Von Schoenbeck and his wife in their house on Christmas night. Considerable wine was drunk and the party had a jolly time. After saying good-night the captain pretended to leave the house. He slammed the front door, but did not go out. He then stole upstairs to the major's room, where he put on a mask. The major entered shortly and hearing a suspicious rustling in the darkness, called "Who is there?" Von Coeben then sprang up and faced the major, saying, "I want to speak with you." Von Schoenbeck did not reply, but drew his revolver and endeavored to shoot. The cartridge missed fire. Von Coeben then drew his own revolver and shot the major down. He then left the house noiselessly by means of a key which had previously been given him by Mrs. Von Schoenbeck.

The confession is in no sense complete, for it is evident that Von Coeben is endeavoring to shield the wife of the major. Evidence gathered by the commissary of police, however, completes the story. Von Coeben, who was in uniform at the time of the shooting, seemingly returned to his barracks and changed his uniform for civilian clothes. He was observed by a sentry one hour later re-entering Major Von Schoenbeck's house, presumably to arrange some matters with the wife of the murdered man. The commissary has become possessed of certain correspondence exchanged between Von Coeben and Mrs. Schoenbeck before and after the crime, and from these letters he deducts that there was a complete understanding between them.

Von Coeben broke down when the commissary showed him this correspondence and confessed.

Motorist's Close Call.

London, Jan. 3.—After breaking the world's record for fifty miles, and attempting to lower the 100 miles record in a spectacular race against time in a six-cylinder car on the Brooklands track yesterday afternoon, H. C. Cyon, the well-known racer, escaped death in the most remarkable motor accident known. While the car was speeding at the rate of 84 miles an hour the tire on the rear wheel loosened and wrapped itself about the rim, giving the car the jumping power of a kangaroo, and in an instant the machine driven forward by the powerful engine was gyrating in the air and making a more dizzy plunge at each contact with the track, while the driver clung to his seat. Presently the machine gave three violent zigzag lunges, cleared the high parapet guarding the track, and breaking through the iron fence and snapping a telegraph pole, landed in a mass of scrap iron on the public motor road outside. Mr. Cyon was picked up unconscious, but was later found to be not seriously injured.

Comstock a Thaw Witness.

New York, Jan. 3.—Announcement is made that Anthony Comstock will be the most important new witness at the second trial of Harry Thaw. He will be called by Martin W. Littleton, counsel for the defence, and will be questioned about Thaw's mental condition just prior to the shooting of Stanford White in the Madison Square Roof Garden.

Letters written to Mr. Comstock by Thaw will be introduced. It will be recalled that the first person with whom Thaw communicated after the tragedy was Mr. Comstock.

Bucket Dropped on Him.

Cobalt, Jan. 3.—Wednesday night George Kelly, employed as machine helper, met with instant death in the Trethewey mine. An inquest was opened yesterday by Coroner Codd, but adjourned until after 8 o'clock, when two more witnesses will be available. It appears Kelly was working in the bottom of the shaft at a depth of 90 feet when a bucket fell on him from the 50-foot level. The Trethewey Co. has retained Mr. George Ross, barrister, to look after its interests.

New York, Jan. 3.—There will be no teamsters to move the goods of the striking tenants on the East Side if dispossess notices are served on them, according to an announcement yesterday from the strikers' headquarters.

The anti-high rent league now claims to have organized the occupants of over 1,000 houses and to have secured reductions so far for 250 tenants.

Boise, Idaho, Jan. 3.—George A. Pettibone has been in the hospital since adjournment of court Tuesday, and his condition is very serious. He says, however, that he will be able to be in court to-day, which, he predicts, will be the last day of his trial.

A Petrolea Woman Swindled.

London, Jan. 3.—(C. A. P.)—Harriet Clibbon of Petrolea, Ont., claims that she was swindled out of $100 at the Queenstown exchange office last August. She was given a $100 confederate note in exchange for English money. The police are investigating the matter.

FIREWORKS EXPLODED

Two Women Killed in Factory at Rochester.

Another Female Employe Seriously Burned — Three Others Escaped—One Was Blown Through a Window — Force of Explosion Blew Walls Out—Roof Fell In—Cause of Disaster Not Known.

Rochester, N. Y., Jan. 3.—In an explosion that wrecked a building of the Rochester Fireworks Co. yesterday, one young woman, Sadie Ernst, 20 years of age, was instantly killed; a second, Mrs. Lillian O'Connor, 28 years of age, recently married, was so badly injured that she died at the homeopathic hospital a short time after being taken there, and a third, May Callighan, was seriously burned, but is expected to recover. Six young women were working in the wrecked building, a much smaller number than are often employed. One of them that escaped was blown through a window, but was little injured.

The explosion occurred in the finishing room of a building of the company's plant on East Main street. The building was a low one-storey structure, and the force of the explosion blew out one side of it and caused the roof to fall in.

The cause of the explosion is yet unknown.

WARM SESSION LOOKED FOR.

Manitoba Government May Be Attacked In Regard to Wood Case.

Winnipeg, Jan. 3.—The twelfth annual Legislature of Manitoba was opened yesterday, with 14 Opposition and 29 Government members.

The feature of the session promises to be an attack on the Government based upon the now famous Wood case. Wood was the president of a notorious bucket shop, with headquarters in Winnipeg and branches all over the west. Following numerous complaints of Wood's refusal to pay claims, he was repeatedly arrested, and finally left the province, and left a sum of money, estimated at from ten to twenty thousand dollars, with the Government to pay claims. It is for this alleged compromise and the mystery surrounding the deal that the Opposition is making a fight.

To Preserve the Fish.

Gananoque, Jan. 3.—Petitions are being circulated in Gananoque and now contain the signatures of one-half the voters on the list, asking the Government to discontinue issuing licenses for net fishing in the River St. Lawrence between Kingston and Brockville, its tributaries, bays and creeks, also asking that a launch be put on with sufficient men to enforce the law.

The merchants of Gananoque are dependent largely on the tourist trade, there being over 3,000 of a summer population on the islands and in the town. The waters are being largely depleted of fish by net fishing. Canadians derive no benefit from the fish caught, as they are exported to the United States. Some suggest an export duty on fish.

Count Boni In a Fight.

Paris, Jan. 3.—There was a violent quarrel in the Rue de Chaillet yesterday between Count Boni de Castellane and Prince Helie de Sagan. The count is reported to have denounced the prince in unmeasured terms.

Count Boni, according to some accounts of the difficulty, spat in the prince's face. According to other reports Count Boni struck his cousin in the face, slightly cutting him. The men finally were separated by Count Jean de Castellane, a brother of Count Boni, who interposed himself between the combatants. When Count Jean got in between the two men they were both down, rolling in the gutter. The prince has entered an action for assault in the courts.

To Extradite Caldwell.

London, Jan. 3.—The papers relating to the charge of perjury against Robert C. Caldwell, the witness in the Druce case, have been forwarded to Washington through the Foreign Office. They include the depositions upon which the warrant was granted, and the warrant itself. It is also proposed to send a copy of the report of the exhumation of the Druce coffin made by Prof. Pepper.

COLLISION AT TILLSONBURG.

Engineer John Walker Was Instantly Killed; Brakeman McCray Injured.

St. Thomas, Jan. 3.—A wreck which resulted in the instant death of G.T.R. Engineer John A. Walker of St. Thomas and probably fatal injury to Brakeman J. McCray of Windsor occurred at Tillsonburg at 3.30 yesterday morning.

Wabash Engines No. 1125 and 1392 were forced to abandon the half of Conductor Lawton's westbound freight train on the siding at Tillsonburg. They proceeded to Corinth with the first half of the train and were on their way back to Tillsonburg for the remainder.

Just west of Tillsonburg the Wabash engines collided with Grand Trunk train No. 93, drawn by engine 595, in charge of Engineer J. J. Walker of St. Thomas.

The fact that the engines were running backwards prevented Engineer Walker from seeing their approach. When the crash came and his engine was thrown from the rail and overturned he was pinned down between the cab and the tender.

Brakeman McCray had his left leg amputated and right leg fractured. He had been on the line only a short time.

FOR STRIFE NOT UNITY.

John E. Redmond Issues Explanation of Proceedings.

Dublin, Jan. 3.—John E. Redmond, chairman of the Irish Parliamentary party, yesterday issued a statement in explanation of the proceedings at the conference recently held for the purpose of bringing about the reconciliation of William O'Brien, Nationalist member of Parliament for Cork, and the Irish party.

A reconciliation has not yet been effected, as Mr. O'Brien demanded the immediate summoning of a national convention on a new basis of representation, to which Mr. Redmond declined to accede, and in his present statement the Irish leader contends that the acceptance of Mr. O'Brien's demands by the directory would be tantamount to censuring their own chairman and abdicating their authority. He declares further that the campaign for an immediate convention is not one for unity but for strife.

An Unknown Suicide.

Montreal, Jan. 3.—A suicide by shooting occurred early yesterday on Nazareth street, when an unknown man deliberately pulled a revolver from his hip pocket and blew his brains out on the sidewalk. The victims is about 30 years of age, five feet three inches in height and well built. He has dark hair and a small moustache, and the letters "Z.O." are tattooed on his right arm. He had on a grew tweed suit and a red and write sweater. There was no money found in his pockets, and there was nothing in his clothing by which he could be identified. The police have scoured the neighborhood, but no person seems to know anything about the man. It is thought that he was a foreigner, who was probably despondent and out of work. An inquest will be opened this morning.

A Touching Reunion.

Boston, Jan. 3.—Michael Hurley of Ottawa was reunited with his sister, Mrs. Ellen Griffin of Boston yesterday, after 68 years of separation. Mrs. Griffin believed her brother drowned over sixty years ago when logging in Canada, and could not believe him alive when he presented his claims.

When investigation proved the truth she nearly fainted, and the scene was most affecting. Mr. Hurley has been searching for his sister for a long time. He was once a wood-chopper, but now is a prosperous farmer near Ottawa, and his sister is also in good circumstances.

Scurvy and Famine.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 3.—A despatch received here from Tiflis, says that scurvy has broken out among the native population in the province of Erivan, which, like other sections of the Caucasus, suffered severely in 1907 from a poor harvest and resultant famine.

The crop outlook in European Russia has grown worse lately on account of the long spell of extremely cold weather, with almost no snow. The winter crops, unprotected, have been lost.

Bridegroom Shot Dead.

Dillon, Mont., Jan. 3.—F. A. Lawrence of Butte, Mont., was to have married the 16-year-old daughter of Fred Baker. A few minutes before the hour for the wedding, Baker and Lawrence had some trivial difference whereupon Lawrence said the wedding would not take place at the home of the bride, but at the home of her cousin. Lawrence was instantly shot dead by Baker.

May Prohibit Cigarettes.

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 3.—In the constitutional convention a cigarette discussion that in the beginning gave the appearance of having been entered into jokingly, passed quickly into the serious stage and resulted in the adoption of a proposal prohibiting the manufacture and sale of cigarettes in this state.

Chatham, Jan. 3.—A writ has been issued on behalf of William James Campbell against William H. Irwin, who lives on Park avenue, Chatham, claiming $10,000 damages for alienation of the complainant's wife's affections. It is understood that Irwin is now in Cobalt.

SWEET REVENGE

By
Captain F. A. MITCHEL,
Author of "Chattanooga," "Chickamauga," Etc.

Copyright, 1907, by Harper & Brothers.

What puzzling questions to come from such untutored lips! I was casting about for some explanatory reply when a sudden interruption relieved my embarrassment. A negro boy dashed into the room, through it and out of another door. He was followed by the white boy I had noticed on the day of my arrival, who was screaming:

"Doggone yo', Zac; I'll break every bone in yo' consarned black body!"

The words were scarcely out when he shot through the door by which the fugitive had vanished. Little Ethel looked after him with frightened eyes, evidently dreading a catastrophe.

"Who's that?" I asked.

"Buck."

"Your brother?"

"Yes."

"Don't be alarmed. That's only a boy's passion. It won't amount to anything."

"He says such dreadful words."

"That's habit. He doesn't mean anything by it. But it's a habit that should be broken."

I soon got her quieted, and she prattled about her dolls, her playhouses, some pet rabbits and a nook in the garden where she kept them. How singular that war, which absorbed all about her, should have no place in her mind. Amid all the turmoil, the rumbling of cannon, the tramp of men and horses, bushwhacking, skirmishing, battles, this innocent little maid was strangely out of place. Her mother came in presently and took her away, fearing that she would annoy me. I was loath to part with her. No healing balm had been applied to my wound so soothing, so grateful, as was her prattle to my fevered brain and chilled heart.

They had scarcely left me when Buck stalked into the room, his boyish face as free from passion as if he had never been ruffled. He had made several attempts to visit me, notwithstanding that he had been forbidden the room. Seeing the coast clear, he slipped in unannounced and began a fire of questions.

"Does it hurt?"

"My arm? Yes, it hurts some."

"I'm glad yo' plunked him."

"Why do you sympathize with me instead of the other? You have only seen me a few times."

This was too much for him to explain. I could see that he had conceived an admiration for me, but he could not tell why.

"What did he try to kill yo' fo'?" he asked.

"Well, perhaps it was because my existence annoyed him."

"What did yo' want to kill him fo'?"

"I found it inconvenient to have him shooting at me."

"I'd like to shoot a man. I shot a rabbit once, but that's purty small game. Pop, he won't let me have a gun yet. He says I may have one when I'm 16."

"Buck!" called a voice from the hall. The boy dropped behind a sofa. An old negro woman entered and looked around.

"Yo', Buck! Yo' hidin somewhar! Yo' maw'll spank yo' sho' ef she cotch yo' hyar troublin the gemmlen. Come out o' dar! I knows whar yo' air!"

I was about to interfere, but a natural distaste at giving away a fellow creature caused me to desist.

"I thought I hearn dat chile talkin." The woman stood still a moment, but, hearing no sound, lumbered out of the room. The boy popped up from his hiding place as soon as she had gone.

"I like yo'," were the first words he uttered. "Yo' wouldn't tell on a feller, would yo'?"

"How could I when you are glad I 'plunked' my enemy? Is that your mammy?"

"Yes; that's Lib."

"Nursed you from a baby?"

"Yes, an she reckons she's goin to nurse me all my life."

"Is your name Buckingham?"

"Buckingham! No; I ain't got any such doggone name as that! My name's Buckeye."

"How did you happen to get that name?"

"'Cause I was borned thar."

"Where?"

"In Buckeye."

"In Ohio?"

"Reckon 'tis the same."

I contemplated Buck for awhile without hearing any of the questions he continued to fire at me. Why not intrust him with the message? There was every reason why I should not do so except that he was devoted to me and I had no one else to send. While I was deliberating Lib came in, surprised him, dragged him out of the room and shut the door.

I heard footsteps on the veranda, then in the hall, then ascending the staircase, as of people carrying a burden. The door had evidently been shut to prevent my seeing what was being done. For awhile there was a hurrying to and fro, and I knew that something unusual had occurred. After all had been quieted Buck, who had meanwhile escaped from his dusky captor, slipped back to forbidden ground.

It occurred to me that I could draw from Buck the solution of the recent commotion, but what passed under the roof of my friends was no concern of mine, and I scorned to get it from a mere boy. But I wished to test Buck's power of reticence. Ten to one he had been instructed not to talk to me about the mysterious occurrence.

"Yo', Buck! Yo' hidin somewhar!" said the old negro woman.

"Buck," I asked, "who came to the house awhile ago?"

"Wasn't anybody came to the house awhile ago."

"A sick man, wasn't it?"

"No, he wasn't sick."

"I thought you said no one came?"

"No one did."

"Of course no one came; he was carried."

"If yo' know so much about it, Mr. Brandystone, what's the use o' askin me?"

"You admit that whoever he was he wasn't sick?"

"Of course he wasn't sick. How could he be sick if he wasn't anybody?"

There was a sudden rustling in the hall, and Helen swept into the room, her eyes flashing fire.

"Buck, leave the room!" she commanded in no uncertain tone. Buck gave a glance at his sister, which told him he had better obey, and walked out reluctantly.

"You have been listening," I said curtly.

To be continued.

TO HAVE BETTER MAIL SERVICE

RUNNING

COLEY A WINNER.

St. Catharines, Ont., Jan. 1. — The Martin Electric Company's annual ten mile road race, won by Tom Coley, of the Irish-Canadians, Toronto, this afternoon was most interesting, despite the fact that Coley failed to beat the time, 53.39, made by George Adams, Hamilton, over the same course last year. The roads to-day were slightly muddy at points, and this may have accounted for it. Coley, however, covered the course in 54.00 1-5, compared to 54.04 made by him last year, when he finished second. Almost 10,000 citizens and visitors witnessed the event.

Of the 32 entered to-day 25 started. They finished in the following order: 1, Tom Coley; 2, Tom Ellis; 3, Chas. F. Petch; 4, Hilton Green; I.C.A.C.; 5, F. W. Young, R.C.B.C., Toronto; 6, Isaac T. Furry, Hamilton; 7, Malcolm J. Allen, Niagara Falls, N.Y.; 8, R. H. Potten, Ferguson Avenue Baptist B.B.C., Hamilton; 9, W. H. Hartley, M.A.A.C., Merriton; 10, Wm. Allan, Park B.B.C., St. Catharines; 11, Jos. Connor, Lyceum Club, St. Catharines; 12, Theo. Young, Oriole L.C., St. Catharines; 13, Robert Sanger, Merriton; 14, Nelson Boylan, West end Y.M.C.A., Toronto; 15, A. C. Martin, Hartford; 16, Harry Whitehorn, Toronto.

A copy of the Edmonton Bulletin just received contains an account of a hockey match between the Edmonton and Strathcona teams played on Christmas afternoon. Edmonton won, 8-7, after an exciting game, in which Fred Whitcroft was the star. He is playing centre for the Edmonton team and receives a good deal of space in the report of the game. Bill Crowley played cover-point for Edmonton, and is making a name for himself in western hockey.

UPPER SEVEN AGAIN WINNERS.

The upstairs departments of the A. W. Cressman store again demonstrated their ability to trim the main floor counter hoppers, when they defeated them last night between six and seven o'clock, in the Brock street rink, by the score of 8 to 3. After their defeat of last week the main floor seven have been constantly practicing in the basement and back yard, and had improved so wonderfully that they were quite confident of turning the tables, but the carpet clerks had kept quiet the fact that they had been practicing on the roof, and so sprang a surprise on them. Keen as goal for the losers made some very pretty circus-stunts in trying to stop the puck, which greatly pleased the lady clerks who were out to see him perform. Waring also showed great agility in trying to keep his feet, but owing to his pleasant experiences of New Year's evening, was often seen sitting on the ice, nursing his stick. For the winners Darling played a great game and today Norm is being called a darling by all his lady supporters. Tisdall also caught their eye with his fancy stick handling, whilst Titterson in goal for the winners is the hero of the hour. Owing to several of the clerks being out of the city, the game was played with six men a side, which lined up as follows:

3rd Floor		Main Floor.
	Goal
Titterson		Keen
	Point.
Scott		Patterson
	Cover
Darling		C. Little
	Centre.
R. Little		Stewart
	Right Wing
Tisdale		Harrison
	Left Wing
Jones		Waring

Twenty New Mail Boxes Coming Here

Number Will be Increased to Forty—Parcel Boxes for the First Time

The number of mail boxes in Peterborough is shortly to be increased from twenty to forty. The new ones which are expected at an early date, will be placed at convenient places on the streets, and will prove a great convenience. Six of the twenty new boxes will be for the reception of parcels or "parcel boxes," as they are generally called. These will be something new in Peterborough, there being none here at the present time.

The announcement that the new boxes were coming to Peterborough was received at the local post office some time ago, and they are expected here in the near future. The city has extended so much during the past two or three years that the increase in the number of boxes has been made necessary.

Robert Reid of Ottawa Enters Heavy Action Against London Free Press

Special to the Review.

Ottawa, Jan 3.—Mr. Robert Reid, commissioner of the transcontinental railway, has entered an action against the London Free Press, claiming $20,000 damages for alleged libel.

The case arises out of an inquiry made by the Public Accounts committee on the purchase of a large quantity of envelopes by the transcontinental railway commission from the Munro commission, of Toronto, of which Mr. John O'Gorman was a part and which turned the order over to the Barber Ellis Co., of Toronto, with, it was claimed, a considerable profit. The London Free Press commented on buying through the commission instead of direct from the Barber, Ellis Co., and pointed out that Mr. O'Gorman and a brother of Commissioner Reid were defendants in the London election conspiracy case.

No Roller Rink in Lindsay Now

Manager Sheridan Removes all the Skates to Midland

Manager Sheridan was busy today packing up the roller skates for removal to Midland, where he has another rink. Mr. George Coombs started making ice on the floor last night, and today had a thin coating all over the rink. It will be a day or two, however, before skaters will be allowed on.

It will be news to many that Mr. Sheridan, who has the Lindsay rink under lease, has decided to sub-let to Capt. Jas. Parkin for the ice-skating season, for the reason that, the Midland one will occupy his full time. Capt. Parkin, who took possession last night, is experienced in the management of ice rinks. The "old reliable" George Coombs will, of course, be retained as manager — Lindsay Post.

Forty Men Started at Noon To Break Stone for the City

Cry of "no Work" Should no Longer be Heard—Many Englishmen Fell Into Line and Marched Out Charlotte Street to the Field of Labor.

Carrying hammers over their shoulders about forty men, mostly Englishmen, fell into line at the office of the charity agent, Mr. Finch Miller to-day at 1 o'clock, and marched across the market square and out Charlotte street, to "work," from which they had been so long separated. On the Burnham property just west of Roswell avenue, are piled huge blocks of stone, and the men be kept busy for the next few weeks breaking the big boulders. Every man in the gang seemed to be in fine spirits, and jubilant over the prospects of having something to do, even though it was only breaking stone. Several of those who joined the procession to-day have been out of employment for many weeks, and with families depending upon them they were forced to take some way of gaining a livelihood, no matter how menial it was.

The board of works of the city council purchased 82 cords of stone a few days ago, and it will be broken up to be used on that part of Charlotte street, from Park street to the Monaghan Road. The men are to be paid at so much per cord. Mr. Harry Evans, street commissioner, is superintending the work, which is a guarantee that it will be carried out efficiently.

"Instructed by Authorities To Raise the Assessment"

Citizen Credits This Statement to Mr. Thos. McKee Who Was One of the Assessors.

A well known citizen caused somewhat of a sensation to-day by the statement that Mr. Thos. McKee, who was one of the assessors, had informed him when he started to assess in 1907 that he had been "instructed by the authorities to raise the assessment to every cent property was worth." Mr. McKee, the citizen referred to states, also said that he had been told that the high assessment would result in the rate being lowered to 15 mills next year. Mr. McKee is also said to have stated that if the rate were not reduced to fifteen mills he would never assess again.

The citizen in question is prepared to prove his statements if called upon to do so. He does not know who Mr. McKee meant by the "authorities," but says that was the term used by the assessor.

Lindsay Woman Killed in Wreck; Several Persons Badly Injured

Special to the Review.

Montreal, Jan. 3.—A broken rail caused east bound C.P.R. express No. 3, to leave the track between Chapleau and Cartier, early this morning. A baggage colonist and day car turned over.

One person, Mrs. B. Stean, of Lindsay, was killed and a number of others were injured, as follows:—

Alex. Ross, Dudurn, Saskatoon, Sask., lost right hand; W. Reynolds, head cut; Duncan Livingston, Durham, Ont., shoulder broken; Louis Hartle, Deloraine, Man., head cut; W. L. Perkin, Port Arthur, head cut; Peter McKean Black, cut on head; David Lindsay, London, Ont., cut on head; Edward McLeish, of Paynton, Sask., head and hand cut; Daniel McDougal, of Almonte, cut on head; Robert Matthews, of Moosejaw, back injured; A. Gilchrist, of Glenanna, scalp wound.

In addition two C.P.R. employees, James Hale and James Stanley, of Chapleau, were injured.

Fewer Marriages, Births And Deaths Than in 1906

The natural increase in the population of Peterborough during 1907 has been 106, as compared with 122 in 1906.

Vital statistics for the year were given out at the city hall to-day and are as follows, with a comparison with 1906:—

	1907	1906
Marriages	164	193
Births	337	370
Deaths	231	248

It will be seen that there has been a decrease in the number of marriages, births and deaths. There were almost thirty fewer marriages in 1907 than 1906, which will no doubt lead to a revival of that famous topic 'Why young men do not marry."

Ald Johnston Has Creditable Record in Municipal Affairs

The citizens of Peterborough who visited the fire hall on New Year's day were justly proud of the splendid building and equipment. Perhaps few of them realized, however, how much credit was due Ald. W. J. Johnston for the first class fire hall and fire alarm system which Peterborough now possesses. It was Ald Johnston who agitated strongly for the bylaw to raise $25,000 to provide the city with up-to-date fire equipment, and who worked hard to carry the measure. As chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee during the past year, he has rendered the city good service, and the splendid fire alarm system and the excellent arrangements at the fire hall are largely due to his efforts. Of course, credit must be given the other members of the committee, but the bulk of the work falls on the chairman.

Ald. Johnston, when spoken to by a Review representative, expressed himself as strongly in favor of the system of day labor on city work, and will maintain this stand. Despite some difficulties that have arisen, he still believes that day labor is the best.

Ald Johnston has lived in Peterborough all his life, and is deeply interested in the city's welfare. He was forty-three years of age on New Year's day, and has had good training in municipal affairs. He was five years in the Ashburnham Council before the village was annexed to Peterborough and has been four years in the city council, being chairman of an important committee during 1907.

Ald Johnston's friends are working hard for his re-election on Monday and expect to place him high in the list.

Boys Break Into House and Carry Off Some Articles

A few nights ago the house of Mr. John Fowler, at the corner of Simcoe and Aylmer streets, was broken into, and a number of articles were stolen. The house is not at present occupied, Mr. Fowler having moved out when he took possession of the restaurant, formerly owned by Mr. M. Spence. At the time of moving there were some things that were left in the place, including household utensils and two pairs of ladies' slippers. It is believed that the theft was committed by some boys who gained entrance to the house by breaking in the front door. The matter has been reported to the police, who have suspicions as to who the guilty lads are, having learned that the stolen goods were sold to certain junk dealers in the city.

Runaway on George Street

Last night on George street north an exciting runaway took place. A young man and lady were driving when the horse suddenly became frightened and the young man lost control of the animal. One of the runners of the cutter became caught in the groove at the side of the street car track, and nearly tipped over, throwing the young lady out on to other road. She was not hurt, however, being only slightly shaken up. The horse was finally stopped by the driver after about three blocks had been traversed, and he turned around and came back for his lady friend.

Holland, of Lakefield, charged with selling liquor without a license, was heard before County Police Magistrate Edmison yesterday afternoon, and judgment was reserved until Wednesday morning, the 8th inst. N Gordon appeared for the defence, and High County Constable Cochrane represented the Crown. The other charge against Holland, that of having indecently assaulted Mrs. Weston, will also be heard on Wednesday. The date of the alleged commitment of both of the above offences was last Christmas Day.

NORWOOD PEOPLE ENTER PROTEST

At Removal of Model School From That Village

WILL SUPPORT MR. HARRY RUSH

Some Strong Reasons Presented —The Muddle on Our Streets

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—I see that considerable interest is being taken in the mayoralty fight and I desire to say a word or two.

I have lived in Peterborough for nearly seventeen years, and have been employed in two different factories. I live on King street and am trying to pay for my little home which I bought three years ago.

Now, without any apparent reason, my assessment was raised $400 this fall, and I had made no improvement to the place, while the road in front of my door is in a disgraceful condition. I think, with all the money placed at the disposal of the Board of Works—some $17,000—better results should be shown. A walk around our streets shows the short sighted policy of some of our representatives, of whom Mr. McWilliams is chief. I think he wanted the assessment run up to show what a "big fellow" he was; how much the city increased in material wealth when he was mayor, and generally to display great results. Well, sir, he has counted on too much and made too many people restless. I have talked with a number of my fellow employees in the shop, and almost to a man they are going to support Mr. Rush, who, we believe, is a man who is free from frills, vain ambition, and a desire to make too big fellow out of himself.

Yours,
MECHANIC.

Annual Concert of Sunday School

Held at St. Andrew's Last Night —Several Presentations

A most enjoyable time was spent in St. Andrew's Sunday School Hall last night when the parents and children of the school met together for their annual New Year's festivities. This year all the departments of the school combined, making it an exceedingly brilliant affair. The hall was prettily decorated and the hundreds of happy children shed joy in every heart.

Tea was served by the teachers from 6 and 7.30, and the programme was commenced at eight o'clock. The pastor occupied the chair, and after a brief address the large children's choir sang very lustily "Oh, Come All Ye Faithful." During the evening they sang two other choruses.

A very pretty number was the instrumental duet by Edith Kerr and Lilian Hill. These two little ladies, who are the pupils of Miss Ethel Tully made their appearance on the platform, making a graceful bow, and proceeded to the piano. Their work was of a very high order, and reflected credit on their teacher, as well as themselves. The chorus, "Beautiful Snow," sung by the girls of Miss Langford's class, was splendid, as was also the musical dialogue by the girls of Miss Allen's class. A recitation by Nelson Conover was well received. The Gipsy chorus was very realistic. All the girls, under the leadership of Miss Bella King, were attired as Gipsies, and presented a most interesting sight.

The vocal solo of Miss Bessie Read was much appreciated, and the piano work of Miss Lila Tully was thoroughly enjoyed by all. Miss Maude Titterson, whose work is always well received in St. Andrew's, rendered effectively, "Willie and Annie's Prayer," and being urged to respond to an encore, recited "Christmas Gifts." Both pieces were appropriate and were much admired. "Courtship Under Difficulties" was the fascinating title of a dialogue, in which Messrs. H. McCullough and T. Donaldson exhibited much experienced ability. Misses A. Thornton and G. Mowat assisted the young men through their trials. The dialogue was the cause of a good deal of merriment. "Uncle Nathan's Indian" proved a catch to the girls and boys, who are always eager to see the "show." Robbie Langford took the part of Uncle Nathan in excellent fashion, while Norman Brand was Indian, and Ernie Langford and Vernon Henry visitors to the camp.

The prettiest thing of the evening's entertainment was the hoop drill. Ten girls daintily dressed and with hoops decorated, went through various exercises with piano accompaniment. Miss Bella King, who has had the training of these young ladies, has every reason to feel proud of their excellent work, which was justly encored.

SEVERAL GIFTS MADE.

Before the singing of the Chant National by the children's choir presentations were made to Mr. William Stevens, superintendent of the Sunday school, Mr. F C. Freeland and Mrs. Chas. S. McClelland.

Mr. F. E. Kerr, secretary of the Sunday school, read the address on behalf of the teachers and officers, complimenting Mr. Stevens on his energy and fidelity, and Miss Jennie Richardson presented a pair of gauntlets. Mr. Stevens replied in very appropriate terms.

Master R Langford read the address to Mr. Freeland on behalf of the children's choir, acknowledging his kindness and help to them, and Master Willie Common presented a beautiful baton to their leader. Mr. Freeland acknowledged his appreciation and thanked the children.

Master Alex. Fortye on behalf of the children's choir read a complimentary address to Mrs. C. S. McClelland, thanking her for her sympathy and kindly help in the practices, and Miss May Henry presented a handsome jardinier. Mrs. McClelland expressed her appreciation. The interesting event was brought to a close by singing the Doxology and the Benediction.

Bull Dog Attacks Lindsay Youth

Animal Fastened His Fangs in Ten Year Old Boy's Lip

Lindsay, Jan. 2—Percy, the ten year old son of Mr. Jerry Sheehan, had a shocking experience last evening, as a result of which he lies in bed under medical care, and may have to remain there for several weeks.

With a couple of companions Percy was passing down Ridout St. about 8.30 o'clock, and when opposite Dr. Blanchard's residence they heard his bulldog in the yard. Being afraid of him, the lads began to run, but the animal managed to pin Percy by the coat tail, and he was thrown to the ground. Immediately the brute began to worry the lad, who struggled to his feet, only to be again thrown, the dog having leaped for the face and fastened his fangs in the boy's lip. Fortunately the second fall broke the beast's hold, and the lad, who seemed to have retained some presence of mind, lay quiet, striving to protect his face from the ravening beast. He was dreadfully bitten, and if help had not been summoned by his piercing shrieks before the beast fastened upon his throat, a fatal tragedy might have been the result.

The lad was rescued by Mr. Frank Forbert, and Mr. McLean, neighbors, who found it a difficult task to drive the dog away from his victim. The boy was driven home by Mrs. Forbert.

Chief Vincent is taking steps to have the dog destroyed. An action for damages may also follow.

ADVERTISEMENTS.

Goldwin Smith Condemns Local Option

WRITING to the Toronto Globe, Professor Goldwin Smith thus expresses his views on Local Option

"I do not think it possible to enforce total abstinence. The taste for fermented liquors is common to all races of mankind, and it antedates the beginning of history. This taste the extreme prohibitionist hopes to eradicate by a single stroke of prohibitive legislation. Unless he can eradicate the taste, experience shows he cannot put down the habit. In the attempt radically and suddenly to change the habits of mankind by law, I have no faith whatever, and I appeal to multiplied and decisive experience as a warrant for my unbelief."

Sad Story Comes From Hastings Co.

Young Lad Loses Both Eyes as Result of Shooting Accident

Kingston, Dec. 30.—A pitiful case was brought to the Hotel Dieu yesterday when a young man, who about a month ago, had both eyes shot out by the accidental discharge of his gun, was taken in.

The unfortunate young fellow was trying to unload a charge that had balked and striking the ram rod too hard, it exploded the contents right in his face. Since then he has been in the Belleville Hospital, but was sent to Kingston with the hope that a clever specialist could do something for his sight. The lad lives in the country back of Belleville, and apparently, is both friendless and penniless. The case is very sad, as no hope can be given of restoring the sight.

Record Surpasses all Previous Ones

Sun Life Assurance Co. Wrote Nearly $25,000,000 in New Business

Mr. W. H. Hill, manager for Central Ontario for the Sun Life Assurance Company, to-day received the following telegram from Mr. F. G. Cope, of Montreal, superintendent of agencies:

"Applications for year were $24,600,000—increase of $1,750,000. Best wishes for new year."

The foregoing is the largest amount of business ever written by the Sun Company in one year and the greatest ever received by any Canadian life insurance company in twelve months —a record which abundantly speaks for itself.

Presented With Travelling Bag

Knox Church Appreciates Services of Mr. Duncan Campbell

Mr. Duncan Campbell, who has been prominently connected with the choir of Knox church during the past year, was presented with a handsome leather travelling bag at last night's choir practice. Mr. Campbell is leaving in a few days to accept a position as traveller with a Toronto house and will be greatly missed in Peterborough, especially at Knox church, where he has been a hard worker. The presentation was made by Mr. Robert Mulligan, who referred to Mr. Campbell's valuable services and the regret felt at his departure. Rev. H. J. Keith also spoke in a similar strain. Mr. Campbell had given his services freely without monetary recompense and had been of great assistance to the choir. His services were also deeply appreciated by the congregation who would feel his departure very much.

Mr. Campbell made a brief and appropriate reply.

The bag was inscribed with Mr. Campbell's initials.

Many Persons Are Giving Up Their Post Office Box

Higher Rental Went Into Effect First of the Year—Alterations Will be Made.

The local post office staff held a reception yesterday and extended a warm welcome to some 200 post office box keys that were handed in. Commencing on January 1st, the rent of the boxes advanced from $2 to $4 per year for those living in the area covered by the delivery system. Farmers and others living outside certain prescribed limits can retain their boxes at the former rental, viz., $2 per year.

The majority of people in the city who had boxes at the post office, are giving them up and yesterday about 200 keys were handed in. Those who are giving up their boxes will now receive their mail at their houses or places of business. A large number of boxes have yet to be given up and the keys are coming in steadily.

The post office officials state that if all the city residents would give up their boxes the free delivery system would be greatly facilitated.

Extensive alterations will be made at the post office when the boxes are given up. It is proposed to tear down the section of boxes at the west side and put up a partition further out in order that more room may be secured in the interior. This is badly needed at the present time.

Heavy Fine for Hitting Woman With a Snowball

Do not throw snowballs, for it is a rather expensive sport. William Spencely was fined $9.55 in police court for hitting Maggie Lowery with one of the icy missiles on Tuesday night when she was returning from her work at the Auburn Woollen Mills. He pleaded not guilty, but it was not long before His Worship was convinced of the contrary. "I was crossing the bridge coming from the mill," said Miss Lowery in the witness box, "when I met Spencely. 'Are you going to the show to-night?' he asked, but I never answered him. He had a snowball in his hand, and when he got a little past me, he turned and threw it at me, striking me on the head."

Mr. Sam Brown, a foreman in the Auburn mills was called. He was walking behind the complainant. He saw Mr. Spencely turn round and fire something, but he could not say what it was.

Mr. Spencely went into the box and stated that he was walking along the bridge, and it being the usual custom for the employees to snowball each other he picked up some snow. When he met Miss Lowry he jocularly inquired if she was going to the show. Her answer was a growl and he passed on. He tossed the snowball over his shoulder and unfortunately it must have struck the complainant.

"You had no business speaking to her at all," said the magistrate. "She did not want to have anything to do with you, and I hope you will treat a woman's dignity with more respect in the future," added His Worship. He imposed the above fine which was paid forthwith.

Proposition to Allow City League Men to Play Two O. H. A. Games

At a meeting of the City Hockey League held in the Examiner office last night a motion was made by W. Metheral of the Strathconas and seconded by Mr. Quinn, Lakefield, to the effect that city league players be allowed to play two games with the intermediate seven without forfeiting their city league standing. This proposed amendment to the constitution of the league seems a wise and timely one, and if adopted will provide much more material from which the Peterborough Strathconas may draft their players. The matter will be considered at a meeting to be held in the Examiner office to-morrow night. A full attendance of representatives from the different clubs in the league is looked for, as the proposition is one of great importance. Those who attended last night's meeting were President Clarke, Second Vice-President Harry Morgan, Secretary B. T. Huston, Messrs. Metheral, Strathconas; Quinn, Lakefield; and Rose, High Lifes.

Who's Who and What's What About Municipal Candidates

Something About the Men Before the Ratepayers at Present Time

GOOD FIELD OF CANDIDATES

Last Year's Contest Recalled—The Vote in 1907

On Monday next the ratepayers of Peterborough will be called upon to select a Mayor, twelve Aldermen, one Water Commissioner, and five members of the Board of Education for 1908. To choose these from they have two candidates for Mayor, seventeen for Aldermen, two for the Water Commission, and six for the Board of Education. Incidentally, it may be stated that there were seventeen aldermanic candidates last year. The number of mayoralty candidates was the same, but in 1906 there were three aspirants for the Water Commission, and there was no election for the Board of Education, the members being elected by acclamation.

The ratepayers should be able to pick twelve good aldermen out of the seventeen candidates. It is not often that a city has such good material from which to pick a governing body.

Ald. Morrow, who seeks re-election after one year in the council, is a business man who needs no introduction to the public of Peterborough. He has done good work in the council during the past year.

Ald. Bradburn, has also had one year's experience at the council board. He has "made good" in the opinion of many ratepayers, and it looks as if he would get a second term.

Ald. Duncan has done good service as chairman of the Board of Works. He has had a rather hard row to hoe during the past season, many important matters having to be handled. He has worked hard and given the city freely of his time.

Ald. Elliott has had several years of municipal experience, and has made a wide awake alderman.

Ald. Phelan is also an old hand in the municipal arena, and apparently is going to be re-elected. The ratepayers will be making no mistake if such is done.

Ald. MacIntyre has the credit of getting through the building permit and milk inspection bylaws during the year. He worked hard for them, and events have shown that the legislation he was behind has been greatly to the city's benefit.

Ald. Tovey has made a successful chairman of the finance committee, and is recognized as a careful, far-seeing public official.

Ald. Johnson has done good work as chairman of the fire, water and light committee, and will no doubt poll a large vote.

Ald. Leary, who seeks re-election, is a well known business man, and is qualified for the aldermanic board by several years of municipal experience.

Ald. Morgan has looked after the city's interests well, and has made it a point to see that Ashburnham got its share of what was going.

The new men who are candidates for aldermen are Robt. Neill, Geo. A. Gillespie, Wm. Buller, John C. Anderson, J. W. Turner, jr., James Bogue and James Clancy. Mr. Neill is a successful business man, with a large number of friends, and it is predicted that he can write "Ald." before his name next Monday night.

George Gillespie is another popular business man, and will make a splendid alderman if elected. He has been prominently connected with the Peterborough cheese board, and is deeply interested in Peterborough's welfare. He is a member of the firm of White and Gillespie, and is looked upon as a man of progressive ideas and sound judgment. He will poll a big vote in Ashburnham, where he resides, and should get generous support in the other wards.

J. J. Turner, jr., is progressive, energetic, and has the city's interests at heart. It would make a good alderman and should stand well in the list.

Wm. Buller is the manager of the Peterborough Fuel and Cartage Co. and is a man whose opinion carries weight. He has numerous friends, who are working hard for his election.

James Bogue is a well known contractor, and will poll a large vote.

James Clancy has many friends, and will make it interesting for the other candidates.

John C. Anderson lives in East City, and is well qualified for the duties of alderman. He is an accountant at the Peter Hamilton Co., and has progressive ideas.

LAST YEAR'S VOTING.

With the municipal elections only a few days away, it is interesting to look at the vote last year. A big vote was polled at that time, the mayoralty fight being one of the most interesting in years. The voting last year was as follows:

FOR MAYOR.

R. F. McWilliams	1384
Robert Hicks	1163
Majority for McWilliams	221

FOR ALDERMEN.

The aldermanic vote was as follows;

W. G. Morrow	1216
George E. Elliott	1164
George J. Tovey	1122
W. J. Johnston	1119
Henry Phelan	1037
A. A. McIntyre	1012
George Ball	997
W. H. Bradburn	971
R. H. Leary	925
George H. Duncan	907
Arthur Stevenson	889
Thomas J. Wilson	828
H. Morgan	766
John Smith	718
John Sawers	651
William Hartley	604
Allan McCarrthy	339

The first twelve in the above list were elected. Harry Morgan became an alderman when Ald. Geo. Ball retired to become sanitary inspector.

FOR WATER COMMISSIONER.

The vote for the Water Commission was as follows;

W. H. Moore	943
E. F. Mason	736
V. Eastwood	717

DANGER BOYS ARE RUNNING

Go as Near as Possible to Open Water When Skating

A gentleman informed the Review this morning that some young fellows who skated on the river near Goose Island ran very great danger. This is especially true of the younger boys who crawl or cautiously skate out to the edge of the ice as near the water as possible. The bigger boys take great delight in getting the smaller ones to do this daring but foolhardy stunt.

Canada's Forests a World Factor

Timber has been and will be, as long as man requires houses to shelter him, implements which he may use for agriculture or industries, one of the great needs of the world. In countries where the forests have long been used, such as a great part of Europe, and they are no longer capable of supplying the needs of the inhabitants, efforts have been made to take stock of the world's timber supply to ascertain from what source the deficiency is to be supplied. As a European writer has said, "It is profoundly disquieting to ascertain that 215 millions of inhabitants of Europe constituting the nations where commerce and industry have attained the greatest power do not find enough of wood for manufacturing purposes in the forests of the territories which they occupy."

No country in Asia, except Russia, is able to furnish more than its own requirements. Neither from Africa nor South America can an adequate supply be obtained. Australia can furnish little. The countries which have a great excess of production are only seven in number; five in Europe: Austria-Hungary, Norway, Sweden, Finland and Russia; and two in North America: The United States and Canada. The increase of population and the development of industry in Austria-Hungary, in Russia and in the United States will soon reduce them to the level of non-exporting countries. Sweden, Finland and Canada are the only countries that have a certain future as timber producers.

In the Dominion of Canada the forest area has been estimated as high as 800 million acres, but large extents have been burnt over and carelessly destroyed so that it is doubtful if half that area is really covered by forest. The Canadian forests are, however, producing a great deal more timber by yearly growth than is yet cut from them. If this could be kept up perpetually there would always be a sufficient supply; but fires are destroying considerable areas almost every year, and, as the forests of Europe and the United States become depleted, the quantities required for trade will increase every year. To meet this demand will require that the forests be thoroughly protected from fire, and that every effort be made to assist a new growth to follow that which is being cut away.

WEDDING BELLS

BROWN—MORRIS

A pretty wedding was celebrated in the Methodist church, Owen Sound, on Dec. 31st, when Miss Annie K. Morris, daughter of the late W. O. Morris, of Whitby, was united in marriage to Mr. Thomas Brown, of Springville. The bride is a graduate of Grace Hospital staff, Toronto. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. T. Morris, brother of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Brown have taken up their residence in Peterborough.

WOOLLARD—WILSON

At St. John's church on Tuesday afternoon, Rev. W. J. Creighton, of Lakefield, united in marriage Miss Bertha Florence Wilson, daughter of Mr. Andrew Wilson, of this city, and Mr. R. J. Woolard, druggist, of Bobcaygeon.

The happy couple were unattended.

The bride was married in a travelling suit of brown cloth with hat to match.

Mr. and Mrs. Woolard will reside in Bobcaygeon.

Should Place Screen Over Dam

In Order to Locate the Body of Ed. Beaman of Manvers

To locate the body of Edward Beaman, of Manvers, who is supposed to have fallen or been thrown off the C.P.R. bridge on December 12, and whose body is now believed to be in Little Lake, it has been suggested that a wire screen be placed over the dam at the locks just below the lake. Owing to the water being frozen, and it is not likely that the body has risen. If a screen was placed at the dam, it would be easy to locate the remains.

When discovered an examination could be made by the authorities to ascertain if Mr. Beaman had met with foul play.

Major Coates Phillips, an officer distinguished in the South African war, tried to murder his divorced wife yesterday, shot her mother and solicitor, and then committed suicide.

Local Option Ruins Young Men

Mr. J. R. Brown, a leading Owen Sound grocer, says: "Local Option has created more drinking among young men than there ever was under a good license system." Mr. Samuel Lloyd, a large wholesaler of farm produce, says: "Local Option has been detrimental to the interests of Owen Sound, commercially and morally." Mayor Kennedy says: "Property in Owen Sound has been lessened in value because of Local Option." Mark your ballot against the by-law and do your town more justice.

These Men KNOW The Facts

The Daily Review

FRIDAY, JAN. 3, 1908.

THE MAYORALTY

Interest in the Mayoralty campaign is growing keener, and as election day draws near the friends and supporters of Mr. Harry Rush have every reason to believe that he will be the next Mayor of Peterborough.

All classes of citizens are rallying to his support, and the demand for a change in the chief magistracy is widespread. The citizens do not view with favor the unbusinesslike administration of Mr. McWilliams, who has promised much but performed little. The residents of Peterborough desire a man for Mayor who has had a successful business experience, one who is a tax payer and understands the needs and requirements of property owners. Mr. Rush is a ratepayer well qualified for the Mayoralty. He has been a good, useful alderman, and has the requisite municipal experience to render the city splendid service. He possesses sound judgment and common sense, and does not desire to play to the gallery, or parade his dignity before the public. Mr. Rush has no other interests to serve than those of the people. He is not a self-selected candidate, but is in the field in response to a requisition signed by hundreds of ratepayers, representative of all classes, residents who desire economical, progressive civic government.

The present occupant of the civic chair, had he been alive to the financial situation, might have in June last, sold about $80,000 school debentures, bearing 4 1-2 per cent. interest, at par. An offer was received from a reputable Toronto firm to take over the bonds at par, but was not accepted. The result is that debentures now amounting to $110,000, cannot be disposed of at par, and in the meantime the corporation has to pay the bank six per cent. interest, or about $500 a month. Is this good financing? Why were not the debentures sold when they could be, at par. The result is that the money of the tax payer is being taken to enrich the bank with interest. When is this wasteful, short sighted and unbusinesslike method of doing public business to cease?

The citizens should elect a man who is well fitted for municipal and business experience and insight to look after the welfare and material interests of the city, a gentleman who possesses every qualification to direct the affairs of the corporation in a prudent, thrifty and sound manner. Such a gentleman is Mr. Rush, who the ratepayers believe, is a much better man to be at the head of the municipal government than Mr. McWilliams.

The present mayor has been tried and found wanting in many respects and all who desire to see Peterborough forge ahead as a live industrial, intelligent and active community, should not repeat their mistake of last year and continue in office a Mayor who has been given a fair test and found wanting. The remedy is to elect Mr. Rush as chief magistrate for 1908.

PROPOSED WATER TAX

In another column of today's Review appears a letter from Mr. G. W. Hatton on the bylaw, which will be voted upon by the people on Monday next, to tax all property in the city fronted by water mains.

The contribution is misleading in several respects, and does not state correctly the position of affairs. It says that, this being a money or bonus bylaw, should be voted upon by property holders only, and not by the general public. In the first place the proposed measure is not a money bylaw in the common acceptance of the term. It does not create any civic debt or provide for the issue of debentures by the city. It only varies the means by which water rates are to be levied and collected. It is fit and proper that tenants as well as landlords should vote on the measure, since there is now a stipulation in almost every lease that the tenant shall pay water rates. It is not a case of mortgaging the land of property owners. Is there any good reason why property fronted by mains should not bear a just proportion of the expense in maintaining and operating the waterworks system? In Peterborough the commissioners are paying both the sinking and interest fund on the purchase price of the works, while in certain cities, where the waterworks system has been purchased, the commissioners only pay the interest on the indebtedness, and the whole city contributes to the sinking fund. Now, should only water commissioners in Peterborough be asked to provide for sinking fund and interest? Certainly not. They have done so for six years and should not be expected to continue to do so any longer. In Ottawa, Brockville and other cities all property fronted by mains is taxed, and why should not the same condition of affairs prevail here? In Peterborough when the works were taken over six years ago, the number of users was 1,050, today there are 2,236 consumers.

As to the proposed frontage tax of 4 1-2 cents per lineal foot, by means of this if the by-law carries, the rate of discount will be increased from 25 per cent to 33 1-3 per cent., and on the present income of $30,000 a year there will be a reduction to the citizens of about $3,300. A consumer whose annual water bill is now $12.00, now gets 25 per cent. discount, making his net payment $9.00. If the discount is increased to 33 1-3 per cent, he will pay only $8 annually in future.

It is proposed to tax all property fronted by mains 4 1-2 cents per lineal foot. With the discount at 33 1-3 per cent. this will amount to only three cents, but in no case, so far as the commissioners can ascertain, will property now contributing for water have to pay a greater amount by reason of the frontage tax. In no instance will the frontage tax be equal or greater than the water tax paid by any user.

The commissioners are not aware of a single case in the city where if a water rate is paid at all it will not for the same property be in excess of the special rate, and then, as pointed out, there will only be the water rate less its discount to be paid.

There need therefore be no fear on that score. All property fronted by mains is made more valuable by the presence of them, and by all means should pay a portion of the cost and keeping up of the splendid waterworks system which Peterborough possesses. Why should consumer be expected to shoulder the whole burden? The management of of the system by the commissioners has been wise, careful and progressive and all fair-minded citizens believe that any scheme proposed by them will be in the interest of the city generally. By carrying the bylaw on Monday next, the rate of discount will be increased, which means that all present consumers will pay less for their water supply, while those not contributing to the operation of the system will bear a fair, reasonable share for the great convenience and asset which they enjoy and which enhances the marketable figure of their property. By all means the bylaw should be carried by a large majority.

PEN POINTS

Don't forget the "happy new year."

Your vote and influence, please.

Vote for Rush. He is the people's candidate.

The new mayor of Toronto certainly put it Oliver his opponents.

Well 1908 has got fairly started. She has behaved very well so far.

Remember, election day falls on Monday, and cast your ballot early.

No trouble for anybody in Canada to make money now. The new Canadian mint is running.

Are you reading the new story, "Sweet Revenge," in the Review. Do not miss it.

Seventeen men are in the aldermanic race—and five of them are going to see their "finish" on Monday.

"Sweet Revenge" — no, that is not what a successful candidate said; merely the name of the new serial in the Review.

The mayoralty vote will likely be a record breaker so far as numbers are concerned. The contest is unusually keen and exciting.

It is regrettable that Ald. Stevenson and Ald. Wilson have decided to retire. They were both good wide-awake representatives.

The power by-law carried in Toronto, and it would have been a bad day for Toronto and Western Ontario had it not received such cordial and general endorsation.

Mr. R. F. McWilliams is issuing an abundance of campaign literature, making all sorts of promises as mayor for the coming year, which he will not have a chance to fulfill, for he will not be there.

The citizens desire a business man for mayor, and such a man is Mr. Harry Rush. He is not seeking the office; it is an instance of the office seeking the man.

Among the aldermen who have done earnest, faithful work during the past year and who should be honored by re-election is Mr. Harry Morgan. His course in the Council has been fair and just, and his friends should leave no stone unturned to secure his return.

See that you record your vote in favor of the by-law to place a tax on all property fronted by water mains. The by-law will not result in raising the amount paid by any consumer and will give an increase of the discount from 25 to 33 1-3 per cent.

The opening of the fire hall was a decided success and exceptionally well conducted. Chief Rutherford and his men certainly did all in their power to make the numerous callers feel at home, and the members of the department are to be congratulated on having such admirable, comfortable and splendidly equipped quarters. The new station is a credit to Peterborough.

The sympathy of all lovers and admirers of the roarin' game will go out to the Peterborough Curling Club in the destruction by fire of their property. It is indeed an unfortunate visitation just at the commencement of the season, and the loss is a personal one to many who had valuable stanes ruined which cannot easily be replaced.

Peterborough certainly needs a general, well managed scavenging system, and with a view to ascertaining the opinion of the citizens, a plebiscite will be taken on the question, "Are you in favor of the establishment of a system of garbage collection?" The intelligent and progressive ratepayer will certainly answer the question in the affirmative, leaving the matter to the City Council of 1908 to work out the details.

The Laurier Government had a narrow squeak in Centre York. The election of their candidate by a small majority will give them little consolation when they reflect that it needed every ounce of effort they could muster to get even that small majority. Hon. Mr. Graham, their new Cabinet organizer, fairly lived in the riding for the last week of the campaign. The tide of public opinion is running strongly against the Laurier Government. It would be idle to deny this.

Here is a fair and representative expression of Western opinion regarding Mr. Borden, the Conservative leader. It is taken from the Calgary Herald, the best newspaper between Winnipeg and Vancouver:

His position as leader of the opposition in the Dominion is very strong, and while there may be some doubts as to his coming into power at the next election, some of the best political observers believe that the only fatal obstacle in his path is the presence of Sir Wilfrid Laurier as leader of the Liberal party. Outside of Sir Wilfrid, no man in Canada occupies a more commanding position in the public mind than R. L. Borden, and with the silver-tongued orator removed from the arena it will be well for the Liberals to look to their laurels. This is a fact patent to the great body of independent electors who care little or nothing for either of the political parties, but who want above all things to see a strong, clean, statesmanlike government guiding the important destinies of this great Dominion.

Splendid Rally Held Last Night

Mr. Rush's Committee Rooms Thronged With Friends and Workers

A large and enthusiastic meeting of the friends and supporters of Mr. Harry Rush the popular mayoralty candidate, was held in the committee rooms 161 1-2 Simcoe street, last evening.

Mr. Robert Fair was chairman and stirring addresses were delivered by Mr. Rush and others.

Good progress was reported and the gathering was in a happy frame of mind at the encouraging reports brought in from all sections of the city.

The candidature of Mr. Rush is being well received by all classes of citizens and the prospects are exceptionally bright for his election as chief magistrate of Peterborough on Monday next.

In Morocco yesterday the citadel of the Mediounas was captured by the French.

Union Meeting Canadian Clubs

May be Held at Ottawa to Consider Proposition Regarding Plains of Abraham

Ottawa, Jan. 3rd.—An endeavor to gather representatives of all Canadian Clubs at a meeting in Ottawa on January 17 is being made by the local Canadian Club. The object is the consideration of Earl Grey's proposition to convert the Plains of Abraham at Quebec into a national park in which a monument of monuments could be erected to commemorate the history of French and English disputes and reconciliations in Canada.

The general meeting of the clubs has been called with the idea that ways and means of raising funds to supplement expected grants from the Dominion and Provincial Governments to carry out the project may be devised.

Rt. Hon. St John Broderick, Viscount Midleton, at present the guest of His Excellency Earl Grey, has chosen as his subject for his address to the Canadian Club Saturday, "British rule in India." Viscount Midleton after acting as secretary of state for war in the Imperial cabinet from 1900 to 1903 served as secretary of state for India until 1905.

GOOD HOME RECIPE

Says Any One Can Prepare It, and Knows Nothing Better.

Rheumatism is easier to avoid than to cure, states a well known authority. Every man, woman and child here should dress as warmly as possible, and, above all else, keep the feet dry. Avoid colds and exposure, and don't become constipated.

Rheumatism is strictly a blood disease, caused by inactive kidneys, which through cold or exposure or improper diet, fail in their duty of filtering the rheumatic poisons from the blood. This poisonous waste matter, uric acid, oxalate of lime, urea, etc., if not strained from the blood promptly, decomposes and settles about the joints and muscles, causing rheumatic disease.

In damp or chilly cold weather the kidneys are made to do double work. The pores of the skin all over the body do not assist in eliminating the poisons of the body, throwing this work to the kidneys, which become clogged and feeble, thus causing not only rheumatism, but all forms of kidney troubles, backache, weak bladder and urinary troubles, and sometimes terrible blood disorders.

At the first sign of any of these troubles the following simple prescription should be mixed and taken in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime: Fluid Extract Dandelion one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces.

Any good pharmacy can supply these ingredients and all the mixing required is to shake well in a bottle.

THE WAY OF THE WEST.

"The Way of the West" is a dramatic story of intense heart interest and was given an enthusiastic reception at the Grand last night. The cast of the Partello Stock Company was seen to splendid advantage in the presentation of the piece and the scenic production of the play was most elaborate. Miss Alice Kennedy had a most congenial role as whole souled daughter of the plains. Jack Westerman as Kid Connors did splendid work, and he is undoubtedly the best repertoire comedian ever seen in the city. The supporting cast gave most satisfactory portrayals of their various roles.

To-night the original Belasco version of "Under Two Flags," in which the famous Blanche Bates scored one of her greatest triumphs, will be presented in its entirety both in the matter of text and scenic investure.

Ice Making Operation at Havelock

Havelock, Dec. 30.—Operations will soon be commenced at storing ice at Swift & Co.'s ice house at Havelock. They begin to fill the ice house in the winter, as soon as the ice reaches the thickness of 12 inches. The ice has been got from Norwood during the past few years, but before that it was shipped from Peterboro, which was a little too distant.

This work of loading the ice into the cars to ship is a very interesting operation. If there is any snow on the ice it has to be scraped off before commencing operations. The ice is cut into cakes about 12 inches square, but as the ice thickens they become larger, but they are the easiest handled at about 12 inches. The best ice is that made from clear water without any snow, but sometimes snow falls, mixes with water and freezes, making an inferior quality of ice. The cutting is done by first cutting the ice to a depth of about six inches, by means of a very sharp bladed ice plough. When partly divided in this way, it can easily be broken into cakes by striking forcibly with a sharp iron bar. The ice is then hauled up a skid by horses from the water, onto large sleighs, which carry it to the cars. Each sleigh will carry about two dozen cakes. At the car the sleigh is drawn up by a bridge level with the cars so that the cakes will run easily into the car, where they are placed two layers deep.

When the ice reaches Havelock the cars are stopped at a platform level with the floor of the car. Five cakes at a time are run onto the platform, and hauled by horses up an inclined skid to a height from which the cakes will easily run around the galleries to the back of the ice house, where they are run on each of the rooms on a skid and placed side by side, in which position they freeze together. When the ice in the rooms reaches the height of one gallery, the ice is run in from a higher gallery until they are filled to the top, when the ice is covered with marsh hay and the doorways with sawdust, and the ice is packed so it will keep until needed in the summer.

It requires 20 or 30 men to load the ice at Norwood, and they must be hardy, too, accustomed to stand the coldest weather, for they have to stand on the ice, where the wind gets a good sweep at them, and where the temperature is not unlike to that of the Arctic regions, for four or five hours at a time, holding in their hands an iron bar or tongs or some like instrument, which quickly takes all the heat from the hands.

It also requires four or five teams of horses to load the ice on the sleighs and convey it to the cars.

At Havelock during the storing of ice about 30 or 35 men are generally employed, according to whether the ice runs easy or not on the skids, and also according to the number of cars loaded, as it is necessary to unload the cars as quickly as possible, or it will freeze to the bottom of the car or the cakes will freeze together. It also takes two or three teams to pull the ice up the skid so that it will run around to the back. It requires an engine to spot cars, which has to be done about every 15 or 20 minutes, which is the length of time it takes to unload a car of ice. It generally takes about 325 cars of ice to fill the ice house, but the number is increasing each year, according as the amount used increases. This increase is caused by the shipping companies sending out more dressed beef and not so much live stock.

The storing of the ice in the winter is a very interesting sight. Watching the gradual rise of the cakes up the slide and then their downward dash around the galleries reminds one of the tobogganist's slow walk on the slide, and then his daring downward flight.

The ice at Norwood at present is about 9 inches thick and it is quite likely that operations at storing will commence within a week or two if the weather continues cold.

Another Case of Letter Delayed

A citizen informed the Review yesterday that a letter sent from Toronto on Dec. 23rd, to Mrs. P. Heffernan, Peterborough, had been taken by a mail carrier to 189 Stewart-st., and left there, while the lady to whom the epistle was addressed lives at 513 Donegal street. The letter was brought there on Wednesday by a messenger from 189 Stewart street. The citizen thinks that when mail is addressed to Peterborough and no street or house number given, the letter should be left at general delivery unless the post office authorities are certain that they have in their possession the correct street address of the party for whom the missive is intended.

Milkmen Must Get Their Licenses

Chief Roszel stated to-day that all the milk venders of the city who have not yet paid their licenses must call at once and do so or they will find themselves in police court. There are seven who were up in December and they have not yet paid the fee of one dollar. A large number should have paid yesterday, but did not do so.

If summonsed before the magistrate they will probably have the option of a fine or ten days on the hill. Pay the dollar and save two.

THE MUNICIPAL CANDIDATES

ADDRESS TO THE ELECTORS

TO THE ELECTORS OF PETERBOROUGH:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—Having been duly nominated a candidate to contest the mayoralty of Peterborough for the year 1908, I accept this nomination and respectfully solicit your vote and influence to secure my return.

I had no aspirations for the position and no thought of entering the contest for the Mayor's Chair until a few days ago. I was waited upon by some of the most substantial of our citizens and presented with a requisition, signed by several hundred taxpayers, urging me to enter the field as a candidate. I could do no other than regard such a requisition, signed by a large and representative number of citizens, as a call to duty. Consequently, as I have, during my 45 years' residence in Peterborough, tried to do my duty faithfully to the place in which all my material interests are centered, I have decided to place myself in the hands of the electors.

If I am chosen as Mayor, I shall use all my ability to practically apply the motto of my life—"The interests of Peterborough first, last, and always." I am known to you all by virtue of a residence of 45 years in the city, and through a corresponding experience in business, which, through the kind co-operation of the public, I have been favored in making a success.

Though I have not sought public office any more than I am seeking the present offered position, I may say that, for four terms in succession, I was returned as alderman without soliciting or attending a nomination or soliciting a vote. I felt that both as an honour and a flattering mark of confidence, which I endeavoured to justify to the fullest of my ability. And if elected as Mayor I shall discharge the duties of the office to the full extent of my powers and with a single eye to the promotion of the best interests of the city.

This is the platform upon which I can and do appeal to your support; that is the platform upon which I will justify your choice, if you do me the honour to elect me. It is not practicable for me, even if it were in line with my inclination, to personally call upon the electors. I hold that the office should seek the man rather than the man the office. I have no personal interests to serve; my only object in accepting the nomination for Mayor is to serve the best interests of the city of Peterborough. With cordial wishes for a Happy New Year to all, I remain,

Your obedient servant,

H. RUSH

BOARD OF EDUCATION

Says the Scheme is Not Legal

Mr. Hatton Objects to Proposed Water Tax on Property Fronted by Mains

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—The proposed bylaw to be submitted to the people on Monday next is against all precedent. The principle at stake is, Shall vested rights be interfered with? Do not overlook this principle — once insert this wedge and property is no longer one's own. The law of the land is that bonuses and money bylaws shall be voted upon by property owners only.

The Peterborough Water Commissioners, now a body corporate, have succeeded in passing a sleepy legislative body an act whereby the approval of the majority only of the electors entitled to vote at municipal elections is required.

If the majority of the property owners, the only persons directly interested, see fit to mortgage their lands forever to 4 1-2 cents per running foot, then I say the minority must put up with it no matter to what extent they may consider it unfair. But by what right people who have no stake in a city should say to those who have, "We will mortgage your lands forever to 4 1-2 cents per lineal foot, 45 dollars per thousand per annum!" is inconceivable to a fair minded person, whether the owner of property or otherwise. How the act ever got past the watchful eye of Premier Whitney in its present state must remain a puzzle. It is unfair, unheard of and unconstitutional, and being a private act is subject to the laws of the land and ultra vires of the powers of the Legislative Assembly. I doubt if any city in the province would ask for, let alone obtain, any such powers. True citizens would be ashamed to ask for it.

The vital point is not whether vacant property or the property of non-users of water shall be taxed, but who shall have the right to vote on principle; therefore, record your vote against the bylaw and uphold the rights of town property owners.

VOTE FOR FEET.

To go into the question as to whether or not the property of non-users of water should be taxed, and to what extent, is altogether another question, one entirely separate from the main one. Do not confuse them.

Yours truly,

G. W. HATTON

Peterborough, Jan. 3rd, 1908.

I submit the following letters, which speak for themselves:

Office of Town Clerk Joseph McCartney, Galt, Ontario, January 2nd, 1908.

G. W. Hatton, Esq., Barrister, Peterborough, Ont.;

Dear Sir,—Your letter of Dec. 20th last to the Chairman of the Water Commissioners of the Town of Galt was handed to me for reply. We make no direct charge against vacant land or non-users of water. What we do is to charge up to the town a sum for hydrant rental. This amounts to $5500 per annum for about 135 fire hydrants. In this way every ratepayer pays something whether he uses water or not.

Yours truly,

JOSEPH McCARTNEY,

Secretary Galt Water Commission.

Office of R. Croft Hulme, City Surveyor, Manager Water Works Department, Belleville, Ontario, Dec. 31st, 1907;

G. W. Hatton, Esq., Barrister, Peterborough, Ont.;

Dear Sir,—Your favor of the 30th instant, addressed to the Water Commissioners has been handed to me for reply.

I may say that our waterworks plant is virtually owned by the consumers only; the city guarantees the debentures only. Consumers are charged a rate sufficient to cover the cost of maintenance, interest and sinking fund. Vacant property and non users are not taxed at all by the water department.

Yours truly,

R. CROFT HULME.

Manager.

Dr. Browett Appreciates Peterborough

We like Peterboro', its people and its prospects. We appreciate the patronage received during 1907, and although we have already had over fifteen years of the best optical experience, yet we are adding new instruments and increasing our facilities with the aim to serve our patrons with ever increasing ability

Strongly Favors Mr. Harry Rush

As Mayor for This Year—Some Cogent Reasons for His Election

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—At the nominations, Mr. Mayor McWilliams, who is again a candidate, asked, with an air of having a personal right to the mayor's chair, and he as much as asked why anybody had the cheek to bring out Mr. Rush as a mayoralty candidate in opposition to him. I can answer that question in a few words.

Mr. Rush was brought out so that the people might have a chance to elect a mayor that would do the business as the business of the city should be done. Mr. Rush was brought out by about six hundred citizens who wanted something better in the way of city work than we had last year; who wanted to check the wasteful, and unbusinesslike flow of city money. They did not want to pay another year about $130,000 in taxes and have, to boot, an overdraft of $110,000, upon which the city, from January 1, is paying six per cent. interest, or paying to the bank over $500 a month in the waste called interest, enough, in the course of a year, to almost build an isolation hospital. They want the leaks stopped, whether in the Romaine street sewer or in the city cash box.

Why has money been so lavishly spent? Why has it been ladled out without consideration of the waste it meant, and without proper value being received?

Not because the aldermen, or even the Mayor himself, wanted to waste money, but because the conditions were such that business could not be done with full and fair consideration. The meetings of Council and committees were talking bees in which the Mayor did nearly all the talking. It is no part of a mayor's duty to talk eternally. It is his business to preside, to keep order, to keep discussion of city matters in the right line, to see that the proper consideration of matters is not choked out with talk.

The Mayor of last year is a nice young man, but he took a good deal on himself last year. He occupied a position in which his duty was to keep his mouth shut and his eyes open, and it is a safe bet that he did more talking than any member or two members of the Council. What was the result? The city business was not properly considered, rash expenditures were authorized. This was no way to do business, and the result has been a very costly muddle.

It was to put an end to this windjamming style of doing city business that six hundred ratepayers signed a requisition to Mr. Rush. He is a safe man, a man of business experience, of business habits, who knows how business should be done. He won't assume that he knows more than the whole Council put together and won't try to swing them his way, as if they were boys and he the man. Mayor McWilliams may think he has a right to a second term, but the people have rights, and they do not propose to sacrifice those rights for a custom which only holds good in case of good behaviour.

I do not want to be personally unkind, but I speak for myself as a large taxpayer, and I am sure that I speak the minds of hundreds with a sole desire to have our city's business done properly, as it has not been done. I remember reading in an article in the papers something that was as true as gospel. It was the remark that if any citizen conducted his business as carelessly and badly as the city business was done, he would go to the wall. My aim, and hundreds of others who brought out Mr. Rush, is to get a mayor who will lead the council in doing the city business as it should be done. That's why Mr. Rush was brought out.

Yours, etc.,

EX-ALDERMAN.

Peterborough, Jan. 1, 1908.

MAYOR'S CIRCULAR IS MISLEADING

Mr. Rush Was Not Brought Out to "Kill McWilliams"—Why the Latter is Opposed

To the Editor of the Review.

Dear Sir,—Mr. R. F. McWilliams, as candidate for the mayoralty, has distributed a double circular to the electors. In one he charges the 500 or 600 electors who signed a requisition for Mr. Rush with doing this to kill McWilliams," and he calls Mr. Rush's candidature a "vicious personal attack."

When did Mr. McWilliams get a mortgage on the Mayoralty? Why should a young man, good enough in his way, good enough in his place, thus declare that a citizen of 45 years standing, has no right, to become a candidate? I never saw such impudence in my life. Mayor McWilliams might have had a second term as mayor if in his first term he had shown any ability beyond a masterly capacity for making a disastrous muddle of our finances, assessment and street work; if he had not shown such an arbitrary desire to run things single handed.

Mr. Rush was not brought out "to kill McWilliams," but to prevent McWilliams from killing Peterborough—to prevent Peterborough getting the name of a city of high taxes, to prevent public interests from being injured, to prevent reckless and incompetent financial management; to prevent a serious injury to all the material interests of the city.

Mr. Rush comes into the field openly. He shows a great deal of courage to have the impudence to oppose a young man who considers that he has a title in fee to the mayor's chair. He opposes a man in the open, a man who has a chance to fight back.

He does not make an attack on a city official who can't fight back. Mr. McWilliams in his circular declares that the engineering department is "inefficient," which may not be aside from the truth.

In doing this he condemns himself. He was in the council the year before last, was mayor last year. The engineering was no better then than it was last year. The engineering department was no better then that it was last year. If it was defective, why didn't he remedy it? If he didn't see that "inefficient" services were being given, he is not fit for a mayor, the man who should keep his eyes open to prevent leaks and "inefficient" public service.

I regard it as a most cowardly thing for Mr. McWilliams to attack a man with his hands tied for whose good or bad work he himself is responsible to the people. If the mayor thinks the engineering department is "inefficient," why didn't he improve it? He had courage enough to discharge a Romaine street pipe layer, who was condemned without hearing, a man whom the mayor didn't know was "inefficient." Then why could he not deal with the head of the department whom he knew, according to his circular, to the electors, was "inefficient"? Mr. McWilliams cannot shirk responsibility by laying blame on an official who is responsible to the council. He, himself, is responsible to the people, and will have to give an account. The mayoralty is not heredity.

Yours truly,

RADIANT WOMANHOOD!

The glory and satisfaction of beautiful womanhood can only be known to those possessing the unlimited advantage of health.

The weak woman can't be happy or enjoy half the pleasures of life. Pallid cheeks, sunken eyes, exhausted nerves all tell of a terrible struggle to keep up.

Nothing overworked women can take will benefit like FERROZONE, which renews, restores and vitalizes instantly; it's a WOMAN'S REMEDY, that's why

FERROZONE

MAKES WOMEN STRONG, PLUMP AND BEAUTIFUL.

FERROZONE contains abundance of nutriment, the kind that forms muscle, sinew, bone and nerve. It sends a vitalizing stream of new life through the weary body, making its strengthening influence felt at once.

Every FERROZONE Tablet means more strength, better appetite, delightful color, bright happy spirits—in short FERROZONE brings true womanly health, and that's worth striving for. Avoid substitutes.

Greater Discount in Water Rates if the By-law Carries

Proposition to Tax all Property Fronted by Mains Should be Carried by the People--An Important Statement by the Water Commissioners.

The Water Commissioners think it well to place before the ratepayers a short statement of the objects to be attained by the by-law that has been published and which is to be submitted to them to be voted upon on election day.

The intention is, that property fronted by a water main shall contribute towards the cost of such main an annual sum that bears a just rate to the value conferred on the property by the main. In the past much property (particularly vacant lots) thus benefited, has paid nothing whatever towards the large expense of laying the main, but such expense has had to be borne by the general water users. The Commissioners consider this to be an injustice, which the By-law will greatly if not altogether remedy. By thus placing the burden where it should be, the Commissioners feel that they will be able to increase the present discount of twenty-five per cent. on the rates to thirty-three and one-third per cent., which will effect a considerable saving to water consumers; thus, a twelve dollar water rate with twenty-five per cent. discount is nine dollars net, and with thirty-three and one-third per cent. discount, is eight dollars net.

The special rate in the by-law, as will be observed, is four and one-half cents per running foot which reduced by thirty-three and one-third per cent. discount for prompt payment, will be three cents per foot net, and a thirty foot lot will pay ninety cents per year with this proviso, however, that if the owner or occupant pays for the use of water for the same property ninety cents or over the front foot rate will be cancelled and only the water rate collected, but if no water rate is paid the front foot rate will be collected. If the front foot rate is greater than the water rate paid the excess of the former over the latter will also be paid.

The Commissioners are not aware of a single case in the city where if a water rate is paid at all it will not for the same property be in excess of the special rate, and then as pointed out there will only be the water rate less its discount to be paid.

In short, the object of the Commissioners is to cause vacant land fronted by a water main and thus enhanced in value, to pay a fair share of its cost, and likewise to compel occupied property where the owner refuses to take water to pay the frontage rate.

The Commissioners have given this matter much consideration and are of opinion that the By-law is in the interests of the city generally, and hope it may pass.

All ratepayers have the right to vote upon the By-law.

T. F. MATTHEWS,
W. H. HILL,
W. H. MOORE,
Water Commissioners.

Business Council Required To do the City's Business

It is Duty of Citizens of Peterborough to go to the Polls on Monday and Elect a Mayor Who Himself Knows Something and Will Give His Council Credit for Knowing Something Also.

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—In the past five years this city of Peterborough has made substantial gains in those elements that go to make up the brawn and sinew of a large and prosperous city.

But there has, unfortunately, two elements of weakness crept in which have a tendency to mar and blight our progress.

One of those elements of weakness has been brought about by our system of assessments.

As at present every man that improves his property, paints his fence, his house, his barn is promptly fined for so doing by the assessor, by having his assessment increased. This tends to discourage improvement. But the point to which I wish to draw attention is that every year the assessor keeps increasing the assessment, and one of the assessors told me two years ago that he did so because he was told by the chairman of the finance committee to do so—"they wanted more money." Now, why should we in Peterborough, where we have had for some years so large increase of new buildings from $500,000 to $700,000 per annum, why should we need to constantly raise the assessment? The tendency of this thing is to make Peterborough a dear place to live in, and as soon as you do this you drive out many men who like myself can live here or Toronto or Ottawa or Kingston. It does not take commercial men long to find out whether a city's business is well managed or not, and it will not take many more jumps in the assessments to make some of them pull out.

Another element of weakness is in the make up of our municipal council. A system prevails here which I do not find obtains in other places. The city of Peterborough has been electing for the past seven years a few men each year who were simply office seekers, and who were endeavoring to use their positions to boost themselves.

Now I lay it down as self evident that a man to have a claim to the position of mayor or alderman of this city should have a substantial stake in the city and a successful record behind him in whatever business calling he follows.

The office seeker we should steadily resist, and the man who fails to make his own little business go, has no legitimate claim on us for our vote. Success begets success and failure begets failure. If the business of this city has not been handled well this past year it is because you and I by our vote elected such poor material to fill the chairs of the mayor and aldermen last year; How many live, successful men did we put in? Not very many. And when every financial institution in the country was shortening sail and preparing for the financial stringency, our mayor and aldermen went on unheeding, without selling the debentures, piled up an overdraft of over $100,000, and destroyed the credit of the town by putting us in a position that none of the seven banks here want our account. It is the plain duty of the citizens of Peterborough to go early to the polls and elect a mayor who himself knows something and will give his council credit for knowing something also, and to put out every alderman who is in the council to grind his own axe. Let us select successful men on whose character and record you can turn the limelight, and if we get a good live council we will give this city of Peterborough such a boost as will put it well on the way to the 20,000 mark.

A CITIZEN.

MR. ROBERT N. SCOTT
The Popular Reeve of Smith Township

Mr. Robert N. Scott, who was yesterday again elected reeve by acclamation for the township of Smith, has had quite an experience in municipal affairs. He served nearly two years as councillor and now is about to commence his fifth term as reeve of Smith. In 1905 and in 1907 he had an opponent in the contest. In 1905 he was opposed by Mr. George Armstrong, but Mr. Scott won out by a majority of 87. In 1907 his opponent was Mr. Sam Stinson, but Mr. Scott carried the day with a majority of 201. Mr. Scott is an efficient officer, and has served the township well and faithfully.

In 1900 and until June, 1904, he was a member of the township council. In June he was elected by acclamation to the reeveship. In 1905 there was a contest, as was there also in 1907, but in 1906 and for the coming year he was given the office without an opponent.

Schools Ready for the Opening

Four New Teachers Have Been Engaged—Some Changes

School Inspector Mowat writes the Review as follows:—

The Collegiate Institute and the public schools of the city reopen on Monday for the winter term.

No changes have been made in either the organization or staffs of teachers at the South Central, West Ward or east city schools. These schools have been made ready for the reopening and the necessary promotions will be made on resuming work.

Some changes have been made at the King Edward school. Miss Sloan of Owen Sound, will take charge of the form heretofore taught by Miss Pratt and Miss Masseur will have charge of a new form organized to relieve the over-crowding. Everything is in readiness at this school for the re-opening.

At the Queen Alexandra school two rooms have been fitted up and are in readiness for the commercial students of the Collegiate Institute. The fitting up of the new rooms for the public school pupils of this school will not be completed for a few days, but the school work will not be interrupted, only the organization will remain the same as during last term, until the new rooms are ready.

No changes will be made at the Central school until the new rooms of the Queen Alexandra are ready.

When the new rooms are completed at the Queen Alexandra school, Principal Walkey will have two additional teachers added to his staff.

The changes at the Queen Alexandra will be made at the end of the first week of school and these changes will not only help to fill up this school, but will relieve the overcrowding and improve the organization of the Central school.

The opening of these additional rooms should improve matters generally and be better for both teacher and pupil.

DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS CURE ANAEMIA

Pale Faces, Dizzy Spells, Palpitating Heart, Headaches and Shortness of Breath are Symptoms of Anaemia.

Watery blood is an open invitation to disease to take possession of your system. Watery blood is responsible for nearly all the headaches and backaches and sideaches that afflict womankind. Watery blood is responsible for the dull eyes, sallow cheeks and the listless, dragged out feeling that is found in so many growing girls. Good blood means good health, and good blood actually comes through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Weak, ailing, despondent women who use this medicine are made active and strong; listless pale-faced girls are given new health, rosy cheeks, bright eyes and a new sense of happiness and security. Mrs. E. S. Nightingale, Chesley, Ont., says: "My daughter was ill for a long time with anaemia and would often be confined to bed for three or four days at a time, and we feared she was going into a decline. A lady friend advised the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I got half dozen boxes. By the time these were used there was a marked improvement, and I got a further supply for her. The change these pills have wrought in her condition is so great that you would not think that she was the same girl. I will always have a kindly feeling for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

You can get these pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50c. a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Asphodel Nominations Marked By Some Lively Speech Making

Westwood, Jan. 2.—A happy New Year to all.

Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong, of Toronto, are visiting at Mr. Fred Comstock's.

Rev. H. A. Frost spent Christmas at his home in Dartford.

The young men of the village held a dance in the hall on January 1. Music was furnished by McFarlane and Miller, of Keene, while Mr. D. Kennedy, of Keene, officiated. A most enjoyable evening is expected.

Mr. W. Graham attended the Lay Assembly on the 23rd inst.

Mr. John Cook has the rink in fine shape again. Large crowds enjoy the rink for the first time.

Rev. D. D. McDonald will preach in the Methodist Church next Sunday evening. He will emphasize temperance for the local option campaign.

Rev. Mr. Harcourt, of India, preached in the Presbyterian church Sunday last. Mr. Harcourt is a missionary supported by the Keene and Westwood congregations in India, and his address was listened to with great interest. He leaves for India shortly.

Mr. Sargent has traded the farm he lately purchased for the executors of the late Robt. Fife with Mr. Alex. Leitch.

Mr. A. B. Greenbank, of Norwood, was in the village Monday.

Local option will be fought again on Monday next. It will decide whether the village hotel will be re-opened or kept closed.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Stillman spent Christmas in Keene.

Miss Vina Christie visited friends in Keene last week.

On Monday the town hall was packed to its utmost capacity when nominations were received by Clerk Brackenridge for reeve and councillors for 1908. During 1907 taxes in Asphodel were exceedingly high, owing to the opening of new roads and excessive road repairs, school repairs, extra tax for House of Refuge and high county tax. These points were thoroughly thrashed out on Monday by the reeve and councillors, so on Monday next the ratepayers will have a large field to pick from for 1908.

Nominated for Reeve — Francis Birdsall (retired), Patrick McNulty, William Oakman, John Walsh.

For Councillors — W. H. Comstock, Maxwell Brown, John McNaughton, Fred Warner, Thos. Davidson, Henry Humphries, Andy Quinlan, Joseph Lynch, John McMillan and Michael English. The first four are last year's councillors.

Mr. Patrick McNulty, past reeve and warden of the county, was the first speaker and was well received. Mr. McNulty has sat in the council for the past ten years, and has been a faithful servant to the people. He thoroughly outlined the township and county business, and although he was strongly criticized by Mr. Walsh and others, he made things plain and will stand for re-election on a platform of honesty.

Mr. Francis Birdsall spoke for a few minutes, principally asking some questions he did not understand, which were answered by the reeve and councillors. He will not seek election.

Mr. Wm. Oakman has served eight faithful years in the council. He now appeals for the cushioned chair. He has been a good councillor and will make a good reeve. He believes in the old system of pathmasters instead of road commissioners.

Mr. John Walsh was received with loud applause. He is an ex-councillor, ex-county councillor and past warden. He strongly criticized the 1907 council as being extravagant and not keeping good accounts. He also condemns the county council. Mr. Walsh asks for election for one year only to waken things up.

Mr. William Comstock, the first councillor to speak was brief but to the point. He told where he spent his money and thought it was where the people wanted it. He asks for another year to his past ten.

Mr. Maxwell Brown is quite a young man but possesses sound reason. He has been in the council for three years and asks for re-election.

Mr. John McNaughton, brother to Dr. P. McNaughton, late of Westwood, a councilman for two years, outlined where he spent his money and asks to be returned.

Mr. Fred Warner has sat four terms and asks to be returned. He is a young man but well known. He opened a new road, gravelled English's big hill which he considered was well spent money.

Mr. Henry Humphries strongly criticized the old council, and said it was time for a change. Mr. Humphries served in the council some years ago.

Thos. Davidson, of Birdsall's Station, spoke briefly but to the point. He promises if elected to do his best.

Andy Quinlan, a young man from the north district, offered himself for councillor. He claims they have had no representative for years and get no attention.

W. J. McMillan was councillor of '95 and '96. He is now more prepared to devote time to township business.

The meeting closed with lamp light and was the largest and most exciting ever held in Westwood. The ratepayers will also vote on local option which was defeated last spring in the high courts. The village has been dry all summer and no one seemed to suffer.

HOLIDAYS ARE OVER AND PUPILS RETURN TO SCHOOL

City Halls of Learning Will Re-open Monday Morning—Several New Lady Teachers Will Commence Their Duties—Commercial Scholars Will Attend Queen Alexandra School.

The glad festive season has practically drawn to a close. At least the school children think so, for on Monday morning next they return to their studies after two weeks of enjoyment. In the minds of the pupils the holidays have sped very rapidly and were altogether of too short duration, but in a few days the scholars will have become settled down to good hard work, and pleasure will be forgotten in the careful preparation for final examinations.

During the holidays a number of changes have been made in the city schools and the boys and girls on the opening day will find everything bright and attractive. However, the new wing recently built to the Queen Alexandra school will not be ready for occupation until a week later. The desks are not quite ready and it will be a few days yet before they are placed in position. Until then pupils at the Central and North Ward schools will remain in their classes the same as before the vacation. The old rooms at the Queen Alexandra school have all been renovated and compare favorably with the new ones. Another change that will take place on Monday will be that the commercial pupils who, owing to the crowded conditions of the Collegiate Institute, attended the King Edward school during the fall term will, in future, have their classes at the Queen Alexandra school. More accommodation was required at the King Edward and the Board of Education were obliged to take this step. They will occupy two of the old forms at the Queen Alexandra.

Four new lady teachers will join the Public school teaching staff on Monday morning. Misses E. Sloan of Owen Sound, and Mannecor of Dunnville, will be at the King Edward school, the former taking charge of the new class being started, and the latter will take the position made vacant by the resignation of Miss L. Pratt. Miss Staples of Barrie has been assigned to the Central school and Miss Brown of Millbrook is the fourth teacher who will act as a supply.

All the teachers have returned from their Christmas vacation and will be in their places on Monday.

Latest Municipal Gossip; Monday is Election Day

Who Will Constitute the City Council for 1908—Some Betting Going on—Getting a Line on the Candidates.

Everybody is trying to pick the Mayor and Council for 1908, and the probabilities of the election of different candidates are being discussed everywhere. During the week great interest in Monday's contest has been aroused, and a number of bets have been made by gentlemen who like to take a chance, especially on such an interesting matter as a municipal election. Considerable diversity of opinion exists as to who will be elected from the aldermanic candidates, but it is generally conceded that Mr. Rush will be the Mayor for 1908. A local gentleman placed a substantial bet last night that this year's council would be composed as follows:—

MAYOR.

Harry Rush.

ALDERMEN.

W G Morrow,
W H Bradburn,
George Duncan,
George Elliott,
George Gillespie,
W J Johnston,
A. A. McIntyre,
Wm Buller,
Robert Neill,
Harry Phelan,
George J. Tovey,
R H Leary.

Another man picked a slate similar to that given above, substituting Harry Morgan for Wm. Buller. Others consider that James Clancy will be an alderman for 1908, while one man who is well versed in municipal matters states that three of last year's aldermen, who are in the field, will go down to defeat.

In Ashburnham great interest is being taken in the aldermanic fight. Across the river it is generally considered that three candidates from the fifth ward are too many, and that the trio will split the vote badly. Ashburnham should have two representatives in the Council, and the ratepayers from the other wards should not forget the men in the field from the east side, any of them will make a good alderman. Mr. Gillespie is generally regarded as a strong candidate and should poll a big vote. In addition to being popular in his own ward he has many supporters in other parts of the city. He is vice-president of the Peterborough Board of Trade, and has always been a hard worker in the city's interests.

Mr. W. H. Hill is looked upon as the winner in the contest for the Water Commission. He is popular with all classes and the ratepayers seem well satisfied with the management of the Waterworks Department.

There does not appear to be a great deal of interest taken in the contest for the Board of Education. Mr. Nelson's friends are putting up a plucky fight, but it is doubtful if they will be successful. The people are well satisfied with the Board as it was constituted in 1907, and it does not seem likely that a change will be made.

THE LILY

Blooms a gem in you garden,
 Whose blossoms disclose,
A beauty more lovely
 Than the lilac or rose.

No flower can be mentioned,
 Nor yet can there be,
Quite so faultlessly pure,
 As the fair fleur de lis.

Blooming fresh in our pink beds,
 It bedecks every lawn,
And boudoir's wide window,
 With its curtains all drawn.

Taking root in the slow rivers,
 Deep, silt sunken bed,
O'er whose wavy surface,
 'Tis seen tossing its head.

Though they shine with much splendor
 To me 'tis more gay,
Than sweet scented Vervain,
 Or rich Rosa Aurea.

Each flower has a beauty,
 Distinctly its own;
But as queen of the rest,
 I'll the lily enthrone.

The bard (Bell) has us taught, with Refinement distilled,
How the lily to paint,
 And the gold to regild.

'Tis the flower I would paint,
 A maiden most fair,
With a tender blue eye,
 And soft silken white hair.

She is courteous and gentle,
 Fond hearted and kind,
Yet by friends most admired,
 As her manner refined.

When the breeze of last summer
 Sighed over yon hill,
With her dog by her side,
 Free, she wandered at will.

But as winter approaches,
 At home she'll remain,
Some strange legend to read,
 And recount o'er again.

Writing poems late at night,
 As some may suppose,
And rise in the morning,
 When first chanticleer crows.

But my measure is faulty,
 My muse is untried,
And sings softly at first,
 Lest some critic deride.

But had I the winged flight,
 Of Dryden, or Bell,
In altisonant tones,
 Then your praises I'd tell.

Is it verve or wild fancy?
 Thus has extolled her,
No! Because she was fair,
 'Twas Lily they Calden.

And when you shall have ended,
 The first dream of youth,
May your life be blended,
 With fair honor and truth.
If for them in life's evening,
 I linger and wait,
T' om time sweeping onward,
 Swings widely the gate.

Then perhaps I may sigh in
 My lonely retreat,
For the cheer of your voice,
 For the sound of your feet.

From the Styx; John K. Bangs

John Kendrick Bangs, kindliest of American humorists, lectured in the Congregational church last night, to the satisfaction of an audience which completely filled the edifice. Hon T. M. Daly presided and, in a few fitting words, introduced the speaker, says the Winnipeg Free Press.

The programme presented by Mr. Bangs consisted of a series of readings from his own writings, one chapter from Coffee, and Repartee, a chapter from the House Boat on the Styx, a Christmas tale of the year 3658, and an article caricaturing the active life of President Roosevelt. Before entering on his readings Mr. Bangs entertained the audience with a number of witty sayings in reference to a variety of subjects.

The volume, Coffee and Repartee, had in the first place been named "The Idiot," in honor of the chief character of the book, the idiot being an unusually bright young man considered an idiot by the old fogies whose ideal he so knocked. When the advance copy of the volume was brought to the author, he found on the back of it, in gold letters the three words, "the idiot, Bangs." The Harpers thought this quite interesting, and were willing to let it stand, but the author fancied that the public might mistake the work for one of an autobiographic nature, and a change was suggested. The Harpers consented, and when the initial copy of the corrected cover was sent to Mr. Harper, he found on the back the words, "The Idiot, Harpers." This did not satisfy Mr. Harper and another change was essential.

In accounting for the name of the famous book, "The House Boat on the Styx," Mr. Bangs said that some years ago he received an invitation from a cousin in England to go to London and join a party of English people, several of them distinguished in Literature, who were to spend a few weeks on the house boat. In replying, the lecturer said that the only house boat on which he was likely to spend much time was one on the Styx and he was of the opinion, he wrote, that on his house boat he would meet more distinguished company than any that could assemble in England. A little later he began the endeavor to make some use of the idea which had occurred to him and the volume was the result. The story which he had told in this book, Mr. Bangs gravely explained, had no real basis of fact. He had lived in New York, visited Chicago, and had travelled on the Canadian Northern Railway, but he had not really visited Hades.

In the story of Christmas in the year 3658, the lecturer, without making any overt reference to the volume, ridicules to some extent the well known work of Edward Bellamy, "Looking Backward," with the general conception of which Mr. Bangs has in his serious mood, no sympathy. He is in economics an individualist and has taken part in the United States in the fight against the advancing tide of municipal ownership. The general theme of the story is that the real joy of Christmas is found in the happiness of children, and that limitless wealth and immortal life would be of no value if the world lacked the happiness introduced into it by the gaiety of childhood.

Mr Bangs will leave the city to-day for Montreal, where he will lecture at the end of the week. He made a large circle of friends here who will follow him with the kindliest wishes and hope for his early return.

ASSAULTED A CHINAMAN AND WAS FINED

Well Known Young Man Appeared in Police Court To-day

Eight dollars and eighty-five cents for assaulting C. Q. Woo, a Chinese restaurant keeper, was the fine imposed on a well known young man at the police court this morning. Mr. F. D. Kerr appeared for the defendant and pleaded not guilty.

C. Q. Woo was the only witness. He cannot speak English very fluently, and his broken speech created considerable amusement in the court room.

It appears that the defendant with a friend went into the restaurant in an intoxicated condition and ordered a supper. The bill came to fifty cents, which the young men refused to pay and a scuffle ensued. The complainant pulled the coat off his opponent while the defendant turned and struck the Chinaman in the right eye.

"You must have licked him when you could pull his coat off!" said Mr. Kerr to C. Q. Woo.

"No, no, he lick me," answered the Celestial. Witness stated that it required several stitches to bind up the cut he received.

His Worship stated that as long as the Government allows foreigners to enter the country, they must be treated as Canadians would wish to be treated if they were in China. He imposed the above fine, which was paid forthwith.

Another Rally Held Last Night

Mr. Rush's Friends are Enthusiastic—Final Meeting To-night

Another rousing rally of Mr. Rush's friends was held at the committee rooms last night on Simcoe street. The rooms were crowded to the doors and there was much enthusiasm displayed. Mr. Fair was chairman. Mr. Rush and several of his supporters gave short addresses. The workers reported fine progress and unless all signs fail a big victory will be won by Mr. Rush in the mayoralty election on Monday. The evidence of support comes from all classes and all sections of the city.

A final rally of Mr. Rush's friends and well wishers will be held at the committee rooms, 461 1-2 Simcoe-st., this evening at 8 o'clock.

All supporters of the people's candidate who desire to see a representative business man elected as mayor for 1908, are cordially invited to attend.

Mr. Pringle Should be Elected

Mr. Wm. Pringle, who is a candidate for the Board of Education, has not been able to take any part in the election, owing to illness. Mr. Pringle, the Review believes, should be elected to the board, and bespeaks for him a generous vote.

Review's Bulletin Service Will be the Best Ever

On Monday evening the Review will bulletin the results of the municipal election by means of a stereopticon lantern. As the returns come in, they will be thrown upon a large sheet fastened to the north side of the Oriental Hotel. This will afford everybody to ascertain the results without inconvenience. The management of the Oriental have kindly granted permission to hang the canvas upon the wall, and a fine lantern has been secured. The Review is making arrangements to get the returns from the polls quickly and accurately, and to bulletin them with equal rapidity.

In addition to the results given by the stereopticon lantern, the usual bulletins will be put out, showing the voting at the different polls for Mayor, Aldermen, Board of Education and the bylaws.

Mayor or Aldermen Did Not Try to Instruct Mr. McKee

Assessor Takes Affidavit to This Effect—Acted According to the Oath He Had Taken.

In connection with the statement, made yesterday, that Thomas McKee, who was one of the assessors, had made the statement to a well known citizen that he had been instructed by the authorities to assess property for every cent it was worth, Mr. McKee this morning took the following affidavit before W. H. Moore:

"It having been stated that I had informed a well known citizen that I had been "instructed by the authorities to raise the assessment to every cent property was worth," I say that if by this is meant the Mayor or Aldermen, it is not true. I got no instructions from either the Mayor or Aldermen as to the manner I was to make the assessment, but I read the Assessment Act and consulted the City Solicitor about the same, who read me parts of the Act and the assessors oaths and told me to assess accordingly. The only conversation I had with the Mayor as to the assessment was while I was delivering the schedule in Number One Ward, when he said the people were complaining that I was assessing too high, and asked me if I was not doing so, and I told him I was assessing according to the oath which I had to take, and that I would not take instructions from him as to making the assessment. This was the only time the Mayor spoke to me about the assessment, until after it was completed, and neither the Mayor nor any member of the council ever told me or suggested to me that I should raise the assessment. The Assessment Act says that real property shall be assessed at its actual value and that the buildings thereon shall be assessed at the amount by which the value of the land is thereby increased, and the assessor's oath, which I had to take, that I had justly and truly assessed each parcel of real property at its actual value and this I endeavored to do, and neither the Mayor or any member of the council tried to interfere with same."

Cigars That Were Gift of Stanford White's Slayer

Mr. George Ball, the local sanitary inspector, who has returned from New York after a two weeks' visit, brought back with him eight cigars which by reason of the notoriety of the original donor of them, have much more interest attached to them than have ordinary smoke weeds. On Christmas day Harry K. Thaw, who is confined in the Tombs Prison awaiting his trial for the murder of Stanford White, gave each of the keepers of the prison a box of cigars. Mr. Ball is personally acquainted with Keeper Godfrey of the Tombs, and the latter gave him eight cigars from the box presented him by Thaw. Mr. Ball brought the cigars to Peterborough with him and very kindly gave one to a member of The Review staff, who intends to keep it as a souvenir on account of its connection with one of the most widely known man slayers that ever pleaded to a charge of murder.

Protest Against the Water by-law

To the Editor of The Review:

Sir,—I wish to enter a protest against the water main by-law to be voted on Monday next. Only property owners should be allowed to vote on said by-law. It is proposed to levy a tax on every man's property fronting on streets along which water mains run. The poor man living on said streets in addition to keeping his well and pumps repaired will have to pay a yearly tax of 8 1-2 cents per foot frontage, in spite of the fact that already he pays his share of taxes for fire protection, etc. Vote early against this unconstitutional by-law.

A LEGAL RIGMAROLE

In Toronto the other day, a case came before Judge Mulock dealing with a simple transfer of some $14 from an estate to heirs, and no fewer than FIVE lawyers appeared in court in connection with it. "I strongly object to this sort of thing," exclaimed the Judge. "This matter should never have been brought up in court at all, and it is a scandal that five legal gentlemen should have to appear on such a paltry matter when," as he exclaimed, "all that was necessary was to get the consent of the official guardian to pay the money into court, which he would have given as a matter of course." Query: How much of the $143 was left for the heirs after the five lawyers were paid

THE CITY FINANCES

In reply to the misleading circular issued against me, permit me to call the attention of the electors to the following facts:

1. On January 1st., 1907, the overdraft for works for which debentures had not then been issued amounted to over $73,000 which included nothing for schools.

2. Of the overdraft now existing, $49,000 is for advances made this year to the Board of Education for the Collegiate Institute and Queen Alexandra Schools.

3. The sale of the debentures was entrusted by the Council to the Finance Committee composed of Aldermen Tovey, Morrow, Bradburn, Phalen and the Mayor, and later to Aldermen Morrow and Bradburn.

4. In October last a conference was held with the Finance Committee of the School Board as to the sale of $86,000 school debentures and at their request the sale was deferred. Mr. Robert Fair, one of the signers of the circular, was present as a member of the Board and strongly opposed selling the debentures till money became easier.

5. The rate of taxes for purposes over which the Council has any control was in 1906—7.41 mills, and in 1907—6.90 mills.

6. The highest taxation in the history of Peterborough was in the year that Mr. Rush was chairman of the Finance Committee.

Mr. Hatton Has Something Further to Say on the Measure

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—As apparently the question of what is or is not right does not appeal to many, the ultimate query being, "How does it affect me," and leaving for a time the principle at issue, let us go into details.

The center or business population, we are told, will vote for the bylaw. Surely not — if we are to expect a thoughtful consideration of any question we should get from our merchants, manufacturers and professional men. The man who votes on the basis that his ox is gored and he is the man who suffers or benefits is of a selfish and narrow minded disposition. We expect a broader view to be taken by our citizens.

We are told that they, the merchants, etc., will load up the outlying districts with a view of relieving themselves of a portion of the water rate now charged them, and that the property of non users of water and vacant property does not pay any sum or tax towards the water rates. The opponents of the bylaw and the friends of Mr. Best say that this class of property pays more than his share today, and alwyas has It pays for street watering, sewerage, flushing hydrant, tax and fire protection, in addition to the ordinary tax for schools, police protection, etc. In addition to all this, property owners are to be subject, under the water commissioners' new act, of confiscation of a maximum tax of five cents per lineal foot per annum for ever. Fifty dollars per thousand feet should the property owner own property on each side of the street. What does one think of that? Seriously, you know. An irresponsible water commission can exact this tax which, of course, virtually amounts to, as said before, confiscation.

One thousand feet of six-inch pipe can be purchased and laid down, trenched and covered up at about 65 cents per foot. 1000 feet at 65 cents per foot, $650. Interest on $650, at 5 per cent, per annum — $32 50, and your property owners are liable to be taxed $100 a year for an outlay, the interest on same being $32.50, a net gain to the commissioners of $68.50 per annum. All this, remember, in addition to the general taxes this class of property already pays. How many years would it take to get back the original outlay? Certainly tax vacant property, tax it out of existence, not by vote of the property owners but of the hoboes and riffraff. As the property fronted by the main is improved in value, the unearned increment and that sort of stuff. Assessors, if they do their sworn duty must increase the assessment on this class of property to a percentage probably ascertained by the water commissioners only. All this is a mere matter of detail—the principal stake is lost sight of and must not even be considered.

G. W. HATTON.

P.S.—Belleville consumers only pay; no tax to non-users and vacant property.

Galt consumers only pay; no tax to non-users and vacant property.

Treasury Department of the City of Toronto, Toronto, Jan. 3rd. 1908.
G. W. Hatton, Esq., Barrister, Peterborough:

Dear Sir,—Referring to your letter of the 30th ult., have to say that vacant lots and non-users of water are not charged any rate for water in Toronto. In any year, however in which there is a deficit between revenue and expenditure, the difference is made up by a rate, on all the rateable property, both and personal, in the city. Only at such times do vacant lands and non-users of water become subject to a special rate.

Yours truly,
R. T. COADY,
Treasurer.

MR. RUSH FOR MAYOR

Election day falls on Monday and the ratepayers should elect a business council and a business man for mayor.

Of the two candidates for the civic chair Mr. Rush should be chosen. The Review believes that he is the better man for the position. He has been an upright and esteemed resident of Peterborough for forty-five years. He has had a successful business training and experience, and is a gentleman of substance and stake in the community. He served four years as alderman with credit to himself and honor to the city. He proved a wise useful, economical and progressive representative and should make a capable, prudent and painstaking chief magistrate.

Peterborough wants an efficient business head to direct and control its affairs with the necessary aptitude and caution to manage matters at the present juncture.

Such a man is Mr. Harry Rush, who has no personal or other interest to serve than those of the city and who, by virtue of his many good qualities is eminently fitted to be at the lever in the city's municipal administration.

The record of Mr. McWilliams is not a satisfactory one. He has been tried and found lacking in many respects. So many evidences of this have been brought to light and discussed in the columns of the press that it is not necessary to dwell upon them here. The facts are familiar to all who have given municipal problems any thought or study.

A vote for Mr. Rush on Monday will help to terminate the reign of bungle extravagance, incompetency and talk which are some of the faults of the present Mayor's regime.

REASONS

WHY YOU SHOULD VOTE FOR

MR. BEST

AND AGAINST THE BY-LAW

Vote for Best—Water Commissioner.

Vote against the By-law.

The legislation was sneaked through at an adjourned hearing before the Private Bills Committee, no notice of same having been given to the opponents of the Act, although when the question first came before the Private Bills Committee it was understood and agreed that only ratepayers entitled to vote, should do so.

Imperils vested rights.
It should be voted on by property owners only.
It is of the same class as a money By-law.
It is unfair, unconstitutional and not needed.
If rates now too low, raise them.

As profit last year is said to be $20,000, they are now higher than necessary to pay maintenance, interest and sinking fund and should be lowered.

Vacant property now pays all, if not more than, its fair share of water tax.

Toronto consumers only pay: No tax to non-users and vacant property.

Belleville consumers only pay: No tax to non-users and vacant property.

Galt consumers only pay: No tax to non-users and vacant property.

See letters from Belleville, Toronto and Galt Water Commissioners.

Property owners: Your wells will be arbitrarily closed; your property taxed whether or not you use City water.

The water at certain seasons and when low is very close to the danger line and why compel property owners who do not need or wish for City water to close their wells of clear pure water and pay money not required to the Water Commissioners.

Property owners can lay the pipes and cover them, hand them over to the City free, at less than the rate proposed to be charged in many instances.

Land on the outskirts, land covered by water, land not saleable for years is to be taxed the same frontage tax as land in the centre of the City on the main business and residental streets in immediate demand.

The tax, if any, should be on the assessed value.

For these and many other reasons vote for Best and against the By-law.

One of the strongest points made by those favorable to the taking on of the Water Works plant at that time was that vacant property and non-users would never be asked to contribute. "What a difference a few years make." The same men who promised this are now endeavoring to break faith with the people.

Neither Belleville, Galt or Toronto collect a dollar towards maintenance, interest or sinking fund.

Not a City in Canada to the writer's knowledge, exacts a tax from the freeholders obtained by a general vote of people. Why are Peterborough ratepayers singled out for this imposition.

Yours sincerely,

G. W. HAT

Goldwin Smith Condemns Local Option

WRITING to the Toronto Globe, Professor Goldwin Smith thus expresses his views on Local Option

"I do not think it possible to enforce total abstinence. The taste for fermented liquors is common to all races of mankind, and it antedates the beginning of history. This taste the extreme prohibitionist hopes to eradicate by a single stroke of prohibitive legislation. Unless he can eradicate the taste, experience shows he cannot put down the habit. In the attempt radically and suddenly to change the habits of mankind by law, I have no faith whatever, and I appeal to multiplied and decisive experience as a warrant for my unbelief."

Mr. Moore Replies to Mr. G. W. Hatton

Points Out Several Inaccuracies in the Latter's Letter on Water By-law

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—Electors who were present at the nomination of candidates on Monday heard from Mr. Hatton on behalf of Mr. Best, a speech of much sound and fury, and self assertion, but wanting either in coherence or candor, and of superior wisdom and twaddle an excellent selection. His published letter, in one paper signed "Citizen," is quite consistent with his speech. He says the measure was sneaked through the Legislature. The truth is that it was printed in the very words and form in which it was passed, two weeks before it came before the House. Both he and Mr. Best were in Toronto when it came up, but though both knew the contents of the bill, neither made objection to it. Never was there an Act passed with more consideration, and it will be remembered that a year ago and before the bill was framed, it was substantially the sole subject of discussion at this writer's election for Water Commissioner, and that he publicly advocated what he now contends for.

Mr. Hatton talks and writes of the bylaw mortgaging the people's land forever, and much other silly claptrap. The bylaw does not create a debt of any kind whatever, nor does it pretend to do so, and, therefore, there is no reason the vote on it should be restricted to freeholders, and that tenants who pay the rates should be disfranchised. Reckless statements, however, must do duty when naked truth will not answer the interests of a dozen selfish landholders of the city. The bylaw simply adjusts the annual water rates, equitably and conformable to right and justice, between the owner who is benefited by the main in front of him, and who refuses to take water, and the water consumer. The Commissioners are committed to a net rate of three cents per foot frontage, and if the water rate should equal or exceed that sum no frontage rate will be charged.

Mr. Matthews, chairman of the Commissioners, is at one with them in securing what the bylaw provides for, and citizens well know that he is the last man who would advocate a measure not based on good business principles and not in every sense just to the ratepayers at large. Mr. Hill, if elected, will do what is in his power, to mitigate the burden borne in the past by the water users for the benefit of others. He has given years of faithful service. Between him and the other Commissioners there is complete harmony. The public should consider whether it is to their interest he should be displaced by the election of another with whom the remaining commissioners are not, and in pursuance of their policy, cannot be in accord.

It remains for the voters to determine whether the union of men, who have treated the waterworks asset as a strictly business proposition, shall continue or how otherwise. The electors at large have the right to exercise a franchise on the question. They are supreme, and I fear not the result.

Your obedient servant,
W. H. MOORE.

THE SELLING OF SCHOOL BONDS

Mr. Fair Replies to Misleading Statement of Mayor McWilliams

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—In this morning's issue of a local paper, under the heading of "City Finances," the following misleading reference appears, signed by R. F. McWilliams:—

4. In October last a conference was held with the Finance Committee of the School Board as to the sale of $16,000 school debentures, and at their request the sale was deferred. Mr. Robert Fair, one of the signers of the circular, was present as a member of the Board, and strongly opposed selling the debentures till money became easier."

Now, sir, this is unfair, and places me and other members of the committee in a false position. At a joint meeting held in March last of the Finance Committee of the Board of Education and the City Council, Mayor McWilliams requested the Board of Education not to insist on a sinking fund and interest being provided in 1907 for the foregoing debentures, as it would result in the tax rate being increased, according to the Mayor, was undesirable for 1907. His request was agreed to. Now the sinking fund and interest for these debentures are being prepared, and the bonds will be sold.

This is the exact position of affairs. I never opposed selling the debentures, as it would result stated, consented, with other members of the Finance Committee of the Board, to the plea of the Mayor to postpone the sale until this year, so as not to raise the tax rate.

This is the correct position of affairs.

Yours sincerely,
ROBERT FAIR.

Three Good Men From East City

Who Should Have Seats at the City Council Board

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—I would like to appeal to the fair-mindedness of your readers regarding the attitude of Peterborough electors to East City. While the ward system has been rightly abolished, it is but right that we should accord to citizens across the river a fair representation both in municipal and school matters. In the case of John C. Anderson and Geo. A. Gillespie and Henry Morgan all have had valuable experience in business management and development in this city for some years. They are men whose sterling character stands four-square, and who are in no sense office-seekers, but who have been led to comply with the urgent request of friends from a true sense of their duty as citizens. Their residence in East City and their business interests in the heart of the city will in every way qualify them to intelligently stand by all that concerns the welfare of Peterborough.

Yours sincerely,
JASPER GEORGE.

East City Should Have Resident

On the Board of Education—Mr. Nelson is Worthy of Support

To the Electors of the City:

Sir,—In supporting Mr. W. F. Nelson as candidate for the Board of Education, I do so, believing that it is in the interests of the city. Although Mr. Nelson is a resident of Ashburnham, I think Peterborough people should endorse a candidate of East City to this honorable and responsible position. The general opinion of the business men is that the East City representative is a man of undoubted business ability, being thoroughly conversant with banking as well as general industrial business. His interests are all centered in Peterborough. Being not a stranger to teaching, he has some knowledge of the requirements of schools in general. Outside of business, I find him an active leader in the music department of the St. Paul's Sabbath school. I have every confidence in him that if elected he will become one of the most efficient members of the Board. Yours truly,

RATEPAYER.

Trying to Shift the Responsibility

What Mayor McWilliams is Doing on the Engineering Question

To the Editor of the Review.

Dear Sir,—I notice in Mr. McWilliams circular to the electors that he pleads as one excuse for the present unsatisfactory condition of municipal affairs is the inefficiency of the engineering department. Mr. McWilliams has been long enough in the Council, and as Mayor, to have known the true condition of things in the engineering department. It is all very well for Mr. McWilliams to try and shoulder the "inefficiency" on the engineering department, whereas it is his own "inefficiency" that is the cause of any trouble that has taken place. He should know how much work the engineering department has to do and he should know how much work an ordinary man is capable of doing. He must know that there is double the amount of work to do in connection with the engineering department that it is possible for one man to do and he shows his "inefficiency" in not remedying the evil in a matter that so deeply affects the efficiency of the work to be done. It would be economy to provide enough suitable assistance to have work properly supervised. The Mayor should know that it is necessary to keep the proper office records—and few have any idea of the amount of work this entails—prepare plans, profiles, etc., and at the same time he expects the engineer to personally supervise every piece of work going on in the city, or trust to officials who are not of his appointment. At one time this season there was at least a dozen jobs going on in different parts of the town and the engineer is supposed to supervise them—walk at that—and during all this time he has to keep up the office records, plans, etc. The engineer is the hardest worked official in the employment of the city and the lights can be seen burning in his office at all hours of the night. If he belonged to the Trade and Labor union he would not be asked to work about eighteen hours a day, but the union has one rule for themselves and another for outsiders. They want highest pay, shortest hours and least amount of work but they want everyone else to have the opposite. This is not fair, nor is it business. The labor party got control of the city of London, England, and ran it to meet their views, and the result is that the finances of the city are in such bad condition that it will take years to right them again. I have every sympathy with the so-called "working" man, but I do not think they have the training nor the qualifications to manage such a complicated business as the affairs of a city. Mr. McWilliams tries to run the affairs of the city on such lines, and therefore I do not consider that he is qualified to be the head of the affairs of such a city as Peterborough.

Yours truly,
RATEPAYER.

Kind Words for Mr. J. C. Anderson

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—As a ratepayer interested in the election of good practical men as aldermen for 1908 allow me to offer a few words of endorsation in favor of Mr. J. C. Anderson's candidature.

I have had an opportunity of knowing Mr. Anderson intimately during the past ten years and have been impressed with the sound judgment he has used in municipal matters, whenever he has taken a special interest in them. His knowledge of business matters would also be of value in the consideration of public finance, and I know that nothing would tempt him to swerve from taking a straightforward, honest course in all matters. Mr. Anderson has been a property holder of east city for years, and was born in this ward. He has held the responsible position of head accountant in the Peter Hamilton Company's office for a considerable number of years, and I am satisfied that the city would possess an intelligent, faithful, youth and energetic representative, if he is elected to sit among the Board of Aldermen for 1908.

Yours faithfully,
BUSINESS MAN.

PERSONAL REFLECTIONS REGRETTED

A Supporter of Mr. Rush Comments on Mayoralty Contest

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—I am sure that many other friends and supporters of Mr. Rush beside myself, must deeply regret the personal reflections made upon Mr. McWilliams during the present campaign. I for one cannot see any great discredit in a public man being ambitious, so long as he does not sacrifice public interests. Indeed quite the reverse. We want aspiring men with ideals before them, and should encourage them in their efforts to reach these high places.

As a city one great drawback lies in the unfortunate fact that while our people always "talk up" Peterborough, they seem to unite to criticize, discourage and pull down what must always be Peterborough's best asset, her enterprising, public-spiritted citizens. It is "time for a change" in this respect. Let us stimulate all who have any capacity for leadership and public service and not deter them by the prospect of abuse and reflections upon their private character. We can warmly support Mr. Rush if we believe this to be best, without aspersions upon Mr. McWilliams.

Yours
ONLOOKER.

AN EXAMPLE OF HIGH PRINCIPLE

Tribute Paid to Mr. Rush for Fair Square Dealing

To the citizens of the City of Peterborough:

Gentlemen,—I think the following will show to the fullest Mr. Rush's principle of fair and square dealing. About 14 months ago I went to see him about a piece of land he owned. He said that he was anxious to sell it, asking for what purpose I wanted it. I told him poultry raising, and gardening. His answer was that, if for poultry raising he could talk terms, but, if for gardening, it was of no use discussing terms, as he would not knowingly sell it to any man for gardening, as it was not suitable. After a few minutes' pleasant conversation, I left him, without price or any attempt on Mr. Rush's part to sell same.

Yours truly,
T. H. VAUGHAN.

Representative Man Required For the Position of Mayor

Citizens Should Show Their Earnestness and Sincerity for Welfare of Peterborough by Electing a Business Man as Chief Magistrate.

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—In a circular issued to the electors, Mr. R. F. McWilliams says, "I find that some of my opponents' supporters blame me for the high assessment in Wards One and Two." That is quite right. I and hundreds of others blame Mr. McWilliams for the high assessment in Wards One and Two, as he is the head of the council and should guide, and direct, and see that the rolls are equitable and correct before they are accepted by the city. It is the inequality and unfairness of the assessment that we are complaining about, and who should be held accountable for the blame, if not the mayor, especially, as he is said to have given instructions to an assessor to "boost up" the assessment.

Regarding the Romaine street sewer, Mr McWilliams tries to place the responsibility of this upon the council of 1906. Mr. McWilliams was one of the council of that year, and cannot shirk the responsibility of his share of the blame. What the people complain of is that, when the second sewer was being built, that it was not properly attended to, and that the mayor, being the chief magistrate of the city, should have seen that not the innocent men were discharged, but that the chief officers in charge of the work were removed for inefficiency.

Mr. McWilliams does not think that the council for 1907 was extravagant. That depends. He himself owns no real estate in the city. His taxes were nominal, consequently he does not feel an increased assessment. One thing we do know is that there is about two million dollars of increased assessment, and we should place the receipts from this in the hands of a competent mayor, to see that the value is obtained for the money expended. Mr. Rush is not a trimmer. Mr. Rush is a plain, honest citizen, who desires the welfare of the city, and he is not offering any policy except the policy of thrift and economy, and will do what is right and proper. He is not looking for sympathy, and is not going to "kill" anybody. There are some people who will "kill" themselves without any effort on the part of others. The ratepayers are becoming alarmed as to where the city is drifting, and they want a mayor who will give his time and ability to the work of the position.

Mr. McWilliams sneers at the citizens who brought out Mr. Rush. They were driven to it by incompetence and extravagance. It is the business of citizens to show their earnestness and sincerity for the welfare of the city. I can tell Mr. McWilliams that the men behind Mr. Rush are the workingmen, the business men and the manufacturers and they quite appreciate what it would be to the city to have a responsible man at its head, not an irresponsible person seeking his own personal advancement, who can pack his grip and sever his own interests in the city between trains. By the way, who brought Mr. McWilliams out?

Yours very truly,
ONE WHO GOT A CIRCULAR.

Mr. B. Lastar Makes Some Comment on the Mayoralty Situation

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—It is a long time since I have interfered in politics, and I had no intention of taking any part in the municipal elections but for the reckless attacks upon our present mayor by nameless persons, who have not the courage to sign their names. Now there is a free country and every citizen is at liberty to criticize the authorities if they have done any wrong, but as an honorable man only.

Now I think in going over the matter without haste, I feel certain that the mayor was attacked for no other reason than for personal motives by some hot-headed persons who have a spite against the mayor. Now he is charged with the over assessment and being personally responsible for the shortcomings of the assessor. If this be the case we might just as well ask for the dismissal of our postmaster should one of the letter carriers neglect to deliver a letter. This is no more the fault of the mayor than of any other private man.

Now it has been said that he does too much talking in the council. Now I would rather see an active mayor discussing the proceedings than have him sit in the council like a dummy and nod his head and thereby please such as "Ex-Alderman."

He has been charged with reckless extravagance in the spending of the city's money. Now this is foolish, as the nameless "Ex-alderman" should know that the mayor cannot spend one cent of the city's money without the consent of the majority of the council.

It has been asked "Has the present mayor a mortgage on the mayoralty chair of this city. I would certainly say no, but in honor to the electors and in order to be just to him all good citizens are bound to support the present mayor in preference to any other candidate and give him a chance to show his ability. As a young and ambitious man he has tried to do the best for the city at the cost of personal ambition, while at the same time he is trying to create an honorable future for himself. I do not see how any fair-minded man can bring it upon himself to try and injure the mayor by not supporting him, and but for a few hot-headed and spiteful men who had their own ends to serve he would have had the chair by acclamation.

As for Mr. Rush I have always known him to be an honest and honorable man, but in my opinion he is making a mistake in allowing himself to be induced by certain parties to take a part in the mayoralty contest.

Now, citizens, let us be right and just, and without any hard feelings against each other, go and vote in a body for the right man for mayor, namely, McWilliams.

Yours truly,
B. LASTAR.

AN INDEFENSIBLE BLUNDER

One of the reasons given for the abrogation by the Dominion Government of the postal agreement recently existing between Canada and the United States, was that under the same our postal department was carrying at a loss a vast volume of United States publications addressed to subscribers in Canada, says The Weekly Sun. This reason would have more force if the principle which is being applied in the case of the United States were applied in all cases. But what are the facts? It costs, under the regulations now in force, two cents per four ounces on publications sent from Buffalo to St. Catharines, while the same bulk is carried from London, Eng., to Victoria, B.C., at one cent.

There can be but one explanation of the action of the Government. It is a deliberate attempt to make it difficult for our people to obtain reading matter from one source, and easy to secure it from another. The spirit in this case is the same, but not so violently expressed, as that which prompts the Government of Russia to examine all papers seeking access to the Russian mails, and to mark out anything appearing in the papers of which the authorities do not approve. It is equivalent to saying that Canadian citizens require the guidance of the Canadian Post Office Department as to what they shall or shall not read.

One of the best daily newspapers published in the United States is the New York Sun. It is a paper which any intelligent Canadian citizen would be the better for reading. The subscription price is $6 a year in the United States, it was formerly $6 to Canadian readers as well, but under the new postal arrangements the cost is $9. The Breeders' Gazette, of Chicago, is undoubtedly the best live stock paper in America; it is filled from cover to cover with information of practical value to stockmen in all parts of the continent. To the American reader the cost is $2 a year; to the Canadian, due again to the abrogation of the old postal agreement by our Government, it is $3. And what is true as to comparison between cost and postage in these cases is true also as regards the New York Outlook, New York Post, and hundreds of other excellent publications which had a large circulation in this country, and through which our people were being broadened and the cause of international brotherhood strengthened."

Equally unfortunate it is that a like restriction is now placed on the circulation of Canadian papers in the United States. Formerly Canadians living the United States were enabled to secure their old home paper at the same price which is charged readers in Canada. As a result of this privilege, almost every local paper in Canada had from scores to hundreds of readers across the border. These papers kept up in the hearts of the wanderers the love for the old home, and were as well weekly messengers of peace to the new friends made by these ex-Canadians on the other side. Today the postage on Canadian publications sent to the United States amounts to half the subscription price, and there has been a wholesale cancellation of subscriptions in consequence.

One of the most indefensible blunders of the Dominion Government was in the abrogation of the late postal convention in the United States—a convention which made alike for the broadening of human knowledge and the maintenance of good relations with our neighbors.

PEN POINTS

Rush for Mr. Rush.

Can you pick the winners?

Vote for Rush as Mayor.

Peterborough desires a change in the mayoralty.

Rush in the votes on Monday and elect Rush for Mayor.

His Worship Mayor Rush—that will be the title after Monday next.

Mr. Rush was a successful alderman. He will make a successful mayor.

The friends and supporters of Mr. Rush are bound to make his majority a large one.

Well, on Monday it will all be over, and out of the seventeen aldermenic candidates five will be elected to stay at home.

It is alleged that the "authorities" instructed Mr. McKee "to boost" the assessment, and now the citizens intend to boost "the authorities."

Mr. McWilliams says that some 500 or 600 ratepayers, out of 4,500, brought out Mr. Rush for Mayor. How many ratepayers brought out Mayor McWilliams?

Ald. Tovey has proved to be a careful, experienced and businesslike alderman. He is thoughtful, sensible and fair minded, and is entitled on his two years' record to be re-elected.

Peterborough wants a business man and a taxpayer for mayor — a man of substance, capacity and executive ability, therefore the citizens should elect Mr. Rush for mayor.

Ald. McIntyre's first-class work in connection with the building permit and milk inspection by-laws entitle him to re-election. They are both useful measures, and the citizens should show their appreciation of Mr. McIntyre's services by giving him a bumper vote.

Ald. W. H. Bradburn should be given a second term. He is a large property holder, and with the experience gained the past year will make a most, useful, energetic and efficient representative during the coming year.

Ald. Duncan is one of the men who should be given a vote on Monday. He has devoted much time and attention to the city's business, and if diligence and hard work count in the estimation of the ratepayers they should not overlook Mr. Duncan.

Record your opinion on Monday in favor of a garbage by-law for Peterborough. The city needs such a service and the council of 1908 can safely be left to work out the details. The people should say by their vote that they stand for a clean, healthy city.

Mr. Wm. Butler, manager of the Peterborough Fuel and Cartage Company, is a quiet but esteemed citizen who, for the first time, is seeking pub honors. Mr. Butler should by all means be given cordial support. He will make a capable, progressive representative.

Ald. Harry Phelan is again on deck and this year will receive a larger vote than ever. He has rendered the city conscientious, faithful service and has lost no opportunity in looking after the ratepayers' interests. He has not been afraid to take a stand on any question and stick to it. His opinions always command respect and attention, and anything he undertakes he generally manages to carry through. Mr. Phelan's friends intend to place him well up on the list.

Ald. Harry Morgan is one of the men who should be returned by the electors on Monday next. He has had considerable municipal experience both in the Ashburnham council and in the city council. He is an earnest, active representative, and has many friends in Peterborough. The Fifth Ward is entitled to two representatives in the council, and Mr. Morgan should be one of them. He is zealous and wideawake, and his supporters are going to give him a heavy vote.

Mr. Hill should be re-elected as water commissioner. He has been a useful, hardworking member of the commission. He thoroughly understands the needs of the system and the people, and is a public spirited citizen. There is no valid reason why he should not be returned. It would be a serious mistake to change the personnel of the board whose management of that great civic utility — the waterworks system — has been characterized by prudence, foresight, economy and business ability. By all means, Mr. Hill should be on the commission for another term.

Do not forget to cast a ballot in favor of the by-law on Monday to have all property fronted by water mains taxed. The measure is a fair legal one and will not affect any present consumers or increase their payments. On the contrary it will result in a reduction of present rates while the property owner, who is holding lots purely for speculative purposes, will be made to bear a fair proportion of the expense of operating and maintaining the system by which his property is rendered more valuable and saleable. Anything that results to the advantage and benefit of property he should not expect to enjoy free of cost, and that is what the non-consumer is doing at the present time.

No less than 1,000,000 acres in what was once known as the American desert have been placed under irrigation. On this land nothing but cactus grew until water was supplied. Now it is ready to produce fruits, vegetable and grain in abundance. No less than 29,000,000 acres more will eventually be added to the irrigated districts. This will be equivalent to adding to the productive area of the United States a territory equal to almost four times the acreage devoted to field crops in Ontario. This is one of the facts that should be kept in mind when making calculations as to the time when the Republic's population will equal its productive capacity.

Among the many excellent aspirants for aldermanic honors, who should be made a member of the council of 1908, is Mr. George A. Gillespie, of the firm of White and Gillespie, George street. He is a young business man, a prominent cheese buyer and exporter, and has always taken a lively interest in the great dairying industry. Mr. Gillespie is also vice president of the Board of Trade. He will do all in his power to secure the proposed dairy show for Peterborough, and although Toronto captured the exhibition, Mr. Gillespie worked in season and out of season to bring it to Peterborough. He is one of the leading members of the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association, and should be honored with a seat at the civic board. A vote for Mr. Gillespie on Monday will be a vote well placed.

A Happy 1908

Dr. Browett Appreciates Peterborough

To our friends and patrons we extend a very hearty greeting at this glad season. Scarcely a year ago we made Peterboro' our home, and already have found many pleasant associations. We like Peterboro', its people and its prospects. We appreciate the patronage received during 1907, and although we have already had over fifteen years of the best optical experience, yet we are adding new instruments and increasing our facilities with the aim to serve our patrons with ever increasing ability

Yours very respectfully,

Recent militia orders from Ottawa contain the standing of the different regiments based upon the annual inspection last June. In a field of sixteen cavalry and infantry regiments, the 57th regiment of Peterborough stands tenth. TROUBLE AHEAD FOR SOME ONE

When the Power Deputation Goes to the Capital

Company Claims Political Obstructions are Working Against Them

The Havelock Standard says: At the Norwood council meeting lately, when the matter of power was discussed with a Havelock deputation, several speakers expressed themselves and judging from the tone of their remarks do not intend to let certain parties in Peterborough city dictate to East Peterborough as to what they shall do on the important and urgent question of power.

The company has now waited for a settlement for the Dominion Government portion for two years — since the last delegation of a dozen councils, and are tired of these interminable canal surveys at Healey Falls.

It was stated that although Trent Canal contracts for nearly the whole river between Rice Lake and Lake Ontario have been let, and work started on one section, yet the Healey Falls section is detained, — and only the last fortnight other surveys have again been started. And yet with this situation the Healey Falls section remains the unconnected link to the five million dollar completed portion of the canal. The monster municipal deputation two years ago, were promised by late Minister Emmerson an answer in a few months — and yet, now — eighteen councils while petitioning the Dominion Government on behalf of the Northumberland-Durham Power Company—which is composed of the leading manufacturers and business men of eight ridings, and which has been municipally advised to stop development work pending the settlement as to the intervening portion of the rapids—are still waiting for an answer.

If one be troubled with corns and warts he will find in Holloway's Corn Cure an application that will entirely relieve suffering.

What Constitutes Divine Worship

Is the Church Made a Place for Worldly Display of Fashion ?

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—Some weeks ago I wrote you on "Why some men do not go to church," and in the course of my remarks I said that some time I would write you again on the subject, "What is Worship," but please allow me to say how pleased I am to notice in your columns a letter signed "Churchgoer." I have experienced the same, and I would suggest that in addition to some of the ushers being gagged, some of the young men and young women who attend church be treated to the same dose and by the way these young men and women are members of organizations which teach a deep reverence for worship in God's holy temple, but whose idea of worship is to laugh and talk and giggle, even during prayer. It is very annoying to those who go to church to worship, praise and listen to God's ministers expound His word.

One of our city pastors is one who is not afraid to speak his mind, and I hope he will continue to do so. It would be well if more of our clergymen were men whom wealth and fear of the rich members of their congregations who would not bow to the "god mammon." The poor parishioner is not regarded as anything, but what a difference when the man of wealth appears.

Well "worship" is not what some think, but a giving to God, and not a begging (prayer) from Him all we can get.

One writer says, referring to John 4, 10, "These words, tell us of the streams of God's grace which flow down through the Son, by the spirit, into our hearts, and just as a river has its eddies, and the water in these eddies flows back again towards its source; so it is with worship. It is the outflow of a heart that has known God as a Giver; that has known the Son, through whom the gifts flows down from heaven; that has tasted of the living water of God the Holy Ghost; and having drunk, has found in the Holy Spirit a source of living water within his heart that springs up into everlasting life, and flows back again towards its source in adoration, worship and praise. (John 4, 10, 14, 21)."

Two Greek words (the language in which the New Testament was first written) proskuneo and latreuo, will no doubt give us the true meaning of worship. The former word signifies to do reverence or homage by prostration, to pay divine homage, worship and adoration (Matt. 2, 2, 11, 4, 10, Rev. 4, 10) The latter is used in Hebrews, chapters 9 and 10, rather in regard to the public worship of the sanctuary, and is translated often by the words "servi" and "service" (Hebrew 9, verses 1, 6, 9 and 14) in other verses, however, it is rightly translated worship (Heb. 10, 2). The general idea then is giving praise and homage to God the Father for what He is in Himself and for what He is for those who approach Him. Thus we see that it is the very opposite of prayer, which asks God for something, while worship gives to God. Prayer may be truly mixed up with worship, and be included in the general thought, but we may pray without one thought of giving to God adoration or praise, beyond the mere acknowledgment of God.

Going to hear an evangelist or a clergyman preach is not worship. The minister addresses himself to the world, whereas worship flows back to the Father from children's hearts. The mixture, then, of the two together in one service is mischievous, and calculated to destroy the division which God has made between the world and the church. Going to hear any kind of ministry is not worship, though it may produce it. Ministry flows from God down to His people whereas worship is what ascends from the people of God. The worshipper gives back to the Father the precious fruits of praise and adoration which springs from the heart filled with Christ.

Lastly in Rev. 4, 5., we see what the worship in Heaven will be, and surely that is what we should follow more closely. In Rev. 4, 11, it is the worship of the Creator. Not a word of prayer in it. It is the ascription of praise to God for what He is, and for what He has done. In Rev. 5, 9, it is worship for redemption. Such even now should be the pattern for our worship; but alas! how few services for worship do we find where such worship is expressed.

The world and the church are walking arm in arm, too closely together the ministers of God are not the minister of the Gospel of Jesus Christ any longer, but are instead worshippers of mammon, fashion, etiquette, and the fear of the rich man's autocracy. I wonder what Christ would do with some of our church services and the men who stand in his stead, who are supposed to preach His Gospel, but who prefer to preach on some sensational subject which will tickle the ears of his hearers. I have attended one church here for nearly two years and I have not heard one sermon from the minister which was purely a spiritual gospel sermon. Of course I have heard such sermons from visitors, of which there was a plentiful supply, and I am not the only one in this congregation who has the same opinion. Too much form, etiquette and worship of the God mammon are the conditions paramount among the churches, ushers gabble and disturb, the singers sleep and chat during the sermon, the officials smile upon wealth and wear clothes which should be reserved for more worldly functions, the church is made a place for the worldly display of fashion too much, to be made a house for the worship of the Almighty. Sunday tea meetings, Sunday concerts and sensational addresses are the programmes which we are regaled with now instead of "Abba Father," we approach Thee,

In our Saviour's precious Name;
We, Thy children, here assembling,
Now the promised blessing claim;
From our guilt His blood has washed us,
'Tis through Him our souls draw nigh;
And Thy spirit too has taught us,
"Abba Father" thus to cry.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, I am only

"AN OBSERVER."

BETTER THAN SPANKING

Spanking does not cure children of bed wetting. There is a constitutional cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. Summers, Box W., 62, Windsor, Ont., will send free to any mother, her home treatment, with full instructions. Send no money, but write her today if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child, the chances are it can't help it. This treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled with urine difficulties by day or night.

ADDRESS TO THE ELECTORS

TO THE ELECTORS OF PETERBOROUGH :

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN :—Having been duly nominated a candidate to contest the mayoralty of Péterborough for the year 1908, I accept this nomination and respectfully solicit your vote and influence to secure my return.

I had no aspirations for the position and no thought of entering the contest for the Mayor's Chair until a few days ago. I was waited upon by some of the most substantial of our citizens and presented with a requisition, signed by several hundred taxpayers, urging me to enter the field as a candidate. I could do no other than regard such a requisition, signed by a large and representative number of citizens, as a call to duty. Consequently, as I have, during my 45 years' residence in Peterborough, tried to do my duty faithfully to the place in which all my material interests are centered, I have decided to place myself in the hands of the electors.

If I am chosen as Mayor, I shall use all my ability to practically apply the motto of my life—"The interests of Peterborough first, last, and always." I am known to you all by virtue of a residence of 45 years in the city, and through a corresponding experience in business, which, through the kind co-operation of the public, I have been favored in making a success.

Though I have not sought public office any more than I am seeking the present offered position, I may say that, for four terms in succession, I was returned as alderman without soliciting or attending a nomination or soliciting a vote. I felt that both as an honour and a flattering mark of confidence, which I endeavoured to justify to the fullest of my ability. And if elected as Mayor I shall discharge the duties of the office to the full extent of my powers and with a single eye to the promotion of the best interests of the city.

This is the platform upon which I can and do appeal to your support; that is the platform upon which I will justify your choice, if you do me the honour to elect me. It is not practicable for me, even if it were in line with my inclination, to personally call upon the electors. I hold that the office should seek the man rather than the man the office. I have no personal interests to serve; my only object in accepting the nomination for Mayor is to serve the best interests of the city of Peterborough. With cordial wishes for a Happy New Year to all, I remain,

Your obedient servant,

H. RUSH

To the Electors of the City of Peterboro'

Ladies and Gentlemen,—

In deference to numerous requests, I have consented to place myself at your disposal for the position of Alderman for 1908.

I therefore ask your support in the effort to assist in maintaining for the city of Peterborough the position and standing which it is its right to possess.

The management of the city's affairs on business lines is my platform, and if the electors will do me the honor of electing me, I will make the general welfare and progress of the municipality my aim.

Geo. H. Duncan

Ladies and Gentlemen, — Having served you as alderman for three years, I once again, at the request of a large number of ratepayers, offer myself as a candidate for re-election. During last year I held the important position of chairman of the Board of Works, thereby acquiring a knowledge of municipal affairs that should enhance my value as a member of the Aldermanic Board for 1908. If elected for a fourth term I shall use my best endeavors to advance the interests of the community as a whole, without fear or favor, and will only support such measures as are calculated to ensure my fellow citizens a maximum of benefits at a minimum of expenditure.

Trusting that you will once more honor me with your confidence, believe me to remain

TO THE ELECTORS

CITY OF PETERBOROUGH

LADIES and GENTLEMEN ;

Complying with the wishes of a large number of my friends, I have decided to allow my name to go before you as a candidate for the Board of Aldermen. While I have not had previous municipal experience, I feel sure that with the knowledge gained by years of business life I can serve the best interests of our city with intelligence and care. If you honor me by electing me, I shall endeavor to assist in every way the business and industrial interests of the city and at the same time keep clearly before me the best interests of the laboring and working classes. I shall stand for consistent economy in all departments, the looking into of an equalization of the assessment of the city and careful supervision over all city work, and the 'greatest good to the greatest number.'

Waterworks By-law and the Garbage Question to the Fore

Will be Voted Upon at the Municipal Elections on Monday—Everyone Should Vote on These Matters

Every ratepayer who has a vote for mayor, aldermen, water commission and board of education has the right to vote on the two bylaws to be voted on in Peterborough on Monday. To be precise, there is only one bylaw, the other question being more in the nature of a plebiscite. The bylaw to be voted on makes provision for placing a water tax on vacant property fronted by a water main. The bylaw calls for a frontage tax ing of the bylaw will not cause an in- of 4 1-2 cents per lineal foot. The pass- crease in the water rates. On the other hand, it is expected that it will make it possible to increase the rate of discount from 25 per cent to 33 1-3 per cent. This means cheaper water for the consumer. The only man whom the bylaw will hit in an unfavorable way is the owner of vacant property. He will have to bear a larger share of the cost of the waterworks system. At the present time no water tax has to be paid on vacant property.

The other question to be voted on is as follows:

"Are you in favor of the establishment of a system of garbage collection?" It is simply a plebiscite and the ballots have to be marked "No" or "Yes." If the majority of ratepayers express themselves as desiring a garbage system, the new council will take up the matter and deal with it as they think advisable. If it is voted down the matter will likely be dropped for the present. Ratepayers should not neglect voting on the garbage plebiscite. It is an important question, and worthy of careful consideration. The waterworks bylaw is also important and should be voted on by every ratepayer.

Pass the Water By-law and Get Reduction in the Rates

This Will be the Effect if Measure Carries—Land Owners by Proposed Frontage Tax Will Not be Able to Hold Lots for Purely Speculative Purposes, Without Contributing to Operation of System.

To the Editor of the Review.

There appears to be considerable misunderstanding in reference to the proposed waterworks by-law on which the ratepayers are to vote on next Monday.

Some people appear to have the idea that this by-law will raise the water rate to all consumers, whereas the very opposite will be the result. For instance suppose a present or prospective water consumer's bill is now $50, the commissioners assure us the passing of the by-law will enable them to give a reduction (in addition to the present discount) of 8 1-3 per cent. or $4.16 2-3, and this does not take a cent from any ratepayer except those who own or hold vacant unoccupied lots past which the water pipes are now or will hereafter be laid.

This is only fair, as owners of such vacant lots have the benefit of the enhanced value which these improvements bring to their property and for which they have not heretofore contributed a cent. The only mistake that appears to have been made by the commission is that this rule should have been adopted from the time the town purchased the waterworks. The Commissioners certainly deserve the greatest credit for their management of this service. I doubt whether there is any business, private, corporate or public, that can show such a record as they can to-day. I am sure every person would be delighted if all our corporation business were handled in the same business like manner. It would save the taxpayers tens of thousands of dollars annually.

Vote for this by-law and compel those, who hold vacant lots for speculative purposes and who desire to have their value increased at our expense, to pay a fair share towards such expense. It is a step in the right direction. If it is carried it will and should cost the large land owners in the city more and to that extent it will benefit the remainder of the ratepayers. Incidentally, if carried it will cost Mr. LePlante, the Chamberlain Estate and ex-Mayor Best, the latter of whom is a candidate for a place on the Commission, more money, hence their opposition.

It must always be remembered that twenty-four years hence when the waterworks will have been paid for in full, the city will own this asset, and those large land owners will hold a proportionately larger share of them, notwithstanding they have not paid a cent toward their purchase, while you and I have contributed the full cost of a very valuable public utility.

Vote for the by-law and the old Commission who have done their duty so ably.

Yours, etc.
RATEPAYER.

Since writing the above, I noticed a letter in the evening papers—the one in the Review is signed, "G. W. Hatton." They are evidently the product of the same pen.

In these it is intimated that our Water Commissioners succeeded in having an unconstitutional Act passed by a "sleepy" Legislature, which, of course, includes Premier Whitney, for he cannot see "how the Act ever got past the watchful eye of Premier Whitney."

Never mind the constitutionality of the Act, I will venture the opinion that Premier Whitney and the Legislature can look after the constitutionality of their acts quite as well as the solicitor of the few land owners of our city.

Vote for the greatest good to the greatest number. VOTE FOR THE BY-LAW AND FOR MR. HILL.

How a Sewer Was Built Where it Was Not Required—A Peculiar Case

To the Editor of the Review.

Dear Sir,—I have read, at different times, in your paper some severe strictures on the methods pursued by the members of our city council. Extravagance, incompetency and unbusinesslike methods of looking after the affairs of the city, have been charged. As to whether this condemnation was at all times deserved, I am not prepared to say. One instance of folly—to use no stronger word—is fresh in the memory of a number in the north-western portion of the city. I refer to a sewer on Downie street, running from London street northward, to Smith street, east on Smith street to Reid, and north on Reid to the junction of the Communication road. A gentleman living near the latter corner, was instrumental in circulating a petition for the construction of a sewer along the stretch named; after strenuous work it is said he obtained one name on the petition above the number required. A counter petition was circulated, and some half dozen or more who signed the first petition rued their action, and signed the contra petition. The sewer project was apparently killed. It might be mentioned here that on these streets there is no water mains, and that there are comparatively few residences, and that a sewer was about as necessary as a fifth wheel to a waggon. However, our aldermen, who are supposed to be elected to look after the interests of the public, were induced by some means to have this stretch advertised as one on which it was their intention to construct a sewer, and notification was given, that if it was not desired, the parties concerned would have to petition against it. This was done, and a majority of those concerned affixed their names to it. The petition was handed in to the city clerk, and it was supposed that the sewer was killed again. But, no, in spite of this and in the face of the fact that here was no water mains laid the council went ahead with the work. The sewer was laid, and there is now a stretch of dry sewer pipe, over one-third of a mile long, and not connected with a single residence. But hold, a gentleman living near the extreme north-end, whose property, however, does not abut on the sewer, has obtained permission to connect with this precious piece of folly, for the sum of $25. If the true inwardness of this Downie street sewer were laid bare, I firmly believe that it would have a stronger aroma than the now notorious Romaine street botch.

Local Option Fosters Crime

To-day, with Local Option, Owen Sound has SIXTY places where liquor is sold. Under license, there were only ELEVEN places. Yet, despite the best efforts of a capable license inspector, no one has been sent to jail in Owen Sound for selling since Local Option came into force. Last year, with five months of license and seven months of Local Option, OWEN SOUND had 362 police court cases. This year, in eleven months of Local Option, there have been 510 police court cases there.

Do you want this state of things?

Mr. Matthew Kennedy, Mayor of Owen Sound, who has lived there fifty years, said, Nov. 27 last:

"I have seen Owen Sound under indiscriminate license, under restricted license, under the Duncan Act, and under the Ontario Liquor License Act, and finally under Local Option: and I have no hesitation in saying that Local Option has NOT lessened drunkenness, has not improved business nor the financial position of the people generally. Neither has it improved the moral tone of the citizens as a whole, but, on the contrary, Local Option HAS INJURED LOCAL TRADE, and lowered the moral well-being of very many."

Local Option substitutes the "blind pig" for the decent bar.

Families Completely Wiped Out Exterminated at Lonely Farm

Midnight Death Struggle With Robber Band.

Terrible Tragedy on Russian Steppes—Only Three Children Who Concealed Themselves Escaped—Young Girl Brained With Hatchet—Wife Was Strangled — Thieves Secured Less Than Four Dollars.

Rostoff-on-Don, Jan. 4.—Two families were practically exterminated recently at a lonely farm on the steppes, near Novotcherask by a band of robbers, who despatched even the household cat and dog.

The names of the killed are Bondarenko, his wife, his son Nikita, his fourteen-year-old daughter Xenia, and a young man named Limorenkoi; and of the other family Gretchenko, his wife, his brother, and his two young children. Three little boys of the Bondarenko family hid from the murderers and escaped.

It appears that the Bondarenko family had just retired for the night when the door was burst in and three strangers entered. Brandishing revolvers, they commanded everyone to come out. Dazed with sleep, the family obeyed, and saw several other men with revolvers and ropes outside the door. Bondarenko was ordered to hand over all the money he had. He replied that he possessed only 16s., to which the robber leader retorted that that would give his men just 2 1-2d. each.

At this point the girl Xenia fell into hysterics. A robber threw a cloth over her head and brained her with a hatchet. The boy Nikita and the young man Limorenkoi were next seized and killed in the same manner. Bondarenko and his wife were then locked up in a cupboard, whence they heard the robbers enter the adjoining building where Gretchenkos slept. Shrieks and groans arose as the whole Gretchenko family were overpowered and murdered. Gretchenko's wife was strangled with a piece of rope.

Next the robbers returned, dragged forth Bondarenko and his wife, and slaughtered them. The three youngest children escaped the murderers' notice and were left alone with the dead. A peasant visiting the farm discovered the tragedy and rescued the children next day.

Terrible Wreck Near Chapleau The Imperial Limited Ditched

C. P. R. Express Leaves Track Through Broken Rail.

Mrs. B. Sloan of Lindsay Is Killed Outright — Passengers Seriously Hurt—Alex. Ross of Dundurn Lost a Hand — Others Badly Cut and Bruised— List of Those Injured—The Story.

North Bay, Jan. 4.—The Imperial Limited express, east-bound, was wrecked at 1.10 yesterday morning 35 miles west of Chapleau by a broken rail. The train was running on time at a good rate of speed when the passengers were suddenly startled by a grinding noise, followed by a loud crash as the cars turned over and plunged down an embankment into a creek. A colonist, second-class and first-class cars were ditched, the Pullmans remaining on the rails.

Fortunately the acetylene gas was extinguished by the shock, which explains the low casualty list. The passengers in the forward coaches were penned in and the work of extracting them by trainmen and fellow-passengers was speedily begun.

The victims are:

Dead—Mrs. B. Sloan of Lindsay, Ont.

Injured—Alex. Ross, Dundurn, Saskatoon, Sask., lost right hand; W. Reynolds, head cut; Duncan Livingston, Durham, Ont., shoulder bruised; Louis Hartle, Deloraine, Man., head cut; F. E. Perkins, Port Arthur, head cut; Peter McKean, Black, cut on head; David Lindsay, London, Ont., cut on head; Edward McLean of Paynton, Sask., head and hand cut; Daniel McDougall of St. Almon, Ont., cut on head; Robert Matthews of Moosejaw, back injured; A. Gilchrist of Glenanean, scalp wound. In addition to these, two employes of the C. P. R., named James Hale and James Stanley of Chapleau, were injured.

The worst horror of the wreck was the finding of the woman's dead body in the lavatory, where she had been crushed to death, her arms and head protruding from the broken side of the car, and her body swaying in the water from the creek, which covered the floor of the car for several feet. It was impossible to release the body for several hours, but death must have been instantaneous. The unfortunate woman was Mrs. Ben Sloan of Fielding, Sask., on her way to visit a sister in Lindsay. Before the wreck she talked of the surprise she would give her sister, who did not know she was coming east. A husband and 12 children survive.

Engineer Badly Injured.

James Stanley, C. P. R. engineer, who was on his way to Schreiber as a passenger, was badly injured about the head, besides internal injuries. One arm was broken and an eye seriously injured.

Miss Alice Smith of Durham, returning from a visit to Brandon, described the wreck as follows:

"The car was hot and I stepped into the vestibule to get a breath of fresh air. While there, Mrs. Sloan came out, smiled and chatted for a moment, then entered the lavatory, which was to be her tomb. An instant later the crash came, and I felt the walls of the car closing upon me while we plunged down into an eternity of space seemingly. My feet were tightly wedged and I was hemmed in with debris. The lights went out and I was in darkness. After a while a brakeman peered down through a hole in the roof and saw my predicament with the light of his lantern. Help was summoned and release came. My feet and limbs were nearly broken from the creek water, which was gradually creeping up as the car slowly sank to the bottom and I was afraid of death by drowning." Miss Smith stated that her injuries were trivial, consisting only of bruises.

One man was caught in the wreck in such a position that his hand was almost chopped off before he could be released. The surgeons finished the operation by amputating the hand. The dining-car was converted into a hospital and the injured, numbering about 12, were given every attention and removed to Sudbury Hospital as soon as possible, where most of them spent the night before continuing their journey. It is reported that the injured are all doing well. It is a remarkable fact that the express was wrecked by a defective rail at 1.10 a. m. and a freight train ahead on the same division was ditched from a similar cause 30 minutes later. It is reported that James Stanley died at the hospital, but this is not confirmed.

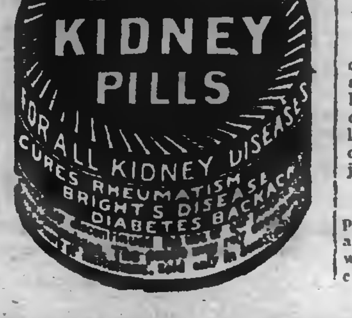
Runaway Car on Ferry.

Cobourg, Jan. 4.—While the G.T.R. car ferry was unloading Thursday morning a loaded coal car broke loose and ran down towards the stern of the boat. There it collided with another car and jumped the track, breaking one of the steel supports of the deck, as well as derailing two other trucks.

Trainman Injured.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Jan. 4.—In a collision between a light engine and a work train on the Grand Rapids & Indiana Railroad, just south of this city, yesterday, Engineer Charles Taylor of Kalamazoo, and Fireman Grout of Fort Wayne, Ind., were badly injured.

Mayor Clavet, of Port Arthur, was presented with an illuminated address a picture of the council and a gold watch on his retirement from the chair



FAMOUS OARSMAN DEAD.

Ned Hanlan Passed Away at Toronto This Morning.

Toronto, Jan. 4.—After battling for three days against an attack of pneumonia, Ned Hanlan died this morning at one o'clock. First a cold, then la grippe and finally the fatal inflammation of the lungs. Ald. Church stated last night that, anticipating the worst, Mayor Coatsworth and members of the City Council had practically decided to honor the deceased ex-alderman and world's greatest oarsman with a public funeral, which will likely take place next Monday. The late Mr. Hanlan was in his 53rd year and for the past several years had lived a retired life.

LATE NED HANLON.

REFUSED BAIL FOR JAPS.

Fourth Arrest Made In Connection With Recent Riot.

Vancouver, Jan. 4.—In the Police Court yesterday the police magistrate flatly refused bail for the Japanese prisoners charged with the attempted murder of three city firemen. A fourth arrest has been made, but the evidence against him has not been disclosed. There is no sign of rioting at Vancouver.

The Trades and Labor Council representatives declared in a meeting that Japanese houses are arsenals, and that if they arm themselves the whites should do likewise. He received hearty endorsement, and a committee of three was appointed to investigate the situation.

Prominent Japs are giving assistance in locating the perpetrators of the outrage, but it will be difficult to get other than circumstantial evidence.

The influx of Japs from Honolulu is increasing rather than abating. Inside information received here says a small steamer is chartered to leave Honolulu next week with a hundred and fifty Japs for Vancouver. The Canadian-Australia liners have steerage passages booked ahead for six months by Japs in Honolulu—fifty to each ship. Charters are now being arranged for at least two more vessels to bring big loads.

NO WORD OF MOUNT ROYAL.

C. P. R. Officials Are Now Disposed to Give Up Hope.

London, Jan. 4.—(C. A. P.)—There is no news of the Mount Royal on which insurance at 25 guineas was placed at Lloyd's.

St. John, N. B., Jan. 4.—C. P. R. officials were disposed yesterday to give up hope that the Mount Royal will ever reach port. There are no first or second-class passengers on the list, but 234 immigrants, mostly Hungarians.

An Even Chance.

Montreal, Jan. 4.—The missing steamship Mount Royal is a steel ship, built in 1898 by Swan & Hunter. She is rated 100 A1 at Lloyds'. She is 470 feet long, 56 feet beam, 38 feet deep, gross tonnage 7,064, net register, 4,599 tons.

What the underwriters think of it is shown by the insurance rate. The Lloyds quotation yesterday is not known, but is some way between 35 and 50 guineas. The latter figure means even chances that she will not turn up.

Warship May Search.

Halifax, Jan. 4.—It is now believed the Admiralty will order a warship to make a search for the missing vessel.

Body Identified.

Newark, N. J., Jan. 4.—Frank Elnert, a friend of Mrs. Theodore S. Whitmore of Brooklyn, yesterday viewed the body of the mysteriously murdered woman found in the Passaic River a few days ago, and identified it as Mrs. Whitmore.

Whitmore is a Brooklyn motorman. He viewed the body, but declared he was unable to say whether or not it was that of his wife. Yesterday he told the police it might be her. He said his wife has been missing for some time.

Company Blamed.

Cobalt, Ont., Jan. 4.—Touching on the death of George Kelly, who was killed New Year's night in the Trethewey mine, the jury rendered the following verdict:

"The jury find that George Kelly came to his death on Jan. 1 by a bucket falling on him from the 50-foot level of Shaft No. 2 of the Trethewey mine. The accident was caused by gross negligence and incompetence on the part of the shaft boss and gross negligence on the part of the company."

Toronto's New Postmaster.

Ottawa, Jan. 4.—It is understood that Hon. A. B. Aylesworth, who holds the patronage of the district, is favorably disposed towards W. B. Rogers for the vacant postmastership of Toronto, and that the appointment is practically a certainty.

Herr Harden, on his second trial on the charge of having libelled Count Kuno von Moltke, is seriously ill and unable to appear in the court.

JAMAICA AGAIN SHAKEN

Southern Island Suffers From Severe Shocks of Earthquake.

Stewardstown Chief Sufferer—Episcopal Church Reduced to Debris—Reports of Much Damage Done In Kingston and Other Points on the South Shore—Negroes Are Yielding to Panic.

Brownstown, Jamaica, Jan. 4.—A heavy earthquake shock was felt throughout the Island of Jamaica at 8.05 o'clock yesterday morning, and it is feared that much damage was done.

Stewardstown was the chief sufferer in the north. The Episcopal Church, which had been badly shaken by the big 'quake of last year, was reduced to debris. Other buildings in the town were damaged.

There are reports that much harm was done in Kingston and other points on the south shore.

There is a heavy rush at the telegraph offices with inquiries regarding the safety of relatives and friends and with messages giving assurances to anxious ones.

Superstitious ones among the inhabitants of the island, particularly negroes, are in a panicky state of mind. January has been called the "fatal month" since the great earthquake of last year. The coincidence of a solar eclipse, which is due today, coming at the same time as the earthquake, has added to their fears. Yesterday morning's earthquake, which was violent, had a movement from east to west, and lasted for more than twenty seconds. There was an increasing vibration which culminated in two sharp shocks.

EDITOR GETS FOUR MONTHS.

Harden Denied Any Intention of Libelling Count von Moltke.

Berlin, Jan. 4.—Maximilien Harden has been sentenced to four months' imprisonment on the charge of libeling Count Kuno von Moltke.

Harden was sufficiently recovered to appear in court yesterday and the hearing of Count Kuno von Moltke's libel suit against him entered upon its final stage. Harden was attended by his own physician, Dr. Eisenburg. He spoke in his own defence.

In the beginning his voice was feeble and he could scarcely be heard, but later, during portions of his address, he developed something of his customary elocutionary vigor. His first impressions concerning Prince Philip Zu Eulenburg and the persons attached to the prince's interests at court, had been gained, he said, from the late Prince von Bismarck and members of his household.

It was impossible to obtain absolute proof, but Harden said he was convinced that a ring had been formed around the Emperor which, while he considered it almost impenetrable, he was determined to endeavor to break through. If his articles had accomplished this result he was glad, but if in his writings he had libeled von Moltke, all he could say was he had never intended to do so. "I never meant to libel the count," Harden continued, "and nobody knowing me could imagine that I would deliberately defame anyone. Everybody is aware that I was working purely from political motives. If, however, owing to the peculiarities of my style, this tribunal considers that I should be punished, then I am prepared to undergo imprisonment, but it will be with the conviction that I do not deserve this punishment."

Why People Desire to End Life.

Chicago, Jan. 4.—The Chicago Anti-Suicide Bureau of the Salvation Army has issued a report of the cases handled and suicides prevented. In six months 335 persons have sought the assistance offered by the bureau, and 80 per cent. were saved from self-destruction. Only 66 women availed themselves of the help.

The most prolific causes of men desiring to commit suicide are domestic unhappiness, lack of employment, drunkenness and gambling. The reasons given most frequently by the women were desertion, sickness and lack of work.

Wolves Ate Hunter.

Saddle Lake, Alta., Jan. 4.—A man was killed and eaten by wolves at a point 40 miles south of Lou St. Vincent. Only the man's arm and a few hairs were found, while nearby were the remains of seven timber wolves which the man had evidently shot before being overcome by the rest of the pack.

Some half-breeds from St. Paul de Mets have gone to try and identify the victim, if possible. The victim is supposed to be an English or American tourist-hunter.

Ate Poisoned Cheese.

Wharton, Ohio, Jan. 4.—A dozen people were poisoned here yesterday by eating cheese. Clarence Bell, wife and three children, are dying. The others poisoned are: Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler Crider, and two children, and the family of L. J. Long.

All Quiet.

Lisbon, Jan. 4.—The assumption yesterday of the local Government by commissions appointed by Premier Franco, which it was feared might lead to trouble, is officially declared to have passed off without incident.

Vesuvius Erupts Again.

Naples, Jan. 4.—Mount Vesuvius, after a month or more of comparative quiet, has again resumed activity. A huge column of flame and smoke is arising from a number of large fissures at the summit of the crater.

Prominent Mason Dead.

Washington, Jan. 4.—Allison J. Naillor, secretary-general of the supreme council of the Ancient and Accepted Order of the Scottish Rite Masons, southern jurisdiction, died of the grip.

TELL THRILLING STORY.

Shipwrecked Sailors at Mercy of the Waves For Eight Days.

New York, Jan. 4.—Seven shipwrecked sailors, believed to be the only survivors of the crew of 16 of the Norwegian bark Germanic, were brought here yesterday by the oil-tank steamer Hotham Newton. They were picked up in midocean in a terrible condition from exposure, eight days after their vessel had been abandoned.

The seven men rescued tell a story of fearful suffering. Obliged to leave their sinking ship in the midst of a storm which had twisted and opened the seams of the big bark until she was unseaworthy, their little boat was tossed helplessly about by the waves. The scant store of provisions which they had succeeded in getting together was in constant danger of being ruined by the salt water, and their cask of drinking water became tainted.

For many days they had nothing to drink but rain, which they caught in tarpaulins and squeezed out of their wet clothing. The supply of food became exhausted after seven days, and the men had been entirely without food for more than 24 hours, when they were picked up by the steamer.

Their bodies were covered with sores from the constant contact of salt spray, and they were so weak from exhaustion and lack of nourishment they were scarcely able to stand.

It appears that the Germanic had bad luck from Nov. 23, when she sailed from Weymouth, N. S., for Fleetwood, England, until she went down in midocean on Dec. 9. Battered about by the tremendous seas and buffeted by the fierce wind, the Germanic sprung aleak, her decks were burst open, the cabins washed away and she became completely waterlogged.

SUES LONDON FREE PRESS.

Robert Reid of Ottawa Claims $20,000 Damages.

Ottawa, Jan. 4.—Robert Reid of this city, commissioner of the Transcontinental Railway, has entered an action for libel against The London Free Press, and claims damages to the extent of $20,000. The case will come up in the high court in Ottawa next week. Last February an enquiry made by the public accounts committee showed that a large quantity of envelopes were purchased by the Transcontinental Railway Commission from the Munro Company of Toronto, of which John O'Gorman was a partner. The order was turned over to the Barber Ellis Co. of Toronto, it was claimed, with considerable profit.

It was brought out in the enquiry that Mr. Reid had suggested that the purchasing agent should deal with the Munro Company. The result of the enquiry appeared in The London Free Press, also an editorial commenting on buying through the commission instead of direct with the Barber Ellis Co., and pointed out that Mr. O'Gorman and a brother of Commissioner Reid were joint defendants in the London election conspiracy case.

N. W. Rowell, K. C., of Toronto, will probably conduct the case for the plaintiff, and J. F. Hellmuth, K. C., of Toronto, and George F. Henderson of Ottawa for the defence.

NIGHT RIDERS OUT AGAIN.

Swoop Down on Kentucky Town and Destroy Several Places.

Russellville, Ky., Jan. 4.—Night riders, 100 strong, swooped down on Russellville early yesterday morning, and, after overpowering the three policemen and providing against giving of an alarm, dynamited and burned the two independent tobacco concerns in the city and several other establishments and rode away out the Hopkinsville and Clarksville turnpike.

Three men were fired upon and wounded by the marauders and the telephone girl operators and police were held prisoners for nearly two hours.

This is the third raid of the night riders in Western Kentucky and comes in the face of the announcement by the governor that disorder must cease.

Good Advice to Settlers.

London, Jan. 4.—(C.A.P.)—The emigrants' information office issues a circular containing a new feature of "hints to emigrants." Those are told it is useless to go to Canada unless they adapt themselves to local conditions and respect local feelings, and be content to learn first rather than to teach.

"Don't above all things attempt to impress on Canadian employes how much better we do things in England." Emigrants are also told they must be prepared to work harder and longer.

Baby Swallowed Pills.

Cobourg, Jan. 4.—A sad fatality occurred here on New Year's Day, by which a little boy, only two years and nine months old, lost his life. A doctor had given an adult member of the family of Robert Brooks some morphine pills. About two o'clock in the afternoon the little boy secured the box and took four of the pills. A doctor was summoned, but all attempts to save his life proved futile, and two hours later he died.

Arrested Ex-Berlin Treasurer.

Berlin, Jan. 4.—Ex-Treasurer Henry Aletter was yesterday morning placed under arrest, charged with having converted to his own use $1,850 of the town's money, covering over three years. He will have a hearing today. Bail has been refused.

The case of ex-Express Agent Simpson, charged with misappropriation of funds, has been adjourned until the 9th inst.

Hope to Float Mount Temple.

Halifax, N. S., Jan. 4.—Compressed air is to be used in an attempt to float the steamer Mount Temple, on the rocks at Ironbound. A syndicate, with R. M. Brookfield at its head, has been formed here for the purpose, and divers have gone to the scene. Mr. Brookfield says the chances of floating the steamer are good. It is not thought the inside hull is pierced.

How Local Option Hurts Owen Sound

Creates Discord
Increases Drunkenness
Harms Business
Promotes Disorder

"I CONSIDER Local Option detrimental to the best interests of the town from a business point of view, as it has created discord and set up one portion of the town against the other. From a moral or temperance standpoint, I consider it the worst blow the temperance cause ever had in the town. I believe it will take a great many years before the sympathy of the people as a whole can again be secured through temperance movements, such as we had before Local Option was carried. It has created more drinking among young men than there ever was in town under a good license system. The arguments advanced when Local Option was advocated that the working classes would have more money to spend in foodstuffs have been proven to be absolutely wrong, as it has not been the case at all."

SWEET REVENGE

By
Captain F. A. MITCHEL,
Author of "Chattanooga," "Chickamauga," Etc.

Copyright, 1897, by Harper & Brothers.

"I have not. I was coming through the hall and heard your last remark."

"And you infer that I was trying to get a secret which does not at all concern me?"

"I most assuredly do."

"You are mistaken. I care no more for what occurs in this house than for the color of the dress you happen to wear. I had another object in questioning your brother."

"I dare say you had."

"I wished to discover if he could keep a secret."

"I dare say you did."

"I have intended nothing dishonorable."

"Fudge!" She snapped her fingers and her eyes at the same time.

"You don't believe me. Very well, I don't believe that you were not eavesdropping."

"I was not eavesdropping!" she cried hotly. "You have the word of a southern lady."

"And I was not trying to get your secret. You have the word of a"— I stopped short. I had run against a snag. She gave me a glance of contempt and triumph. Her head was up, a little to one side, her nostrils dilated, her breath slow and measured.

"Miss Stanforth," I said—I was near betraying what demanded secrecy—"I will prove to you before night—no, not before night, but soon—that I had another object. I will no longer remain in a house the inmates of which"— I made a step toward the door.

"Mr. Branderstane!"

"Miss Stanforth!"

"In addition to sailing under false colors you are now going to endanger your life by"—

"Fudge! What is my life to you?" I snapped my fingers.

"A good deal just now. It is unpleasant to have a person die on one's hands."

I was in no condition for this encounter. A buzzing was going on in my ears, a tingling sensation in my limbs. My knees were giving way, and I was obliged to sit down on the sofa. I looked longingly at a bottle of brandy that stood on the table, but was too proud to ask for it. In a moment Helen had poured some of the liquor into a tumbler and held it to my lips. I drank a reviving draft. She put her hands on my shoulders and gently forced me to lie down.

"This must not occur again," she said. "You have no strength to go, and I have no right to excite you while in your present condition. I believe what you told me." She put out her hand.

"Pardon," I said humbly. "When calm, I would as soon think of accusing you of eavesdropping as I would accuse Diana of unchastity. I have been ungallant, rude—rude to a woman."

"Forget it. Lie still, and you will soon be yourself again." She sat down by a table and took up a book. "I will sit here and read while you recover your strength."

She read for perhaps half an hour. I supposed she was interested in the book, for she turned one page after another and seemed to have forgotten me. At last she put down the volume, and by her first words convinced me that instead of being interested in it she had been thinking of my puzzling identity.

"I want to ask you one question."

"Ask it."

"Where did you come from the day the shooting occurred?"

"Huntsville."

She had asked the one question and had received her reply. I knew by her expression that she wanted to ask another.

"I suppose you were there long enough to become acquainted with the city. It's a beautiful place."

"I was there a week."

The limit of one question having been overstepped in this indirect fashion, it was easier for her to proceed.

"What were you doing there?"

"Looking for some one."

"A man?"

"Yes."

"What for?"

I did not reply at once. I was thinking of some plan by which to put an end to her catechising.

"If I tell you," I said presently, "will you promise to ask me no more questions?"

"If you prefer that I should not."

"You wish to know why I was seeking my man at Huntsville?"

"I do."

"You will keep what I tell you a secret?"

"Yes."

"To kill him."

CHAPTER IV.

WON OVER.

LITTLE BUCK had stood my test as to his reticence so well and I was in such desperate straits for a messenger that I resolved to use him. After breakfast I waited for awhile, hoping that he would come to my room, but as he did not I feared he was deterred by the autocratic Lib. I called Jackson and told him to tell the boy I wished to see him. I took a Confederate bill from my pocket and handed it to the darky, but he went off grumbling that he didn't "want no Yankee money, and mas'r wouldn't hab no niggar o' his'n takin money from a stranger nohow." He sent Buck to me, who came in looking somewhat astonished that I should take sufficient interest in him to call for him.

"Buck," I said, "I have something important to say to you."

"What is it, Mr. Brandystone?"

"Branderstane. Please don't make that mistake again."

"I won't, sho."

"Buck, I'm thinking of sending you on an errand, but it's a great secret."

The boy's eyes grew as big as saucers. I looked at him for a few moments to observe the effect of my announcement and then went on:

"If you should tell any one, it might cost me my life. You wouldn't tell, would you?"

"Tell! Why, sooner 'n tell I'd—I'd—ruther be a—a—a—dead rat out in the back yard."

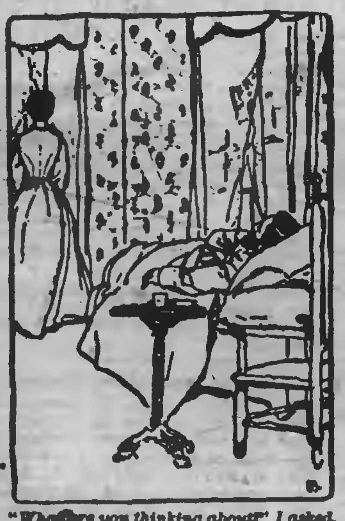
"I believe I'll trust you. Do you know the road to Huntsville?"

"I reckon so. I've been over it more'n a hundred times."

"Got a pony?"

"Yes; Pete. Hel'n, she drives him in the buggy. She calls him hern, but he isn't. He's mine. I got a big dog too."

"Never mind the dog. Could you get out your pony and ride into Huntsville without any one suspecting you were going on my account?"



"What are you thinking about?" I asked.

"Well, now, why don't yo' give me somet'n hard?"

"Go and get me a newspaper or an almanac."

He was out of the room and back in a moment with a Huntsville paper of that morning's issue. I scanned its columns before looking at the date and noticed this item:

> The main body of the Yankees are marching from Nashville to Columbia en route, it is supposed, to Pittsburg Landing, where they will doubtless join the Federal General Grant.

Looking at the heading, I saw that the date was the 1st of April.

"Now, Buck," I said, "get out your pony; then come to me for instructions."

"Look a-hyar, Mr. Brandy—Brandystone"—

"Branderstane."

"Well, Mr. Brandinstane, if yo' got any 'structions I reckon yo' better give 'em to me now. Mebbe if I come back hyar that doggone ole Lib'll come in an yank me out."

"You're right. Reach me that sheet of note paper and a book to write on—that thin one; now a pencil. All right. Don't say a word till I have finished."

I wrote a message in as infinitesimal characters as I was able on a third of a sheet of paper:

> Machine shops at Huntsville in good order. Fifteen to 20 locomotives. Nearly a hundred cars. No force in the town. To the east road runs parallel with and near the pike for several miles and is handy to cut. To the west party to cut the road must pass round the city on the north. Enemy gathering all possible forces at Pittsburg Landing, but several thousand men at Chattanooga.

I put neither address nor signature to it, as none was necessary, and they would be conclusive evidence against me if the message should fall into the wrong hands.

"Buck," I said, "mount your pony and ride to Huntsville. A few minutes before 12 o'clock go into the Huntsville hotel; you know—the big brick house on the square. Go up stairs and out on the front gallery. At 12 o'clock a man with black eyes, long hair and a pointed beard will walk out on the gallery. Don't say anything to him. Wait, and after awhile he'll say something to you."

"Will he?" asked the boy, his eyes full of wonder. "What'll he say?"

"He'll say, 'It's a fine day.'"

"What, if it's rainin?"

"Yes; rain or shine, if he's the man you want, he'll say, 'It's a fine day.' Then you must say, 'Reckon you're weather wise, stranger.' To that he'll reply by asking you what kind of weather it was the day of the massacre."

"What massacre? What's a massacre?"

"Never mind that. Stick to the lesson I'm teaching you. You must say 'Black as night.' Then he'll say 'What's the word?' and you can hand him this note. Now, suppose I'm the man with the pointed beard and you go through the dialogue with me."

I put him through his lesson till he had learned it perfectly. Then I sent him away with the injunction that, in case anything should go wrong with him, rather than part with the paper he was to swallow it. I rolled it into a ball and put it into the lining of his hat. Giving his little hand a squeeze, I bade him go, and he marched out as proudly as if he had been appointed military governor of Alabama. I had no doubt he would execute his mission to the best of his ability, but he was very young, and I feared he would make some blunder.

"What a fool I am!" I exclaimed as soon as he was gone. "I should have failed to communicate rather than intrust so important a matter to a boy. However, I'll leave here tomorrow morning, and, if my message miscarries, by the time it's discovered I'll be somewhere else."

Helen came in soon after Buck's departure and began to set the room to rights. She attended to her work silently and did not even look at me. I watched her as she moved about, arranging a curtain here, moving a chair there or piling books on the table more neatly. She was a true type of a southern woman—tall, willowy, a head set on her shoulders in a way to make an artist involuntarily reach for a brush. Her hair and eyes were as black as night, while on her cheeks was a bright color. There was something on her mind. I could see that plainly. I fancied if I gave her time it would come out. At last she dropped her work and stood looking out of the window.

"What are you thinking about?" I asked, going at the subject with brusque directness.

"The man you came to Alabama to kill."

"You would shield him?"

She kept her eyes on the road, watching a wagon that lumbered by. "I don't know whether I would or not."

"You want to know all about him?"

"I do."

"In the first place you would like his name?"

"It might be well to begin with that."

"Then I can't begin, for I don't know his name."

"Not know his name?"

"No."

"What is he like?"

"Tall, well built; square shoulders, which he throws back like an officer in the regular army of the United States."

I paused. She waited for me to continue.

"You would also like to know whether his death would bereave any one—a father, mother, sister, some woman who hangs upon every word he says when he is with her and dreams of him constantly when he is away?" I spoke the words bitterly. I was thinking of my loss.

"Yes, I would like to know that too."

"I can't satisfy you. I have seen him only once and then at a distance."

"Does he wish to kill you?"

"No; I don't believe he is aware of my existence."

"Singular," she murmured thoughtfully. Then she turned and looked me in the face. "He has occasioned you some great sorrow—done you some mighty wrong?"

"You promised to ask me no more questions."

"True. I beg your pardon."

Another woman would have pouted, coaxed, done everything but asked openly to have her curiosity gratified. Helen Stanforth was made of sterner stuff. She stood looking out of the window without another word. I waited till I was satisfied that she was too proud to ask for favor, then started in again with the purpose of watching the development of some other mood.

"You are heart and soul a Confederate?"

"I am."

"And you will not excuse those southern men and women who differ with you?"

"Yes, if they do it openly."

This was a cut at me which I did not care to notice. "Have you ever seen," I asked, "men forced at the point of the bayonet to enter the Confederate army? Have you ever seen families trying to leave the south to join those with whom they affiliated shot down in their tracks?"

"You are a Union man, or you would never talk that way," she interrupted.

"I was born and bred in Tennessee."

"Yes, in east Tennessee."

"May I not have seen great wrong done and yet given my heart and soul to the southern cause?"

"You may, but have not."

She was getting too near the truth. I must throw her off the trail.

"I will impart one more piece of information with regard to myself. You have promised to ask no more questions and have kept your promise. You deserve a reward."

I took from my pocket a letter and held it up to her. It was addressed to—

MAJOR JOHN BRANDERSTANE,
—th Tennessee Cavalry,
Murfreesboro, Tenn.

Her face lighted. She did not know there were Tennessee regiments in the Union service. "I knew you were a soldier, and now I know you are a Confederate." She put out her hand, but I did not take it.

"No, no," I said, "I will not take an unfair advantage of you. That evidence is not conclusive. I have shown it to you to prove that I may be what I will. I could offer as good proof that I am a Yankee."

"I don't care who you are; you are an honorable man."

"I see no reason for you to assume that."

"You have said it would be easy for you to prove to me that you are what I wish you to be?"

"Granted."

"But you will not. You have reason to remain unknown; you have a great purpose; you have been robbed of some one you love; you have suffered from some of those outrages in east Tennessee that papa has told us about. There has been a cowardly murder. You will be revenged. I know it; I feel it."

She was splendid in her indignation, her sympathy. I protested against this burst of confidence, but to no purpose. Were I the veriest demon in Moloch's train no one could convince her of it. I was not learned in the ways of women, but I had gained an insight into this girl's nature. Though it smoldered, it was emotional. No light kindling could set it aflame. There must be some strong underlying impulse. The purpose that I had revealed to her had taken hold of her imagination.

But it troubled her that I should withhold my secret from her. She gave me an appealing look.

"Why do you not trust me?"

"I do trust you. Am I not at your mercy? Should you inform the authorities that you have an unaccounted for man under your roof I should be arrested at once."

"I would never do that."

"No, but will you aid me in remaining incognito?"

She was silent. There was evidently a question which she was trying to solve. "Would that be helping you to kill your man?" she asked.

"Suppose it would?"

There was a dangerous glitter in her eye. Perhaps she experienced a fascination in being thus indirectly a party to my work of vengeance.

"You have not answered my question," I said.

Still she was silent. The blood was coming and going auroralike on her neck and cheek. Presently she drew her lips together tightly as if she were striking an enemy.

"I will."

CHAPTER V.

ARREST.

"HAVE you a man by the name of Branderstane stopping with you?"

I heard the words spoken at the front door in a pleasant voice, in which there was something languid. My heart began a vigorous thumping. Looking out of the window, I saw a troop of Confederate cavalry at the gate and men darting in different directions. I knew that the house was being surrounded. Helen went out to meet the inquirer.

"Do you wish to see Mr. Branderstane?" she asked.

"I do."

Helen must have suspected that I was in danger. There was a slight pause, in which I fancied she was deliberating what to do.

"He is in a critical condition," she said. "He was wounded recently. Is your business with him important?"

"Very important."

"Show the gentleman in, if you please, Miss Stanforth," I called. I knew there was nothing to be gained by attempting to put the man off. I must appear unconcerned.

She led the way to where I was. A young man in the uniform of a Confederate captain entered. He was a handsome fellow, with an indolent, self indulgent air, and evidently a gentleman. He was extremely deferential to Helen, carrying his hat in his hand and bearing himself as if it pained him to thus trespass upon the household.

"Are you John Branderstane, sir?"

"At your service. And you?"

To be continued.

TRAIN STRUCK STREET CAR.

Man Working Alongside Track Instantly Killed.

Ottawa, Jan. 4.—A Canadian Pacific freight train on the Ottawa & St. Lawrence Railway collided with an Ottawa electric car on St. Patrick street, neat New Edinburgh, cutting the street car in two.

Although several people were in the street car, only one woman was injured, and the motorman received a scalp wound. The street car fell on a man working alongside the street and killed him. His name was August Waunck, about 60 years old. He leaves a wife and children.

Landlord Removed Door.

Ottawa, Jan. 4.—Considerable feeling has been engendered by the action of the landlord of a house on Gloucester street. One of the tenants of P. Quinn is two months behind with his rent and is out of work, so the landlord ordered the family out, and, finding that no good, tried to throw them out. This also failed, so he adopted the freeze-out system, taking off the front door. The wife and three little children were in danger of being frozen, but the local charity officer has come to their temporary relief with a load of wood wherewith to make a fire.

Falsified Bank Books.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 4.—Another sensational chapter was added to the California Safe Deposit & Trust Co. scandal, when H. L. Storrs, one of the bookkeepers of the concern, confessed that false entries in the books had been made under orders from J. Dalzell Brown, the imprisoned manager of the bank, and J. D. Robertson, the fugitive assistant secretary.

The confession establishes the fact that nearly $1,000,000 was falsely added to the assets of the bank to deceive the state commissioners.

An Englishman's Suicide.

Watertown, N. Y., Jan. 4.—Cyril G. Horth, aged 27, an Englishman who arrived in this city a few weeks ago in search of work, was found dead in his room yesterday. A box of strychnine tablets and a note reading: "In case of death notify Edward Horth, Bay street, Hereford, England," were found.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY. Take LAXATIVE BROMO Quinine Tablets. Druggists refund money if it fails to cure. E. W. GROVE'S signature is on each box. 25c

NATIONAL MEMORIAL.

Will Require a Million Dollars to Save the Plains of Abraham.

Ottawa, Jan. 4.—Arrangements have been concluded for the conferences of delegates from all the Canadian clubs to be held in Ottawa on the 15th inst., to devise ways and means for raising a fund of one million dollars by public subscription to supplement grants which are already promised by the Federal and Provincial Governments toward the conversion of the Plains of Abraham, the more important parts of the battlefields and Ste. Foye, at Quebec, into a national park, and the erection thereon of a monument to commemorate the reconciliation of the British and French races in Canada. The conference will be held in the afternoon, and will be followed in the evening by a public meeting in the Russell Theatre, to be addressed by his Excellency Earl Grey and a number of gentlemen prominent in Canadian public life.

Attacked Wife With Poker.

Cornwall, Jan. 4.—Joseph Ashworth was committed to jail yesterday afternoon by Police Magistrate Days to await trial on a charge of attempted murder. Ashworth, who is a wizened, little man, 60 years of age, has always been jealous of his wife, whom he married in England thirty years ago. The family say that he has not worked for five years, and usually one of the children stayed around the house with the mother, whom he has frequently threatened to kill. On Dec. 23 he assaulted his wife with a stove poker and knife. He would probably have killed her but for the interference of his two little children.

Two Struck By a Car.

Montreal, Jan. 4.—As a result of being struck by a street car, Mrs. Arthur Farquharson of Wood avenue, Westmount, is lying in a critical condition in the Western Hospital with a fractured skull, while her husband is in an adjoining ward with his right hand amputated and suffering from serious internal injuries. Mr. and Mrs. Farquharson were crossing at the corner of St. Catharine and Wood avenue yesterday evening on their way home, when they were struck by a passing car and knocked down. Mrs. Farquharson is not expected to recover.

Opposed to Curzon.

London, Jan. 4.—Considerable opposition has developed to the candidature of Lord Curzon for the vacancy in the Irish representative peers, caused by the death of Lord Kilmaine. Viscount De Vesci and Lord Ashtown already had been nominated for the vacancy before Lord Curzon appeared upon the scene and they show little disposition to retire.

Chronic Grumblers.

London, Jan. 4.—(C. A. P.)—The Brazilian Review, Rio de Janeiro, says: "The Englishman who emigrates is always grumbling. He thinks he has nothing to learn, and, further, if he cannot get beefsteak to his liking, he thinks the land of his adoption is a very poor sort of place, and he does not hesitate to say so."

Twenty-one new boats will go into commission on the great lakes when navigation opens.

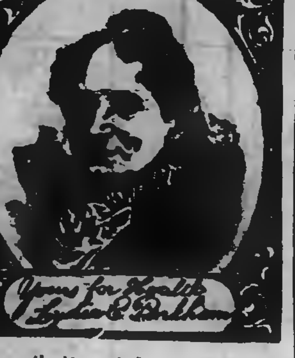
WHO SHE WAS

SKETCH OF THE LIFE OF LYDIA E. PINKHAM

And a True Story of How the Vegetable Compound Had Its Birth and How the "Panic of '73" Caused it to be Offered for Public Sale in Drug Stores.

This remarkable woman, whose maiden name was Estes, was born in Lynn, Mass., February 9th, 1819, coming from a good old Quaker family. For some years she taught school, and became known as a woman of an alert and investigating mind, an earnest seeker after knowledge, and above all, possessed of a wonderfully sympathetic nature.



In 1843 she married Isaac Pinkham, a builder and real estate operator, and their early married life was marked by prosperity and happiness. They had four children, three sons and a daughter.

In those good old fashioned days it was common for mothers to make their own home medicines from roots and herbs, nature's own remedies—calling in a physician only in specially urgent cases. By tradition and experience many of them gained a wonderful knowledge of the curative properties of the various roots and herbs.

Mrs. Pinkham took a great interest in the study of roots and herbs, their characteristics and power over disease. She maintained that just as nature so bountifully provides in the harvest-fields and orchards vegetable foods of all kinds; so, if we but take the pains to find them, in the roots and herbs of the field there are remedies expressly designed to cure the various ills and weaknesses of the body, and it was her pleasure to search these out, and prepare simple and effective medicines for her own family and friends.

Chief of these was a rare combination of the choicest medicinal roots and herbs found best adapted for the cure of the ills and weaknesses peculiar to the female sex, and Lydia E. Pinkham's friends and neighbors learned that her compound relieved and cured and it became quite popular among them.

All this so far was done freely, without money and without price as a labor of love.

But in 1873 the financial crisis struck Lynn. Its length and severity were too much for the large real estate interests of the Pinkham family, as this class of business suffered most from fearful depression, so when the Centennial year dawned it found their property swept away. Some other source of income had to be found.

At this point Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was made known to the world.

The three sons and the daughter, with their mother, combined forces to restore the family fortune. They argued that the medicine which was so good for their woman friends and neighbors was equally good for the women of the whole world.

The Pinkhams had no money, and little credit. Their first laboratory was the kitchen, where roots and herbs were steeped on the stove, gradually filling a gross of bottles. Then came the question of selling it, for always before they had given it away freely. They hired a job printer to run off some pamphlets setting forth the merits of the medicine, now called Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and these were distributed by the Pinkham sons in Boston, New York, and Brooklyn.

The wonderful curative properties of the medicine were, to a great extent, self-advertising, for whoever used it recommended it to others, and the demand gradually increased.

In 1877, by combined efforts the family had saved enough money to commence newspaper advertising and from that time the growth and success of the enterprise were assured, until to-day Lydia E. Pinkham and her Vegetable Compound have become household words everywhere, and many tons of roots and herbs are used annually in its manufacture.

Lydia E. Pinkham herself did not live to see the great success of this work. She passed to her reward years ago, but not till she had provided means for continuing her work as effectively as she could have done it herself.

During her long and eventful experience she was ever methodical in her work and she was always careful to preserve a record of every case that came to her attention. The case of every sick woman who applied to her for advice—and there were thousands—received careful study and the details, including symptoms, treatment and results were recorded for future reference, and to-day these records, together with hundreds of thousands made since, are available to sick women the world over, and represent a vast collaboration of information regarding the treatment of woman's ills, which for authenticity and accuracy can hardly be equaled in any library in the world.

With Lydia E. Pinkham worked her daughter-in-law, the present Mrs. Pinkham. She was carefully instructed in all her hard-won knowledge, and for years she assisted her in her vast correspondence.

To her hands naturally fell the direction of the work when its originator passed away. For nearly twenty-five years she has continued it, and nothing in the work shows when the first Lydia E. Pinkham dropped her pen, and the present Mrs. Pinkham, now the mother of a large family, took it up. With woman assistants, some as capable as herself, the present Mrs. Pinkham continues this great work, and probably from the office of no other person have so many women been advised how to regain health. Sick women, this advice is "Yours for Health" freely given if you only write to ask for it.

Such is the history of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound: made from simple roots and herbs; the one great medicine for women's ailments, and the fitting monument to the noble woman whose name it bears.

French Spy on Trial in London on Grave Charge

Baron Von Veltheim Appears in London Court.

Charged With Blackmailing South African Millionaire—Prisoner Declares Revenge Is Motive For Prosecution—Was Tried For Murder of Complainant's Brother Ten Years Ago—Was Secret Agent.

London, Jan. 6.—Not since the time of Whittaker Wright have Londoners of all classes flocked to the Guildhall in such numbers as in the early stages of the trial of Franz Von Veltheim, who styles himself Baron Carl Ludwig Von Veltheim — possibly the world's most widely known international adventurer. The man is now charged with attempting to extort, on threat of murder, $8,000 from Solomon B. Joel, the London and South African mine owner and financier.

The defendant is believed by some to be Frank Kurtze, the murderer of Woolf Joel, brother of the prosecutor in the present case. That crime was committed in Johannesburg ten years ago, and Veltheim's lawyers are using this fact on which to base the defence that the present prosecution is instituted out of revenge by the murdered man's brother.

A French Secret Agent.

When his case was called Veltheim candidly admited that he was a secret agent of the French Government, and boldly announces his address as the Quai Dorsay (the French Foreign Office), Paris, which fact, by the way, may account for the zeal of the German detectives in attempting to obtain his extradition from the French Government on the charge of obtaining $10,000 from a German woman.

Veltheim told of questioning the detective who brought him from France concerning the eleven warrants which formed the basis of his arrest, the chief of which was that involving the alleged Joel blackmail threat.

"When the warrant charging me with an attempt to blackmail Joel was read," said the prisoner, in an unconcerned manner, "I said: 'Fancy an innocent letter like that being construed into a threat to kill and murder!' I have had the opinion of Sir Thomas Barclay on that letter. He said to me that no one could see any harm in the letter if he considered it with candor and honesty.

"Three months elapsed between the time I wrote that letter and the first step taken by anybody to secure my arrest. They are trying to make out that that letter is a continuation of some crazy letter written ten years ago."

Once Tried For Murder.

The detective who brought the prisoner from Paris testified that Von Veltheim had said to him when they were coming to London:

"These letters were put in evidence against me in my trial for the murder of Joel's brother in Pretoria, and I am advised that an absolutely illegal use of them is being made a second time in the effort to procure evidence against me."

It was then brought out that Inspector Pentin, the detective referred to, had not taken down Von Veltheim's remarks until an hour after the warrant had been read to him.

Cross-examined by Von Veltheim's counsel, Pentin was asked: "Did Von Veltheim, on being arrested in Paris, tell you to go back to Joel and tell him not to make an ass of himself? Did he tell you to advise Joel to read that letter a second time?"

"No," answered the detective. "Von Veltheim simply said that Joel was a fool to take any notice of the letter."

In response to further questions, the detective admitted that he did not caution Von Veltheim that any statements he should make would be used against him.

In view of this fact and the strength of the counsel who are conducting Von Veltheim's defence, there seems to be a pretty good chance that the prisoner will again slip from the clutches of the law. Before the case will be finally determined, however, a number of witnesses will have to be brought to London from South Africa.

Preacher Jilted at Altar.

Toledo, Ohio, Jan. 6.—When Rev. Walter Clapp, formerly rector of St. John's Church here, now a missionary in the Philippines, entered St. John's Church Saturday morning to be wedded to Miss Alice Thorne, a prominent Toledo society girl, he was handed a note sent by the bride, declaring the match off. Miss Thorne gives no public reason for her action.

Rev. Dr. Clapp came direct from the Philippines to wed Miss Thorne, who is from one of the most prominent families in the city.

Dynamite Judge's Home.

Wellsville, N. Y., Jan. 6.—The residence of Justice E. R. Carpenter, at Andover, was badly damaged by dynamite early Saturday. The explosive was placed in a cellar window under a bedroom usually occupied by Justice Carpenter. Fortunately the family were sleeping in another part of the house and were uninjured. The damage will exceed $600.

Justice Carpenter has rigidly enforced the liquor laws, and the crime is attributed to someone angered by his action.

Strong Denials.

Washington, Jan. 6.—A sweeping denial of the charges by officers and counsel, and more particularly by President Ripley of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railroad, upon the Government and the court in connection with the fining of that road of $330,000 for granting rebates, is contained in a letter to President Roosevelt.

General Booth Denies.

London, Jan. 6.—(C. A. P.)—General Booth, speaking at Liverpool, ridiculed the allegations that emigrants were starving in Canada. Not a hundred of the 20,000 the army had sent were unemployed

Killed by Street Car.

Buffalo, N. Y., Jan. 6.—Lieut.-Col. John C. Cautley, 58 years old, a retired British army officer, who made his winter home at the Grand Union Hotel, Toronto, was instantly killed yesterday by a street car. He had alighted from a car on his way to the home of John M. Provost, where his two daughters, students at the Technical High School, are guests.

He did not hear a car coming in the opposite direction, and was struck with terrific force. Death was instantaneous, his head being crushed and body mangled, being carried 130 feet on the fender of the car.

Col. Cautley fought through campaigns in India and Egypt, was with Kitchener at Khartoum, and with Lord Roberts in the Boer war.

Druce Case Not Settled.

London, Jan. 6.—At a conference on Saturday of the lawyers and others interested in the claim of George Hollamby Druce to the estate and title of the Duke of Portland, it was decided after receiving the reports of the doctor and surveyor who attended the exhumation of the Druce coffin, on behalf of the claimant, to continue the prosecution of Herbert Druce for perjury when the case comes up in the Police Court to-day.

While no statement was given out, it is understood that the prosecution will insist that the burden of proving that the body found in the coffin is actually that of T. C. Druce, lies with the defence.

Imagination Killed Him.

New York, Jan. 6.—Christian Henry is dead at the King's County Hospital of pure imagination, the doctors say. Henry had been expecting to have hydrophobia for four years, finally worried himself into all the symptoms and expired just as those do who really have the disease. The autopsy yesterday showed he did not have rabies at all, however. The physicians pronounce his case one of the most remarkable on record. They attribute death to complete nervous collapse and a queer form of brain disease.

Henry's pet dog was bitten by a rabid animal four years ago. There were no indications that the dog had hydrophobia.

Pope Is Not Ill.

Rome, Jan. 6.—Rumors of the illness of the Pope are unfounded, as it is known that on Friday he received Archbishop Riondan of San Francisco, and yesterday he gave an audience to Baron von Rotenhen, who has his letters of recall as minister to the Holy See from Prussia.

Herr von Muhlberg, ex-Under-Secretary of the Foreign Office, will take the place of Baron von Rotenhen, and it is understood that the Prussian Minister will seek the assistance of the Vatican in the Germanisation of Poland.

Ordered to Get Out.

Berlin, Jan. 6.—The 17 Russians, members of the central committee of the Russian workingmen's party who were arrested Thursday night in a raid on a house in the suburb of Charlotteburg, were released yesterday and ordered to leave Germany within 24 hours.

London, Jan. 6.—(C. A. P.)—The press of Great Britain does justice to the memory of Hanlan, paying tribute to his powers in a warm, sympathetic fashion.

BOMB IN KANSAS BANK

Three Persons Injured by Explosion; Much Damage Done.

Miscreants Are Unknown—Bank Was Crowded at the Time—Customers Were Stricken With Panic—Made Wild Rush For the Doors—Building Shaken as If By an Earthquake Shock.

Kansas City, Jan. 6.—The explosion of a bomb at noon Friday in the basement of the magnificent three-story marble building at the northeast corner of Tenth and Baltimore, occupied by the First National Bank and other offices, caused considerable damage.

Three persons were injured: Elbert Ward, negro porter in the bank, condition serious; Logan Wilson, bank clerk, rendered unconscious, will recover; J. Donaldson, bank clerk, cut by falling glass.

John F. Pelletier, superintendent of the fire insurance patrol, who was in the banking rooms at the time of the explosion, and E. F. Swinney, president of the bank, are authority for the statement that the explosion was the result of a bomb set off by some persons unknown to them. Neither were able to give any cause for the commission of the act. The bank was crowded with customers at the time, these, together with the employes, numbering about 250 persons. A panic ensued and there was a wild scramble for the doors.

The First National Bank building was one of the most beautiful structures in the city. It was finished last year, and cost close to $1,000,000. The main floor was occupied by the bank, which is the largest financial institution in Kansas City. The two upper storeys are occupied principally by real estate and law firms.

Investigation developed the fact that a bomb had been placed in a toilet-room in the northwest corner of the basement, 20 feet from the main vault. The toilet-room was 18 by 20 feet square, and was separated from the adjoining room by a 3-inch plaster partition. This partition was supported by a steel post.

The bomb struck this post with such force as to bend the post a foot out of perpendicular, wreck the partition and send a cloud of dust up the wide stair way leading to the banking rooms. The building was shaken as if by an earthquake.

The explosion was felt in all parts of the city.

Premier Has Recovered.

London, Jan. 6.—While not relishing the notion of bye-elections to Parliament on the eve of the reassembling of the Commons, Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman is looking forward to Jan. 29 with full confidence in the ability of the Liberals to hold their position at Westminster and with the country.

His health is much improved, and what was diagnosed at Bristol as a heart malady is now understood to have been merely a bad attack of indigestion.

The Prime Minister is described from Biaritz as in his best fighting form. Talk of his promotion or retirement to the House of Lords is in abeyance.

Sir Henry recognizes, however, that one of the principal obstacles to the smooth working of his plans is the trade reaction in all parts of the United Kingdom. Forecasts of economic writers for 1908 dwell upon the decline in prosperity.

Republic of Egypt.

Cairo, Jan. 6.—The "Republic of Egypt" is a new idea in politics, but though the name has a strange air, and sounds more strangely still, it is none the less the watchword of a new party, who are styling themselves Republican Nationalists.

Their manifesto is not yet proclaimed, but it is being drawn up, apparently at secret conclaves held in one or another of the international clubs in Cairo. Meanwhile those who might fear that the rising Republicans intend emulating the deeds of the mountain, or of Robespierre, are reassured by a moving spirit of the new republic. In a letter to the press he states that the aims of the party will be to diffuse in Egypt the ideal of an Egyptian republic.

A Persistent Young Thief.

Windsor, Jan. 6.—Stanley Hunt, the bell boy in the Crawford House, who was freed from the charge of stealing $1 from one of the servants in the hotel about two weeks ago, on a strong plea for leniency by his employer, Walter Perkins, was discovered by Mr. Perkins Friday night trying to force his way into one of the rear windows with a piece of gas pipe. He was turned over to an officer and Saturday Magistrate Bartlett sent him to the Central Prison, Toronto, for six months.

Plunges Knife In Wife's Heart.

Easton, Pa., Jan. 6.—Frank Smith, son of City Controller Chester Smith, yesterday murdered his wife and then attempted to commit suicide. Smith and his wife had been separated for some time.

He stole to the room she occupied and plunged a carving knife into his wife's heart. Going to his father's residence, Smith recited the details of the crime, and then attempted to kill himself by gashing his throat and abdomen.

Goldfield Strike Broken.

Goldfield, Nev., Jan. 6.—The backbone of the miners' strike seems broken. It is hoped that all mines will be in full operation within ten days. The hills are full of miners applying for work, and they are deserting the Western Federation by the score.

Children Growing Worse.

Rome, Jan. 6.—Senator Oronzo Quarta, president of the Supreme Court, in inaugurating the work for the new year, delivered a speech dealing chiefly with the criminality of minors, which, he declared, is growing everywhere.

Revenue officers at Okalhoma City poured 2,200 barrels of beer into the sewers.

LOOK PLEASANT PLEASE.

Big Lumber Mills Re-opening—Thousands Go to Work.

Galveston, Texas, Jan. 6.—Fourteen lumber mills, the property of four companies and employing more than twelve thousand men, will resume operations on Jan. 10. Nine of these mills are located in Eastern Texas, and five of them in Western Louisiana. Some of them have been closed down for nearly three months and others for about two months.

It is understood that six or eight other mills will resume operations, at least on half day shifts, before the first of next month.

Suspension of these mills indirectly affected other industries in the building trades and nearly 4,000 men employed by the railroads in handling trains in the lumber sections were thrown out of work when the plants suspended operations. Mill men say the outlook for a busy spring is very flattering.

CONVICT KILLS TWO.

Escapes From State Prison and Posse Is In Pursuit.

Little Rock, Ark., Jan. 6.—Posses of citizens are searching the woods in the vicinity of Spence, Harton County, in an effort to capture Yates Standridge, an escaped convict, who on Friday killed two persons and wounded another. They declare Standridge will be lynched if caught.

Standridge, after escaping from the state prison, where he was serving a sentence for robbery, went to the home of his wife and threatened her life. The woman sought protection at the home of a neighbor. Standridge followed her to the neighbor's home and killed N. Rousemont and dangerously wounded Mrs. Rousemont. Mrs. Standridge is missing and is believed to have been killed.

Thaw Trial To-Day.

New York, Jan. 6.—The final conferences of the attorneys engaged in the defence of Harry K. Thaw were held without the presence of Mrs. William Thaw, the mother, who was expected to go over the case in its entirety with the lawyers.

Mrs. Thaw is still too ill to come on from her home in Pittsburg, and will not be in court when Thaw is called to his place this morning at 10.30 o'clock. She is expected to arrive in New York within the next week or ten days, however, and will be ready to again take the stand if the attorneys for the defence deem her testimony necessary to their case. Josiah and Edward Thaw, two brothers, and Mrs. George Lauder Carnegie, a sister, are expected to-day.

The trial will be held in the same branch of the Supreme Court as before.

Justice Victor Dowling, who will preside, is one of the youngest members of the state supreme branch, but has already attained a wide reputation as a jurist. He had expressed an intention to hold the opposing attorneys steadily to their tasks, and to expedite the trial as much as possible.

Prosperous Farmer Suicides.

Port Hope, Jan. 6.—Richard N. Smith, one of the most prosperous farmers in the Township of Hope, committed suicide yesterday morning at Starkville.

Mr. Smith left the house about nine o'clock, to do the chores, and not returning at the usual hour, his son went to look for him and was horrified to find his lifeless body hanging from one of the beams in the barn. Coroner McKenzie of Newtonville has been notified and will conduct an investigation.

Mr. Smith lived at Starkville and was well known and highly respected. He was comfortably situated, owning his farm of 300 acres. A widow, one daughter and one son survive.

U. S. Lieutenant In Trouble.

Detroit, Jan. 6.—The warrant issued Saturday for the arrest on a charge of forging a check for $46.50 of Lieut. R. E. Hazzard of the 7th United States Infantry will not be served on the lieutenant until after he has faced the court-martial which convenes at Fort Wayne to-day to try him on five charges, including duplication of pay accounts, breaking his pledge, and conduct unbecoming an officer. It was said yesterday that Miss May Masseth, a 20-year-old girl who lives in the vicinity of Fort Wayne, called at the fort Saturday night to see Lieut. Hazzard, and notified Col. Gorman that they were married last Monday at Walkerville, Ont.

Terrorist Activity.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 6.—Revolutionists at Peterhof Saturday night quietly entered the armory of the Caspian Regiment and got away with sixty rifles.

Discoveries of bombs and explosives in St. Petersburg are reported almost every day, and the police declare they have information to the effect that certain groups of terrorists are preparing to resume activity.

Saturday the police seized 14 bombs in the lodgings of a laborer and took 20 men into custody.

Shot by Sheriffs.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Jan. 6.—Garrett Hedden, a desperado, who six years ago murdered his brother in Polk County, Tenn., was yesterday shot and killed by Sheriff Biggs of Polk County. Hedden's 18-year-old son was shot and killed by deputy sheriffs a few hours later.

Officers hesitated to invade the mountain fastnesses until Hedden recently become so defiant that he made frequent trips to Benton and openly defied arrest.

Policeman Shot Down.

Oakland, Calif., Jan. 6.—James Fenton, a policeman, was shot and killed Friday in West Oakland by F. A. Boyle, who said he was a United States sailor, stationed at Mare Island. Thomas Shields of West Oakland then took Boyle's revolver and fatally shot Boyle in the abdomen. Boyle died later at a hospital.

Policeman Fenton had accosted Boyle and another man, whom he suspected of theft.

SWEET REVENGE

By
Captain F. A. MITCHEL,
Author of "Chattanooga," "Chickamauga," Etc.

Copyright, 1907, by Harper & Brothers.

"Captain Beaumont, —th Geowgia cavalry, sir."

"What can I do for you, captain?"

"I must trouble you to get up and come with me."

"On what authority?"

"My own, sir. It has been reported to me that a southern man working in the Yankee interest is here, and I have come to take him."

"Don't you think that an arbitrary way to treat a citizen of Tennessee, captain?"

"Not when he has Yankee affiliations."

"By what right do you accuse me of Yankee affiliations?"

"You were watched all the time you were at Huntsville, sir. There was no evidence against you, and you were allowed to leave the city, but after you had got away a man came forward who claimed to have seen you in one of the Yankee camps at Nashville."

"Indeed? Did he explain his own presence there?"

This was a home thrust. The captain hesitated.

"It seems to me, captain," I added, following up my advantage, "that you are hasty in acting on such information."

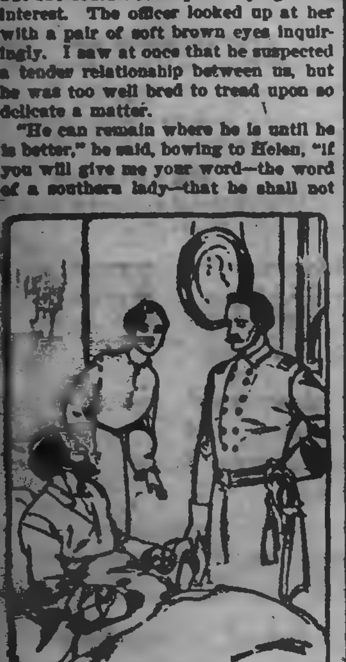
Helen spoke up: "My father was at Nashville soon after the surrender. Would you arrest him?"

"The information comes pretty straight. I reckon you'll have to come along."

"His wound is liable to open," said Helen, "and if it should there might be a fatal result."

She spoke with apparent indifference, but she could not help betraying some interest. The officer looked up at her with a pair of soft brown eyes inquiringly. I saw at once that he suspected a tender relationship between us, but he was too well bred to tread upon so delicate a matter.

"He can remain where he is until he is better," he said, bowing to Helen, "if you will give me your word—the word of a southern lady—that he shall not leave your house till we call for him."



"Are you John Branderstone, sir?"

Helen cast an inquiring look at me to know if she should give the pledge. I saw that a glance would enable me to remain where I was and, if I chose, after the departure of the troop, leave the house, with Helen to bear the responsibility of my going.

"Nonsense, man!" I said, rising. "Do you suppose I'm going to permit a woman to stand between you and me? You are a gentleman, if you are taking it upon yourself to arrest whom you please, and I'm enough of a gentleman not to avail myself of your proffered avenue of escape. If I must go, I must. Where do you intend to take me, captain?"

By this time several men who had followed the officer pushed their way into the room. I received no reply to my question, but was ordered to get up and go with them. The members of the family, discovering that something had gone wrong, flocked about, and it was easy to see that, though they did not understand why I was arrested, they were all in sympathy with me. Mrs. Stanforth seemed greatly distressed. Mr. Stanforth attempted to argue my case for me, of course to no purpose. The negroes were all indignant. While waiting for my horse I heard Lib delivering herself in the back hall.

"Wha' fo' dat mis'able osifer wid he sleeves covered all ober wid dem gol' snakes goin t' 'rest a fine south'n gemlen like dat? Dat wha' yo' call freedom? Colored folks got mo' freedom den dat. I heah mas'r talkin 'bout stutional libe'ty. Wha's de use o' stutional libe'ty when de oder man got he hand on yo' collar?"

I heard no more, for I was conducted out to the gallery. Just as I started down the walk Ethel appeared, with curious eyes, and I paused to take her up and give her a parting kiss. I cast a glance at Helen. There was intense interest in her face, but among so many emotions I could not discover which predominated. I went with the soldiers down to the gate, where I found my horse, and, mounting, a cavalryman on each side of me, rode away with the troop.

We proceeded up the pike for a short distance, then, crossing the railroad track, struck a road which bent to the east.

"Captain," I said, "I don't like the direction you are going. If your intentions were not murderous, you would take me to Huntsville and examine into the charge against me. It appears that you are taking me into the country to dispose of me."

"I am on my way to join my squadron near Brownsborough, sir, where yo' will have an opportunity to face yo'r accuser. If yo' are innocent, yo'll have no trouble. Yo' can enlist in my company."

"Thank you. Do I look like a man who would go begging for a commission?"

"I beg yo'r pardon, sir." And he lifted his hat apologetically.

I had retained my coolness thus far, but I confess I did not like the situation. As a southern man, used to southern people, I felt a certain confidence, yet if it were known that I was a Union officer I would be put out of the way without benefit of clergy. Who was the man who had informed against me? What did he know? The more I thought about it the more intense became my anxiety. Suddenly I looked up and saw white tents. I knew at once by the looks of the camp that it contained one or two companies of cavalry. There was a railroad bridge near by, crossing what I knew to be Flint river, and I judged that the cavalry was guarding this bridge.

I had forgotten my unlucky wound and was intent on the camp when, passing under overhanging branches, a stiff bough scraped my arm, and I felt at once that it had been injured. I told the captain of my fears, and we halted to make an examination. Taking off my coat, there, as I expected, was a stain of fresh blood on my shirt sleeve.

"You needn't trouble yourself to murder me," I remarked. "That wound is a better enemy than all my others together."

The captain cast glances about him for a house. He had no intention of murdering me or being a party indirectly to my death. While he was making a survey of the surrounding country I was twisting my handkerchief above the wound.

"Can you get to that plantation?" he asked.

I looked up and saw a large manor house about half a mile distant, with its flanking rows of negro huts.

"I can try it."

We mounted and rode on and in a few minutes passed into the gateway between imposing stone posts, proceeding by a winding way to the house. I was glad to dismount and get inside the spacious hall out of the sun. There I sat down on an old fashioned haircloth mahogany sofa.

A number of white and negro children, who were playing together as contentedly as if the pickaninnies were not the property of their fair skinned playmates, stood gaping at me. A slim man with a determined mouth, at the corners of which were marks of tobacco juice—he turned out to be an overseer—an equally thin elderly woman, whom I had heard addressed as Miss Pinkley, and a quadroon girl made up the group. I was sitting with my head resting against the sofa back, weak and despondent. Suddenly down the great winding staircase came a young girl with a shapely petite figure, a pretty oval face and an olive complexion, from which two almond shaped eyes flashed at me and the group about me with the quintessence of astonishment. Running her words together in a way peculiar to herself, she asked:

"What's the matter?"

"The gentleman's bleeding from a wound in the arm, Miss Jack," said the quadroon girl.

"Who is he? What is he? Is he going to die?" She fired the words as if they were bullets.

"Jaqueline," put in the elderly lady called Miss Pinkley, "don't ask so many questions at once." Then she went up stairs, remarking that she would bring her smelling salts.

"I don't think I'm going to die just yet," I said, smiling encouragingly at the young girl whose interest I had excited. "I received a wound a few days ago and have had very bad luck with it. Anything that hits me never fails to strike the tender spot."

"Why don't you lie down? Cynthia, go get pillows."

Cynthia, the quadroon girl, was engaged at that moment trying to drive away the children and did not at once obey.

"Cynthia, go get pillows!" repeated Miss Jaqueline, stamping her foot.

It occurred to me that this young girl possessed an unbridled disposition. Cynthia, who was doubtless used to her mistress' way of speaking, went for the pillows, and when they arrived Miss Jack made me lie down, whether I would or not, and covered me with a shawl, sprinkling me all the while with such a warm shower of devotion that, despite her irate order to her maid, she quite won my heart.

SERIOUS STRIKE RIOTS

Police and Sheriffs Fight Crowd of Three Thousand Men.

Martial Law Declared at Muncie—Troops Are Called Out—Five Hundred Citizens Enrolled as Special Constables — Saloons All Closed—Women and Children Ordered Off the Streets.

Indianapolis, Jan. 6.—Governor Hanly on Saturday issued a proclamation declaring martial law at Muncie and placing Brigadier-General McKee in command of the state troops assembled there, namely, twelve companies of infantry and one battery.

The martial law order covers a radius of four miles from the Delaware County court house, and takes in the factory districts of Muncie. As the attorney-general, Dowling, was sent to Muncie by the governor to act as legal adviser for Brigadier-General McKee, Governor Hanly's action in sending troops, supplemented by the energy displayed Saturday by the attorneys and citizens of Muncie resulted in checking the mob spirit.

There were no outbreaks during the day. Five hundred citizens, including some members of the Commercial Club of Muncie, have been sworn in as special officers to preserve the peace. These men will endeavor to control the situation, but will be backed by the soldiers.

Mayor Guthrie has closed all saloons and ordered all women and children to keep off the streets except on errands of necessity. The determination of the governor to call out the state militia followed a riot at Muncie late Friday afternoon, when the police and deputy sheriffs fought with a crowd of 3,000 men, women and children.

There has been no serious trouble at Anderson, Marion, Alexandria and Elwood. Twenty-seven employes of the various lines voted to strike, but the car service was only partly interrupted.

Mount Royal Still Missing.

Halifax, N. S., Jan. 6.—Up to midnight there is still no word of the missing C. P. R. steamship Mount Royal and almost all hope for her safety has been abandoned.

Even if still afloat, the last of her coal and provisions must be now reached, and the situation of the four hundred passengers and crew must be desperate.

One theory among shipping men here which would account for the loss of the Mount Royal is that the liner may have got out of her course and possibly struck an iceberg and gone down at once with all hands.

Public sentiment generally expressed is that either a warship or some other vessel should be sent at once in search as was done several years ago when the Allan liner Huronian went astray.

Pettibone Acquitted.

Boise, Idaho, Jan. 6.—An end to the prosecution of the men charged with the murder of former Governor Frank Steunenberg, except the cases of Harry Orchard and Jack Simpkins, came Saturday with the acquittal of George A. Pettibone and the discharge of Charles H. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners, both charged with conspiracy with Wm. D. Haywood to murder Steunenberg. Moyer will return with Pettibone in a few days to Denver. Haywood was acquitted last summer, and Moyer will not be tried.

The case of Orchard, confessed assassin of Steunenberg, and chief witness against Moyer, Haywood and Pettibone, is in the hands of Prosecuting Attorney Van Duyn of Canyon County, Idaho.

Saved From Suicide.

Niagara Falls, Jan. 6.—The reservation police late Saturday afternoon arrested Frank H. Dunbar of the Vancouver hotel. The police say that Dunbar was contemplating suicide by throwing himself into the river.

Dunbar was seen near the brink of the falls weeping and behaving in an irrational manner. He started to run toward Prospect Point as the officer approached, but was caught before he reached the iron railing.

He said that he was tired of life; his wife was very ill, and he had little money to supply her needs. He was taken to police headquarters, and there lodged for the night. He is only 24 years old.

Boring For Oil.

Walkerville, Jan. 6.—Very quietly for the past three months, the Walkerville & Tecumseh Oil and Gas Co., a recently incorporated organization, has been boring for oil about four miles above here.

The company has a lease on 7,000 acres of land and should either oil or gas be found the promoters say that it will be fully as good as the field at Tilbury, 20 miles away. There are very strong surface indications of oil on the farm, but so far the well, now down 800 feet, has given forth no signs of oil.

Charged With Arson.

Belleville, Jan. 6.—William H. Bradshaw of Tyendinaga is under arrest in this city, charged with arson in burning down a barn belonging to his uncle, James H. Bradshaw.

It is alleged that someone set fire to the barn, hoping to be able to steal $800 which was in the adjoining house while the occupants were at the barn trying to put out the fire. The prisoner, it is said, was seen in the vicinity at the time, hence his arrest. Saturday morning he came up in the Police Court and the case was enlarged till next Friday.

U. S. Fleet Will Be Escorted.

Naples, Jan. 6.—The newspapers here publish the statement that the Italian cruiser Puglia has been ordered to meet the American battleship fleet and accompany it to San Francisco.

JAP AMBASSADOR DENIES.

Says Words About Emigration Attributed to Him Were Never Uttered.

San Francisco, Jan. 6.—Viscount Aoki, Japanese ambassador at Washington, who arrived in San Francisco Saturday night, en route to Tokio, having been recalled by his Government at his own request, in an interview with the Associated Press last night, denied the statement attributed to him in an alleged interview Friday night, and in which he was quoted as saying:

"Japan is restricting the emigration of laborers to this country and will continue to do so," and "that it would be regarded as offensive to the dignity of Japan for this country to pass an exclusion law, or endeavor to embody the subject in a treaty."

"Such a statement did not emanate from me," emphatically declared the ambassador, in German, a language with which he is much more familiar than with English. "I did not talk with any newspaper man last night, nor did I authorize any one to speak for me, much less make any statement. Furthermore, I have not discussed the emigration question with anyone since I left Washington, nor have I anything to add to my farewell statement, made by me to the American people through the Associated Press, prior to my departure. I am returning to Japan after a long absence, to confer with my Government on various matters.

"The attitude of Japan toward this country is of the friendliest character, but the emigration question and other matters of policy between the two countries are for statesmen and diplomats and cannot be so freely discussed in public."

Being able to express himself readily in German, the ambassador talked at length on various topics, but declined to discuss the Vancouver race troubles, the immigration question in general or comment on the transfer of the battleship fleet from the Atlantic to the Pacific Ocean.

FIREMEN NEAR DEATH.

Standing on Fire Escape When Wall Gave Way.

Montreal, Jan. 6.—Five firemen had a miraculous escape from death on Saturday at a fire in the departmental store of Arsene Lemay at St. Denis street and Duluth avenue. The building was totally destroyed, and the loss will amount to between $50,000 and $75,000.

The firemen were standing on a fire escape when the wall gave way, and the men were thrown headlong into the burning building. How they managed to escape is a mystery. All of them were more or less injured, but not seriously.

NO ELECTION FOR BOARD OF EDUCATION

Five Members Elected by Acclamation Owing to Death of Mr. Pringle.

Messrs. D. W. Dumble, John Crane, W. H. Hill and W. F. Nelson have been elected members of the Board of Education by acclamation. This has been brought about by the death of Mr. Wm. Pringle, who was one of the candidates. Six candidates were nominated last Monday and all remained in the field. Five were to be elected and an election was necessary. Mr. Pringle's death leaves only five men in the field, and as a result the gentlemen named above have been elected by acclamation.

The situation created by Mr. Pringle's death was a most peculiar one, and at first it was not known if it would be legal to declare them elected by acclamation, but this has been definitely settled, as the statutes make provision for such cases.

HANGED HIMSELF FROM BEAM IN BARN

The Port Hope Guide says: "Just as we go to press, we learn that, Mr. Richard N. Smith, one of the most prosperous farmers in the Township of Hope, committed suicide this morning by hanging. Mr. Smith left the house about nine o'clock to do the chores, and not returning at the usual hour, his son went to look for him, and was horrified to find his lifeless body hanging from one of the beams in the barn. Coroner McKenzie, of Newtonville, has been notified, and will conduct an investigation.

The late Mr. Smith lived at Starkville and was well known and highly respected.

Sudden Death of Mr. Pringle Causes Gloom in the City

Passed Away on Saturday Night About Ten O'clock After Short Illness From Pneumonia—A Citizen Who Was Universally Esteemed—Loss is Deeply Felt.

The truth of the quotation, that "death is the sleeping partner of life" was forcibly brought home to the citizens of Peterborough on Saturday night, when the news spread that Mr. William Pringle had passed away. A few days before he had been enjoying all the blessings of an apparently vigorous manhood, and had been in and out attending to his duties. Death's summons came quickly, and from mortal view, at a most unseemly time. Although it was generally known that Mr. Pringle was ill, the public was not aware that his ailment was of a serious nature. Consequently the news that he had passed away came as a great shock to the people of the city. Mr. Pringle's death occurred at his residence, 640 Bethune street, a few minutes before ten o'clock on Saturday night. He was conscious to the last, and talked with his wife and the others gathered at the bedside up to a few minutes before the end came. Pleuro-pneumonia was the cause of death, Mr. Pringle having been confined to his bed from the previous Saturday.

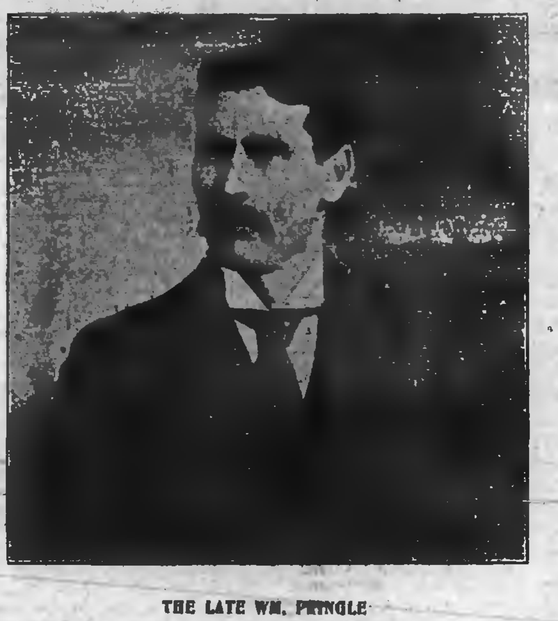
Probably no other resident of the city stood higher in the public estimation than Mr. Pringle. In addition to being principal of the Peterborough Business College, he took a prominent part in public affairs, being connected with several public and church organization. Of sterling character and with high ideals these he endeavored to carry into the daily affairs of life. Mr. Pringle was a man whose death is a great loss to Peterborough. Words cannot express the regret felt at his demise.

On Saturday night it was reported that Mr. Pringle was some better. However, later in the day he grew worse and continued doing so until the end came, as stated above. Dr. Scott, his physician, never left him from 3 o'clock in the afternoon until he passed away. A week ago last Thursday Mr. Pringle, with the other members of the King Edward school committee, were at the school inspecting the building, and while doing so contracted a cold, which later developed into pleuro-pneumonia. His heart action became very weak towards the last, and on account of that little hope was held out for his recovery. He was conscious to the end, and in his last hour upon earth was surrounded by his family, and Rev. Robt. A. Pogue, pastor of St. Paul's church, of which the deceased was a member. At the morning service yesterday Mr. Pogue made feeling reference to the death of Mr. Pringle. His loss was a personal one to every member of the congregation. Honest and upright, he was highly esteemed, and his demise was a distinct loss to the whole community.

He took an active part in church work, and for many years served faithfully as a member of the board of managers. As secretary of the supply committee for the arranging of a pastor for St. Paul's, before Mr. Pogue's appointment, he did good work. He was also secretary-treasurer of the Sunday School for some time.

HIS CAREER.

The late Mr. Pringle was forty-six years of age, and was born in Stanley, New Brunswick, where he received his public and high school education. He was a graduate of the normal school at Fredericton, N.B. and afterwards was engaged as teacher in the public schools at Cardigan, Prince William, and later as principal of the Lake George public school. From Lake George he came to the Belleville Business College, having decided to take a course in commercial work and penmanship. After receiving his diploma, he filled the position of head penman on the staff of the college, and later became a partner of the business college at St. John's, New Brunswick. Thirteen years ago he came to this city, where he had successfully conducted the Peterborough Business College, which under his principalship, has grown enormously, and many men and women holding responsible positions are graduates of the local school.



THE LATE WM. PRINGLE

In public life, he took a keen interest in municipal affairs, and for four years was a member of the local board of education, and for the past three years had been chairman of the supervision committee. He was most regular in his attendance at the meetings, and served the city faithfully with all work entrusted to him. He was also a director of the Public Library Board, and a member of the Horticultural Society, the Royal Astronomical Society, the Canadian Club, and the Corinthian Lodge, A. F. and A. M.

The late Mr. Pringle was married to Miss Rapsey, of Port Arthur, who with four children, two boys and two girls, are left to mourn his loss. The boys are Stanley and Donald and the girls are Mabel and Rapsey. One brother, Mr. Gilbert Pringle, residing on Edinburgh street, also survives him.

The funeral will take place on Tuesday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, from his family residence, 640 Bethune street, to the Little Lake cemetery, and will be held under Masonic auspices.

Mr. George Ball Saw Many Canucks While in New York

Sanitary Inspector George Ball, who with Mrs. Ball, has returned from a two weeks visit to New York, had a particularly pleasant visit to the American metropolis. While there he met many Canadians and some of them former residents of these parts. During his visit he was the guest of his brother, Mr. Edward Ball, 174 6th Avenue, Brooklyn.

While away he saw Mrs. W. J. Morrow, formerly of this city and who is now conducting a most successful studio in Brooklyn. She is much pleased with her success in the United States and has already thirty pupils. He also saw Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Archibald, who are well known in Peterborough, the former being assistant pastor of St. Paul's Anglican church, Brooklyn. Mr. Bert Dolan, a former Peterborough boy, is emphatically making good in New York and is head buyer for Smith & Grey, one of the big gent's furnishing syndicates in the above city. Mr. Dave Healey, who originally comes from Asphodel, was also one of the many from this vicinity with whom Mr. Ball came in contact. He is commissioner at Ellis Island. Mr. Ball relates many interesting anecdotes of his visit.

Record Vote Being Polled; Election is Exciting One

Both Sides in Mayoralty Contest Express Confidence—Big Day for the Livery Men.

One of the biggest votes in the history of the city is being polled to-day. Both sides in the Mayoralty contest are working hard to get the voters out, and nearly a hundred vehicles of various types have been pressed into service to carry ratepayers to the polls. It is several years since a municipal election in Peterborough was attended with so much interest. The election is the only topic of discussion on the streets, and considerable betting is being indulged in on the result.

According to those who are keeping tab on the voters, Rush has a good lead in the Mayoralty race, and should win handily.

The polling booths were very busy all morning, and they were crowded during the whole of the noon hour. The polls close at five o'clock, but it will be nearly six o'clock before the returns will commence to come in.

The majority of the aldermanic candidates are working hard, many of them having rigs out taking voters to the polling places.

Prominent Events in British History

(BY CHIC.)

JANUARY.

Thinking that some of your readers would be interested in a resume of some of the prominent events, which have occurred during the month of January in ages past, I take my pen to give you a short article on some events which have come under my notice. Some years ago a small work came into my hand, "The Englishman's Calendar of Prominent Events in British History," compiled by Mr. N. A. Howard-Moore, now a resident of Peterborough, and published through the press in booklets in Ottawa and elsewhere, and which I find a very valuable aid to this article.

January 1st was the anniversary of the union of Great Britain and Ireland. In 1801 was consumated the union of Ireland with England, Scotland and Wales. Ireland had had a separate and independent existence heretofore, and rebellion, strife and civil wars had been rife from the earliest times in the history of Ireland. On the 2nd instant General James Wolfe was born in 1727. His father, a general under the great Marlboro and Prince Eugene. He started on his military career at the age of 13, engaged as a private in the Cathegina expedition, but was taken ill before the fleet sailed. He received his commission as Ensign in 1742, captain in 1745; acting Brigade-Major in April, 1746; major in 1749; acting quartermaster-general of the force in 1758, made a full colonel in the same year. In 1758 he was given command of a brigade in the expedition against Cape Breton, under General Amhurst, and through the skill, boldness and activity of Wolfe, was due the the capture of Louisbourg. He henceforward was known as the "Hero of Louisbourg." Immediately after this event Pitt was organizing a force to expel the French from Canada, and Wolfe was given command of the entire force with the rank of of Major-General. On Feb. 17th, 1759, Wolfe set sail from England with a force of between 8,000 and 9,000 men. On June 26th he landed on the Isle de Orleans, opposite Quebec, and on the 13th Sept., 1759, he found himself at the head of only 5,000 men, on the Plains of Abraham, with an opposing force of 80,000 men, under Montcalm, who was defeated, and in dying gave evidence of the magnanimous soldier that he was. "Since," said he, "It is my misfortune to be discomfited and mortally wounded, it is a great consolation to me to have been vanquished by so brave an enemy. If I could survive to beat three times the number of such forces as mine were, with a third of British troops." Wolfe died with "Now God be praised, I die in peace," on his lips.

3rd. Calcutta was captured the British in 1757, and at the battle of Princeton in 1777, Washington, the American general, defeated the British under Col. Mawhood.

4th. Capture of Gwalior in India, 1844.

5th. Canadian rebels were defeated, 1838.

6th. Retreat from Cabul was commenced, 1841.

8th. Battle of Chippenham, in Wilts, 878.

11th. Capture of Adin, 1879.

12th. Zulu War commenced, 1879.

16th. Battle of Corunna, 1809, at which the illustrious general, Sir John Moore, was killed. Moore was in command of 25,000 men, when news arrived that Napoleon, with a force of 70,000, was marching from Madrid to crush him. The battle was fought under distressing circumstances to Moore. In his retreat from Astorgia to Corunna, a route of 250 miles, he was harrassed by the enemy under Marshall Sault. The soldiers arrived at Corunna in a very distressed state. It was impossible to embark without fighting, and Sault was in readiness to attack as soon as the troops should begin to embark. With Moore's cavalry, who had destroyed their horses and gone on board, and the bulk of the artillery, for which the ground was not adapted, had also been withdrawn, the French came on in four columns. The French were defeated with a loss of 2,000 men, but in the moment of victory Sir John Moore, who had been shot in the shoulder, died, and was buried just before embarkation of the troops. The Rev. Chas. Wolfe has described his burial in that beautiful poem:

"We buried him darkly at the dead of night,
The sods with our bayonets turning,
By the struggling moonbeam's misty light,
And the lantern dimly burning."

Over his grave now a beautiful monument has been raised, in a small and well kept garden in an old part of this Spanish town, and is much respected and preserved by the Spanish authorities.

On the 20th the first British Parliament met in 1265.

The first British colony in Australia was founded at Port Jackson, where Sydney, N.S.W., now stands on the 21st Jan., 1788.

The 27th is the anniversary of the death of General Gordon at Khartoum, Nubia.

On the 31st the Corn Laws were abolished in 1849, and Sir Garnet Wolseley defeated the Ashantees in 1874, for which he received £25,000 on his return to England after his successful expedition.

Four royal marriages took place during the first month of the year, in connection with British history. On the 4th of January, 1236, King Henry IV., of France, was married to Queen Eleanor of Provena, the divorced wife of Louis VII. of France, the Countess of Poitou, and Duchess of Aquitaine, in her own right. On the 24th January, 1121, Henry I. was married to the daughter of the Duke of Lorraine.

The 25th is the anniversary of the marriage (in 1858) of the Princess Royal of England, to the then Prince Frederick William, Crown Prince of Prussia, and Prince Imperial of Germany, and the Duke of Edinburgh were amrried on the 23rd January, 1876.

The month of January has been a very eventful one in respect to the death of the sovereigns of England. Edward the Confessor died on the 5th in 1066, and during his reign Wales was added to the British Crown (1063), as also was the then Province of Northumbia (1065).

Henry VIII. died on the 28th, 1547. The historian adds: "He died unhonored, and unmourned."

On the 29th, in the year 1820, George III passed away in the 60th year of his reign and in his 82nd year. It was in his long reign that the Neapolitanic Wars took place. The union of Ireland (January 1st, 1801) with Great Britain, and the union of Scotland with Great Britain (which took place on the 16th of January, 1707) was made more a fact than a legislative one, by a closer union of society, literature, thought and enterprise. This reign was also an eventful one on this continent, for during George's reign the thirteen colonies threw off their allegiance and declared their independence, and became what is now known as the United States of America.

On the 20th, 1649, the trial of King Charles I. began before a court of 70 members of parliament, and on the 27th he was condemned to death as a "tyrant, murderer and an enemy of the nation," and on the 30th he was beheaded. From the restoration of Charles II. the 30th was observed by the Church of England with special religious services, as "King Charles the Martyr," this being offensive to a large part of the nation, and of the Church itself, was abolished by Act of Parliament, 1859.

Queen Catharine of Arragon, the first wife of King Henry VIII, died at Kimbolon Castle, Huntingdonshire, on 6th of January, 1536.

On the 7th, 1541, was passed the "Bloody Statute," or the statute of six articles. The object of this statute was to compile from all subjects of the Crown, the uniform profession of certain articles or doctr

CLOSING DOWN.

The Belleville Intelligencer says:—The Belleville Cement Company are closing down the operating end for the annual clean-up and inventory, and to enable them to concentrate their whole force on the completion of their new installation. They hope to have their plant running in March at its maximum capacity, turning out from 1700 to 2,000 barrels per day.

HAD CLOSE CALL.

On Tuesday morning of last week fire was discovered in Messrs. Tinney Bros. Carriage Works at Cavanville. The fire had started during the night. A hole was burned through both floors and most of the rigs were damaged more or less. The shop was filled with cutters and buggies and the loss would have been very large had not the fire been discovered before it got much headway. Several rubber tired vehicles were somewhat damaged.

CHARGED WITH ARSON.

Wm. H. Bradshaw, who resides in Tyendinaga township, was arrested Friday evening, charged with a rather serious offence. It appears that a few nights ago the barn of Mr. Jas. H. Bradshaw, who resides in Tyendinaga township, was burned, with its contents, and the accused is charged with causing the fire. The party whose barn was burned is an uncle of the accused. The preliminary investigation will take place at Deseronto on Friday next.—Belleville Intelligencer.

LIGHT WEIGHT BREAD.

The Toronto police have of late been paying particular attention to the bakers and light weight bread. A short time ago a number were fined. On the 2nd inst., the police court was, says a Toronto journal, filled with bakers and their respective counsel to answer to the charge of selling light bread. A number of loaves were put in evidence and found under weight. Three offences were charged against one man, and the Magistrate imposed a penalty of $10 in each case. The counsel for the offender took the the objection that he could not be fined, as he was only president of the company, and the case was adjourned until the 7th of January.

COMES UP TO-MORROW.

BONNYCASTLE—CARLOW

A house wedding took place at the residence of E. G. West, Warkworth, Ont., uncle of the bride, when Miss Winnifred Evelyn Carlow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Davidson Carlow, Belleville, was married to Dr. Richard Bonnycastle, of Campbellford. Rev. Mr. McFarland of Warkworth, conducted the service. The bride, who was unattended and was given in marriage by her father, wore a beautiful gown of Brussels lace over taffeta, trimmed with satin strappings and seed pearls. The wedding march was played by the bride's sister, Miss Carlow. Dr. and Mrs. Bonnycastle will take up residence in Campbellford.

Small Attendance Saturday Market

Stormy Weather Kept the People Away

The usual Saturday market was only fairly well attended, the stormy weather having kept a large number away. There was nothing unusual in the prices to-day save that eggs sold at 35 cents a dozen. There were some who only asked thirty cents. Butter was also thirty cents a pound, but a few sold it at 28 and 29 cents. Turkeys ranged in price from 75c. to $3. Geese were $1.00 and chickens were 80 cents a pair.

On the outside market pork sold at 9 and 10 cents, while beef brought 5 and 6 cents a pound.

Making Good in the Great West

The Splendid Success of Mr. W. A. Buchanan a Former Peterboro' Boy

The Toronto Saturday Night under the heading "Who's Who Out West," contains the following appreciative reference to Mr. W. A. Buchanan, formerly city editor of the Peterborough Review:

When the new Province of Alberta was set up it became necessary to organize a provincial library and journalists in Ontario learned with satisfaction that the task had been assigned to Mr. W. A. Buchanan, who had gone into newspaper work in the west, after having acted for several years as city editor of the Toronto Telegram and as editor and managing director of the St. Thomas Daily Journal. As Provincial Librarian of Alberta the ex-journalist was in his element so long as the work of organizing the library was under way, but once his duties began to settle into routine, his old activities in daily newspaper work began to haunt him. Daily newspaper work is hard, but it fascinates, and it calls back its own. Mr. Buchanan, as was stated in a previous issue, has resigned the librarianship and is now issuing a daily newspaper in Lethbridge, the Daily Herald. The venture would be an ambitious one in a town of four thousand population in Ontario, but no doubt it will prove an unqualified success in Lethbridge, with its western enterprise and enthusiasm.

In the last half dozen years Alberta and Saskatchewan have drawn away a large number of promising young men from Ontario. At times it looks as if those new provinces were hand-picking our crop of young men and taking the best.

AN AWARD OF MERIT

Messrs. J. J. Turner & Sons Have Received Diploma From Toronto Exhibition

Messrs J. J. Turner & Sons have received the diploma awarded them at the last Toronto Exhibition for their display of tents. For the past three years the above firm have received the only diploma awarded for exhibits of their kind, proving the superiority of this firm's particular line of manufacture. The diploma is strikingly appropriate and very appropriately suggests the original idea.

The object of the design is to illustrate the celebrated saying originated by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, "The Twentieth Century is Canada's." The main figure in the centre is "Tyche," the Greek goddess of fortune, and other figures in the group are 'Industry,' 'Art,' 'Victory' and 'Agriculture.' The design is lithographed in black and three tones of grey.

The diploma is on exhibition in one of the front windows of Messrs J. J. Turner & Sons' store.

Mrs. Rogers Was Well Known Here

Former Peterborough Resident Passes Away at Kingston

The following obituary notice from Friday's Kingston Whig will be read with regret by Mrs. Rogers' friends here:

"A very sad death was recorded this morning, when at eight o'clock, Mrs. Rogers, widow of the late Francis Rogers, passed away suddenly at her home, Gore street. The deceased had been a patient sufferer from heart trouble for some time, and had been in a critical state several times last month, yet death came as a great shock to her family and to hundreds of warm Kingston friends. Mrs. Rogers had lived in the city when her husband was connected with the Bank of Montreal. They later moved to Peterborough when Mr. Rogers was made manager of the branch there.

"The deceased was a deeply attached member of St. George's Cathedral congregation, where she was always a willing worker as long as her health permitted. Five daughters and one young son mourn one of the very best of mothers, and have the sincerest sympathy of the whole community."

Rev. Canon Davidson left this morning for Kingston to attend the funeral.

More than 80 per cent of the fruit now in storage in Montreal for export is alleged to be falsely marked.

The Manitoba Telephone Commission consists of F. C. Patterson, W. H. Hayes and H. J. Horan, all Bell officials.

Annual Elections Make it Very Difficult to do Wrong

Toronto Star Does Not Favor Proposal From Peterborough for Two Year Term—Present System is Check Upon Dishonesty and Effective Means of Breaking Up Rings.

A proposal comes from Peterborough to have aldermen elected for two years instead of one, says the Toronto Star. A similar suggestion has occasionally been made in Toronto. At first sight there seems to be a good argument for the change. The objection most often made to municipal government is that it is unstable, that a project is taken up one year and abandoned the next, and that steadiness and continuity are rendered impossible by frequent changes. It has even been proposed that the system of frequent elections be abandoned altogether, and that the cities be governed by commissions elected or appointed for long terms.

At the root of all these proposals there is a distrust of popular government. Although there is an annual election, it does not follow that the whole body of governors must be changed every year. What is compulsory is that the whole body of governors must every year submit their record to the judgment of the people. There is nothing unreasonable in this, except to those who at heart are opposed to democratic government. Nor does experience show that the people are inclined to use their power capriciously. In Toronto it is the custom to give a Mayor who does well a second term, and a third term is not unknown. Mr. Hubbard has served the city, as alderman or controller, for fourteen years, and would probably have been elected again if another candidate of long municipal experience had not re-entered the field. The average citizen prefers the man whose record he knows, and as the size of the city increases, new men find it more difficult to enter the Council.

As a rule, therefore, faithful servants of the people are not injured by being compelled to come before the people every year for examination and judgment. On the other hand, the annual inspection and judgment by the people operate as a wholesome check against breach of trust, dishonesty, or incapacity. A city government under the system of annual elections cannot do wrong with impunity, entrenching itself in power with the profits of its wrongdoing, and trusting that the people will forget. Suppose, for purpose of argument, that the present City Council should take a course that would defeat the will of the people as expressed by the vote on the power by-law. Such a thing is inconceivable, because the Council is composed of upright and honorable men, but if it should happen, the judgment that would fall upon the transgressors would be swift and sure. The same thing would happen in case of dishonesty, of gross incapacity. We have had in Toronto for many years honest city government; partly because honesty is more common than dishonesty, but also because the annual election is a check upon dishonesty, and an effective means of breaking up rings. Under this system it is possible to have stability in doing well, and difficult to have perseverance in doing ill.

Big Increase in Number of Cases in Division Court

Division Court Clerk Mr. Frank Bell, has sent his annual report to the Inspector of Division Courts, Mr J. Dickey, Toronto, and it shows a vast increase in the number of suites entered over that of last year. In all there were 683. The amount of all claims is $23,084.32, and the total of suitors' money paid into court is $7,264.15. There were 189 claims not exceeding ten dollars. $21.42 has been paid the County Treasurer by the Division Court for jury fees. In almost every detail the figures of this year exceed those of last.

COLLISON AT C.P.R. CROSSING WAS NARROWLY AVERTED

A collision and most likely serious loss of life was narrowly averted at the C.P.R. crossing on George street on Saturday at noon. A freight train was crossing the street just as an exhibition car also arrived at the track. The gates were not drawn and the motorman naturally thought that the crossing must be clear. Several pedestrians who saw the affair were sure that there was going to be a horrible accident. However, the motorman quickly brought his car to a certain standstill when he saw the danger and waited till the train had passed by.

Mr. Dodd, C. P. R. station agent, stated this morning that the gates were out of order and were being repaired at the time. The gateman was on duty and he was sure he performed his duty by giving the signal.

Mock Parliament Will be Interesting Feature at Y.M.C.A.

The Mock Parliament to be presented by the Y.M.C.A. Debating Club on Wednesday, is creating a great deal of interest in the "Y" circles. The leaders of both the government and opposition are out with their addresses to the electors and the contest has begun in earnest.

The addresses are as follows:

To the Electors of the Y.M.C.A.:

Gentlemen,— On behalf of myself and my colleagues, who are seeking your support at the approaching election, I beg to submit the following policy for your very serious consideration;

The first great question that calls for the consideration of every intelligent elector is that of transportation.

This great country of ours can never realize the great industrial possibilities that await her unless she has an adequate system of transportation. It will be the policy of myself and colleagues, if elected, to introduce, as soon as possible, a bill providing for the nationalizing of all railways and canals, thus eliminating distrustful and wasteful competition, and making possible many improvements, which, under the present system, are practically impossible.

We are glad to note during recent years, many large industrial works have established themselves in our country. They employ thousands of men, who often find themselves at a disadvantage in their endeavor to secure a fair return in wages for their labor.

This causes unrest and dissatisfaction, often resulting in strikes, with disastrous results, both for capital and labor. I can assure the electors that if returned to power our utmost efforts will be used to prevent these disputes. A bill will be introduced providing for compulsory arbitration.

In conclusion, while we are in sympathy with all that tends to strengthen and build up our industries, yet we feel that the interests of this country will be best served by a gradual removal of the present protective tariff in favor of a Revenue Tariff.

I am,
our obedient servant,
WILLIAM G. SHINER,
Leader.
W.M. McLAREN,
Supporter.

To the Electors of the Constituency of the Y.M.C.A.;

Gentlemen.— As it is an impossibility for us to interview you personally and solicit your vote and patronage, we take this opportunity of explaining to you the platform that we appeal to your suffrages on.

1st—We feel that the future of our great country depends largely upon our facilities for transporting to the sea board, in the shortest time possible after harvesting the enormous crops of the Northwest Territories, and, in fact, the crops of the Northwest of the United States, would be shipped through Canadian channels if our railways and canals were adequate enough for the traffic. Therefore it will be our policy, to assist financially the railways of Canada and build a ship canal of 24-foot draught from Georgian Bay to the oceanhead of navigation at Montreal, for which we will appropriate the sum of $100,000,000.

2nd—In the matter of immigration, we propose to further restrict the incoming tide of undesirable immigrants from all parts of the world, by placing a higher head tax upon Orientals and by raising the necessary qualifications to enter Canada.

3rd—By placing a protective tariff upon all manufactured goods and by admitting free all raw materials not obtainable in Canada, we propose to protect the interests of all classes, especially the laboring.

4th—We propose to introduce a scheme of conscription, whereby all young men, when they come to the age of 18 years, shall take up three years of military training of twelve days each year, and also to provide protection for our seaboard and for our southern boundary.

5th—We also intend to oppose the nationalization of all public utilities, which, we believe, our opponents intend to press upon your attention, as we do not believe it to be for the best interests of this great country.

On this platform, gentlemen, we appeal to you, and hope that you will give us your vote and influence.

Wishing you all a Happy New Year,

N. A. HOWARD MOORE,
Leader.
G. A. HAMON,
W. GEO. ARMSTRONG,
Supporters.

FEMININE FOOT COPIES No. 1
"ONE OF THE 14"

Dolly Varden Lasts are exact copies of Perfect Feminine Feet.

How did we copy them?

We scoured Europe and North America for Perfect Feminine Feet. Where permitted, we took plaster of Paris moulds, from whcih gutta percha casts were made. The casts were then carved into wood lasts. Thus we procured exact copies.

How did we classify them and decide on a certain number of basic foot types?

With the assistance of notable orthopedic surgeons we studied with infinite pains the lines and shapes of all the thousands of lasts we had made, and found that in groups the lasts were almost alike, so we determined that they could be divided into a number of classes.

Example: We found what we call the New England class, where the lasts were all long, slim, low instep, flat arch; the Western North American class, where the shapes were short, wide and thick, medium instep and arch; the Southern class, where the forms were short, slim, high instep, high arch, high heel and so on.

We then made one composite last from the last of each class. These composites we call the Dolly Varden "Feminine Foot Types."

Our exclusive agent in your city has a complete stock of Dolly Varden types, and will gladly fit you with the type best suited to the shape of your foot. Purchasers or investigators equally welcome. In the States and Canada at same price—$4.00 to $5.00. Every pair Goodyear welted—which means more comfort and better wear.

GOOD MAN GONE

The rather sudden death of Mr. William Pringle, principal of the Peterborough Business College, comes as a great shock to the whole community.

Mr. Pringle was an exemplary citizen—a man held in the highest esteem by all who knew him. He was a public spirited resident, and served for several years on the Board of Education, the Public Library Board, and other bodies. He was a valued and energetic member of these organizations, and his place will be difficult to fill. He took a deep interest in the cause of education, and in him the youth of the city, as well as the older residents, have lost a true, firm warm hearted friend. He was identified with every move looking to the intellectual, moral and spiritual welfare of this city. He stood for all that is best and progressive, and his loss will be deeply felt. Mr. Pringle was an honored, upright man in all the walks of life. He scorned all that was false, base or unjust, and his voice was raised on every occasion when necessary in defence of justice and fair play. In his departure Peterborough mourns an admirable and representative citizen—one who enjoyed the confidence and respect of all classes, and to the grief stricken widow and family the sincerest expressions of sympathy will be extended.

In the church, in business, in his public relations, in his social life, the deceased was a man in the fullest, noblest and widest meaning that this term implies.

THE CRUEL LAUGH

The Toronto Telegram prints the following suggestive homily on the recent Brampton murder, and utters a timely rebuke to those who thoughtlessly make the newcomer uncomfortable by ridicule. Says the Telegram:

"There was a general laugh at the awkwardness of the Englishman." The above words are telegraphed as a suggestion of the only possible motive for the killing of William Curry, on Christmas evening.

The fact that a man had been laughed at may explain but cannot excuse his tendency to resent sneers with a shot gun.

The law must deal with every man-killer according to the facts which prove his guilt or establish his innocence.

Canadians need not honor a maudlin plea for the divine right of the stranger to kill everybody who laughs at him.

But Canadians may well ask themselves whether a stranger in a strange land should be scourged with quite so much cruel laughter at "the awkwardness of Englishmen." Canadians might be just about as awkward if they had to fit themselves into unfamiliar ways of work. And Canadians would not be a bit fonder of being laughed at in England, than Englishmen are of being laughed at in Canada.

Canadians here and there need to cultivate a generous and kindly habit of thought and speech in their relationship with newcomers. Newcomers need to be less sensitive and to remember that laughter does not kill. Neither the Englishman, the Irishman, nor the Scotchman need be maddened by ridicule nor crushed by prejudice. Manners and folly are the sources of no ridicule. Canada is the home of no prejudice, that a good heart and a good temper cannot live down.

PEN POINTS

Well, its all over now.

Are you not sorry at being left out of the fray?

This, from an exchange, almost suits Peterborough's case: "Another point to remember is that while thrift is desirable in the management of the city's affairs, it is not necessary to elect a bunch of aldermen who think in five cent pieces."

It is absurd to suppose that thousands of our best business men—bankers, lawyers, doctors, ministers and mechanics, would engage in the keeping of poultry and follow it up for years as an avocation, if it did not pay, and afford at the same time an agreeable pastime. One thing which favors it a great deal is the division of labor. The man of limited means, though commencing on a small scale, has the same chance to breed, sell and exhibit as the man of capital. There is no monopoly in the poultry business. Get into it and be happy during 1908.—St. Thomas Times.

At the special meeting of the London city council last week, it was decided to dispose of the city debentures as follows: $1,000 worth at 100 1-2, amounting to $1,005; $10,000 at 100 1-8, amounting to $10,012.50; $83,925.90 at par, making the total amount to be realized on the whole issue of $94,943.40. By disposing of them in this way, the citizens will get the benefit of the sale, and no bond house will receive any of the issue. It was thought advisable, in view of the fact that the loan was a popular one, and more than subscribed by citizens, to allow the entire issue to go to those in the city who were willing to advance the money. Why cannot the same method be adopted in Peterborough with respect to selling certain school and local improvement debentures?

SLIPPED ON SIDEWALK AND BROKE HIS ARM

Mr. Fred Dunnett London St. Sustained Painful Injury

Mr. Frederick Dunnett, who resides at 411 London street, was the victim of a painful accident on Saturday evening when returning home. The sidewalks being in a very slippery condition, Mr. Dunnett missed his footing and with great force fell to the pavement. Putting out his right arm to save himself, his whole weight was upon it, and it was badly broken at the wrist. Medical aid was summoned, and the injured limb was set. It will be some time before Mr. Dunnett will be able to resume his work as printer at the Peterborough Canoe Co., where he is employed.

Mr. Dunnett seems to be having hard luck lately. A few days ago his young son had the misfortune to have his collar bone broken.

WEDDING BELLS

NESBITT—LANG

A very quiet and pretty wedding was celebrated on Christmas day at "Sunny Bluff," near Alameda, Sask., the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lang, when their eldest daughter, Miss Lillia, was united in marriage to Mr. Walter Nesbitt of the same place. Only the relatives and a few intimate friends of the contracting parties were present.

At five o'clock, the wedding march, played by Mrs. Wm. Lang, Oxbow, sounded through the tastefully decorated rooms, and the bride, attired in a dainty white gown, with white lilies in her hair and gown, entered the room unattended except by her father.

Rev. J. Dyke Parker, performed the ceremony in a very impressive manner, and after the nuptials the bride and bridegroom were heartily congratulated by the assembled guests.

At six o'clock all adjourned to the dining room, where a bountiful luncheon was served.

The bride had a host of warm friends whose hearty wishes for her future happiness found expression in the variety of valuable and useful presents of which she was the recipient. A very pleasant evening was spent until about 10 o'clock, when the bride and groom departed for their future home near Frobisher, Sask., followed by the best wishes of all present.

Those in attendance brought baskets of refreshments with them and tea was served between 4 and 6 o'clock in the afternoon.

HOW TO EXCEL IN THIS LIFE

Forcible Address Delivered by Mr. Potter at the Y.M.C.A.

Rev. J. G Potter, pastor of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, spoke at the Y.M.C.A. meeting to men and older boys yesterday afternoon. Mr. Potter spoke on "Seeking to Excel," showing we need a purpose, a pilot, a policy, a guide, and God's care to excel in this life. We must always be seeking to have the other fellow, to be a true Christian and live the best life. Mr. Potter's address was very interesting and inspiring and was truly a New Year's address. Miss May Laing sang "Jesus Lover of My Soul," by Ambrose, and Mr. Jas. Brown, "Saved by Grace," very effectively.

Next Sunday Rev. J. B. Webb, pastor of Murray street Baptist church, will speak and on 19th and 26th, Rev. E. A. Pearson, pastor of George-st. Methodist church, will speak. Next Sunday a quartette will sing.

Good Way to Save Your Money; Timely Pointers for Some Men

A financial journal, which publishes a series of "Hints to Men Who Want to Get Rich," has the following, which may be useful advice for some of our readers to follow during the New Year:

"One of the ways in which a man has made himself independent of his salary and has placed himself in that position, comes from the purchase of an account book, for which he paid 10 cents. Every time he spends a cent he puts an entry in his book. Every time he buys a newspaper, a cigar, a drink, a necktie, a suit of clothes; every time he goes to the theatre or to a dance; every time that he draws even the smallest sum from his hoard he puts the record of his expenditure in his book.

"And every time that he opens his book and reads some of the entries, he regrets that he has made them. And some, although not all, of these resolutions stick.

"This worker upon taking stock of his outgo finds many places in which he has spent money uselessly and foolishly. He makes up his mind not to repeat the mistakes. Some times when he is tempted to spend money, he is held back by the mere thought of the labor of putting down the sum. His little book has cured him of the sin that besets so many men—that of buying a thing, not because he wants it, but because it is cheap.

"The first hundred dollars is the hardest to save, but money gets money. The interest upon the hundred dollars that lies in the bank is something. It is something to think that there is that hundred waiting like troops in reserve for some emergency in which it surely will be needed. The interest is piling up all the time. The opportunity of making that hundred dollars earn other dollars comes uselessly to the man who has not the first hundred. When it comes to the man who has the money stored away he takes the advantage of it.

"This notebook idea has been operated with success by men whose incomes have been so large they were not forced by necessity to resort to the minute description of their expenditures.

"But they know as well as those men of smaller means knew, that the leaks that are noted are the leaks that count up. When the man has his eye on the outgo all the time, the chances are in favor of the proposition that the outgo will not get away from him. He will know when it is becoming too heavy, and he at once can take means to check it."

"But the man who only knows that it is costing him all he makes to live, does not see where he can exclude any expenditures. It is to the worker of this class that the notebook scheme ought to appeal with great force. A book may be bought for a nickel. Surely that is not an expensive luxury when the possible results are considered."

Drove Over Lake Chemong For the First Time This Year

Mr. Dan Whetung, jr., the driver of the Chemong stage, drove from Chemong village to Bridgenorth, a distance of five miles, by way of Lake Cemong Saturday morning. There were about a dozen passengers on the stage and a big load of luggage as well. This is the first time this winter that the trip from Chemong to Bridgenorth has been made on the ice. The drive was good and the sleighs slipped along merrily, there being just enough snow to form a good cushion. The ice averages from nine inches to a foot in thickness.

Brother of Local Man Was First Passenger on G. T. R.

Mr. Sam. Ackerman, of Belleville, Rode From Kingston to That Town in the Fall of 1853—A Unique Experience.

It may be of interest to know that the first passenger to ride on the Grand Trunk Railway was Mr. Samuel Ackerman, of Belleville, brother of Mr. B. F. Ackerman, of this city. While Mr Ackerman was spending New Year's Day in Belleville, his brother related a peculiar incident of how he became the first man outside of an official, to travel over the Grand Trunk Railway.

It was in the year 1853, and Mr. Ackerman was then a boy of fifteen years, residing on a farm in Prince Edward Co. In the fall of that year they had a large quantity of wood piled on the lake shore, for delivery to Kingston. His mother instructed him to take it down to the Limestone town, which he did. On arrival there he was told that the vessel would not return again, but was going into dry dock for the winter. Mr. Ackerman was wondering how he was going to get home, as the steamers had ceased running, and the railway had not commenced its scheduled trips. However, the owner of the vessel told him that he would see if he could get him taken back in the official car, which was making the initial trip from Kingston to Belleville. Fortunately the necessary arrangements were made, and Mr. Ackerman got home by train. As he was stepping out of the car, the superintendent said, "My lad, you are the first passenger to ride on the G.T.R."

This happened fifty-four years ago and Mr. Ackerman refers with pride to his unique experience.

His son, Mr. Ernest Ackerman, now occupies a prominent position in the claims office of the G.T.R. at Belleville.

Three Hundred and Eighty Members at Communion

8th Annual Anniversary of St. Peter's T. A S.—Society Congratulated by His Lordship Bishop O'Connor—Officers Installed at Meeting in Afternoon.

That the work of St. Peter's T.A. S. is worthy of the highest commendation is shown by the ever increasing membership of that splendid organization.

Yesterday was the 8th anniversary of the society and three hundred and eighty members attended Holy Communion at the eight o'clock mass at the Cathedral yesterday morning. His Lordship Bishop O'Connor presided, and after mass made some remarks in which he congratulated the T. A. S. on its large membership and the magnificent work it was doing. He also referred to the encouraging turn out of members. He hoped that those who were members would always be so, and spoke of the advantages to be had by those who signed the pledge. He told those who were not members of the society the advisability of joining. His Lordship's remarks were much appreciated by the members of the T. A. S. in attendance.

At the ten o'clock mass Rev. Dr. O'Brien, honorary president of the society, gave an interesting address.

Labor during November was fairly active, though a number of workmen were out of employment. Most mechanics were fairly well employed. The general outlook for the winter, so far as outdoor work is concerned, is not encouraging. A number of men will be employed completing the interior work of unfinished buildings. Sewer work is still under way. Dredging, also, is giving employment to a number of men. The Water Commissioners are laying water mains on some of the city streets. The Bell Telephone Company is putting its wires underground. A few permits were issued for the erection of dwellings, and a number of buildings are under construction to be completed by the end of the year. Railway transportation was very active. Banks reported steady business, and wholesale and retail trade was active. Wages remain unchanged, and the labor market was free from unrest.

Try This Recipe for Rheumatism

A Simple Mixture Anyone Can Prepare, Makes the Kidneys Filter Out Acids

To make up enough of the "Dandelion treatment," which is claimed to be relieving nearly every sufferer uses it for backache, kidney complaint, sore, weak bladder and rheumatism; get from any good prescription pharmacy, one-half ounce Compound Kargon and three ounces Compound Syrup of Sarsaparilla. Shake well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and again at bedtime.

Those who have tried it claim that it acts gently but thoroughly on the kidneys, relieving backache and bladder trouble and urinary difficulties almost instantly. Many cases of rheumatism are known to have been relieved within a few days, the pain and swelling diminishing with each dose.

A well known local druggist, who is in a position to know, asserts that this prescription, wherever it becomes known, always ruins the sale of the numerous patent medicine rheumatism cures, kidney cures, etc. It is a recipe which the majority of patent medicine manufacturers, and even certain physicians dislike to see published. Few cases, indeed, which will fail to fully yield to its peculiarly soothing and healing influence. Being composed of common everyday ingredients, which can be had from any druggist, it makes up a good, honest and harmless remedy and at nominal cost.

If one be troubled with corns and warts, he will find in Holloway's Corn Cure an application that will entirely relieve suffering.

OLDEST VOTER VOTED FOR MR. RUSH TO-DAY

Probably the oldest voter in the city today cast his vote for Mr. Rush. He was Mr. Charles Webber, who resides at 328 Charlotte street, who will be ninety-two on his next birthday, and was driven to the poll at Warne's store, Charlotte street, and marked his ballot for Mr. Rush. As far as can be learned, Mr. Webber was the oldest person who voted today.

Sporting Comment

If the cold nights continue there will be good ice for the city league games on Wednesday night. City league hockey will, from all indications, have a great boom in Peterborough this winter. The greatest rivalry exists between all the teams and the quality of hockey given by city league aggregations is ahead of that given in many intermediate O.H.A. districts. The city league deserves the widest patronage and doesn't simply appeal from the standpoint that the organization is worthy of general support, but because its patrons are always sure to get their money's worth.

FIRST GAME ON FRIDAY

Lindsay and Locals Meeting in Opening A. H. O. Contest.

A full practice of the Strathconas is called for to-night from 7 to 8. The team needs to be in the pink of condition for the game with Lindsay on Friday night, as the Seugog seven are picked by many to win this district, and a lot of people believe they have good chances to land the intermediate O. H. A. championship. The match is creating a great deal of interest in local circles and there promises to be a big crowd on hand for the opening game.

HOCKEY

On Saturday in an exhibition a junior Trenton team defeated Picton O. H. A. juniors in Trenton by a score of 6-3. At half time Picton led by 3-1.

BELLEVILLE DEFEATED.

Belleville, Jan. 4.—Belleville hockey enthusiasts couldn't laugh much last night. Not because they were afraid of cracking their faces, but because there was not much to laugh at. In mournful numbers let us tell it and get it over. The junior Ontarios of Port Hope came down here and trimmed the local kids 6—5 in the first match of the season. However, the locals, though beaten, were not disgraced nor discouraged. The season has only just started, and the lads promise to come strong when they hit the stretch. It was a fast game, all things considered, so fast in fact, that some of the Belleville lads seemed to be frozen fast to the ice at times. There was a fairly good crowd present, and the same old enthusiasm prevailed. Bellevillians love hockey, and by-and-by, when our lads get in practice and get going properly, we'll have something to cheer for. Don't forget that. W. S. Hancock, of Toronto, was referee, and he sent the puck off shortly after 8 o'clock. Belleville scored first, then Port Hope, the locals got another, but the Ports came right back with two more. Half time score, Port Hope 3, Belleville 2.

In the second half the visitors started in like steam engines and scored three goals before Belleville got a look-in. Then score was then Port Hope 6, Belleville 2. But the locals came steaming along and put the Ports right on the defensive. We scored three times and the visitors had been pulled down to one with ten minutes to play. It was a battle royal but neither side scored again. The game ended with the score 6—5 and the visitors and their supporters who were present in large numbers were naturally jubilant.

Former Local Policeman Gets in Trouble in Chicago

Impersonating a detective John McDonald, who for several months was a member of the local police force, obtained money under false pretences, and the Chicago Tribune of a recent date contains a report of his arrest and his committal for trial in Chicago, where he went to from here on his resignation, in September.

The report stated that a young man implicated in some crime, was being hunted by the Chicago police. McDonald, who stated that he was a detective, offered to shield the young man for a certain amount of money. This was agreed to, but, however, the young man was soon after arrested, and he then told of how he had bribed McDonald to keep the affair quiet. The authorities did not know a detective by the name of McDonald, and at once had him placed under arrest, on a charge of obtaining money under false pretences. He appeared in court, and was committed for trial.

Two Local Boys Arrested In Rochester for Vagrancy

Chief Rozzel today received a telegram from the chief of police of Rochester, N.Y., informing him that Fred Sullivan and James O'Toole, both of this city, had been arrested on a charge of vagrancy. These fellows are said to have been implicated in the charge of theft against Stanley Gorman, and when the latter was arrested Sullivan and O'Toole left the city. Chief Rozzel wired back to J. C. Hayden to deal with them there, as they would not be wanted here as witnesses until next spring.

HE WAS COMMITTED FOR TRIAL TO-DAY

Special to the Review.

Toronto, Jan. 3.—Mr. J. A. Macdonald, managing editor of the Globe, was this morning committed for trial on four charges of criminal libel preferred by Dr. W. Beattie Nesbitt, the former registrar of Toronto, and defeated candidate for the mayoralty of this city.

The charges arose out of articles published in the Globe on Dec. 28 and 30, two of them under the heading, "The Real Nesbitt," and the other two editorials.

Counsel for Mr. Macdonald admitted responsibility on the part of the latter for the publication of these articles.

Mr. Macdonald was admitted to $800 bail.

S. S. CENSUS WILL LIKELY BE TAKEN

Ministerial Association Had Interesting Meeting This Morning.

The attendance at the meeting of the Ministerial Association, held at the Y.M.C.A. this morning, was the largest on record. In addition to the former members of the board, Rev. Dr. Metzler, of Bridgenorth, Rev. Mr. Barns, of Lakefield, and Rev. Mr. Pogue, of St. Paul's church, were present, and welcomed as members of the association by the president, Rev. Mr. Webb.

It was decided to have a Sunday School canvass of the city, providing suitable arrangements can be made. This will be to ascertain how many children are attending Sunday School and the number that do not.

Rev. Messrs. Potter, Pogue, Webb and Dr. Langfeldt were appointed for hospital visitation.

The paper of the day was on "Malachi," and was read by Rev. Mr. Webb. It showed much original research, and Mr. Webb made the paper exceedingly interesting by showing the application of the book of Malachi to present day preaching.

Entertainment at Chemong

The annual tea and entertainment, under the auspices of the Chemong Reserve, will be held at the Chemong town hall on January 23rd. The event promises to be a most enjoyable one and the talent will be members of the band.

ENDURANCE OF WOMEN

John L. Sullivan Take a Shy At "Make up" of the Gentle Sex.

New York, Jan. 6.—The more I see of athletes and boxers, the more I wonder at the endurance of women, says John L. Sullivan, in the Cleveland Plain Dealer. When you size up the way a woman is put together, pinched into corsets, her neck and chest exposed by peekaboo waists, her feet done up like a Chink's, only worse, her heels set up on stilts, the whole topped off with a lid brainstorm that has everything from the remains of a fowl to an armful of plunder from the ribbon counter, and think of her getting away with it, and staying in the game so long, she is sure going some past what the best of us could do.

Here's a bet I'll make, and you can make the odds what you like, that there isn't a fighter in the country that could tie himself up in the bandages and bric-a-brac that the fashion promoters O.K. and lug the load half a working day without making a hurry call for an ambulance. I'll win the bet if there's anybody outside of a "nut" college so confused, as to go against it. It's a pipe.

Yet woman, lovely woman, can prance it day after day, and the more guesses the dressmakers and the millinery sharps hand her the harder she grabs for them, and the easier she gives up real money. If a man gets exposed to the night air in an open face suit he chases after cough killers till you can't rest, but any wisp of a woman can put on a make-up that looks as if the dressmaker was shy of cloth when the upper story was built, and beat the doctor at that, even if she can't breathe only once in six tries and its gooseflesh for hers above the fifth rib.

You can't beat her. She's got man groggy on the ropes, if not taking the count in the first round, and the referee has nothing to do but give her the long end when she goes against the "stronger sex" in an endurance contest.

SAID FAREWELL TO S. A. BANDSMAN

Mr. E. Hensley and Family Will Spend Several Months in England.

The members of the Salvation Army Band said farewell last night to one of their fellow bandsmen, Mr. E. Hensley, who with his wife and child leave on Thursday morning for St. John's, from which point they sail for England, where they will spend three months visiting Mr. Hensley's parents in Reading, Berkshire. They have been four years in this city. He played a G. Trombone in the band, and will be much missed, as he was very popular with all the members. They will return in the spring.

PROBABILITIES

Southwesterly winds, fair and milder.

Tuesday, high west and northwest winds, with light local snowfalls.

We like Peterboro', its people and its prospects. We appreciate the patronage received during 1907, and although we have already had over fifteen years of the best optical experience, yet we are adding new instruments and increasing our facilities with the aim to serve our patrons with ever increasing ability

Yours very respectfully,

MR. COUGHLAN IS HOME FROM ENGLEHART

Mr. Joseph Coughlan, construction clerk and station agent on the T. and N. O., was in the city on Saturday on his way to Norwood after visiting his mother and sister in Toledo, O. Last June Mr. Coughlan left Hastings for northern Ontario, and since then has been particularly successful in the new country. He has a mining claim there in which he had as partner until the latter sold out his claim to him Mr. J. W. Smily, a cousin of Mr. W. E. Wasson of this city. Assays of the ore found on the property have disclosed good showings of copper, silver and gold. Mr. Coughlan is only in these parts on a short visit.

THREE CASES WILL BE TRIED IN NORWOOD

County P.M. Edmison goes to Norwood on Thursday to dispose of a heavy docket in that town. Owing to the fact that there is some uncertainty about the serving of the papers in the cases the names of the parties involved cannot yet be given for publication. Two of the offences are for theft, and one of using abusive and obscene language on the street.

BETTER THAN SPANKING

Spanking does not cure children of bed wetting. There is a constitutional cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. Summers, Box W., 62, Windsor, Ont., will send free to any mother, her home treatment, with full instructions. Send no money, but write her today if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child, the chances are it can't help it. This treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled with urine difficulties by day or night.

The first twelve were elected. Harry Morgan took Ald. George Ball's place when the latter was appointed sanitary inspector.

The municipal elections for 1908 are over. A new mayor and four new aldermen will sit around the council board as a result, while two of last year's aldermen, who stood for re-election, went down to defeat.

The new aldermen are Messrs. Gillespie, Neill, Buller and Turner, while the defeated aspirants who were members of last year's council were Leary and Duncan. The other defeated candidates were Clancy, Bogue and Anderson.

The verdict of the people was decidedly against Mr. R. F. McWilliams. Mr. Rush's majority of 794 was hardly expected, his supporters not building on more than 200 or 300 at the most. Mr. McWilliams had made a hard fight, personally canvassing the ratepayers, and making a strong bid for support.

Mr. W. H. Hill had a comparatively easy in this contest for Water Commissioner, and the result was never in doubt from the time the first few polls gave their returns. Mr. Best's stand on the water bylaw had probably considerable to do with the somewhat small vote he polled.

The bylaw to place a water tax on all property fronted by water mains was approved by the electors by a big majority.

The plebiscite on the proposition to establish a system of garbage collection in Peterborough, showed that the people are not in favor of such a move. The question did not seem to be well understood by the ratepayers, so they decided to take no chances and voted against the proposition.

In the mayoralty contest Mr. Rush had a majority at every poll, and the first few returns that came in showed which way the wind was blowing. That Mr. Rush was to be the city's new chief magistrate was evidenced early in the evening.

The returns for the mayoralty were all in by six o'clock.

NOTES OF THE DAY

Mr. J. J. Turner, jr. made a surprisingly good showing.

The election was one of the liveliest in years.

Hats off to Mayor-elect Rush. He is the hero of the hour.

Among the aldermen who did no canvassing were Ald. Morrow, Ald. Leary and others.

The first shall be last and the last first—at least that was the case with John C. Anderson.

Mr. Gillespie, who is a prominent dairyman, was certainly the whole cheese yesterday.

Ald. W. G. Morrow is again on deck. He stood first last year, this year he was third.

Ald George J. Tovey, who was first last year, was twelfth this year, but he got there just the same.

Well, it is all over now, and we will settle down to work again, and resume the even tenor of our way.

The rush at the different polling subdivisions yesterday at the noon hour was simply terrific.

There were 2790 votes cast in the Mayoralty, and Mr. Rush obtained practically two out of every three.

Ald. Phelan made a great finish. He stood first this year. Last year he was fifth.

Mr. J. C. Anderson made a creditable run. He will get there next time.

Many friends will regret the loss of Ald. Leary. He stood thirteenth on the list.

The defeat of Ald. Duncan is regretted. As chairman of the board of works he did much earnest and faithful work. If there is one thankless position in the city council it is the position of being at the head of the board of works.

The bulletin service of the Review was the best service. It was prompt, reliable and satisfactory.

Mayor McWilliams' tenure of office will cease on Monday next, when the new mayor and council will take their seats.

Mr. James Bogue made a good try for the position of Alderman, capturing 828 votes. He will get there next time.

If you could not pick the winners, now perhaps you can name the chairmen of the different committees for this year 1908.

Mr. G. A. Gillespie made a corker of a run. He was second. The Fifth Ward stood loyally by him, and Ald. Morgan.

There are four new men in this year's council—Messrs. Gillespie, Turner, Neill and Buller.

Mayor McWilliams received 386 votes less this year than last. In 1907 he polled 1384 ballots, this year he polled only 998. Oh, what a drop.

Mr. McWilliams wishes to thank the Conservatives who stood for freedom from politics in municipal affairs and who gave him their support.

Mr. Henry Best, who ran for water commissioner, was never defeated before in a contest. Mr. Hill voted for Mr. Best, and the latter for Mr. Hill.

The first meeting of the new council will be held on Monday next, January 13th, at 11 o'clock, in the forenoon, when Mayor-elect Rush will deliver his inaugural address.

The definite returns for the Mayoralty were known before six o'clock. The alderman vote was rather slow in coming in, as was also the total vote for water commissioner.

Four of last years aldermen are not in the council this year. They are Ald. Leary and Ald. Duncan, who were defeated. Ald. Stevenson and Wilson did not seek re-election.

Mr. W. H. Hill certainly deserves his splendid victory as Water Commissioner. His majority of 767 is a large one, and demonstrates that the people have implicit confidence in him.

There were 2790 votes cast in the Mayoralty election this year. Last year there were 2547, when ex-Ald. Hicks opposed Mayor McWilliams. The number of ballots polled over last year was 243.

Mayor Rush visited the local newspaper offices at the conclusion of the elections thanking them for their support and expressing his gratitude to the voters for their magnificent support of his candidature.

Mr. James Bogue, contractor, made an excellent run, considering that he was out of the city during election week, and did not ask a man for a vote. He received 828 ballots, and stood fifteenth on the list. This is a remarkably good showing, in view of the fact that many stories, calculated to harm his candidature, were circulated about him. However, he thanks all who did not, and is not grieving over the opportunity to attend to his own business in 1908.

More municipal matter on page six.

Druce Case is Now Ended; Close of Famous Action

Perjury Charge Against Herbert Druce Withdrawn.

Crowded Court Witnessed Final Scenes of Famous Trial—Professor Gives Detailed Evidence of Opening of Coffin—Body Was Recognized, Being Extremely Well Preserved—Not Been Tampered With.

London, Jan. 7.—The perjury charge brought against Herbert Druce by his nephew, George Hollamby Druce, collapsed yesterday, and the famous case is now conclusively lost.

The resumption of the case before a crowded court house testified to the revival of interest brought about by the recent exhumation and the hints given out by the attorneys for George Hollamby Druce, that the body found in the coffin was not that of T. C. Druce.

The first witnesses called testified to the condition of the vault and the coffin. They said there was absolutely no lead in the vault, and declared they were satisfied that neither the vault nor the coffin had been tampered with since the latter had been deposited.

Then Prof. Pepper took the stand and gave a detailed description of the coffin and its opening. Within the coffin, he said, was the body of a male, aged between 65 and 73 years. It was extremely well preserved, the skin being broken in only one place. The face was covered with a handkerchief bearing the initials "T. C. D." The removal of this handkerchief revealed the features of a bearded man, quite easily recognizable by anyone who had known him in life. He had reddish brown moustache and whiskers and a beard of reddish brown and white.

On this evidence, Mr. Atherley-Jones announced the withdrawal of the perjury charge, saying that it would be contrary to the best traditions of the legal profession if he persisted therein.

Magistrate Plowden, in discharging Herbert Druce, whose truthfulness, he remarked, had been absolutely and conclusively vindicated, thanked him for having consented to the opening of the grave in the interests of justice.

George Hollamby Druce declared yesterday that the civil action would be continued, but public interest in the affair vanishes with the collapse of the case against Herbert Druce.

G. W. Thackeray, who was closely connected with T. C. Druce, testified in court yesterday that the body was unquestionably that of his former friend.

Thaw Again on Trial For the Murder of Stanford White

Straight Insanity Will Be the Plea of Defence.

Choosing of Jurors — Evelyn Nesbit Will Testify — Her Cross-Examination to Be More Severe Than Before—Jury to Be Kept In Custody Throughout the Trial—New Judge and Counsel.

New York, Jan. 7.—Harry K. Thaw yesterday, for the second time, faced a trial of the charge of wilful murder. After months of waiting in the Tombs, the tedious work of securing a jury to try the young Pittsburger for the killing of Stanford White was begun in the criminal branch of the Supreme Court, the same room in which Thaw sat daily for nearly three months during the previous trial. Compared with the former trial, interest in New York is at a low ebb.

It is probable that many tedious days will be spent in securing a jury for the trial of the case. It has already been decided that jurymen will be placed under lock and key from the moment they are chosen until they finally finish with the case and this will add to the difficulty in finding qualified jurymen who will be willing to serve in the case and who will not in some way be able to squirm out of that duty. It will not be a surprise to the attorneys in the case if a month or more is consumed in securing the jury.

District Attorney Jerome and Assistant District Attorney Garvan will again represent the people in the case, while Martin W. Littleton, a well-known Brooklyn attorney, will appear as Thaw's chief counsel, replacing Delphin Michael Delmas, the California lawyer who headed the defense's corps of lawyers at the former trial. The prosecution's direct case will be brief. The actual killing will be proved and then the defence will have an opportunity to prove, if it can, that Thaw was not mentally responsible when he fired the shot which ended the life of Stanford White. It is said that the defence has subpoenaed a large number of additional witnesses for this trial, but it is believed that Evelyn Nesbit Thaw will still be the principal witness for the defence. That she will tell practically the same story she told on the last trial is probable, but it is rumored that the prosecution will cross-examine her even more severely than was done at the other trial. Assistant District Attorney Garvan is said to have spent the greater portion of his vacation in Europe last summer in going over the route of the trip through Europe made by Thaw and Evelyn Nesbit before they were married, and it is not impossible that he secured information there that may come out in the cross-examination.

A special venire of 300 jurymen had been summoned, all of whom reported yesterday. A second 150 will report to-day and the remainder to-morrow.

The usual curious crowds were gathered about the criminal courts building yesterday morning in the hope of catching a glimpse of Harry Thaw as he crossed the bridge of sighs on the first day of his second trial.

The word that women were to be barred had been judiciously spread abroad, and there was none but newspaper writers on hand. Last year at the beginning of the trial women predominated in the court room, and it was their insistence which caused much of the disorder of the opening day.

Thaw was visited by members of his counsel in the Tombs Prison yesterday morning. He was elated over the fact that the day of his new trial, so long awaited, had at last arrived.

Mrs. George Lauder Carnegie, his sister, and Josiah Thaw, one of his brothers, also called on the defendant yesterday morning, and brought him a message of greeting from his mother, who is still too ill at her home in Pittsburg to come on for the trial. It was the first time Thaw had seen his sister and brother for some months, and his greetings were most affectionate.

Mrs. Harry K. Thaw went directly to the Court House, coming downtown too late to stop at the prison.

Thaw was called to the bar at 11.27 o'clock. His appearance showed little change from last year.

As soon as they appeared his chief counsel, Martin F. Littleton, announced that the former pleas of not guilty entered by his client would be amended to read "that the defendant was insane at the time the deed was committed."

Thaw was seated at the counsel table, with Mr. Littleton, A. Russell Peabody and Daniel O'Reilly. District Attorney Jerome and Assistant District Attorney Garvan represented the people.

Mrs. Evelyn Thaw, attired in the blue school dress, which became familiar during the first trial, was in the courtroom, accompanied by Mrs. Carnegie and Josiah Thaw.

Justice Dowling announced that until further notice there would be three court sessions each day, as follows: From 10.15 a. m. to 1 p.m., from 2 p. m. to 6 p. m., and from 8 p. m. to 10 p. m. He also announced that the jury would be locked up throughout the trial.

After a somewhat informal discussion as to the methods of selecting jurors, the work of filling the twelve vacant chairs was taken up.

Municipalities Carry Power Bylaw and Endorse Beck Policy.

Ingersoll Only Place to Reject Bylaw For Distribution of Niagara Power Procured From Government — Results of Local Option Voting—List of Mayors For Cities and Towns For 1908.

Toronto, Jan. 7.—Elections took place in the various Ontario municipalities, outside of Toronto and North Toronto, which have special legislative sanction for New Year's Day voting. The local option bylaws, the power bylaws and various local bylaws were also causes of more or less lively campaigning.

Kingston abandoned politics as applied to local elections by giving Dr. Ross, president of the local Conservative Association, as mayor. B. F. McWilliams was badly beaten for a second term at Peterboro. Brantford re-elected Mayor Bowlby over Ald. Whitham by 24. Toronto Junction re-elected Mayor Baird. East Toronto elected Andrew McMillan. Mayor Stewart of Hamilton and Mayor Scott of Ottawa were elected by acclamation.

In a dozen cities and towns yesterday the Niagara power bylaw was submitted to the ratepayers, and in every case but one, to be specially mentioned, it was carried with majorities ranging in about the same proportion as in Toronto last Wednesday. London and Waterloo carried it by 3 to 1; Hamilton by 2 to 1; Guelph by 10 to 1; Brantford had 1,131 to 734; Galt 756 to 510. Stratford, St. Thomas, Woodstock, St. Mary's, Hespeler and New Hamburg were all in line.

Hamilton bylaw was for $275,000; London, $236,000; Galt, $66,000; Brantford, $55,000; Guelph, $50,000; St. Thomas, $42,000; Stratford, $35,000; Waterloo, $1,000; New Hamburg, $10,000.

PEARSON GETS LONDON TIMES.

Famous Newspaper Secured by the Big Syndicate.

London, Jan. 7.—The London Times has passed from the control of the Walter family, which has owned and conducted it for three generations, ever since it was first established.

G. Arthur Pearson, one of the two journalistic magnates of London, has secured the direction of the great newspaper.

This deal brings The Times into line with The Standard and The Express, Mr. Pearson's other London morning journals, as an advocate of tariff reform. It has recently been lukewarm, if not hostile, to the Chamberlain policy.

The papers now controlled by Pearson are: The Standard, The Evening Standard, St. James Gazette, Daily Express, Birmingham Gazette, Birmingham Evening Despatch, Leicester News, North Mail, Evening Mail, Newcastle Weekly Leader.

Guelph Churches Robbed.

Guelph, Jan. 7.—The fact that there are church thieves at large in this city is becoming very evident, as on Sunday night the fourth church burglary took place at the Dublin street Methodist Church, where the thieves were doubtless disappointed to find nothing of any value.

Only a few nights ago St. James' English Church was entered and a small sum of money taken. Trinity Baptist Church was entered on Friday night and a small sum of money taken, while quite recently the birthday box in the Norfolk street Methodist Church Sunday school infant class was stolen, with its contents.

The ministers in some of the city churches Sunday warned their deacons openly from the pulpits to be careful of the collections.

Won't Search Japs.

Vancouver, Jan. 7.—Chief of Police Chamberlain has refused a demand of the Asiatic Exclusion League to search the Oriental quarters for dangerous weapons, as hurrying a possible crisis in the Japanese question.

The Japanese business community sent a handsome bouquet of roses to the injured firemen, with a check for $100 and a letter regretting the trouble. The chief returned the gifts, declaring that the firemen had no desire to accept any gift as a consideration for the injuries done them.

Escort Again at Bottom.

Port Dalhousie, Jan. 7.—After working for four hours trying to get the tug Escort and two pontoons through lock one, on the new canal, Sunday they had to give it up and tugs had to pull them outside again, when the tug broke loose and she sank to the bottom of the canal again. The diver is at work on her and she is in a bad condition.

Boy to Be Lashed.

Chatham, Jan. 7.—Edward Lawrence, a 15-year-old negro, was yesterday sentenced to 18 months in the Central Prison and 40 lashes, 20 during the first month of incarceration and 20 during the last month. He had pleaded guilty to assault on a white woman.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Jan. 6.—(Special.)—At the Montreal Stock Yards' West End Market the receipts of live stock for the week ending Jan. 4 were 4796 cattle, 1261 sheep and lambs, 2568 hogs and 57 calves, while the offerings this morning were 1000 cattle, 300 sheep and lambs, 1200 hogs and 60 calves. There was no important change in the condition of the market for cattle since this day week. The supply was fully 500 head larger than a week ago. The attendance of buyers was fairly large, in spite of this being partly a holiday, and, as they all required some beef, the demand was good, and an active trade was done at firm prices. Cable advices from Liverpool on Saturday reported trade in cattle firm and noted a slight improvement in prices, but this did not induce exporters here to operate, as trade in this respect was dull. Choice cattle in this market brought 4¾c to 5c; good, 4¼c to 4½c; fair, 3¾c to 4c; common, 3¼c to 3½c, and inferior, 2½c to 3c per lb. The trade in sheep and lambs was quiet, owing to the small offerings, and the undertone to the market was firm. The demand from local buyers was ample to absorb all offerings, and sales of choice lots of lambs were made at 6c; good at 5½c to 5¾c, and common at 5c to 5¼c per lb., while choice sheep brought 4c; good butchers' stock, 3½c to 3¾c, and culls 3c to 3¼c per lb. The undertone to the market for hogs continues strong, and prices since this day week have scored a further advance of 15c per 100 lbs. This has not been due to the recent improvement in the European markets for Canadian bacon, but it is attributed to the continued good demand from local dealers and the small supplies coming forward. A fairly active trade was done to-day, with sales of selected lots at $6.50 to $6.65 per 100 lbs., weighed off cars.

SWEET REVENGE

By

Captain F. A. MITCHEL,

Author of "Chattanooga," "Chickamauga," Etc.

Copyright, 1897, by Harper & Brothers.

Looking out through the hall door, I saw a fat man bestride a lean horse, with saddlebags, wiping the perspiration from his face and riding up to the gallery. He dismounted and entered, puffing for breath, and proved to be a country doctor. Putting on a grave face, he examined my wound critically and made great ado at dressing and bandaging it, then delivered the usual admonition. He departed, leaving me lying on the sofa, Miss Jack beside me, ministering to wants that were not wanted, devising schemes to meet requirements that were not required. Suddenly the two guards attracted her attention. They had been in the hall ever since my arrival, but had not until this moment excited her antagonism.

"What are you doing here?" Though her words were spoken sharply, her voice was soft and musical.

"On guard," replied one of the men.

"This isn't your house. Go away from here."

"Hain't got no orders."

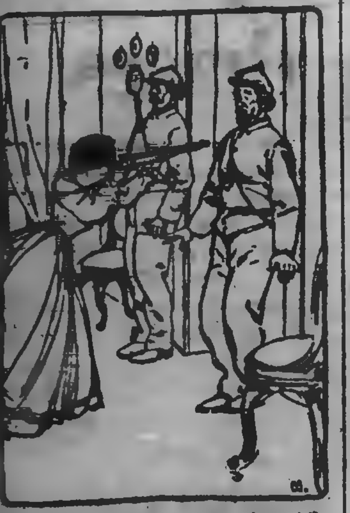
"I give you orders." Fire was beginning to dart from her eyes.

I interfered. "They are only doing their duty."

"They have no right in this house."

"But if you drive them out they will take me with them."

"Will they?" Her manner changed. "Never mind," she said to the guard. "Please don't leave us. I wouldn't have you go for the world. You're quite ornamental, one on one side of the door, the other on the other side, like statues, men at arms in castle halls."



She leveled it first at one man, then at the other.

The men looked at each other foolishly and grinned. The girl went up to one of them and asked him to let her examine his carbine. He did not quite like to let it go, but she took it without saying "by your leave."

"What a funny gun! How short! How many times can you fire it off? I wonder if I could shoot with it!"

She brought it up to her shoulder and, after pointing it to the wall, leveled it first at one man, then at the other. They both looked a trifle nervous, but said nothing. Then she made a motion to cock it when the muzzle was covering one of the men, and he protested. She burst into a merry laugh.

"What a brave man! Can't stand being pointed at by a girl! Ever in a battle? What's it like?"

The soldier made no reply, but reached for his carbine and seemed very much relieved when she suffered him to take it. There was no more play, for at that moment we heard the sound of horses' hoofs, and, looking out through the hall doorway, I saw two men riding up to the house. The one was Captain Beaumont, the other Tom Jaycox, the bitterest of all my Tennessee enemies and upon whom I had visited most summary punishment for the part he had taken in the massacre. In another minute they had dismounted and ascended the steps of the gallery, then came rapidly through the hall. Captain Beaumont's appearance denoted that there was something on his mind of great moment. His companion lumbered along beside him with the appearance of one looking for something or some one of peculiar interest to him. He was a short, thickset man in corduroy trousers, a double breasted vest, open, no coat and a broad brimmed straw hat, the hue of which indicated that it had served for several summers. His nose had been broken, and he had lost an eye. A coarse, stubby, brown and gray beard grew on his chin. An uglier specimen of the poor white of the south could scarcely be imagined, and the moment I saw him, knowing of his enmity for me, I gave myself up for lost.

"There he is," said Captain Beaumont.

"I reckoned so," replied the other. "He's yo' man."

"Who is he?" asked Miss Jack quickly.

"A renegade from the south, an abolition hound, one o' our east Tennessee dogs. What he's doin hyar I dunno, but I reckon he's on some errant fo' the Yankee gineral at Murfreesboro."

Suddenly all the careless, indolent demeanor of the captain deserted him. With true southern impulse, without stopping to investigate the charge, he was fired by the story that he held in his hands one who, though a southerner, was hunting information for the detested Yankees.

"Guard!" he called.

The two men approached.

"Take him away, and see that he doesn't get back here. I don't ever want to see him again."

I was stunned. I knew well what this order meant. I had heard it given in case of outlaws and knew that it was the form in which orders were given to take men out and shoot them. Many a guerrilla received his sentence in those words.

"Captain," I cried, "if you shoot me, you will commit a murder! That man"—pointing to the brute beside him—"is the real murderer. I know him well. I saw him shooting down women and children. I saw him"— I stopped short. There was an incredulous look on the captain's face. I knew that my accuser had his confidence. I realized that denials and counter accusations were expected from one in my position and would have no weight.

Jaqueline, though she could not have understood the captain's order, from my words and from my stricken appearance, realized the situation. She stood paralyzed, but only for a moment. While the guards were advancing toward me she stole up to the captain and slipped her arm through his. When he looked down at her, she was gazing up into his face with the perfection of coquetry. I watched the effect eagerly. His first expression was one of surprise; then all severity died away. An amused look followed, mingled with admiration, and at last he broke into a pleasant smile.

CHAPTER VI.

AN AMATEUR SOUBRETTE.

I HAVE seen men disarmed in various ways, by argument, fear, force, but never have I seen one so quickly vanquished as he who was about to rush me off to execution. His intended act was most unwarranted, and had he been induced to refrain by logical arguments I should not have been surprised. But Jaqueline knew nothing of logic or the merits of the case. She used no plea; she conquered by a look.

"What a queer man!"

"Who—I?" The captain's smile broadened.

"Queerest man I ever saw. What do yo' want to take him away fo'? Don't yo' know he's wounded, and we just got him fixed up?"

"You don't mean it!" He spoke as deferentially as if the information were really a surprise to him.

"Don't want ever to see him again? What a grumpy thing you must be! Suppose I'd say I wanted never to see you again?"

"You'd break my heart."

All this was not to the liking of the captain's companion. "Well, captain," he put in, "what yo' goin ter do? Goin ter let him lay thar ter be coddled by the fambly?"

"Yo' hush!" cried Jaqueline, with suddenly flashing eyes. The man started back. Possibly he was unused to such quick transitions. "Yo' can't take him away till his arm gets well. S'pose he bleeds to death? You'd have his blood on yo' hands. Just think of that!"

Considering that they had intended to take me out and shoot me, the warning was, to say the least, amusing. Every one burst into a laugh. Indeed, I could hardly refrain from joining in it myself, notwithstanding my critical situation.

"You certainly don't want to commit a gross blunder, captain," I remarked. "You can at least give me some sort of trial."

"Reckon I can refer the matter to headquarters," he replied, fixing his eyes on Jaqueline.

It was a delicate scale that balanced life and death in wartime and often required only a feather's weight to turn it. It had been turned for the time and turned effectually. The guards were ordered back, and the captain sauntered away with my accuser, who expostulated as they passed out of the house on to the gallery. Pulling a cigar out of his pocket, Captain Beaumont sat down in a rocking chair and began to smoke as tranquilly as if nothing had happened, listening composedly to the ruffian who was trying to get him to shoot me. But Beaumont was now as difficult to move, as imperturbable, as he had been before irate, and Jaycox at last went away disappointed. He gave me a malignant glance before going, which said plainly, "I'll fix you yet."

The captain continued sitting where he was, his head resting on the back of the rocker, looking dreamily up at the waving branches of a large tree set against the blue sky. Supper was ready, and Jaqueline, taking a rose, went out and, fixing it in a buttonhole of his coat, led him into the dining room. Before passing out of sight she turned and gave me a meaning glance, accompanied by a wry face at her companion. As the captain's back was turned it was safe for me to indulge in a smile. Indeed, I fear I could hardly have refrained had his face been toward me. This little Jaqueline was certainly unique.

Fred Anderson's Brother Killed

Manager Johnston, of the Peterborough Baseball team, received a letter today from Fred Anderson, who played second base for the locals last summer. Fred is now at Cargill, Ont., and the letter contained the information that his brother had been killed in a cement manufacturing plant at Cargill, a few days ago. Fred's many friends here will be sorry to hear of affliction. The young man who was killed, was also a good baseball player. He met death by getting caught on a fast revolving shaft.

Belleville, Jan. 6. — Mr. Charles P. Holten, one of Belleville's prominent citizens, died suddenly last night. The Directors are Dissappointed

Latest in the Affairs of Defunct Ontario Ban

Toronto, Jan. 6.—The Master-in Chambers this morning delivered judgment on the motion brought on behalf of the ex-directors of the Ontario Bank for further and fuller particulars of the action for the recovery of $2,688,686, under the following heads;—

1. For dividends improperly paid out of capital...	$444,123
2. For losses on speculative investments...	1,733,100
3. For losses on purchase of capital stock of the bank...	270,003
4. For consequent loss of double libility on same...	200,000
Total...	$2,688,686

The Master refers to this amount as an "enormous sum." He goes on to say that the statements of claim covering eight type-written pages is very clear and precise in setting out the various classes of claims which are being made with the necessary dates and sums, and it also furnishes the necessary historical data as to the suspension of the bank, and the previous course of events. His Lordship says;

DENIAL THE WHOLE DEFENCE

"I am not able to imagine how any defence can be made other than a denial of the alleged losses; or admitting them, a denial of the defendants' responsibility for them, and for neither of these is there any necessity for the particulars of allegations of want of care, etc., asked for. If the defendants deny their responsibility the plaintiffs will have to prove them to the satisfaction of the final tribunal. These allegations are not the "material facts," on which the plaintiffs must rely. They are rather inferences from the facts so fully set forth of the way in which it is alleged the defendants allowed the funds of the bank to be used —funds of which they were the chosen and salaried guardians, standing in the position most certainly of agents and custodians, if not trustees, for the whole body of shareholders.

WOULD BE UNWARRANTED.

"To grant particulars under the facts of this case before pleading does not seem to be warranted by principle or authority."

"If the alleged losses actually occurred (and unfortunately there is no doubt on this point) the defendants must know what case they are called on to meet."

The Master gives the plaintiffs, however, the right to renew the motion later if developments seem to require it.

Sudden Death Of Cobourg Woman

Rochester, Jan. 6.—Mary Ann Ryan collapsed on a car here on Saturday night and died within a few minutes. A package of overalls and jumpers which were carried out of the car with the dying woman led the morgue officials to believe that she was the wife of a night watchman. The body lay at the morgue until night when she was identified by a woman with whom she lived. Her home is in Cobourg, whence she came to work in a clothing factory a short time ago. Her absence from the factory was reported at her boarding house to-night and this led to her identification. The clothing belonged to a railroad man returning home from the Pennsylvania station. In the excitement among the car passengers the package was carried out by mistake.

DEAD MEN LEFT NOTE.

Suicide of Young Man Who Asks Earl Grey Be Notified.

New York, Jan. 7.—A young man, believed to be H. Grey Duberly, son of Capt. James Grey Duberly, R. M., the Cannons, Westcastle, Yarmouth, England, was found dead in bed, evidently from the effects of a narcotic poison, in the Hermitage Hotel last night.

Six letters were found in the dead man's room. One of the letters was addressed to his father and another to the Hon. Earl Grey, Governor-General of Canada. Another letter was addressed to the manager of the Hermitage Hotel and said:

"Kindly communicate with my father, Capt. Grey Duberly, the Cannons, Westcastle, England. He will defray all expenses. Also communicate with Earl Grey, Ottawa, Canada. I regret, but all expenses will be paid.

(Signed) "H. Grey Duberly."

Duberly arrived on Sunday evening.

An examination was made of Duberly's letter to his father, it was opened and read. It said:

"By the time you receive this letter I shall be no more. You killed my mother and you have compelled me to commit suicide. Had you treated me as a father should treat a son, things would have been different. I forgive you and hope God may forgive me. I only hope you will treat the rest of the children better than you have treated me."

Duberly is said to be a cousin of Earl Grey.

PADEREWSKI'S ESCAPE.

His Throat Nearly Cut When Private Car Was Bumped.

Cincinnati, Jan. 7.—Ignace Paderewski, the famous pianist, had a narrow escape from death Sunday night. He was being shaved by his valet in his private car, which had been detached from the train in the railroad yards here, when a switch engine bumped up against the car. The jolt sent the razor into the musician's throat.

Fortunately the valet turned the blade sufficiently to avoid any vital spot, although a considerable gash was inflicted.

The narrow escape so unnerved him that it was an hour before he could regain his composure sufficiently to go to the hall, which he did with his throat in bandages.

He would not permit his attendant to complete the shave, so he appeared half shaved, one side of his face having been shaved before the accident.

Mount Royal Sighted?

Montreal, Jan. 7.—A despatch from Mr. A. Piers, manager of steamship lines of the Canadian Pacific Railway, Liverpool, says:

"A steamer resembling the Mount Royal has been reported in a position 250 miles west of Eastnet Lights, southwest corner of Ireland. The Canadian Pacific steamer Lake Manitoba, which has been held in readiness at Liverpool for the past ten days, was immediately despatched to the assistance of the Mount Royal. This latter steamer is now thirty days out from Antwerp, bound for St. John, N. B., and the anxiety which has been felt is greatly relieved by this news from Liverpool, and the Canadian Pacific officials are very hopeful that in a day or two they will be able to announce that the missing ship with her passengers and crew has been safely towed to port. No details are as yet available as to the cause of the delay, but it is generally believed to be due to a breakdown of her machinery or propeller.

Vandick, a former chemist in the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, alleging that he worked in conjunction with a wholesale ink manufacturer of Baltimore, Md., to the extent that the Government has been defrauded out of between $70,000 and $75,000.

Baby In the Stove.

MacLeod, Jan. 7.—A Chinese laundryman, on returning to his place of business after dinner the other day, found the body of an immature child roasting in his stove. The affair has caused a great sensation, and it is thought that some desperate girl placed the body of the child in the stove to hide her shame.

New Orleans, La., Jan. 7.—Capt. Henry Daniel, who brought the steamer Alexandria of Liverpool into port, reports having passed close to a small vessel floating bottom up on Jan. 3, in the Gulf of Mexico. In the same day the Alexandria passed within a short distance of a waterspout.

Two Sailors Drowned.

London, Jan. 7.—The British tank steamer Housatonic, Captain Henry, which sailed from Barrow last Saturday for New York, was wrecked on Maiden Rock, off Portmuck, County Antrim, Ireland, early Sunday morning. Two of the crew were drowned.

Arrested For Seduction.

Soo, Jan. 7.—Wesley Husband, a married man, with a family of three children, residing at Steelton, was arrested at the Steel plant yesterday, where he was employed, on a charge of seduction, preferred by the father of Clara May Nicoll, lot 18, con. 1, Enniskillen Township, Lambton County.

UNION BARBERS MEET TO-NIGHT

Annual Meeting at Irwin's Shop —Not Likely to change Prices

This regular annual meeting of the local union barbers will be held to-night, at Irwin's shop, Charlotte St. The yearly reports will be presented and the election of officers will take place. A prominent local member of this union informed the Review today that he did not think any change would be effected in the schedule of prices. There has been considerable talk of raising the price of a hair cut to 25c., and also advancing the prices of other tonsorial necessities and luxuries, but it is stated that the price list will likely remain the same as it is at present.

MR. RUSH'S THANKS

To the Electors of the City of Peterborough;

Ladies and Gentlemen—

My most grateful thanks are herewith publicly tendered to you for the strong confidence reposed in me by electing me yesterday your mayor for 1908 by so handsome a majority.

I take this as a very flattering honor you have conferred upon me, because, as you all know, I did not personally canvass a single voter. My election, therefore, is entirely due to the independent support I received from all classes of citizens, to the strong public sentiment in my favor, and the energetic work of my friends. It affords me additional pleasure to know that you have also elected an intelligent Board of Aldermen for the year, whose support and assistance will be of great service to me in the discharge of my municipal duties.

Having made no promises to any one, I feel at liberty to use my own judgment in all matters coming before the board, unbiased by any pledge, and so, with the assistance of my colleagues in the council, it will be my aim to promote the city's welfare and to safeguard the interests of all classes of the community.

The result of the election conclusively shows that the large and representative requisition presented to me was an honest expression of the feelings of the citizens, and that I would have been recreant to my duty had I not complied with its request.

Let me again thank you all for the honorable position you have placed me in and for the trust reposed in me, and to wish you one and all a happy and prosperous new year.

Respectfully yours,

H. RUSH

A CARD

To the Electors of the City of Peterborough,—

Ladies and gentlemen.—

I am deeply grateful for your support and appreciation in returning me at the head of the polls for aldermen. I highly esteem the confidence and trust you have placed in me and I shall do everything in power to merit your continued approval.

Wishing you all the compliments of the season. I remain,

Respectfully yours,

HARRY PHELAN

A CARD

To the Ratepayers of Peterborough:

Ladies and gentlemen,—

I beg to return my thanks to those who supported my election for alderman.

I am particularly indebted to the ladies who supported me by turning out in such large numbers. Assuring all of my best efforts for the city and again thanking you, I am,

Yours sincerely,

J. TURNER, Jr.

A CARD

To the Ratepayers of the City of Peterborough:

Ladies and gentlemen,—I thank most heartily the ratepayers who so kindly supported my candidature for alderman, and ensured my return. My first duty will be to endeavor to faithfully discharge the duties of my office in the interests of the city.

Yours Respectfully,

ROBERT NEILL

CARD OF THANKS

To the Electors of the City of Peterborough,—

My best thanks are tendered the ratepayers who so kindly gave me such a generous support ensuring again my election as one of the City Council.

I think I am safe in taking the support given me as a token of approval and will earnestly endeavor to, if possible, use increased diligence to serve the city during the year 1908.

Very respectfully,

A. A. McIntyre

CARD OF THANKS

To the Ratepayers of the City of Peterborough:

Ladies and gentlemen,—

Permit me to thank you for the evidence of your confidence in again electing me Alderman by such a magnificent vote.

I can only add that I shall endeavor to merit a continuance of that confidence by doing my utmost to advance the interests of the city, and to manage its affairs with the greatest economy consistent with efficiency and progress.

Yours respectfully,

W. G. MORROW

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to assure the ratepayers that I appreciate very highly the substantial vote given in my favor, and thus ensuring my return.

While untried in the civic service I promise to do all I possibly can to ensure an efficient and economical administration of our affairs during 1908. With renewed thanks.

Very respectfully,

WM. BULLER

A CARD

I desire to thank the ratepayers for the expression of confidence shown me in my return as alderman for 1908.

I will endeavor to deserve, in future, your approval by working to the best of my ability in your interests.

Very respectfully,

GEORGE E. ELLIOTT

TO THE RATEPAYERS

Ladies and Gentlemen,—

I am gratified to find that while I did not make a canvas nor solicit from ratepayers support that my return as a member of the City Council for another term was assured. I take this as a token of approval and confidence and will earnestly endeavor to act in all things in the best interests of the city.

Yours respectfully,

GEORGE J. TOVEY

Ald. Bradburn's Thanks

To the Electors.—Permit me to publicly thank you for the large general vote which you gave me yesterday for alderman and which resulted in your re-electing me as one of your Board for 1908. Such a renewal of your confidence is very gratifying to me and I will do my utmost to justify your choice.

Your obedient servant,

W. H. BRADBURN

Peterborough, Jan. 7th, 1908.

CARD OF THANKS

To the citizens of Peterborough:

I desire to thank those of my fellow citizens who by their votes and influence endorsed my past career as a water commissioner of the city of Peterborough, by returning me to a renewed term of office. I shall, as in the past, endeavor to merit the very flattering expression of confidence which the public have thus been good enough from time to time to bestow upon me. I regret that my election necessarily involved the defeat of an opponent who stood so deservedly high in the public favor and I can only recognize the results as another obligation to the most faithful service which it is in my power to render.

A CARD

To the Electors:

It is my duty to thank nearly 700 electors for their support in Monday's elections and while not successful in being returned I have every reason to be proud of the support given me. I had not decided until the last moment to become a candidate, engaged no rigs, used no advertising and had only a few hours at my disposal in which to see my friends so that the support given me was almost entirely voluntary and given me without solicitation.

I feel, therefore, that in making my first bow to the electors I have every reason to be satisfied with the result and heartily thank one and all for the interest manifested towards me.

Yours faithfully,

J. C. ANDERSON

Mr. Gillespie's Thanks

To the Electors of the City of Peterborough,—

My thanks are due, and are hereby tendered to the electors—the ladies as well as the gentlemen—in every section of the city, for the large and representative support I received yesterday, which elected me as one of your Board of Aldermen for 1908. This evidence of your public confidence, is all the more pleasing to me seeing that you succeeded in placing me next to the head of the poll on this the first occasion of offering myself for your suffrage. I strongly feel the responsibility of the position you have elected me to. Let me assure you that I will endeavor to discharge the duties appertaining thereto in such a faithful manner as will justify your confidence in me.

Respectfully yours,

GEO. H. GILLESPIE

January 7th, 1908.

MANY THANKS

To the Electors of Peterborough:

I desire to express my warm appreciation of the renewal of confidence which I received yesterday from my friends, which re-elected me for another year a member of your Board of Aldermen.

I know no better way of continuin to enjoy the confidence of the ratepayers then by a consistent discharg of the duties of the position. This have always aimed to do and will continue to do without fear or favor.

Let me again thank my friends an "the boys" who faithfully worked my behalf, and to add my best wi for a prosperous new year for citizens and the city of Peterboroug

Source of Much Anxiety Steams Into Queenston Harbor

Delay of "Mount Royal" Due to Trouble With Her Boilers—Heavy Storms Caused the Vessel Trouble and it Was Resolved to Put Back to Coast.

Special to the Review.

Queenstown, Ireland, Jan. 7. —The long overdue Canadian Pacific steamship Mt. Royal entered the harbor here to-day under easy steam. The Mount Royal had troubles with her boilers and was compelled to put back. She is at best a slow boat and shortly after leaving the British coast she encountered a series of violent gales. She battled with the heavy weather for a fortnight until Christmas eve, when serious troubles with her boilers developed. The steamer was then in longtitude 24.30, west and lat. 45 north. The engine room staff succeeded in obtaining a moderate supply of steam, but the weather was such that the captain reluctantly decided it was best to make for the Irish coast. The steamer was beaded about and slowly steamed into port. Passengers and crew are all well.

Found Guilty on Two Charges; $50 for Pointing Firearms

George Moncrief, of Cavendish township, appeared before County Police Magistrate Edmison on two serious charges and was found guilty on both. The first was that of having assaulted his daughter, Martha Moncrief, and the second of pointing firearms at his daughter, mentioned above, Mary Gill, Sidney Gill and Howard Gill. On the first charge he was allowed to go on suspended sentence, and on the second was fined $50 and costs, to be paid forthwith, or 30 days with hard labor in gaol. The evidence was of a very contradictory character, Moncrief denying point blank the accusations brought against him in the witness box by the witnesses for the prosecution. Owing to the nature of some of the testimony the Magistrate intimated that proceedings on the charge of perjury would be taken. Mr. J. E. L. Goodwill acted for the prosecution and Mr. F. D. Kerr, for the defence.

BETTER THAN QUEEN CITY

Peterborough Milk Tests Higher Than That Supplied in Toronto

The following concerning the results of the last milk tests in Toronto is from the Toronto Globe:—

"The quality of milk supplied to the people of the city has improved since July and August when 60 per cent. was below 3 per cent. butter fat. The Medical Health Department has obtained 143 samples this month and 56 of these were below the 3 per cent."

"The result of the tests," said Sanitary Inspector Ball to The Review today," proves that the quality of milk supplied by local dairymen is superior to that furnished by the Toronto milkmen. Since the first of last March when the milk testing system was inaugurated, there has only been one instance of milk being below 3 per cent."

Port Hope Favors Municipal Plant

To do its Street Lighting—By-law Carried by Good Majority

Special to The Review.

Port Hope, Jan. 7.—The ratepayers yesterday carried a by-law to establish a street lighting electric plant by a majority of 97.

The by-law was a protest against the electric light company's action in turning off the street lights some time ago and demanding a ten years' contract with the town, for the purpose, it is said, of shutting off the Healey Falls cheap power proposition.

The object in submitting the by-law was not so much to install a municipal street lighting plant as to enable the citizens to secure a fair, short term contract with the local company, and a reduction in the house lighting rate which is very high. Mr. J. A. Culverwell, managing director of the Northumberland-Power Company, was among those who worked hard for the success of the by-law for a municipal lighting plant, and had the satisfaction of seeing it carry by a good majority.

LEARN DRESSMAKING

We teach you everything from the plainest shirt waist to the most elaborate toilet that can be found in the fashion books. We show you not only the lining but all the outer goods in coats, skirts, waists, wrappers, sleeves, children's dresses, collars, etc. Why spend months at a dressmaking shop where you do nothing but hem, overcast, sew on hooks and eyes? And then, after you have served months there, what do you know about cutting? Absolutely nothing. You will know no more how to cut out a dress at the end of a year, than you did the first day you went there. So, why spend your time there when we can teach you in less than two weeks? You can come and try for a few days and if the course is not what we have advertised it to be you have the privilege to stop. As there is no pay in advance you certainly do not lose anything by trying. If you do not wish to be a professional dressmaker the cost is so small that you can well afford to take it up if only for your own use. We have taught over 7,000 in this way within the past five years.

Charge for full course is only $10, to be paid when through, including one of the most perfect fitting charts in use which we give free. An evening class will also be taught for the benefit of those that can not come during the day. In this class we will teach shirt waists, sleeves and saques. Terms $4.00. Hours from 7:00 to 9:30. We will teach at Peterborough from January 20 to February 7. Hours for day class form 8:30 to 5:30. For full information we would be pleased to have all those interested call and have the system explained to them at the Oriental Hotel, on Wednesday, January 15, between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m.

The Review Bulletin Service Was Prompt and Accurate

Crowds of people thronged the newspaper offices from shortly after the polls closed until the last returns were in last evening, and great excitement prevailed. The excellent bulletin service given by The Review proved to be a great drawing card. As the results were received in the office they were immediately thrown upon the canvas located on the south side of Hunter street. The different reports were clear and distinct.

Especially did the mayoralty contest arouse great interest, and each return was greeted with cheer after cheer. Mr. Bush's picture was also shown and created a great outburst of cheering and applauding. A splendid stereopticon lantern, secured from the Peterborough Light and Power Co., showed numerous views to excellent advantage. Cuts of the different aldermanic candidates and prominent citizens were thrown on the canvas as well as a variety of general views. These were shown when there were no election returns to bulletin. The Review is indebted to Mr. P. M. Roy, the "Crystal" and the Y.M.C.A. for the loan of views. The lantern was operated by Mr. H. A. Fife of the Peterborough Light and Power Company, who knows everything that can be known about a stereopticon lantern, and performed his duties last night with great efficiency. A big crowd gathered in front of the office and hundreds of eyes were on the canvas from 5.15 until after nine o'clock.

The returns were also posted on a large bulletin board inside the office. This was also greatly appreciated and as the figures were put on they were copied and discussed by scores of people.

The first bulletin came in at 5.15, being the vote on the mayoralty at the poll at A. J. Wanne's store on Charlotte street. The last came in about 8.30, and was the aldermanic vote at Lewis Spry's shop, 210 Stewart street.

The Review had a man stationed at each poll, and as soon as the figures were obtainable they were telephoned to the office. Thus the service was prompt and accurate.

Who Will Get Chairmanships Of the Various Committees?

Much Speculation Being Indulged in—Ald. Elliott for Board of Works--Ald. Morgan May Get Fire, Water and Light.

The first meeting of the new City Council will be held on Monday morning at eleven o'clock, when the mayor and aldermen will take the oath of office. A committee will also be appointed to draft the committees for the year. The council will meet again in the evening, when the committee will report and other preliminary business will be transacted.

Among those interested in municipal matters and who follow the operations of the city council much speculation is being indulged in as to who will get the chairmanships of the various committees. It is understood that in appointing the chairmen the committees usually give preference to the men who have been in the council before, as their experience qualifies them better for the position. A man's standing in the number of votes polled is not much of a factor when the chairmanships are being settled. The committee appointed by the council selects the different committees and each committee elects its own chairman.

The Board of Works is considered the most important committee, and there is little doubt but that the chairmanship will go to Ald. Elliott. It was between he and Ald. Duncan last year, and the mayor gave the casting vote in favor of Mr. Duncan. Ald. Elliott should make a good man for the head of the Board of Works.

Ald. Harry Morgan is spoken of as a strong man for the chairmanship of the Fire, Water and Light Committee. He was a member of that committee last year, and has taken a deep interest in the fire department, and it would not be surprising to see him the head of the committee that has the supervision of it.

Ald. Morrow is spoken of as a good man for the Finance Committee, and Ald. Tovey will not likely take it again, and at any rate the opinion seems to prevail that the chairmanships and the work and honor attached thereto should go around among the aldermen. Ald. Morrow's qualifications and experience should stand him in good stead if he is chosen for the chairmanship.

The chairmanship of the Manufacturers' Committee, which Ald. Morrow held last year, will likely go to Ald. Phelan, although it will be hard to get as good a man as Ald. Phelan for the Legal and Reception Committees. Legal and Legislative and Reception is a joint committee.

Ald. Bradburn is looked upon as a favorable candidate for the chairmanship of the legal and legislative and reception committee, although there may be others when the time comes.

There are many who would like to see Ald. McIntyre retain the chairmanship of the property and market committee, but it is not the usual custom to have a chairmanship for more than one year.

There may be surprises, however, as some of the new men may loom strong when it comes to awarding the chairmanships.

Surprising Strength Shown By New Aldermanic Candidates

Messrs. Gillespie, Neill and Buller Furnish the Surprises of the Day—How the Votes of Different Candidates Compared With Last Year.

Probably not for years did a municipal election in Peterborough create as much excitement as yesterday's contest. It was generally conceded that Mr. Bush would be elected, but there were many who had their doubts and the big majority in favor of the new candidate came as a surprise to the major portion of the ratepayers.

The aldermanic field composed of [illegible] candidates, ten of last year's Council and seven new men, furnished many interesting possibilities. And the way the vote went was a surprise in many places. The new men in the field certainly proved dark horses. Chief among these was Geo. Gillespie, who gave Ald. Phelan a hard chase for the head of the poll. In almost every sub-division Mr. Gillespie polled a big vote and for a time headed the list. The last three polls, however, brought up Mr. Phelan's total and he finished at the top with a comfortable margin to spare. And while talking of surprises, it may be mentioned that Mr. Phelan's big vote was not altogether expected, as [illegible] it was felt that he would [illegible] up in the list. Mr. Neill and Mr. Buller were also among the men who made the populace sit up and take notice. Their election was generally conceded, but few expected they would stand so high. Mr. Morrow and Mr. Elliott again stood well in the front, but Mr. Tovey, who came third last year, dropped to last place. Mr. Johnson was fourth last year and eleventh this year, while Mr. Morgan climbed up considerably and polled a surprisingly good vote. Mr. Bradburn about held his own, coming seventh from the top. He was eighth last year. A new man in the lists, J. J. Turner, Jr., finished tenth. Mr. Turner's friends, while expecting that he would be elected, considered that he would be lucky if he was eleventh or twelfth. The new alderman was heartily congratulated on his victory. Mr. McIntyre's good work in the council last year was recognized by a substantial vote that landed him eighth from the top. Mr. MacIntyre polled a good vote at every poll and probably had the most uniform vote of any of the candidates.

The members of last year's council who were defeated were Messrs. Leary and Duncan. Both had worked hard during the year and their dropping out will be generally regretted. Mr. Bogue and Mr. Cheney both polled good votes and will be dangerous candidates if they come out again next year. Mr. Anderson would have made a good alderman, but was not well enough known to the ratepayers to secure sufficient votes to get a place at the council board.

Curlers Express Gratitude

The following communication has been forwarded to Dr. Wood, president of the Lindsay Curling Club:

Peterborough, Jan. 06

Dr. J. W. Wood, President Lindsay Curling Club:

Dear Sir,—On behalf of the members of the Peterborough Curling Club I desire to thank you and your club most heartily for your kind sympathy in the loss we have sustained. We are also very thankful for the generous offer to use your rink and curling stones. Needless to say, we will only be too pleased to accept your offer, and hope to do so next week.

Already our members have ordered new stones, and hope to have curling here before the end of the month. Failing a prospective indoor rink, we will have an open air rink on the site of the former rink. When we succeed, we shall be always glad to meet Lindsay curlers on our ice. Next year we will have a rink second to none, and will celebrate its opening by holding a grand bonspiel.

Again thanking you for your kindness, and wishing you a successful curling season.

Yours truly,

R. M. WADDELL,
Sec. Peterborough C.C.

Sporting Comment

The greatest interest is being taken in the first intermediate O. H. A. scheduled game to be played here on the 10th. The Strathconas think they are up against the hardest proposition in the district when they face Lindsay and are taking no chances on the outcome of the game. The team had a good practice last night and will be in good condition for the game. The Scugog outfit is reputed to be lightning fast and the spirit of rivalry existing between the two teams assures a hard fought game.

It is only a short time now when the ice races of the Peterborough Turf Club will be pulled off at the Driving Park. Reserve the two dates, Jan. 21st and 23rd, as two days great racing is promised. A big field of fast horses is billed to start, and a couple of the best bookies in the business will look after the handling of the bets.

Tom Eck plans to have a 25 mile Marathon established from Newmarket to Toronto. If the event is run a handsome loving cup will be put up for competition.

The Manitoba hockey league is on the rocks. Fred. Whitcroft may have to come back east again.—Belleville Intelligencer.

HOCKEY

Ottawa, Jan. 6.—Trustee Foran, at the urgent request of the Victoria Club, had a conference last night over long distance phone with President Jennings of the Wanderers, with reference to dates for the cup games.

Wanderers are agreeable to playing the first game Thursday night, providing the Arena can be secured, and Dr. Baird of Victorias goes to Montreal today to endeavor to make the necessary arrangements in connection with Wanderers. If the Arena cannot be had, it is understood that the trustees will order the match played in some other rink.

Some time ago Wanderers were told to be ready to defend the cup early in January, and while they preferred not to play that week, they are willing to meet Victorias Thursday.

It may be stated with probable accuracy that the dates will be Thursday and Monday, both games in Montreal. Nothing has been said about the suspended Wanderer man, Glass, but it is understood that Victorias will not object to his playing, even if the suspension has still a few days to run.

CURLING

BOBCAYGEON ORGANIZES.

The curling season was regularly opened on Thursday evening by the annual game between President and Vice President. This year the game went to the President, Mr. Mark, but not until the Vice President, Mr. Green, had shot his last stone, was the game decided. The following gentlemen acted as skips; For President, H. Mark, C. S. Logan and E. E. Bottum; for Vice President, R. Green, E. J. Broad and W. J. Read.—Bobcaygeon Independent.

RUNNING

PEARCE WON.

The Toronto Star says: Claude Pearce and Hilton Green, of the Irish-Canadian A. C., had a long distance race to-day from Bronte to Toronto, about 26 miles.

The runners left Bronte at 9.45 a.m. on the Lake Shore road. Pearce arrived at the Grand Central Hotel at two minutes to one exactly. He was as fresh as a daisy. He ran in his bare legs with a heavy sweater covering his running costume.

Tim O'Rourke says it was a great performance, and looks for him to set a Hamilton-to-Toronto record.

Green, who ran in long black leggings, finished at 24 minutes past 1. He was not in as good shape as Pearce, and claimed to have been taken with cramps in his legs on the way in.

Pearce took the lead at New Toronto at five minutes to 12, and gradually opened up a gap. He finished on King street with a great burst of speed.

Port Arthur to Kenora by Boat

Fort Frances, Ont., Jan. 2.—It is understood that the C.P.R. and the American roads running into Fort Frances from the south are interested in having a line of boats ply between here and Kenora, making a round trip via Port Arthur and Duluth to Fort Frances and Kenora. The Rainy River Navigation Company of Kenora has the matter under consideration, and it is expected that some plan will be evolved to create this natural highway into a tourist route.

WILL TALK WITH MARS

Nicola Tesla Wants Niagara Power to do the Trick.

New York, Jan. 7. — Nicola Tesla says he will be able to talk with Mars if the power producing companies at Niagara will co-operate with him. He asserts that a way has been found at last for transmitting wireless messages across the gulf that separates us from the fiery planet. He has been working for several years on an electric power plant capable of transmitting 10,000 horse power to any part of the world or to any of our neighboring planets. The mere matter of distance between dispatching and receiving points is absolutely no object whatever. Wireless power, according to M. Tesla, may be sent a million or more miles just as easily as one mile.

Several of the electric power companies at Niagara Falls have agreed to co-operate with M. Tesla in an effort to reach Mars by wireless. These Niagara power plants are now capable of producing electrical vibrations of such intensity that if measured by ordinary standards the rate at which their energy is delivered could readily be advanced to a billion horse power. But no such performance is necessary to produce strong electrical impulses on Mars. Mr. Tesla has estimated that a rate of a few million horse power is quite sufficient to establish wireless communication with that planet.

Mr. Tesla's wireless plant which he has already equipped at Long Island, for the sending of long distance electrical waves is to be utilized. Mr. Tesla agrees with other scientific men in thinking that Mars is considerably older and supposedly correspondingly more advanced than us in science; and he also believes that Mars is now signaling to us.

AMUSEMENTS

"THE WALLS OF JERICHO."

"The Walls of Jericho," by Alfred Sutro, has been called the play of the year, and its wonderful success in both England and America goes a long way to qualify that broad statement.

The story that Mr. Sutro tells in "The Walls of Jericho" is painfully true to life. Briefly outlined the plot shows how Jack Frobisher, having made a fortune in Queensland, returns to England and marries Lady Alethea, the daughter of a marquis. The play opens with a ball in progress during which Frobisher shows his dislike for Henry Dallas, a fop, who is paying marked attention to Lady Alethea. At this time it transpires that the son of the marquis has had an affair with an eminently respectable young woman below his class. Frobisher advises marriage and sends the two away on his yacht to his Queensland farm. Dallas, led on by a society woman's wiles and desire to be amused, tells his love to Alethea and compels her to submit to his embraces. Frobisher begins to suspect and forbids Dallas the house. He then throws off the yoke under which he has been harnessed, declares himself sick of the immorality of the smart set, gives orders for the sale of his house and decides to return to Queensland. Later on when Lady Alethea hears of her husband's plans and the reasons therefor, she refuses to accompany him, but in the end love conquers and she flings herself into his arms. Laura Burtt and Henry Stanford, who were seen here last season in "Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall," are the leading characters in the play. Grand opera house, Saturday, Jan. 11th, Matinee and night.

Budget of News From Havelock

Deputation Asks for Grant for Continuation Classes

Havelock, Jan. 7. — A deputation from the School Board of this village waited on the Minister of Education some time ago and asked for a special grant for the continuation class, as Havelock being but a small town could not very well support a continuation class which has a special teacher, without a grant. This course of action was recommended by Continuation Class Inspector Crowley, and as a result Mr. S. S. Joyce, says that the board will be enriched by about $200 a year, but the Minister of Education has not as yet named any exact amount.

Inspector Crowley on his last visit intimated himself as highly pleased with the good work done in the continuation class under the direction of the principal.

It has been intimated by members of the school board that after the summer holidays the class may be so large that it will be necessary to have two teachers to carry on the work in the continuation class.

The Havelock skating rink opened on New Year's day with a large attendance. The ice is in good shape now and the hockey club will get down to practice in a few days. The schedule of the Trent Valley League will be drawn up in a few days, as the teams want to get going before any milder weather sets in. Havelock is in Division No. 1 with Marmora, Madoc and Tweed, and they will have to get down to practice if they wish to carry their colors through to victory this year.

The moving picture show in the Town Hall on New Year's night by Mr. Stubbs, of Peterborough, under the auspices of the Methodist Sunday school proved to be both pleasing and profitable, as Mr. Stubbs took the audience on an imaginary trip across the broad Atlantic and showed them some of the most prominent scenes in England, Ireland and Scotland. Mr. Stubbs delighted the audience in a recitation "The Curfew Shall Not Ring To-night," illustrated by limelight views.

"The Deacon's Farm" has been engaged by Lancaster and Dineen for Friday night, Jan. 10th.

Mr. Jas. Conkrite, who some time ago moved to St. Thomas, has returned, and will reside on Ottawa street east.

Operations will be commenced at storing ice in Swift & Co.'s ice house here in a few days, as the ice is at present eleven inches thick.

Was Killed in Railway Wreck

Mrs. B. Sloan Who Met Death Was Well Known in This District

It was with extreme regret that a large circle of friends living in Lindsay and Mariposa heard of the sudden death of Mrs. B. Sloan, who was killed in the recent C. P. R. wreck west of Sudbury. The late Mrs. Sloan was born in the township of Ops about 58 years ago, and was the eldest of a family of twelve children. In 1896 she, with her family, moved to the west to seek an independent living, leaving one daughter in Lindsay in the person of Mrs. R. Johnston, who resides on Hamilton street, also a number of sisters. Those whose names can be ascertained are Mrs. D. Crimmins and Mrs. R. Henry, who resides in Lindsay, and Mrs. Robert Nurse, of Fowlers' Corners. Mrs. Joe Curtis of Havelock, Mrs. Frank Adams of South Harvey, and also an aged mother, who resides with her daughter, Mrs. Crimmins of Lindsay. She also leaves in the west a husband and eleven children to mourn the loss of a loving mother and wife.

The body will be laid to rest in Fielding cemetery, where she has lived for the last ten years. Much sympathy is extended to all the sorrowing friends in their sudden bereavement.—Lindsay Post.

The Daily Review

TUESDAY, JAN. 7, 1908.

THE MAYORALTY

The result in the mayoralty election was a great surprise—not in the fact of the return of Mr. Henry Rush as chief magistrate — but in the immense majority that he polled, the largest perhaps ever given to a candidate in a contest for the civic chair. To obtain a lead of 794 votes out of 2,790 is little short of a marvel, and evidence that the desire for a change in the control of municipal matters was a strong and deeply rooted one. Mr. McWilliams' closest friends believed that he would make a much better showing and some even were so confident as to predict his election.

The ratepayers, however, were not in love with his method of conducting civic business, and have given pronouncement to their views in no uncertain tones. Mr. McWilliams took up too much of the time of the Council with personal affairs, and in trying to induce every representative to see eye to eye with him. He probably did not mean any very grave offence, but the business of the civic legislators should be characterized by work and not talk. Mr. Rush was certainly the people's candidate, and it was in response to an insistent demand that he entered the field. It was a distinct case of the office seeking the man.

Much is expected of Mr. Rush during the coming year, and those who returned him at the head of the polls by such a splendid lead, confidently predict that he will, to use a colloquial expression, "make good." He was a wideawake, progressive and capable alderman, and in the higher sphere of usefulness and action in which he has been placed, the same satisfactory results will doubtless characterise his regime.

The Review extends its congratulations to the mayor-elect and believes that in him the city will have a chief magistrate who will uphold the best traditions of the office and give the enterprising city of Peterborough a sane and efficient administration of affairs. He has the support of a good business council and the results for the coming year should be happy and beneficial.

THE NEW COUNCIL

Four new faces will be seen in the City Council for 1908. The baby members are Ald. Gillespie, Butler, Neill and Turner. They have all had the advantage of a good business experience, and might and should prove capable representatives. Some of the new men made exceptionally strong runs, particularly Messrs. Gillespie, Neill and Butler, while Mr. Turner succeeded in capturing tenth place.

The reverse of Ald. Duncan and Ald. Leary means a distinct loss to civic administration, but as the field was large it was natural that some of the old councillors would be defeated. Two other representatives of last year have stepped out of the municipal arena, retiring voluntarily. They are Ald. Stevenson and Ald. Wilson. They did faithful, energetic work and have left a good record. The return of the old men, Ald. Phelan, Morrow, Elliott, Bradburn, McIntyre, Morgan, Johnston and Tovey is gratifying.

On the whole, with the infusion of new blood, the City Council of 1908 should do well. It is generally conceded that its members are progressive and wideawake, and some splendid results are looked for under the direction and guidance of the new mayor. Here's success to them. May their work bespeak their worth.

THE WATER COMMISSION

It is gratifying to record that the personnel of the Water Commission for the coming year will remain unchanged, its members being Messrs. Matthews, Moore and Hill. These are the gentlemen who have constituted the commission since the waterworks system was purchased by the city six years ago. The management, operation and control of the works has been all that could be desired. Economy, prudence and foresight have been evidenced and no business has been more wisely or more progressively conducted. The ratepayers have shown the confidence they repose in the commission by re-electing Mr. Hill, the retiring member, for a period of three years. Mr. Hill does not view the highly favorable vote of yesterday so much in the light of an endorsation for himself personally as a manifestation of the support and appreciation of the work done by the commission. Mr. Hill's return gives no unmistakeable evidence of this fact. The bylaw to tax all property fronted by water mains at the rate of 4 1-2 cents per lineal foot frontage, was carried by a substantial majority. This will result in an augmented revenue for the department. It is but just and fair that all real estate made more valuable by the presence of water mains should contribute something to the maintenance of the system. The cost to consumers will as a consequence of the bylaw being carried be reduced. The discount in the near future will be made 33 1-3 per cent. instead of 25. This will result in a considerable saving to present users of water.

PEN POINTS

Well! It's all over.

It was a day of great majorities.

It was a period of many surprises.

No man has a mortgage on the mayoralty.

The elections yesterday certainly went off with a Rush.

Now watch the struggle for the different chairmanships.

The second term idea by acclamation has been knocked out.

The new council will hold its inaugural meeting on Monday next.

His Worship Mayor Rush. Congratulations to the victor.

The water frontage bylaw came to the front in good style.

Water Commissioner Hill made a great run. Just think of a majority of 767 and over the Best man of the day, too.

This new council looks like a winner, and is admittedly as good as the old one.

The defeat of Ald. Leary and Ald. Duncan is a matter of regret, but in every fight some good men always go down.

The vote yesterday was the largest on record, showing the great interest manifested by the citizens in municipal affairs.

It is regrettable that the people did not favor the proposition for a system of garbage collection. How the adverse vote on this plebiscite was not so large, but that strong hopes exist it will carry next time.

It may occur to many people that they have never seen a Chinaman bereft of an arm, leg, or any other member of his body. The reason for this is that all Orientals maintain a profound objection to surgical operations. Indeed, they much prefer to die rather than be deprived of a member because it is an undeniable fact that they came into the world with two arms, two legs, eight fingers and two thumbs, etc., they must of necessity go out with the same number. Otherwise, once on the other side, they might be sent to hunt for a missing member, and spend the greater part of eternity in finding it.

Perhaps the nearest approach to internal surgery that a Chinese doctor will attempt is to stand on the patient's body and with bare feet move about on the part afflicted.

In dentistry the Chinese have reached the discovery that the nerve is a worm and the best method to treat an aching tooth is to loosen it by driving in wedges in order that the worm may disappear.—Chicago Journal.

Mr. William Taylor has filled the position of first committeeman for the long period of 22 years, in a faithful manner, while Mr. S. The Dominion Day celebration committee is expected to present a report at the next meeting, to be held on Monday, January 20th.

DOCTOR WANTED TO AMPUTATE

WOMEN'S TOE SAVED BY ZAM-BUK

But for the timely arrival of a box of Zam-Buk, Mrs. E. F. Fonger, 34 Myrtle street, St. Thomas, Ont., would have lost her toe. She says: "I am most thankful I discovered the existence of Zam-Buk. For about 9 months I suffered cruelly from the effects of having a corn removed from my little toe, for with its removal a hole remained and my toe was in a terrible state. For months I was unable to wear a shoe and as the toe showed no signs of healing and was in such a shocking condition the doctor thought it necessary to amputate it. About this time I received a sample box of Zam-Buk and began using it on my toe. The first application gave me the greatest ease from pain and encouraged me to give Zam-Buk a thorough trial. Two months after commencing with Zam-Buk there was no sign of a hole for the flesh had grown in very firmly and all soreness and pains were entirely banished. Zam-Buk brought about this healing when all other remedies failed. We find Zam-Buk so valuable that we would not be without a box in the house."

Zam-Buk heals cuts, bruises, old wounds, running sores, eczema, ulcers boils, eruptions, scalp sores, itch, piles, chapped hands, burns, scalds, and all skin diseases. 50c box, all druggists and stores, or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, 3 boxes $1.25.

THINKS THAT LAW SHOULD BE CHANGED

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir, — I think the time has come, that this law of prohibiting the white man selling intoxicating liquors to Indians should be abolished, for these reasons that I will now mention. The time that this law was made many years ago was the time that Indians had no education among them, and the white people, the fur traders, used to get the Indians drunk and would buy the fur from them at their own price, and other products in the same line. Now my reasons are that when an Indian gets the worse of liquor he is made to tell where he got the fire water. No matter whether he is as fair in complexion as any white man, or not, as long as he is a member of some Indian reserve. I have a sympathy for Mr. Walter Head, who was fined $50 and costs, amounting in all to $62.50 for selling liquor to Mr. John George, an Indian from Rama Reserve, who is a fair complexioned Indian, and if Mr. Head did sell the liquor to him would never recognize him as being an Indian at all; and I feel sorry for anyone to pay a fine in such figures as that, and at the same time did not know in the least he was breaking the law. A large number of the Indians in every reserve are as fair as many white people. I think if this law was changed, and instead of fining the white man for selling the liquors they should let the white man go without fine. But to fine the Indians for being drunk and disorderly same as a white man, or even fine him double the penalty, and there will be less Indians drunk. They know if they get drunk and pulled, all they need to do is to tell where they got it and they let him go; but let him pay the fine a couple of times and he will use more judgment in the way he takes his drinks. I have read what the Lakefield paper said about local option that there is double the quantity of beer, etc., drunk in Lakefield than there was before the local option was in force. And if a white man will drink double the quantity when he is forbidden than when he is not, there is no wonder an Indian does the same. For it is just like stealing, and a stolen apple is much sweeter both to the eye and to the taste. I think the Indians are held down too much from the privileges of the country. They cannot sell their land if they are not suited with their home, whereas if they could, a good many of them would become rich the same as other white people have through speculation.

I know a lot of the white friends if they were bound down as their old homes, who are rich, now, would of very likely remain poor, and it no wonder an Indian never rises any higher, when he is bound down to remain where he is. The Sioux Indians are progressing more than any reservation of whites in the northern countries, because they are not bound down like the other Indians, they have no annuities coming to them because they did not own any land in this country. The other treaty Indians cannot sell any of their produce unless they first get a permit, and, therefore, are not progressing as rapidly as the Sioux Indian. Why not pay the Indians of all their rights and claims and give him a good start and give him a vote so he could have a little saying in this country, and set him on his feet, and learn him to walk, for it is just about the same a as child who never was taught to walk alone. And do not withhold their money away from them, and giving them a small interest of it every six months, and do away with those agents who are living fat by the Indian funds. An Indian will never learn to be a good countryman or a good citizen until he becomes franchised, and be as other people. He will learn to watch out for himself, and the time has come that the biggest majority of them are fully capable of doing so, and if some are not capable, why does the country keep the others down!

Yours truly,
OBSERVER.

Band to-night at Street Railway Rink.

APPLES KEEP YOU SOBER

With the view of gaining the opinion of other medical men concerning the efficacy of the habit of eating apples to destroy the taste for liquor, a physician corresponded with many medical men living in various parts of the country. He received replies from all but three.

From a large majority came answers that they had never known a case where a person who accustomed to the free use of apples, and was a drunkard, nor did they ever know of a drunkard who was accustomed to this daily use of apples.

From personal observation, covering a period of more than twenty-five years, the physician says he never has known a single instance where a person who was a free user of apples acquired the liquor habit, nor has he known a person addicted to this free use of liquor who was fond of apples.

MANY ATTENDED FIRST MEETING

Week of Prayer Opened at St. Andrew's Church Last Evening

The week of prayer opened last evening at St. Andrew's church when an exceedingly large congregation were in attendance. The number present was very encouraging, and the meetings will no doubt be the means of awakening spirituality in a great many persons. Last evening Rev. J. R. Webb, pastor of Murray Street Baptist Church, conducted the meeting, and other ministers present were Revs. R. A. Pogue, H. J. Keith, and J. G. Potter. Rev. E. A. Pearson of George Street Methodist Church gave the address, which was a helpful and inspiring one and contained much valuable advice along spiritual lines.

To-night the meeting will be held at Murray Street Church, and the subject will be "The Consciousness of Sin."

During the meeting twelve men under the conviction of sin, as well as a wayward son and a husband, were prayed for.

More Meetings of Farmer's Institute

A FINE NEW YEAR'S GIFT

From the Montreal "Daily Witness."

From the Montreal "Daily Witness."

One of the best New Year's gifts that Canada can receive is the announcement that the Canadian Pacific Railway is about to increase its capital by $28,320,000. At the head of the Canadian Pacific are not only many of the ablest men of the country, but, because of the vast enterprises they own and administer on the land and rivers, the lakes and the oceans, men exceptionally in a position to judge the likely course of future events. In such circumstances, the words of Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, president of the company, speaking for the board of directors, are most inspiring. The directors "are convinced that Canada will continue to progress, and that if there be any temporary set-back resulting from financial condition in other parts of the world, it will prove comparatively unimportant." Therefore it is held to be vitally important that the Canadian Pacific should proceed without cessation in the course adopted some years ago of adding to the railway's facilities in every direction, so as to be "prepared to cope with the very largely increased traffic sure to be thrown on your lines." Such language is indeed inspiring, and will restore confidence and buoyancy to those who were inclined to be mildly pessimistic as to the immediate future, even so far as Canada was concerned. As the "Witness" has persistently reiterated and has shown abundantly by facts and figures, there never has been any reason to fear any general or prolonged contraction of business in this country, and the action of the Canadian Pacific Railway goes to show that by the springtime everything shall be in full swing again. The railway, at least, deserves our thanks at this time for the expression of its well founded confidence, a confidence that not only covers this country, but extends to Europe, where most of its securities outside of Canada are held. Indeed, its confidence that its securities will find an advantageous market at this time is the most cheering financial feature of many months.

MINING DEVELOPEMENT

Practical Miner Predicts a Great Future for This Section of Ontario.

"This part of Ontario has the richest iron mines in the known world, said Mr. A. Virtue, manager of the Mundic Mine, Queensboro. Mr. Virtue was in the News office to subscribe to the journal of Hastings county, and he waxed eloquent regarding the future of Hastings county as a mining centre. He said that this part of Ontario had received a set back, because men had been placed in charge of mines that knew little more about mining than the average school boy. He said that the success in Cobalt was mainly due to the practical fact that practical miners from other fields had taken charge of the work there. Had the Cobalt mines fallen into incompetent hands such as had been the misfortune of some places in this section, he said, the mines would never have been developed.

Mr. Virtue was on his way to Queensboro from Buffalo, N.Y., where he has been on a most successful business trip. He says there will be a market for all the iron ore that can be produced, and he feels confident that as soon as the financial market becomes normal, there will be all the capital necessary to develop the resources of this district.

He said that people who had grown up in this part of the country rarely realized the great mineral wealth to be found there. He also blamed the governments for a lack of interest. He said, naming a member, "I asked him how would you vote regarding the mines of Central Ontario." The member answered, "Some one would hand me a slip of paper telling me how to vote."

How Local Option Vote Resulted

Millbrook, Norwood and Omemee Will go Dry—By-law Fails in Burleigh

Local option was voted on in several of the adjoining townships, villages and towns, and carried generally in this district.

It was carried in Norwood by a good majority over the two third majority vote. The record was 179 for and 62 against. Other places which went dry are Millbrook, Omemee, Harvey and Asphodel.

The temperance people of Millbrook are elated over the result of the voting on the local option bylaw, it being carried by a majority of 35 over the required two-thirds vote. It was reported earlier in the day that the bylaw had been defeated, but later the rumor was found to be untrue.

Local option also carried in Omemee, the vote being 97 for and 55 against. In Orillia the result was also favorable to local option, the vote being 656 for and 364 against.

Campbellford also carried local option by 5 majority.

In Stirling the vote was 151 for and 86 against.

In Asphodel township the bylaw, which was carried a year ago, but was later upset in the courts on a technicality, was carried. The vote was, for 309, and against 147.

In Burleigh and Anstruther local option was defeated, not obtaining the necessary three-fifths vote to ensure its success.

The bylaw was carried in Harvey by a majority of the three-fifths vote. The figures are not yet to hand.

In Beaverton and Barrie local option was defeated, not receiving the necessary three-fifths of the total vote required.

Local option carried in Brighton—315 for, 150 against.

IN GENERAL.

A Toronto despatch says:—

The net result of the local option voting yesterday in nearly a hundred municipalities, so far as returns were received up to an early hour this morning, is that seventy-seven licenses will be cut off in twenty-three municipalities, eleven of these being towns or incorporated villages.

There was a majority of votes polled for the bylaw in eighteen other municipalities, eight being towns or incorporated villages, but as the vote for local option did not reach 60 per cent of the total vote polled, the bylaw was defeated.

A majority of votes was cast against the bylaw in twenty-five places, of which fifteen are towns or incorporated villages.

Four out of the five repeal bylaws were defeated, local option being sustained by increased majorities over the original vote for the measure. In one place, Thamesville, the repeal was carried by a small majority.

The contests throughout the Province aroused the most intense excitement, the vote in many places being the largest ever polled, both sides doing their utmost to bring out every vote.

PORTEOUS SAYS BURKE WAS NOT HIS ASSAILANT

Special to The Review.

Toronto, Jan. 7.—Charles Porteous, a farmer from near Millbrook, who was shot by a tramp some weeks ago, came to the city today to try to identify Charles Burke, under arrest here as the man who did the shooting. Burke was held by the Toronto police on suspicion.

Porteous said he was not the man, though he answered the description closely.

Shipments on "Mount Royal" For Peterborough Firms

On the steamer Mount Royal, which has been almost given up as lost for some time, but which is now safely tied at Queenston Harbor, there is a consignment of goods for two local concerns. There is a bale of fancy fringe rugs from Ipswich, England, for Messrs. J. J. Turner & Sons, and a shipment for the Canadian General Electric Company.

HOW CANDIDATES SEE IT

Mr. Rush is Pleased With the Result—Did Not Expect Big Majority

Mayor-elect Rush was called upon at his office to-day by scores of citizens and congratulated on his splendid victory. Mr. Rush also received telegrams and telephone messages from friends at outside points congratulating him on his election.

"I believe that a splendid lot of aldermen have been selected," said Mr. Rush to The Review, "and I hope we shall get along well during the year. I am considerably surprised at the big majority, but though I expected to win I would have been satisfied with a much smaller majority. It is certainly very gratifying to receive such support from the ratepayers and I must say that I am deeply grateful."

"I shall do my best for the city," continued Mr. Rush, "and believe I shall have the hearty co-operation of the aldermen and civic officials."

MADE SPEECH AT REVIEW OFFICE

Joy reigned among the supporters of Mr. Rush last night when the result became known. Mr. Rush was at the Review office when the final returns came in and made a short speech, in which he thanked the electors for their support. The vote, he said, was an answer to the question, "Who had brought Mr. Rush out?"

The People's Band escorted the successful candidate down George street amid great enthusiasm.

Mr. Rush was acclaimed with cheers wherever he appeared, and his supporters were jubilant.

Mr. McWilliams Surprised at the Result—Says the Machine Was at Work

"I am certainly surprised at the result," said Mayor R. F. McWilliams, when seen at his office by a Review representative this morning and asked for his opinion of the result of the election. "I knew the object of certain personal enemies among the Liberals and Conservatives in selecting Mr. Rush, and considered that if they succeeded in inducing the general body of Conservatives to help the machine, I had no chance. I was afraid of that in the early part of the campaign, but I received such positive assurances of support from such a large number of Conservatives as the date of the election approached, I came to the conclusion that the effort had failed. There are two things that I regret. First, that I should be so generally blamed by the people in the South Ward who had always supported me, for this high assessment, for which I was no more to blame than Mr. Rush. The other regret I have is that I was not given the usual two year term as mayor, [illegible] in order to have a fair chance of showing what I could do in council business.

"However, I have had a worse beating before," said Mr. McWilliams, in concluding, "and I guess I can stand it again."

Mr. McWilliams took his defeat good naturedly, and was not at all depressed.

Mr. McWilliams wishes to thank the Conservatives who stood for freedom from politics in municipal affairs and who gave him their support.

Mrs R. G. Fisher, of London, died yesterday.

Plenty of Money to Defend Thaw

Charles M. Schwab, Pittsburg Millionaire, Will Aid Prisoner

Special to The Review.

New York, N.Y., Jan. 8.—All dangers of the defence on the trial of Harry Thaw for the murder of Stanford White, suffering from a lack of funds due to the depleted family purse, has been removed by the decision of a number of Pittsburgers headed by Charles M. Schwab, the multi-millionaire steel magnate, to go the aid of Mrs. Wm. K. Thaw, the widow of their former business associate.

Congratulating Mayor Elect Rush

Mayor-elect Rush is still receiving telegrams and letters of congratulation from friends in various parts of the Dominion. The majority of them are from former Peterborough residents who have moved to other parts of the country. Mr. Rush greatly appreciates the interest shown, and is flattered at the many congratulatory messages being received.

All Had Troubles From Boss Down

Some Afflictions of the Editor of Bobcaygeon Independent

A few days prior to Christmas Mr. Ignatius R. Stewart, local editor and business manager of the Bob. Independent, was taken suddenly ill. The trouble was diagnosed to be appendicitis, and next day he was hurried away to Toronto, where he was operated upon successfully—a result that is hailed with joy by a number of Peterborough friends. In this week's issue the occurrence is referred to in the following jocund terms:

Last week this great journal was knocked out and unable to come to time. A miserable rotten appendix did it. The business manager, sporting editor, mechanical foreman, chief compositor and head push were all bowled out at once. They all had the same appendix. The retirement of such a bunch of the staff left the boss and the "devil" up a tree — a Christmas tree, all among the fuzzy-wuzzy branches and burning tapers. This week, several distinguished graduates of this great print shop were fortunately home for the holidays, and thanks to their valued assistance, the g. j. bobs up serenely. The appendix is gone, and the business manager and his bunch of colleagues, this g. j. is happy to say, are doing well, and are desirous of expressing their grateful thanks for the many very kind inquiries after their health. Staff will have recovered from his usual holiday toot in a few days, and by next week it is hoped that the Bob Ind. will be itself again.

First Meeting January 28th

County Council to Convene for Winter Session

The first meeting of the new County Council will be held on January 28. As announced yesterday there will be several changes in the personne of the council from that of last year, owing to new reeves and deputy reeves being elected in some of the townships.

Business College Re-opened To-day

Miss H. Howson is in Charge—Many New Pupils Started To-day

The Peterborough Business College opened this morning, after having been closed for the past two days owing to the death of the late Principal, Wm. Pringle. The school will be run as before with Miss Howson in charge, and Misses Connors and Best as her assistants. Mr. E. C. Srigley, of the Collegiate Institute staff, will teach penmanship from four to five each day until further arrangements are made. There was a large attendance at the school this morning, eleven new pupils having started.

The night classes will resume tomorrow night.

Mr. McCuish Will Give an Address

The regular meeting of Marathon Lodge, Knights of Phythias, will be held this evening, in their hall on Hunter street.

Mr. R. G. McCuish, of Winnipeg, will be present, and give an address. A large attendance is requested.

DIED

McDONALD.—In Peterborough, on Wednesday January 8th, 1908, Delphine Karah, relict of the late John McDonald, aged 78 years, 9 months.

The funeral will take place from the residence of Mr. N. F. Laplante, 87 Lock street, on Friday, Jan. 10th, at 9 a.m., to St. Peter's Cathedral, and from thence to cemetery.

STEEPLE JACK HAS BAD FALL

Numbed by Cold, Drops Over Sixty Feet

New York, Jan. 8.—Sixty feet above the ground a steeple-jack gilded the ball of a great flagstaff in Echo Park, the Bronx, yesterday. A crowd stood about and watched the hazardous employment.

A gale sprang up and the pole began to rock. The spectators saw him change his position several times. It was bitterly cold. Then a scream aroused the crowd. The man was seen tumbling head-foremost to the ground.

A dozen men hurried to the spot where he fell. The man lay unconscious. He feebly uttered his name—Charles Zast, 23 years old, of No. 89 East street, Brooklyn. He said he had lost his grip when his fingers became benumbed with cold. A Fordham hospital ambulance was called. The doctors say he has small chance of recovery. His skull is thought to be fractured. Three ribs are broken.

Nine tentative jurors were selected during the first day of the second Thaw trial.

Card of Thanks

I desire to express my thanks to the eight hundred and odd electors who showed their appreciation of my past services in the Council by voting for my return for 1908. I consider the showing a good one, and am gratified by the strong support accorded me. Again thanking my friends, I wish for them and the citizens generally a prosperous new year.

Hired Man Sent Up for Trial On the Charge of Murder

Other Nine In Jury Box Weeded Out by Peremptory Challenges—Thaw Snubbed by His Counsel — Latter Turned His Back Upon Him—Juryman Has Pocket Picked, Causing a Sensation.

New York, Jan. 8.—The Thaw trial at 10.15 p. m. yesterday was adjourned until to-day, with three sworn and four provisional jurors in the box.

District Attorney Jerome has challenged peremptorily Jurors Hatchett, Goss, Weiss and Fraser. The defence has excused Jurors Morewood, Sanford, Bouvier and Pitcher. This leaves three jurors, who were sworn and thus are accepted finally for the trial panel. They are: Gremmels, Naething and Carp.

Fred W. Pitcher, a shipping clerk, about 30 years old, was one of the talesmen to take his place on the temporary panel. He declared he held an opinion in the case.

"Do you feel you are in a position to lay that opinion aside?" asked Mr. Littleton.

"Not now," he replied, "but I might be if I got into the box."

Pitcher called attention to the fact that the president of the company by whom he is employed is also under summons as a possible juror.

"If he got on the panel," said Pitcher, "I might be influenced by him! And I will also say I am a little skeptical about defences of insanity."

Both sides were willing to take Pitcher under the conditions he named and he was escorted into the box as Juror No. 11, but later excused by the defence.

During the absence of one of the jurors there was a conference between District Attorney Jerome, Assistant District Attorney Garvin, Martin Littleton, Dan O'Reilly, and A. Russell Peabody. The lawyers stood near the end of the table where Thaw was seated. They talked earnestly for several minutes, the prisoner looking at them intently. Dexter O. Tiffany, a broker residing at 224 West 82nd street, had been called for examination, and it was whispered that the combat of the attorneys was concerning the talesman. Thaw tugged at Mr. Littleton's sleeve several times before that attorney turned around. When he saw that it was his client who was endeavoring to attract his attention he gave a curt nod and turned his back squarely upon Thaw. The latter seemed annoyed. He began to chew his finger nails and a slight flush spread over his pallid face.

Juror's Pocket Picked.

One of the tentative jurors in the box created something of a sensation as the afternoon session opened by announcing that he had lost his gold watch and chain, valued at $150, since coming to court. Detectives were assigned to the case.

The detectives arrested two men loitering in the court house lobby on suspicion of having been concerned in picking the talesman's pockets. The incident caused quite a commotion in the court room, District Attorney Jerome taking a lively personal interest in the matter and assigning some of his own staff to the case. He also undertook the examination of the suspected men.

Three Jurors Have Been Sworn; Good Progress on Thaw Case

Committed to Assizes on Charge of Wilful Murder.

Counsel For Defence Claims No Motive Had Been Shown—Barnardo Boy Gives Evidence — Was Eye-Witness of the Tragedy—Tells of Conversation With Prisoner Previous to Shooting.

Brampton, Jan. 8.—J. C. Tearse (this is the spelling of the name officially accepted), was formally committed for trial yesterday afternoon by Magistrate Crawford, on a charge of murdering old William Curry on Christmas night.

At the conclusion of the evidence for the crown, A. B. Hassard argued on behalf of the prisoner, that the crown had utterly failed to show any motive; without motive, he said, there could be no murder, hence he claimed that the prisoner could not be committed on a charge of murder, although he might be committed on a charge of negligence with firearms.

Crown Attorney McFadden said all the evidence pointed to murder, and there was only one thing for the magistrate to do, and that was to commit the prisoner. He was not called upon to weigh the question of intent.

Magistrate Crawford said he believed it his duty to send the prisoner on for trial at the next Assizes. The prisoner, through his counsel, said he had nothing to say.

Being recalled, James Curry admitted that he had said that if Tearse was allowed to go free he would be in fear of being shot by him. He said he had kept a light burning in the house every night since the death of his father.

James Reid's Story.

The boy, James Reid, in his evidence yesterday morning referred to James Curry as Mr. Curry and to the old man as "father."

"Jack said," declared the boy, after telling about doing the chores, "that he hoped Mr. Curry and father would not come home until late, and would come alone. I was sitting by the stove and heard Jack saying it was his laugh now. He was standing pointing a gun at Mr. Curry. Mr. Curry jumped and Jack said, 'Don't you dare move now or I'll shoot.' Then Mr. Curry sat down with his hands behind his back and didn't move. Then Jack kind of pulled at the twine and said, 'Here, Jimmie.' I didn't know what he wanted. Then father came out and Jack said 'Don't move or I'll shoot you,' to him.

"Then the gun went off and shot father. I went out on the verandah with the lantern. I saw another shot go off. Then Mr. Curry told me to go over to Mr. Mackay's, the neighbor's. Jack said, 'Don't go, Jimmie.' I put on my boots and went, leaving leaving them struggling on the floor."

James Curry on the Stand.

At the request of Mr. A. B. Hassard, counsel for the prisoner, the witnesses for the crown were excluded while the evidence of James Curry, the first witness for the crown, was taken. Crown Attorney McFadden devoted somewhat more attention to questioning him regarding the dispute between him and the prisoner when the length of time he had been engaged was discussed.

"He said that he had been engaged for a year, and he was going to stay a year, and I told him that he was not going to stay a year, and that if he said he was engaged for a year he was lying," said Mr. Curry.

A new point was brought out when he admitted, in answer to a question of Mr. McFadden, that when told by Tearse to put his hand behind his back he obeyed. It was just at this point that his father came into the room and a moment later the shot was fired which killed the old man.

"Did you touch the gun while it was in Tearse's hands?" asked Mr. Hassard. "Will you swear that you did not?"

"I might have touched it with my elbow," admitted the witness. This, however, he said, was after the first shot was fired.

Drs. Arthur Jukes Johnston, D. L. Heggie and J. A. Lawson, testified to the results of the post-mortem examination and the nature of the wound.

Walter Baldock and Fred Deadman, together with Detective Greer, testified that they had examined the hole in the ceiling, had cut an entrance into the loft above the room in which the murder was committed and had extracted shot from the rafters and sheeting of the roof above.

Dr. M. A. Aikens of Burnham Thorp, the physician who attended William Curry before his death; J. M. Mackay, the neighbor who was summoned on the night of the murder, and John Black, brother-in-law of James Curry, who was also summoned to the house after the terrible occurrence, were the other witnesses called.

The most intense interest prevailed throughout the entire proceedings, the gallery being filled with ladies, who remained throughout the day. W. H. McFadden appeared for the crown.

Has Lemieux Failed?

Vancouver, B. C., Jan. 8.—That Mr. Lemieux has completely failed, and that Japan intends to obtain the full benefit of the treaty, is the belief of officials here, even in the wake of a report that Ishii, who recently investigated Japanese conditions in Canada and the United States, advised the restriction of emigration to both.

Certainly had Mr. Lemieux succeeded, his gratuitous typewritten interview would have been differently worded and not so long. He declined a banquet here.

Richard's Himself Again.

Ottawa, Jan. 8.—Sir Richard Cartwright, who has been confined to his residence for the past two or three weeks through illness, resumed his Ministerial duties at his office yesterday morning.

TIMES TARIFF POLICY.

Will Be on Reform Lines — Courts Must Ratify Change of Owners.

London, Jan. 8.—The formal statement of the change in the management of The Times, which will appear in the newspapers, announces that the business management of the paper will be reorganized by Mr. Pearson and that "the editorial character of the paper will remain unchanged, and it will be conducted, as in the past, on lines independent of party politics."

The change in the organization requires the sanction of the court before being effective.

Despite the formal announcement that its editorial policy would not be changed, it is generally believed that the change in the management of The Times has been in the interests of tariff reform. It is understood that Sir Alexander Henderson, who played a leading part in the recent fusion of the Great Central and Great Northern Railroads, is associated with Mr. Pearson in The Times' deal. He is a strong tariff reformer, in addition to being a successful railway administrator, and is largely interested in South African railroads.

Sir Alexander Henderson was largely instrumental in the success of the Manchester ship canal.

Wreck Victim's Injuries.

Flesherton, Jan. 8.—Henry Holman, a farmer, living near this place, has been removed to a Toronto hospital. Mr. Holman was injured in the Caledon wreck last September, and at the time the injuries were not considered serious, and a settlement was made for $25.

Since then the foot has been very painful, and he has been confined to his house all the time. Drs. Cotton, McPhedran and Walker, after examining it, declare it to be in a very serious condition, and the outcome of the crushing to be very uncertain. He will be confined to the hospital for some weeks.

Threaten to Burn Houses.

New York, Jan. 8.—Threats that their buildings will be burned if they evicted the tenants flooded east side landlords yesterday. The warnings were supposed to have come from the rent strikers, and in general were on postals worded as follows:

"We will move, but after your house has been vacated the fire department will visit you."

"The Red Flag" color was lent to this threat by a fire at a Madison street tenement, where the request for lower rents has been refused.

Dr. Chown's Charges.

Winnipeg, Jan. 8.—The charge that immorality exists in Midway attractions of western fairs is renewed by Dr. Chown of Toronto in a letter to a Winnipeg paper, in which he offers to prove same.

The City Council has decided in favor of an investigation of the broadest character into the methods of the Winnipeg police force, and particularly into the facts surrounding the death of James Robertson.

Deserters Sentenced.

Kingston, Jan. 8.—Driver Humphries was sent to the County Jail yesterday for 70 days with hard labor for desertion, and Driver Chateau for 112 days, also with hard labor, for the same offence.

Local option was carried in Pittsburg Township by 275 for and 174 against. It was defeated in Loborough by 54, also in Hinchibrooke by a small majority.

Irish Afraid of Asquith.

Dublin, Jan. 8.—There is an uneasiness in Nationalist circles over rumors of the early retirement of Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman from the Premiership in favor of Herbert H. Asquith.

The latter is considered unsympathetic in the cause of home rule.

Augustus Heinze Arrested.

New York, Jan. 8.—Augustus Heinze was arrested yesterday, charged with false certification of a check, and was held in $50,000 bail.

The check was on the Mercantile National Bank. Mr. Heinze entered a plea of not guilty to the charge.

India's Wheat Area Smaller.

London, Jan. 8.—A telegram to John Morley, Secretary of State for India, from Lord Minto, Viceroy of the Indian Empire, reports that because of the lack of rain, the area sown in wheat this year is 34 per cent. smaller.

MOUNT ROYAL IS SAFE

Missing Liner Arrives at Queenstown With Damaged Boilers.

Steamer Stood Awful Buffetting—Passengers For Fifteen Days Below Decks—Saw Nothing But Walls of Water—All Were Brave and None Suffered Hardship—Other Wreck Stories.

Queenstown, Jan. 8.—(C. A. P.)—Steaming slowly up the harbor the Canadian Pacific liner Mount Royal arrived yesterday morning after being out thirty days from port.

With independence that was admirable in the face of the terrible experiences of the last thirty days, the Mount Royal declined the assistance of a tug.

The four hundred people on board, passengers and crew, crowded the sides of the vessel as though no sight in this life had been so beautiful as the harbor of this Irish port. The steamer was sighted off Roche's Point, but she flew no signal of distress and she wanted no assistance.

One baby died on the voyage.

London, Jan. 8.—(C. A. P.)—On arrival at Queenstown the passengers of the Mount Royal assembled and thanked Capt. Purcell for all he and the officers and crew had done for their comfort during their trying month on the Atlantic.

The officers of the Mount Royal state that after leaving the Lizard they met the worst gales experienced in years. The boilers began to leak badly in consequence of the buffeting.

In latitude 50 north, longitude 46 west, 1,100 miles from land, in consequence of the engineers reporting they could only effect temporary repairs, it was decided to abandon the fight against the violent head gales and return eastward.

The passengers kept below decks nearly the whole day, but they were cheerful in the assurance that the vessel was seaworthy and provisions ample. The children were remarkably courageous.

Being interviewed the passengers described the terrific nature of the gales, declaring the ship almost stood on end sometimes, and they saw nothing for fifteen successive days but a wall of green water on each side of the vessel, which sometimes fell aboard with huge force.

Terrible Experience.

London, Jan. 8.—(C. A. P.)—Another tragic story was told by four survivors of the crew of the barkentine Fanney Breslawer, which landed at Milford Haven. The vessel, which was bound from Santos to Halifax, N. S., got within 12 miles of Halifax, but was blown out to sea again. For twenty days she endeavored to enter, but failed. The captain, though short of rations, decided to sail to the home port in Jersey, but he, the boatswain and a seaman died as a result of injuries and exposure about 250 miles off the Lizard, when the vessel was extensively damaged.

The survivors were weakened from overwork and lack of food. They flew signals of distress, which, fortunately, were answered by a steam trawler.

Another Ocean Tragedy?

Halifax, Jan. 8.—News of what may be another tragedy of the sea comes from Charlottetown, P. E. I: Yesterday an unknown schooner was reported off Pugwash, N. S., in the ice, and flying signals of distress The Government steamers Minto and Stanley were sent to the scene. The Minto passed a raft with a man's shirt on it, but no other sign of the schooner was seen.

Swept to Edge of Cataract.

St. John, N. B., Jan. 8.—Caught in the ice jam, the ferry steamer E. Ross, which runs across the St. John River about a half-mile above Reversible Falls, was carried to the brink of the cataract yesterday, and for a few minutes given up for lost.

A peculiar turn of the current swept her into an eddy and so close to shore that a workman in the mills nearby caught a rope thrown by the captain and succeeded in holding her until she was brought to shore.

Several passengers were on board.

Ontario Gets $300,000.

Toronto, Jan. 8.—News was received yesterday at the Parliament Buildings that the arbitration of the school funds case had gone in favor of Ontario. Over $300,000 has been at stake and the case has dragged along since Confederation. It is understood that by a judgment in the Privy Council lack of jurisdiction was the ground of the award, but no definite tidings had been received.

Dangerous Lodging House Fire.

New York, Jan. 8.—A despatch from Worcester, Mass., says: Dennis Driscoll, a one-legged pencil pedlar, was burned to death in the Salvation Army lodging-house, 19 Washington square, yesterday. One hundred and nine other lodgers had narrow escapes, most of them rushing or being taken out by the police, half clothed.

Will Support McBride.

Vancouver, B. C., Jan. 8.—J. A. Macdonald, leader of the Opposition in the Provincial Legislature, said yesterday he would support Premier McBride in the coming session of the Legislature in renewing the passing of the Natal Act against the Orientals, though, at the same time he believed it was unconstitutional.

Fell Dead at Prayer Meeting.

Elora, Jan. 8.—Edward Farrow of this town dropped dead at a prayer meeting being held in Chalmers' Church Monday night. He had just risen to speak when he collapsed and expired almost instantly.

Twenty-Five Lashes.

Ottawa, Jan. 8.—Justice Riddell yesterday afternoon in sentencing Frank Burghill, a Swede, aged 22, to a year in Kingston Penitentiary for criminal assault, ordered 25 lashes.

Three persons were burned to death in a fire in the [illegible] building of the [illegible] hospital at San Francisco.

GAINS FOR LOCAL OPTION.

Latest Results Show Thirty-Four Victories For Temperance People.

Toronto, Jan. 8.—The latest results of the voting on local option throughout the province show that out of the contests in the 96 municipalities, affecting 271 licenses, there are 34 victories for local option, which will cut off 100 bars and 49 defeats.

The results to hand yesterday showed that six municipalities carried the bylaw and nine defeated it, as follows:

The result in Mulmur Township makes dry the County of Dufferin. This township defeated the bylaw last year.

OKUMA A FRIEND.

Denies Report of Speech Antagonistic to Great Britain.

Tokio, Japan, Jan. 8.—A remarkable situation has arisen as a result of the publication in London of a mistranslation of the speech delivered by Count Okuma at Kobe. He promptly repudiated the published version, which was in substance that he had urged India to rise against Great Britain.

"My views on the subject of trade with India, as well as my friendliness to Great Britain, are too well-known to make it necessary for me publicly to repudiate the absurd construction which has been placed upon the remarks I made at Kobe. I have never entertained a thought which could be stretched into such a meaning. India offers us a fine field for trade and I urged my people openly and consistently to enter that field in fair competition with friendly Great Britain—that is all."

FOR VIOLATING SCOTT ACT.

Two Hotelkeepers, One a Woman, Sent to Jail at Moncton.

Moncton, N. B., Jan. 8.—Mrs. David McCleave, proprietress of the Windsor Hotel, was yesterday sentenced to one month in jail, having been found guilty of violation of the Scott act. Henry Cormier, another hotelkeeper, was given the same sentence.

The sentence on Mrs. McCleave is the first ever given a woman for Scott act violation here, and created quite a sensation in court circles. Following the issue of search warrants Moncton barrooms are now practically closed. Most of the dealers have removed their stock from the hotels to other places, and there is much uneasiness among dealers, search warrants being expected at any time. There are jail sentences hanging over a number of dealers as well.

MAN AND CATTLE BURNED.

Galician Went to Sleep In Stable Smoking Cigarette.

Whitemouth, Man., Jan. 8.—Whisky and cigarettes caused the death of a Galician yesterday morning up the river. The man chopped for W. Carichanskey and went home Monday night with his team of oxen and put them in the stable, which also held three other head of stock. It is supposed he fell asleep with a lighted cigarette. Flames and smoke awoke the people in the house, and the charred remains bodies of the unfortunate man and all the cattle were found.

Russia Keeps Christmas.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 8.—The Russian Christmas, which comes 13 days later than the day set, observation of the feast by the Gregorian calendar, was celebrated yesterday by the members of the Imperial family, in a very simple way. A Christmas tree, with presents for Alexis, the little crown prince, and his sisters, was set up in the apartments of the Empress. Only members of the immediate royal entourage were present.

Yesterday afternoon Emperor Nicholas was present at two Christmas trees in Tsarkoe Selo, one for the guards and another for the Cossacks. The Emperor made short speeches in which he thanked the soldiers for their valiant services and bestowed a number of presents.

Dancer a Banker's Wife.

New York, Jan. 8—"Little Egypt's" death in her flat at No 236 West 37th street, discovered Monday, reveals that she was the wife of Frederick Hamlin, a wealthy banker of East Bloomfield, Ontario County, N. Y. They were married a year after the famous Seeley dinner, where she won national notoriety by her dance on the table at Sherry's. At the time of the wedding Hamlin was a student at Yale.

Struck by Falling Limb.

Wiarton, Jan. 8.—A young son of James Colwell, a farmer living at Mar, while out in the woods, was accidentally struck on the head by the falling of a tree, and is lying unconscious. Indications are that there is a fracture at the base of the brain. Chances for recovery are very doubtful.

Three Men Buried.

Calgary, Alta., Jan. 8.—Three men were buried in a cave-in at the excavation for the new registry office yesterday. One had both legs broken, and the others are seriously injured internally.

G. T. R Fireman Injured.

London, Jan. 8.—James Lutton had his leg fractured in several places as the result of being crushed between a car and the steps of an engine upon which he was riding.

Mary Ann Ryan, of Cobourg, collapsed in a street car at Rochester and died a few moments later.

SWEET REVENGE

By

Captain F. A. MITCHEL,

Author of "Chattanooga," "Chickamauga," Etc.

Copyright, 1907, by Harper & Brothers.

While they were at supper I was deliberating upon the situation. It was evident that my old enemies had either stumbled upon me or had learned of my presence in north Alabama and were bent on my destruction. It was a desperate case. I was an officer in the Union army, within the enemy's lines, in citizen's dress and in that enemy's hands. I was bounded by men who would not scruple to use any means to get me in their power. If I did not escape from the Confederates, I should hang; if I did escape, I should be murdered.

Presently Jaqueline and the captain came out from the supper room, Jaqueline in advance, the captain's eyes fixed on the pretty figure before him. Jaqueline was very graceful, very dainty. Her every motion was charming. She was so light on her feet that she seemed scarcely to touch the ground. Though she walked, she danced, while her eyes danced with her body, her lips wearing a perpetual smile. Once she took two or three steps, turning half around—a mere suspicion of a dance, a delicious, tantalizing bit, like a sip of rare wine.

"I'd like to meet yo' in a ballroom," remarked the captain languidly.

"Why so?"

"Yo' would dance beautifully. Yo'd make a charming partner."

"I can sing."

"Can you?"

"Yes, and play. One day I was playing Ginger's banjo behind the barn. Papa called, 'Yo' Ginger, stop that infernal twanging!' Wasn't it funny?"

She laughed. The captain laughed. I laughed. There was something very catching about the little minx that neither of us could resist.

She drew an armchair close beside the sofa on which I was lying and insisted on the captain seating himself in it. He demurred, but Miss Jack would have it so, and the man who half an hour before had ordered me out to be shot was sitting by me as though we were excellent friends. Jaqueline seated herself in a rocker directly in view of both myself and the captain and, rocking vigorously all the while, chatted like a magpie. The captain settled himself within his comfortable seat, asked permission to smoke and, finding that he had but one cigar, insisted on my smoking it. Of course I refused, but he was too innately well bred to smoke it himself without another, for me. Miss Jack solved the problem by standing before him with a lighted match till he was forced to yield.

Then from without came the jingle of a banjo. Jaqueline caught the sound and stood listening, her head poised on one side, her eyes sparkling as though forgetful of everything save the music.

"That's 'The Bonny Blue Flag!'" she exclaimed, and she hummed the words in a sweet though by no means strong voice. As she went on she sang rather than hummed, becoming more and more animated, keeping time by patting her foot on the floor. I glanced at the captain. He was looking at her admiringly, the charm enhanced at hearing a war song dear to every Confederate soldier given with so much spirit by such an attractive creature.

Suddenly the music stopped.

"Don't you like music?" asked Jaqueline of the captain. "I do; I love it."

"I like it when warbled by such attractive lips," replied the officer.

Then the banjoist without played a Spanish dance. Jaqueline's body began to vibrate; but, though alive in every limb, she did not dance. There was something tantalizing in a promised treat that was not realized.

"Dance!" cried the captain, an expectant look in his handsome eyes.

"Shall I?"

"Do, please," I put in.

As a bird that has been soaring slowly in its expected course, Jaqueline passed from comparative rest to motion. In another moment she was moving about the hall with improvised steps, as though dancing was, to use a parodoxical expression, her normal condition of rest. She floated, drooped, rose, rested, keeping time with her head, her arms, her whole body. For awhile I was so delighted that I forgot all except the dance, and when I bethought myself to look at the captain it was easy to see that the thrall Jaqueline had been weaving about him was complete.

"Jaqueline!"

Miss Pinkley had entered the hall and stood looking at her severely. Jaqueline stopped as suddenly as if she had been moved by electricity and the current had been turned off.

"I'm astonished at yo'," said the lady. "Yo've made the acquaintance of these gentlemen only this afternoon, and here yo' are dancing befo' them as if yo' were a soubrette in a theater."

"My dear madam," I interposed, "you have no idea of the pleasure she has given us. She would be a grand success on any stage."

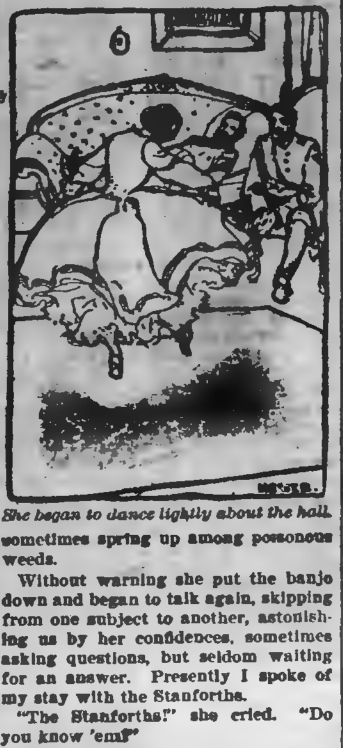
"Do yo' think so?" queried Jaqueline triumphantly. "I'd love to dance on the stage."

"Jaqueline!" again cried Miss Pinkley.

"What's the harm, auntie? I'm not on the stage."

"Yes, but you want to be. To think of a Rutland on the stage! Yo' pa would be mawtified to death."

She passed up stairs, and Jaqueline began again to rattle on in her singular way. Suddenly it struck her that she wanted Ginger's banjo, and, calling Cynthia, she sent her for it. Then, after testing the strings, she began to play and sing. The music was light, but sweet, being composed chiefly of those unique negro melodies born under the slave system as delicate plants sometimes spring up among poisonous weeds.



She began to dance lightly about the hall.

Without warning she put the banjo down and began to talk again, skipping from one subject to another, astonishing us by her confidences, sometimes asking questions, but seldom waiting for an answer. Presently I spoke of my stay with the Stanforths.

"The Stanforths!" she cried. "Do you know 'em?"

"Yes. Do you?"

"Ought to; they're my cousins. Did you see Minerva?"

"No. Who's Minerva?"

"Her real name is Helen. We called her Minerva at school. I went to school with her two years. She's older than I, though."

"I have met Miss Helen Stanforth."

"If you refer to the young lady we met today," the captain remarked, "she's a very beautiful and high bred woman, much like our Geowgia beauties."

"She knows everything," said Jaqueline; "theology, geology, biology, psychology. Any more of 'em?"

"That's quite enough," I admitted.

"Did you see Buck?"

"Oh, yes. Buck and I became quite friendly."

"Friendly! Buck was born to be hanged."

"What makes you think that?"

"Most fiery, pestiferous little imp yo' ever saw! Doesn't stop at anything."

"Mere flashes of a strong nature. When he grows up, he'll control it and be all the stronger for it."

"Think so? If he was black and I owned him, I'd have him whipped every day."

A colored woman came in and told the captain that Miss Pinkley presented her compliments, and a room was ready for him whenever he chose to occupy it. She also informed him that I could have a room.

"Captain," I said, "I have no reason to get away from you. Indeed, I wouldn't leave your guardianship just now for a plantation. The man who has accused me is in league with others who are interested in getting me out of the way. Now, if you'll permit me to go to bed without a guard I'll give you my word of honor not to leave this house till after the watch has been resumed tomorrow."

"Now, captain," put in Jaqueline before the officer could reply, "let the poo' man go to bed."

"Fo' yo' sake?" he asked, looking at her with an expression half admiring, half comical.

"Fo' my sake, fo' yo' sake, fo' everybody's sake."

She went up in front of him and, putting her little oval face within a few inches of his, brought her snapping eyes to bear on him and stood waiting for his decision.

"Well, I reckon I must let yo' have yo' way. You're too pretty to qua'el with."

She clapped her hands. "I knew it! Loveliest man I ever met! Too sweet for anything!"

The captain smiled that pleasant, indolent smile of his, looking at me at the same time, as much as to say, "What a deliciously odd creature!" while Jaqueline disappeared as suddenly as an actress who had finished her part. Ginger came in with a decanter and glasses, which he placed on the table. The captain sat down before the wine and invited me to join him.

"Miss Rutland is ce'tainly a dainty little thing," he said as he took the stopper from the decanter and filled our glasses.

"She certainly is."

"Most charming creature I ever saw."

"What a soubrette she would make!"

"Ravishing! Fill yo' glass, sir. Ravishing. Do yo' know, I never saw mo' graceful dancing on the stage?"

"Nor I."

"And what a sweet little voice!"

"The notes of a bird."

By this time I had made up my mind that it would be impossible to get the captain on any other subject than Jaqueline, and he talked of her the rest of the evening—indeed, till he had finished the decanter. I could not but be amused at the transition Jaqueline had wrought in his treatment of me. It occurred to me to test his good nature still further.

"Captain," I remarked, "I'm caught away from home with a thin pocketbook. Could you let me have a hundred dollars till I can get to where there is a bank?"

"Certainly, sir, with pleasure. No trouble at all." And, pulling out a thick roll of Confederate bills, he tossed them over to me.

"Captain," I said, pushing back the bills, "I don't need money. I only wanted to see if it were possible for a man to order another out to be shot in the afternoon and do him a favor in the evening."

"My dear sir," he replied, "permit me to apologize for my hasty action. I give yo' the word of a Geowgia gentleman that had not that delightful creature interposed I should now deeply regret the execution of my order."

"You mean my execution."

"Yo' very good health, sir, and that of the little lady."

The decanter was empty. Ginger, the major domo, appeared, assisted the captain up stairs to one of the main chambers in the center of the house, then conducted me through a hall to a wing and ushered me into the apartment intended for me.

CHAPTER VII.

MIDNIGHT.

What faded splendor! All the furniture was mahogany—the bed, a huge four poster, canopied; the bureau high and with brass handles to its drawers; the chairs straight backed; from the center of the ceiling hung a chandelier of glass pendants. All this antique magnificence was lighted by the single tallow dip which also glistened upon the honest face of Ginger.

"I hope yo' berry comfolem, sah," said Ginger, setting down the candle and turning to depart.

"No doubt of it. Wait a bit. I want you to tell me to whom this plantation belongs."

"Cunnel Rutland, sah."

"Been in this family long?"

"A t'ousand years, sah."

"What?"

"Don't know nothin 'bout countin. 'Spec' it's been in de fam'ly mighty long time. Cunnel Rutland, he mighty fine gen'l'man, sah; Cunnel Rutland, he own ten hundred t'ousand acres"—

"How many?"

"De biggest plantation in all Alabama, sah. Cunnel Rutland be de biggest"—

"Wait a bit, Ginger. Who is Miss Pinkley?"

"Missy Pinkley, she mighty fine lady, sah. Miss Pinkley, she"—

"What relation is she to Colonel Rutland?"

"Missy Pinkley, she war Missy Rutland's sistah, sah. Missy Pinkley, she"—

"Where is Mrs. Rutland?"

"Missy Rutland, she's daid."

"Who is Miss Jaqueline?"

"Missy Jack, she's de fust young lady in de souf, sah. When Missy Jack go to de planters' balls an de city balls in Huntsville, she take all de young men away from de udder young ladies an make 'em all mad 'nuff to eat her up."

"She is Colonel Rutland's daughter, I suppose?"

"Yes, sah. Missy Jack de apple ob Cunnel Rutland's eye, sah. Cunnel Rutland don' care nuffen 'bout nobody but Missy Jack."

"How about you colored people?"

"What dat, sah?"

"Do you like Miss Jaqueline?"

"Like Missy Jack! Reckon de culled people do like Missy Jack. Culled people lub Missy Jack like de angel ob"—

"Isn't she just a bit hot tempered?"

"Reckon Missy Jack is hot tempered, sah. Missy Jack, she got de hottest temper in de whole souf. Missy Jack, she"—

"Hold on; explain why you all love Miss Jack when she has a hot temper and speaks to you sharply."

"Laws a-massy, she don' mean nuffen. Missy Jack, she scol' wid de firebrand in de eye, but she won't let nobody else scol'. Yo' ought to see dat gal when Mars'r Bingham—Mars'r Bingham, he de oberseer—Mars'r Bingham whip de niggers. One day Mars'r Bingham, he whip me. I yelled lak a killed nigger. Missy Jack, she run out wid her hair a-flyin an her eyes a-shinin, an she tak' de whip out o' Mars'r Bingham's han', an—golly Moses, how she lay it on dat oberseer!"

"Did he take it kindly?"

"He couldn't do nuffen. Ef he tech Missy Jack, Cunnel Rutland shoot him. Cunnel Rutland, he got de biggest temper, 'cept Missy Jack—ain't nobody got temper lak Missy Jack in"—

"Any more Rutlands?"

"No, sah. Ain't dat 'nuff—all dem mighty fine people?"

"Quite enough. Now you may go, Ginger."

Ginger departed with a frown that I should have called for more such people as the Rutlands and somewhat disappointed, I fancied, at not being able to impress me with the magnitude of the family temper. I closed the door behind him and locked it.

"John Branderstane," I said, looking at the dim reflection of my body in one of the great mirrors, "had it not been for that little girl down stairs your being would now be no more real than that image. Never have you had so close a call, and you'll never have another so close without it being the last. But you've no time to waste. Your situation will be more critical with the rising sun than it is this minute. Something must be done."

I went to a window. It was at the end of the building. My room was on the second story of the house, at no great height from the ground. I turned from the window to another facing the rear. They were all open, for the weather was warm and sultry. At this second window was something which attracted my attention at once—a tree growing so near that I could easily step into its branches and descend to the ground.
